Hold Comfy Five-Point Lead As Beantowners Nudge Blues; Leafs, Wings Had Dismal Week

MONTREAL (CP) — The new look about the National Hockey League standings these days isn't confined to the presence of last season's have-nots in the more elevated perches. For the first time this season the weekly official statistics show no ties in the scramble for preferred positions.

Another oddity is that for only the second time in the current campaign the goals-against averages of the netminders are all below 3.00.

Montreal Canadiens last week came up with two wins and a tie and widened their margin over the second-place New York Rangers to five points from three. Canadiens have compiled 23 altogether. Boston Bruins maintain Canadiens' performance, their five points in a possible six giving them sole possession of third place, one point behind New York.

HAWKS MATCH RANGERS

The Rangers, one of the surprise teams this season, came out of last week's skirmishing with a win, a loss and a tie. The performance of the Chicago Black Hawks was the same, the Hawks now resting in fourth place with 13 points.

Disaster overtook the Toronto Maple Leafs and Detroit Red Wings. The Leafs were in a three-way tie a week ago with New York and Boston for third place. They were beaten in all three starts last week and dropped to the bottom. With 12 points, the Leafs now are one behind the Red Wings, who got out of the cellar by one point, going a goal. The Wings played a scoreless tie with Boston and the single point was all they could get in three games.

The goalies' averages point up the tight race. Jacques Plante of Montreal Canadiens, who allowed only one goal in three games last week, is setting a sizzling pace. He has been scored on 26 times in 17 games for an average of 1.53. His average a week ago was 1.78.

LUMLEY THE EXCEPTION

All the goalies bettered their averages last week except Harry Lumley of Toronto. He now has 2.71, tied for high with Al Rollins of Chicago, compared with 2.64 a week ago. Terry Sawchuk of Boston Bruins moved to Plante with 1.80. Glen Hall of Detroit and Lorne Worsley of New York follow with 2.12 and 2.40, respectively.

Jean Beliveau of Montreal continues to show the way among the point-scorers with 22 points. The big centre scored two goals and one assist last week. Bert Olmstead, his teammate, got a goal and an assist and remains runner-up, with 20 points. Olmstead is tops in assists, with 15.

Beliveau's goal production brought his total to 10, tied for the goal leadership with Ted Lindsay of Detroit and Tod Sloan of Toronto.

ROCKET MOVES UP

Dave Creighton of New York failed to get a point in two games in third place with Gaye Stewart. Maurice Richard of Montreal picked up a goal and two assists, moving from seventh place to 8 fourth-place tie at 16 points with Ron Murphy of New York. Murphy had only a single assist in three games.

Gordie Howe of Detroit, in a fourth-place tie a week ago, could not get a point and dropped to sixth place with 15.

Andy Bathgate of New York harvested the best collection of points among the leaders—one goal and three assists—and moved from a seventh-place tie to fourth place, tied with Alex Delvecchio of Detroit. Each has 14 points. Delvecchio failing to get either a goal or an assist. Ted Lindsay's output was one goal and he dropped from sixth to ninth place. He has 13 points.

Ted Lo 103. Next week 12 points are Dickie Moore and defenceman Doug Harvey of Montreal. Moore picked up two assists last week and Harvey one.

Six-Man Group Buys Richmond At Govt. Auction

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—A six-man syndicate now owns Richmond's International League baseball club after a surprising deal in which the only big loser was former owner Harry C. Seibold.

The syndicate purchased the team's triple-A franchise, equipment and player contracts for $25,000 Monday at an auction held by the internal revenue service, which seized the club's assets. The U.S. government put the team up for sale to satisfy tax liens totaling $79,218.08.

Not only did Seibold lose his club, but he still owes the government $45,315.97 on the tax claim. Applied to the original lien were the $20,000 auction sale price and $13,902.71 received in baseball player sales.

Seibold, who operated the club since Richmond received the triple-A baseball franchise years ago, did not show up for the sale.

Syndicate members are Richard S. Reynolds, Jr., Fritz Sitterding, E. Claiborne Robins, Dan Friedman, Milton Markwet and Jack Greenstein. All are Richmond businessmen.

The purchasers still must satisfy additional liens totalling some $48,000. They also must be approved by the International League.

'Sooners, Terps' Michigan State Cling to Top

NEW YORK (AP)—Oklahoma, Maryland and Michigan State again are the big three in the balloting to determine the top U.S. college football teams, proving once more that you not only have to win but you have to win big to stay on top.

Those three retained the positions they assumed last week in The Associated Press poll but easy-winning Oklahoma stretched its lead while Maryland, the leader two weeks ago, barely clung to second place. Meanwhile, UCLA lost considerable face and one place in the rankings due to a close call against Washington and West Virginia took a terrific tumble on the heels of its first defeat.

With 204 sports experts casting ballots, a smaller number than the week before, Oklahoma's margin over Maryland jumped from 51 points to 167. Maryland's second-place edge over Michigan State dwindled to just eight points. Scoring is on the basis of 10 for each first place vote, nine for second, down to one for 10th.

Oklahoma came first on 103 of the 204 ballots for a total of 1,844 points. Maryland, with 46 firsts, tallied 1,677 points and Michigan State drew 37 firsts and 1,669 points. Notre Dame took over fourth from UCLA by a margin of 1,193 to 1,164.

West Virginia, sixth a week ago, polled only 109 points after taking a solid 26-7 beating from Pittsburgh and fell to 13th. The teams behind the Mountaineers each advanced one place so Michigan, Texas Christian, Texas A and M, Ohio State and Georgia Tech round out this week's first 10.

Players Fined After Brawl

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP) — Vic Power, first baseman of the Kansas City Athletics, and three other players now performing in the Puerto Rican Winter Baseball League drew fines Monday for engaging in a fist fight during Saturday night's game between the Caguas and Mayaguez teams.

Power, with the Caguas, and Carlos Bernier, a former Pittsburgh outfielder now with Mayaguez, were fined $100 each. Pitcher Tom Lasorda and catcher Rafael Cruz of Caguas were fined $50 and suspended for a week. Lasorda started the 1955 season with Brooklyn but was sent to Montreal Royals in May.

The brawl, which lasted 20 minutes, began when Bernier, after nearly being hit by a throw from Power to first, claimed the first baseman had deliberately thrown the ball at him instead of to the catcher.

Fireside Slippers for Losers

Peg, Eskys May Don Running Shoes For Western Football Union Final

EDMONTON (CP) — Coach Al Sherman of Winnipeg Blue Bombers is undecided what his players will wear on their feet in the second game of the Western Interprovincial Football Union playoff final at Clarke Stadium here Wednesday night.

But he is sure of one thing:

"If we don't win Wednesday, it will be slippers by the fireside for the winter."

Sherman's Bombers must win to deadlock the two-of-three conference finals and force a third game in Edmonton Saturday night.

In the first game in Winnipeg Friday, Edmonton Eskimos walloped the Bombers 29-6.

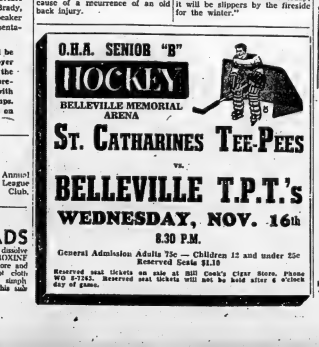
Coach Frank (Pop) Ivy of the Esks says it "looks like it will be running shoes."

The field is clear of ice but the dirt is frozen solid and the weatherman gives no hope for a change. His prediction for the game, which starts at 8 p.m. (10:30 p.m. EST) is a temperature of zero or below but no "great amount" of wind or snow.

Coach Ivy says guard Jim Quondamatteo is a doubtful starter because of a recurrence of an old back injury.

Otherwise Esks are in good shape for the game in which a win would qualify them for their second consecutive Grey Cup final.

Esks edged Montreal Alouettes 26-25 a year ago. This fall the Canadian final is scheduled for Nov. 26 in Empire Stadium at Vancouver.



The Edmonton club is doing everything it can to ensure that players will not suffer much because of the cold Wednesday night.

Roofs are being built over the player dugouts on the edge of the field and heaters will push warm air through vents in the floor.

The Winnipeg team worked out for about 40 minutes Monday and then attended a luncheon of the Winnipeg Sales and Ad Club.

We're trying out all kinds of footgear these days," said Sherman. "We've had lots of folks phone up with helpful suggestions. But shoes or no shoes, I think it's the legs which support the feet which go into those shoes that will make all the difference in Wednesday's game.

"Right now there is no other game. If we don't win Wednesday, it will be slippers by the fireside for the winter."

Potty Is No Freak

Huge African, Not-So-Tiny Canadian Ready for Ring Battle of Giants

By JOHN FARROW

LONDON (AP) — Ewart Poltegieter, the African giant, takes another step toward in his campaign to prove he's "a fighter and no freak."

The seven - foot - two 320 - pound South African defends his unbeaten record against Canadian James J. Parker, whose's something of a giant himself. The Barrie fighter is six-foot-five and weighs 224.

"Potties"—that's how the ring world knows him—has won all nine of his professional bouts inside the distance. And a quickie against Parker could be a short cut to fame and fortune.

Negotiations already are under way for his United States debut, with Rex Layne being mentioned as a possible opponent.

HIS BIGGEST TEST

Parker can prove whether Pottie is worth the journey. This far, he's faced little known foes. Parker is his biggest test.

Parker, however, has had only three fights since November, 1953, and isn't considered dangerous because of his rustiness.

In all, the Canadian has had 34 bouts. He's won 26. Three were draws.

About a year ago, Parker lost a 10-round decision to Nino Valdes, currently the No. 3 challenger among the heavyweights.

"I'm not worried," said Parker. "I think any man like Potgieter who has had so few fights can't possibly know enough to beat me.

"All I've got to do is figure out some way to make him bend forward enough for me to reach his chin."

Pinky Higgins Ousts 'Casey' As Baseball Manager-of-Year

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—Mike (Pinky) Higgins, freshman manager of the fourth-place Boston Red Sox, today was voted American League "manager-of-the-year" in a close race with Casey Stengel.

The big, soft-spoken Texan nosed out New York Yankees' pennant-winning manager by four votes.

Of the 99 members of the Baseball Writers' Association of America who participated in The Associated Press poll, 39 voted for Higgins and 35 for Stengel. Walter Alston, only Brookly manager to win a world championship, won the National League award.

Four other American League managers received recognition. Marty Marion, who had the "dark horse" Chicago White Sox in contention all the way before they finally finished third, received up 16 votes to finish third. Lou Boudreau, who surprised by piloting his ragtag Kansas City Athletics into sixth place, got four votes.

The remaining fou ballots were divided evenly between Bucky Harris and Al Lopez. Harris, oldest manager in point of service, did an outstanding job bringing the Detroit Tigers into fifth place. Lopez, one of the ablest managers in baseball, led his Cleveland Indians into second place and for the fifth straight season bagged more than 90 victories.

Red Sox didn't improve their position last season but under Higgins' able direction they won 15 games more than they did in 1954 and, from the time they got rolling in June until the last month of the season, they were right in the middle of the pennant race. The Red Sox players themselves will tell you that the 46-year-old Mike was a prominent factor in their upsurge.

"More than anybody else, Higgins was the one man who made us into a winning club," said Frank Sullivan, the club's leading pitcher. "He gave us the feeling he knew we were big leaguers. He believed in us and it didn't hurt us if we made a mistake."

Ezzard Charles Beaten By Toxie Hall

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP)—Toxie Hall of Chicago won a hairline split decision over former heavyweight champion Ezzard Charles Monday night in a savage punching duel.

Hall, weighed 194½, Charles 197. Hall staggered Charles with a terrific right to the chin in the first round, had him hanging on in the eighth with a left hook to the chin and stung the Cincinnati slugger with a left hook to the body in the ninth.

Despite Hall's attack, Charles looked sharp. He hurt Hall with a left-right combination in the fifth round and was effective in the middle stages of the fast-footed battle.

Judge Eddie Jansen voted for Charles 97-95. Judge Angus McAdam called it 96-95 for Hall and referee Sharkey Buonanno saw it 96-95 for Hall. Under the Rhode Island scoring system, the winner of a round is awarded 10 points and his opponent 9 or less.

Charles now has split even in his eight starts since his second defeat by Rocky Marciano. Prior to the bout he had been offered a Dec. 21 match with Floyd Patterson n San Fancisco. He said after the bout he plans to continue fighting.

Canadian Wins Harrier Race

NEW YORK (AP)—Henry Kennedy, a 23-year-old Michigan State sophomore from Toronto, captured the individual title in the International Collegiate Amateur Athletic Association of America cross country championship Monday.

Kennedy's time was 19:30.3, just two-tenths off Charley Capozzoli's 1952 course record. The course, however, varies slightly from year to year so all records are unofficial.

Kennedy's margin was a cool 415 yards over Ron Delaney of Villanova, the winner of last year's freshman race. Delaney's clocking for the five-mile grind over the van Cortlandt Park hills and dales was 24:53. Arnie Sowell of Pittsburgh finished third.

Toppazzini Tops In American Loop

NEW YORK (AP) — Veteran right winger Zellio Toppazzini of the league - leading Providence Reds was held to a single point in three games last week but continues to lead the American Hockey League scoring.

Toppazzini has 14 goals—most in the circuit—and 15 assists for 29 points in statistics released today. Teammate Paul Larivee is the closest competitor with 26 points. Willie Marshall of Pittsburgh is third with 24, followed by little Camille Henry of the Reds with 22 and Jackie Gordon of Cleveland with 21.

Larivee is the high man in assists with 18. Other leaders are Fred Glover of Cleveland in penalty minutes with 60 and Hank Bassen, Buffalo goalie, with an average of only 2.83 goals-against per game.

Johnny Podres Gets Physicals Still in Dark

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)— Johnny Podres, the world series hero of ing here, went through two physical examinations Monday but still doesn't know whether he'll be a member of Brooklyn Dodgers again next season or of the United States army.

The young lefthanded first was examined for two hours by an army doctor in Albany, then was sent to nearby Troy where an orthopaedic specialist examined a back injury that kept him out of military service three years ago.

Army Gen. Herbert W. Grove said he would weigh the specialist's opinion with his own.

It is probable the doctors' reports will be submitted to the surgeon general's office in Washington and that no decision will be announced for about ten days.

Johnny previously was rejected in August, 1952, when he was also pitching for the Montreal Royals of the International League. He said the first sign of trouble had come three months earlier. He attempted to pick a runner off first base and his back began bothering him.

Argonauts Fly To Montreal Friday Morning

TORONTO (CP) — In order to be well rested for their nationwide death Big Four football final Saturday, Toronto Argonauts will fly to Montreal Friday morning.

Argos normally leave for their games against Alouettes at Montreal by train Friday afternoon.

"The boys feel that the way they have been travelling just doesn't set them up right for the games in Montreal," team manager Harry Sonahine said Monday. "After seven hours on the train, they get into Montreal, go out for a late snack and then hit the sack."

Argos changed their travel methods to Hamilton last weekend and it apparently paid off. Usually they leave for Hamilton on the morning of the game. But they made the trip by bus last Friday. Argos won the sudden-death semi-final 32-28 against the TiCats.

Loops Co-operate In Suspension

SYDNEY, N.S. (CP)—Notice of suspension of forward Ron Rubic of Saint John Beavers, Atlantic Coast Senior Hockey League team, was received Monday by secretary-registrar C. E. Campbell of the Maritime Amateur Hockey Association from George S. Dudley, secretary-manager of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association.

The notice said the suspension was imposed by the Amateur Hockey Association of the United States, which is affiliated with the CAHA, because he left Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Indians without permission and without release.

Saint John officials are endeavoring to get Rubic cleared.

International League President Denies Reports Toledo Being Moved

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Frank Shaughnessy, president of the International League, said Monday there is nothing to reports the Toledo club of the American Association would be moved to Miami and the International League.

Such a move would involve giving Columbus back to the American Association.

Shaughnessy described the reports as preposterous and ironclabe." He added no one associated with Milwaukee Braves, who are reported to be interested in moving their Toledo franchise to Miami, had said anything to him about such a move.

Shaughnessy said Columbus is "one of the best cities in the league."

"We're the first of the three highest minor leagues to be set for 1956," Shaughnessy said. Somebody quickly asked Shaughnessy if that meant Bryce was ready to remain in the league, He said it did.

Meanwhile, in Louisville, Ky., Ed Doherty, president of the American Association, tartly reminded Milwaukee Braves they cannot make any kind of franchise move without Association consent.

Joseph F. Cairnes, executive vice-president of the Braves, said in Milwaukee Sunday there is a good possibility the club will take its Toledo franchise to Miami as a member of the International League.

Doherty cited minor league laws holding that a franchise, including the players, belongs to the league and may not be moved at the whim of an individual or individual club.

Asks Co-operation To Discourage Golf Gambling

NEW YORK (AP)—The United States Golf Association, alarmed over the revelation that a "ringer" had played in an invitational tournament on which a big betting pool depended, Monday called on all its member golf clubs to discourage unsanctioned gambling on golf and to tighten up enforcement of the rules.

In a strongly-worded statement headed "the integrity of golf is at stake," USGA president Isaac B. Grainger said the disclosure at the Deepdale club's invitation four-ball tournament in November last fall "disgraced the good name of golf" and emphasized the dangers inherent in organized betting.

Early this month, Charles (Bud) Holman of West Springfield, Mass., admitted he had played in the Deepdale tournament under an assumed name and asked he and his partner had won it with the aid of falsified handicaps. The USGA is investigating the amateur status of the players involved.

'Blinky' Leads Western Loop

SEATTLE (CP) — Blinky Boyce of New Westminster Royals picked only one point last week but maintained his lead in the Western Hockey League's individual scoring race.

Official statistics released by WHL headquarters here Monday showed Boyce in first place with 7 points on six goals and 1 assists.

Trailing him by two points was teammate Bobby Love, whose 22 points comprised eight goals and 31 assists. Four players were tied for third place with 22 points. One of them, Jim McFadden of Calgary Stampeders, was named "player of the week" for his strength of two goals and seven assists.

Trafton Seeks Coaching Job

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Vancouver Province is disputing that Los Angeles, says George Trafton, who took Winnipeg Blue Bombers to the Grey Cup in 1955, would like to return to Canadian football as head coach of British Columbia Lions of the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

The story quotes Trafton as saying:

"While is one of the few times in my life that I've ever applied personally for a coaching job."

Trafton is a real estate broker in Westwood, with his office located near the UCLA campus. He is a former assistant head coach of Los Angeles Rams and an all-time pro centre with Chicago Bears.

The Kibitzer

Although bridge is a science, it has enough uncertainties to make it a game wonderfully interesting. Even in a deal that looks as simple as the one we present here:

NORTH
♠ 9 7 5 4
♥ A Q 4 3
♣ 6 3 2

WEST
♠ J 8
♥ J 9 8
♦ 7 5 2
♣ K 10 2

EAST
♠ A 10 6 3 2
♥ K 6
♦ 9 8 7 6 5 4
♣ J 9

SOUTH
♠ K Q
♥ 10 7
♦ A J 3
♣ A K Q 8 7 5 4

South reached a contract of six clubs. East doubled. This was a lead-directing slam double; a signal that asked partner to lead the first suit bid by dummy. Which was hearts.

Such a heart lead from west would have been ruffed by east and South in any event would have killed the contract right there. But the lead-directing slam double warned south away from six clubs.

To nullify the chance of losing a first heart lead, there was a change made by south. He bid six no-trump and now there was nothing the opponents could do to him with any safety.

If west leads a spade, declarer can take 13 tricks with a spade, three hearts, one diamond, and seven clubs. If west leads from from west is a heart, south wins and gives up a spade only.

If the lead from west is a diamond, declarer does not need any spade finesse. He can make all 13 tricks are in with the loss of a spade after cashing heart winning.

Beginners might wonder about entries to dummy. So, assume first a spade lead which east wins with the ace and returns a diamond. The south diamond ace grabs it without hesitation.

Declarer has only one top clubs. Put dummy in with a club to the ace. Take ace and queen of hearts, ducking two south diamonds. South then takes a spade and remaining clubs for the rest of tricks.

The same principle applies with any lead from west. Main thing is to unblock when it is necessary and keep a south entry for last.

Bridge is a science of endless variety that chases all the types of our mingled society.

Sport in Brief

TO SEE GREY CUP GAME

OAKVILLE (CP)—Johnny Black, a former football player who was paralyzed in a game five years ago, is going to the Grey Cup classic.

Black will be the guest of several service clubs at the game in Vancouver Nov. 26.

Black suffered a spine injury while playing for Oakville Navy of the Ontario Rugby Football Union intermediate league. He later set up a magazine and circular agency, which he operates in a wheelchair.

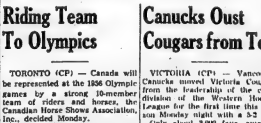
The present ORFU intermediate team here, the Black Knights, started their season named Black to the Grey Cup game.

BLUEBIRD TRY POSTPONED

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Bad weather conditions have again caused postponement of Donald Campbell's attempt to break the world speedboat record.

The British racer said Monday night that he has also cancelled tentative plan to make another try Tuesday.

Wind, turbulent water on Lake Mead and the possibility of showers led Campbell to abandon a record try after his own mark of 202.32 MPH set in his jet-powered Bluebird last summer in England.



Riding Team To Olympics

TORONTO (CP) — Canada will be represented at the 1956 Olympic games by a strong 10-member team of riders and horses, the Canadian Horse Shows Association, Inc., decided Monday.

At its annual meeting the association agreed again to back the Canadian team. President George Jacobsen of Montreal said the riders to be chosen for the team should give Canada an "excellent chance" of placing high in the competition.

Entries will be made in every class, Mr. Jacobsen said.

In the 1952 Olympics a smaller Canadian group turned in what Mr. Jacobsen said was "an extremely

Believes TV Offers Great Opportunity to Learning Writer

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — Herman Wouk, one of the few novel most successful of younger American writers, believes that television offers a great opportunity and much learning writer.

The author of "The Caine Mutiny" had just finished reading the TV script of "The Caine Mutiny Court-Martial" the other day. That stage success by Wouk, based on his novel, comes on CBS-TV next Saturday evening. The hour-and-a-half drama has most of the original Broadway cast, and "the heart of the play is intact," Wouk said of the TV script. "Charles Laughton did a skillful editing job. I approve it wholeheartedly."

"Television is a marvelous opportunity for the learning writer," he said. "He's able to support himself while he learns his profession because television eats up so much material. Its frame is small, but technically it gives a writer the chance to develop competence without starving in a garret."

NO REAL OBSTACLE

The big financial returns that come to some TV writers will not necessarily affect the serious writer from his eventual artistic goals, Wouk believes. "How a man takes to financial success depends on his temperament."

Wouk says because he has been blessed both by success and an even temperament. As he modestly puts it, "success always has seemed partial to me."

To some, his popularity has obscured the basic facts of his artistic accomplishments: a tremendous dose of form, technical daring, superior characterizations—while always telling a good story.

He writes from 1,000 to 1,500 words in a seven-hour work day, five or six days a week.

Canucks Oust Cougars from Top

VICTORIA (CP) — Vancouver Canucks moved Victoria Cougars from the leadership of the coast division of the Western Hockey League for the first time this season Monday night with a 3-2 win.

Only about 2,000 fans, smallest turnout in WHL history, braved freezing temperatures and icy streets.

Doug Anderson and Floyd Hillman scored for the Cougars while Phil Wylie, Lou Jankowski, Les Lilley, Bernie Geoffrion and Phil Maloney scored for the Canucks.

Betty Blythe Says Most Men Are Dog-Faced in Appearance

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (CP)—The trouble they're dog - faced, says Betty Blythe, a movie star before many of them were born.

Miss Blythe was one of the famed vamps of the silent screen, her most notable role being "The Queen of Sheba" in 1921. So when how it felt to be world-famous, then experience the fall from favor.

She made her return on last week's "Video Theatre" over NBC-TV, and paused to make this observation about today's leading men:

"It's too bad that they're dog-faced. They have pug noses and square faces, just like dogs. They may be good actors and have rugged qualities, but I always looked for beauty in actors. I think they should be pleasant to look at, the way they were in the silent days.

"We had them then. Men like Ramon Novarro, whom I discovered for films. And Ronald Colman, who was an extra in one of my pictures."

ADMIRES FILM QUEENS

On the other hand, she admires present-day film queens for their freedom.

"They can do anything they want: I think it's wonderful," she remarked. "They can wear blue jeans in public or scarves on their heads. Wonderful."

"When I was working for Sammy Goldwyn he would never allow me to appear in public unless I was at the height of elegance."

What happened when a star falls from fame? Miss Blythe, an attractive, lively woman at 62, was frank in discussing this.

VAMPS BANISHED

"Suddenly the curly-headed, cute face of Clara Bow appeared on the screen," she said. "The vamp was banished to make way for the good."

Between 1916 and 1926 she earned as much as $2,500 a week. In the year following, she didn't make a picture. Then her savings vanished after the 1929 crash.

Miss Blythe returned to the stage, then joined her husband on a turkey ranch. They lived there for 24 years and she gradually learned to forget that she was a movie star.

She sometimes left the ranch for film and stage roles, but gave up acting during the long illness of her husband. "That was two and a half years ago," she said. "He died last year, then I did a little dying act of my own. Now I've pulled out of it, and I'm ready for work again."

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes, and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Wednesday, November 16, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Very stimulating, encouraging influences this day. Family interests, including incomplicted and necessary tasks, new duties favored. Be calm.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Don't go to extremes now. Watch how you express yourself so that you won't give a wrong impression of yourself. And don't overlook the important "little things." No careless mistakes!

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — You can be happy, congenial and impressive at the same time. There's no need to drive through the day in a fashion that may cause misunderstanding or unnecessary hurts. Keep smiling.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Please note Taurus. Your aspects and vibrations are similar. Keep yourself. Get sufficient outdoor exercise, and enough rest to take care of tired nerves.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Aim high and keep striving. This is most important when the going seems roughest. There are countless ways to improve upon daily routine if one really tries. Today favors all worthwhile undertakings.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo) — Don't get "all hot up" about sudden or seemingly unprovoked changes, errors. These will continue though life, and, surely, Virgo's innate ability can solve such situations.

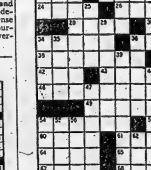
September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Always use your assets and advantages well (as in Libra's laborn tendency) and you will have little difficulty with the trying periods. Today mal be one, but push forward.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — Don't change what isn't yours to alter. But make suggestions where you think advice able. Take an interest in worthy causes which, with your talents, you can ably assist. Allocate time properly.

November 23 to December 22 — (Sagittarius) — Getting along with various dispositions is vital to organization work, highly necessary in home and community matters. Help ernse "find fellings," mis-judgment.

December 23 to January 21 — (Capricorn) — There are times for silence and moments (often most difficult) for speaking — and saying the right thing. Use your best judgement now.

January 22 to February 20 — (Aquarius) — Note Sagittarius. Your indications similar now. You may be able to produce better results in some hours than during others. For no apparent reason. Aim for the top, and never become discouraged.



February 4 21 to March 20— (Pisces) — How can you do well if the will and faith are wavering mind! Go forward! Have confidence. Some gains possible.

You born today: There are many strong talents in the Sign of Scorpio. It is always your duty to develop your best side and control all leanings thoughtfully; never to waste time, precious assets. You would make an able executive, an efficient co-worker. You are quick to detect new needs and trends. While often starved and penetrating, you are sometimes discouraged and believe you are not meeting requirements. Put extremes and don't worry about errors; just determine to avoid them. Your sense of fair play, enthusiasm and courage are outstanding. Don't overwork.

Railway Union Heads Will Meet Company Leaders

MONTREAL (CP) — Representatives of Canada's 150,000 non-operating railway employees will meet company officials here Thursday to negotiate a new labor contract for the coming year.

The unions will submit a wage-hour-fringe package demand equivalent to an hourly wage increase of 33 cents.

In addition to an 18-per-cent wage boost, the unions will ask the railways to pay another eight cents an hour to finance a broad plan of insurance, sickness and injury benefits.

The railways estimate the wage demand averages some 25 cents an hour and that the full wage-health-welfare demand would add 280,000,000 a year to their wage bill.

Cattle Freed When Truck Hit Create Chaos

PORT CREDIT (CP) — Police found it hard at times Monday when a stake truck was hit from behind by a car, turned a highway into a scene of pandemonium's alighmare early today. The accident occurred on Highway 130 miles northeast of Stratford, police said.

Police said drivers rushed to free Harding, who was taken to hospital with a broken leg.

Evidence Reveals Possible Motive In Murder Case

CALGARY (CP)—Testimony in Supreme Court Monday introduced a possible motive into the trial of Peter Morrison, 23, charged with the May 7 murder of Norman Yesney of Niagara Falls, N.Y.

Cpls. Gordon Perry and C. T. Hoss of the Calgary criminal investigation branch of the RCMP said the last of three statements obtained from Morrison after his arrest contained an allegation of indecent intentions on the part of Yesney.

Mr. Justice J. Boyd McBride ruled Monday the statements were admissible.

Morrison, formerly of Windsor, Ont., was arrested by the immigration department in Stockton, Calif., and turned over to Calgary.

Cpl. Perry said that Morrison, in statements taken July 22, admitted shooting Yesny five miles west of Calgary and driving Yesny's sports car back to the city.

Chicago Killers On Hunger Strike

CHICAGO (AP)—Nearly a score of Cook county jail inmates joined co-killer Richard Carpenter in his hunger strike Monday night.

Included among the strikers were nine other men condemned to death.

When the evening meal was wheeled into the jail's maximum security unit Carpenter, 36, turned his back on it, rounding out the first day of the hunger strike. The other prisoners fell silent and refused to eat.

Guards left the food before the prisoners until it became cold, then they removed it. Monday.

Carpenter was convicted Friday of murdering detective William Murphy in a subway gun duel in August. A jury set his punishment at death in the electric chair.

Story of Tragic Dash for Shelter Told by Wreckage

VANCOUVER (CP)—The story of a tragic dash for sheltered waters is told by the wreckage which the ship's owners counted today the crew of the fishboat Westerner.

Until the Westerner was found Monday wedged between rocks on Saturna Island in the Georgia Strait, no fear had been felt for the safety of the four men aboard and she was not even listed as overdue.

There were three bodies in the sleeping cabin when the vessel was found. The fourth man is believed to have been washed overboard.

The decks were sheathed in ice and the wheelhouse and hull were smashed in. Frozen fish ice lined inside the vessel.

The theory is that the Westerner was caught by a storm and was running for safety when she was capsized by the weight of tons of ice formed by the chilling spray.

The dash-for-safety theory was supported by the fact that the ship was in gear, the ignition on and the radio turned to the distress band. Searchers arriving from the mast suggested that the Westerner had capsized, sweeping the man at the wheel to his death and trapping the others in the cabin.

Union Leader Dies

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Daniel J. Tobin, Irish immigrant who became head of the largest American labor union, died Monday night of high blood pressure and heart disease.

The president of the AFL Teamsters Union from 1917 until 1953 was 89 years old, but didn't know the exact date of his birth in County Clare, Ireland.

Tobin began as a journalism, urged his followers to consider the strike only as a weapon of last resort, and advocated merger of the AFL and CIO. When he came to the United States in 1890 he earned $11 a week on one of his first jobs. The Teamsters union paid him $30,000 a year and travelling expenses, and provided a winter home for him at Miami Beach, Fla.

Saskatchewan Moratorium Act Ruled Invalid

OTTAWA (CP)—The Saskatchewan Moratorium Act, which permits the government of that province to postpone for a two-year period payment of debts, was declared invalid today by the Supreme Court of Canada.

The decision reversed a judgment of the Saskatchewan Court of Appeals which ruled the act valid in a reference on its constitutionality sought by the provincial attorney-general.

The act was adopted by the Saskatchewan legislature in 1953. Apart from permitting postponement of debts it exempted debtors from civil action.

Nicolet Appeals For Govt. Help After Landslide

NICOLET, Que. (CP)—The city council of Nicolet has appealed for immediate help from federal and provincial governments while taking the first step, albeit a small one, in its own bid for recovery from the disastrous landslide that hit a section of the town last Saturday.

At a special meeting in the town hall Monday night, the councillors urged Mayor Ubald Caron to send a telegram to Prime Minister St. Laurent and Premier Duplessis asking for help in restoring the blitzed section of town.

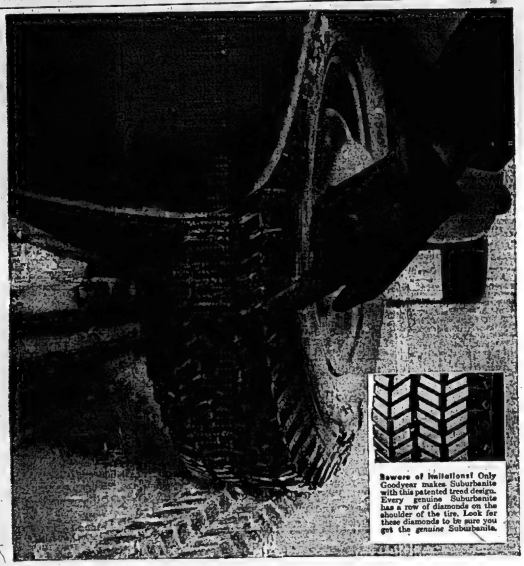
Then, concluding that the most urgent need was to establish normal communications around the area, the council voted to open up a 1,300-foot road over an abandoned rail bed that skirts the section where three persons died and six buildings were toppled into a sea of mud and slime when a large section of embankment slid into the Nicolet river.

Meanwhile, no concerted effort has been made as yet to recover the body of one of the victims—Brother Hermenigilde, 62, who was trapped in the Academy de La Salle when the college was swept away and buried in the slide.

Police said the ground is still too unsettled to allow a thorough search. The bodies of Mrs Alphonse Bolduc, 60-year-old cook for the Christian Brothers at the academy, and six-month-old Guy Lemire were found shortly after the landslide.

DAMAGE IN MILLIONS

Many residents held to the theory that an underground river or lake had caused the shift of land, carrying buildings as far as 300 yards before sending them in ruins down a 7-foot deep crater which extended about 700 feet long by 200 feet wide.



Damage—actual and latent—is estimated by Mayor Caron at $10,000,000. He said the buildings that were swept away were worth $2,000,000; others standing on the edge of the precipice left by the slide and now almost worthless were valued at $8,000,000.

Here's the patented Suburbanite tread design . . . the proven Goodyear tread that has made all other mud-snow tires obsolete.

Look closely at the tread. No big, stiff knobs or lugs here . . . no deep wide depressions to clog up with snow. This tread is composed of 464 live-acting cleats—cleats with 1,856 sharp, biting edges—cleats that are tough and strong, yet flexible enough to work like clawing, grabbing fingers.

And notice how these cleats are staggered and set at an angle (found, by the way, only on genuine Suburbanites). Their sharp edges bite into snow or mud, just like a skiers' skis are angled to bite into snow when climbing a hill.

Here's a mud-snow tread that's self-cleaning too. And it rolls quietly on the bare pavement—none of that annoying rumble you get with ordinary winter tires.

In fact this tread has everything you ever dreamed of for mud and snow conditions. Ask any man who uses them—he'll back up 100% what we say in this ad. Then see your Goodyear dealer—ask him for Suburbanite tires for your car or your truck. Auto tires available both tubeless or conventional.

Thousand Strong, Cypriot Students Riot Third Day

Greek Bishop Seizes Flag As Girl Hit by Nightstick

NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters)—More than 1,000 shouting, stone-throwing Greek-Cypriot high school students marched through the streets of Paphos today, pelting British police stations and government buildings with stones in the third successive day of anti-British rioting.

A 16-year-old girl carrying a Greek flag as she marched with the demonstrators was hit with a nightstick. As blood began streaming down her face, Bishop Laurentios, the black-bearded head of a nearby Greek Orthodox monastery, took over the flag.

Troops and police wielding nightsticks and tear-gas snatched the flag from him and chased the students from the city square back to their school yard.

On the road between the village of Letkonico and Famagusta terrorists buried a mine in a jeep full of British soldiers. As the soldiers drove by the jeep in a bus, the terrorist opened up with rifle and pistol fire.

Sixteen truckloads of troops quickly converged on the scene. The terrorists scattered.

Man, 70, Hurt Falling Off Motor Scooter

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (AP)—A woman appeared at the emergency hospitalization department here Tuesday asking aid for her father, just admitted to a hospital.

"He's 70," the daughter replied.

How did the accident occur?

"Well, it's a real embarrassing. He fell off his motor scooter."

Martin Seeking Accord With U.S. On UN Members

By JACK BENT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—Canada's Health Minister Paul Martin was scheduled to meet with United States officials today in an effort to overcome remaining hurdles getting new members into the UN.

Sponsors of a 22-power resolution calling for the admission of 16 countries named Martin as their spokesman Tuesday night after the U.S. had requested an early meeting of the security council to deal with membership.

The sponsors hope to obtain general assembly approval of their plan for solution before the matter is taken up in the security council. Also, neither 35 countries are required to have lined up behind the proposal, which includes withdrawal.

The sponsors held a meeting late Tuesday afternoon at which Canada's chief UN delegate was asked to meet "with those concerned" in the security council to discuss parallel action.

WILL MAKE REPORT

It was understood that his main discussions would be with U.S. delegates. The health minister was to report back to the sponsors this afternoon.

Martin told a press conference following Tuesday's meeting that the sponsors agreed unanimously the pilous moment for the assembly to assert itself" on the proposal to admit five Communist states and 11 non-Communist states.

Martin said that in addition to Canada these countries had become sponsors of the resolution: proposal: Afghanistan, Australia, Brazil, Burma, Costa Rica, Colombia, Denmark, Indonesia, Lebanon, Iran, Iraq, Liberia, Norway, Pakistan, Sweden, Syria, Yemen, Yugoslavia and Denmark.

The measure would require approval by seven of the 11 security council members and a two-thirds majority in the 58-member assembly.

The U.S. says it will vote in favor of the non-Communist applicants—Italy, Japan, Austria, Republic of Ireland, Spain, Jordan, Laos, Cambodia, Portugal, Ceylon, Finland, Nepal, Libya — and abstain on the Communist candidates —Albania, Hungary, Bulgaria, Rumania, Outer Mongolia.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP)—Synopsis: A complex area of low pressure dominates the weather over the province today. Northern Ontario has generally cloudy skies and fresh easterly winds making some drifting. Central regions have a mixture of freezing drizzle and occasional wet snow, while southern Ontario has intermittent rain and drizzle. As the disturbance responsible for this unpleasant and unseasonal weather moves east and northeast, colder weather will invade southern sections of the province tonight.

Police Recruits Will Receive $200 Increase

TORONTO (CP)—The salary of provincial police recruits will be raised $200 a year, it was announced today.

Queen's Park source said the initial salary a man receives on joining the OPP will be raised by the government to $2,740 from $2,540, plus a cost of living bonus of $120 a year.

The recommendation has been made by Commissioner E. W. Morwill and will be approved by the government, the source said. It must be passed by the attorney-general's department, the treasury board and the civil service commission.

It was not known, however, what action would be taken on a brief already submitted to officials by the Provincial Police Association.

The brief asked that the maximum salary for constables be raised to $4,320 from $3,750.

Commissioner McNeill is said to favor increases along the line for constables and non - commissioned officers.

The maximum for constables was raised to $3,750 from $3,300 last April but the only result was a $150 increase for constables with four or more years' service. There was no increase for those with fewer years' or less service.

Constables start at $2,540 plus the cost-of-living bonus, receive a $200 increase on permanency appointment after six months, and reach $3,300 during the next three years.

Salary scales for provincial constables with seven or eight years service in the force are similar to those a four-year man, the source said.

A recent announcement that 150 men would be added to the force has led to the induction of 38 new constables during the last six weeks, fewer than the force would like. The 38 were chosen from 140 applications.

The police Act says constables must be at least five feet seven inches tall and weigh not less than 160 pounds. Any change would require an amendment to the act.

Uniformed strength of the force is 1,455.

Finds Robbing Bank Harder Work Than Digging Up London Streets

LONDON (AP)—Bernard G. Willey, who police said nurred dreams of millions, had to settle for less than he was sentenced Tuesday to nine years for a bank robbery that went sour.

Seldom in the annals of crime has so much work been done for one man for so little—that is, 12 shillings. And he was given cash to keep that.

Willey, 30, a 6-year-old pick-and-shovel man, recently decided it was silly to keep on digging up streets when a keen-witted fellow with a flair for taking pains could use the same muscles for cracking safes. He decided a bank would be the most fruitful target.

Assessing that such a break would raise a certain amount of cash, Willey toured around on his bicycle until he found the Mitcham road branch of Lloyd's Bank hard by a busy subway station.

There was so much noise there a man could hardly hear himself talk, but alone the sound of a bank being burgled.

Next, Willey took a job with a building contractor and learned to use a backsaw, electric hammer, and various other tools.

Ready at last, he broke into the contractor's warehouse and loaded up 153 pounds of equipment and set off on his bicycle for the big killing.

At the bank, Willey's backsaw went easily through the bars at the rear window. Once inside, he was satisfied that the shell of the safe was strongroom and piled easily to his electric hammer.

MAN AND WOMAN HELD IN $20,000 BANK ROBBERY

Captured at Roadblock Near Inverness, Que.

THETFORD MINES, Que. (CP) A 24-year-old man and his woman companion were in police cells here today awaiting arraignment on charges arising from the $20,000 holdup Tuesday of a branch of the Royal Bank of Canada at Inverness, Que.

Provincial police identified the couple as Marcel Cote and Miss Huguette Thivierge, 21, both of Drummondville, Que.

Cote and Miss Thivierge were taken into custody at a provincial police roadblock 15 miles from Inverness following an 80-mile-an-hour car chase punctuated by revolver shots. The money was recovered.

The chase, led by bank manager John Cruikshank, started shortly after a man and a woman, brandishing guns, staged the daring robbery.

Inverness is 50 miles southwest of Quebec City.

FIRED THROUGH WINDOW

Police said the bandits entered the bank just before closing time and bound and gagged Cruikshank and two employees.

Just as the bandits fled, Donald Robinson, an employee, united himself and freed the manager. Cruikshank fired three shots through the bank window at the fleeing car and then jumped into his automobile and set out in pursuit.

Another employee, Christine Vachon, telephoned police who set up roadblocks.

Cruikshank, accompanied by two hunters, overtook the getaway car and forced it to stop.

Provincial police said Cote and Miss Thivierge stopped at the roadblock and gave themselves up without a struggle.

Hope's 'Cracks' About Princess Bring Protests

TORONTO (CP)—The CBC said today it has received some televising viewers objected to jokes made Tuesday night by United States comedian Bob Hope about Princess Margaret and her called-off marriage to Group Capt. Peter Townsend.

The same complaint reached our switchboard," a spokesman said, "but we understand one newspaper has had the same.

Hope made his quips during an hour broadcast from Expo, being aired on the CBC by General Motors of Canada. CBC and GM officials said they had not seen Hope's script prior to the show. The American comedian was not censored by the CBC network.

Some 200 letters were said to include a request to "Let our Margaret have a crack at Peter now" and a number of others from Expo. Those send "should have known better than to try to play the palace. I never could."

William A. Wecker, president of General Motors of Canada, said the show would probably not have been carried in Canada if GM had not seen the script in advance.

Hope appeared at a royal command performance in London last year and is scheduled to visit Britain soon.

Big Four Conference Breaks Up With Hopes for East-West Settlement of Europe Small

GENEVA (AP) — The Big Four foreign minister agreed this afternoon to break up their conference here without naming any specific time or place for another meeting.

They did this by accepting a communique which they agreed to issue later today. It was a brief document registering by implication the total failure of the meeting to provide solutions or make substantial progress on any of the great East-West issues, and particularly on Germany.

In a closing speech, State Secretary Dulles of the United States told the final session that Russia's Premier Bulganin apparently had Foreign Minister Molotov here "with orders not to discuss seriously" the reunification of Germany.

Britain's Foreign Secretary Macmillan said in his closing address that the conference at best could be regarded as a stalemate, at the worst "a big flop."

Macmillan said the West and Russia now are looking at each other across a "great divide." Yet he was not altogether discouraged. "I feel that there are many surfaces in operation in the Communist world and in the free countries which they control. All this makes me wonder whether there is not something to be heard recently which said 'the So-

Sultan Ben Youssef Given Thunderous Welcome Home

RABAT, French Morocco (AP) — Sultan Sidi Mohammed Ben Youssef returned to his palace today after a two-year exile. An estimated 200,000 Moroccans swarming around the walls shouted a thunderous welcome.

The sultan's name rang through the city of Rabat in one long deafening shout of nationalist rejoicing at his return and the promise of greater independence from France. The sultan was forced into exile from his special plane shortly before noon and drove through an unparalleled Moroccan welcome to his palace. As he passed, white planes amid flowers thrown by young girls as a dozen escorting French fighter planes swept overhead.

Almost every prominent dignitary among Moroccans was on hand for the climactic ending of the exile which started two years ago when the French whisked Ben Youssef away because of his nationalist leanings.

On his return, French troops and an honor guard saluted smartly.

In the tinfoiled atmosphere the silence was just beneath the surface. But the initial critical moments apparently passed off well.

The sultan mounted a specially built platform in the decorated palace courtyard and thanked the Moroccans for their demonstration in his absence and exhorted them to maintain their Moslem religious beliefs.

He was being brought back as a result of nationalist pressures which took the form of terrorist bombings and shootings and guerrilla warfare.

The bombings and shootings had not stopped today, and to keep the Moroccans in hand at least 15,000 French troops and police, backed up by tanks and armored cars, were on hand in this crowded, flag-decked capital.

Thousands Ignore Peronists' Call For General Strike

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Argentina's anti-Peron government and the nation's labor leaders were still locked in a struggle for supremacy today as thousands of workers obeyed the Peronistas' general strike call while other thousands ignored it.

The new provisional government headed by Maj.-Gen. Pedro Aramburu, which took over Sunday after ousting Maj.-Gen. Eduardo Lonardi from the presidency, arrested 2,000 more leaders of Juan D. Peron, Argentina's former dictator. The government declared the strike, which started at midnight Monday, was "failing."

NO VIOLENCE

The question seems to be who can last the longer—the government, faced with steadily dropping stocks of meats and other supplies, or the workers, who are losing more pay every day.

The armed forces, guarding key points in industrial centres of the country to prevent any outbreaks of violence, were placed on alert tonight in the big Retiro railroad station in downtown Buenos Aires. Unconfirmed reports said the railway workers would join the strike today.

The government outlawed the strike, and warned that those joining the walkout would be jailed.

Those arrested were said to include high officials of the CGT,

FIRST CANADIAN ANNUAL WAGE IS NEGOTIATED

Machinery Company Employees Approve

WOODSTOCK (CP) — The first guar-nteed wage plan of any consequence to be negotiated by a Canadian labor union has been accepted by a vote of 94.6 per cent of some 6,000 employees of Massey-Harris-Ferguson Ltd.

The result was a combined tally of votes held in Toronto Sunday, in Brantford on Monday and here Tuesday. The combined vote was counted at the local UAW-CIO Hall here Tuesday night.

Under the new agreement Ontario employees of the company, members of the United Automobile Workers (CIO-CCL), will be eligible for company-paid unemployment insurance. It will be in addition to benefits they receive under the federal government's unemployment insurance plan.

The company agreed to start payments into an unemployment fund Sept. 15. When the fund has reached an agreed limit employees who are laid off can draw from it in proportion to their length of service.

The agreement guarantees a worker a minimum of 65 per cent of his regular pay for a period of 50 per cent for a further 22 weeks.

The company, which manufactures farm implements, will begin next September to set aside five cents an hour for each employee. Laid-off employees will be eligible for benefits beginning in October of 1957.

The rules by which the company insurance is paid are similar to the government regulations and employees must be eligible for government benefits in order to receive the company insurance.

The guaranteed wage was not one of the original demands of the union. At first they demanded a straight 10-cents hourly increase and a better welfare plan.

Under the new agreement all day workers will receive a five-cents hourly wage increase and skilled workers two cents more an hour. The company will pay the full costs of the insurance and pension plan. The contract is retroactive to Sept. 15.

The employees accepted the recommendations after negotiating committee and voted overwhelmingly in favor of the contract which union and company officials will sign here today.

Numbing Cold Grips Rocky Mountain States

DENVER (AP)—Numbing cold gripped the Rocky Mountain states today as more frigid air poured southward out of the Arctic and it followed a storm blamed for at least two deaths in the United States.

Pre-dawn temperatures ranged down to 30 below zero at Drummond, Mont., and sub-zero marks were comparatively common as skies cleared in the wake of a storm which dumped up to five feet of fresh snow on Wolf Creek pass in southwestern Colorado. The snow and heavy rains of the storm had stopped falling by this morning.

Forecasters said the temperatures—coldest of the season would moderate slightly today.

Lone Bandit Secures $4,300 In Bold Holdup

TORONTO (CP)—A lone armed bandit held up a bank at the main branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia here today and made off with $4,300.

Police said the man, between 25 and 30 years of age, presented a coupon department in the sub-basement of the building at downtown King and Bay streets, pushed a blank cheque at one of the women employees and demanded: "Give me about a holdup."

The bank spokesman said 70 employees work in the department and the usual noon-hour crowd of shoppers was present at the time.

Many employees were unaware of the holdup until police arrived. One bank spokesman said the bandit likely chose the coupon department because it is in a bit quieter and there are fewer people around than on the main floor, where about 100 customers might be doing business.

Officials said it was the first holdup there since the office opened in 1933.

Egypt Cuts Off Israel From East By Tight Blockade

U.S. Rejects Israeli Plea For Unconditional Guarantee

JERUSALEM (AP)—Egypt has closed in her blockade of Israel to within a mile and a half of the southern Negev port of Eilat, Israeli sources said today.

All Israeli shipping to and from the east now is completely cut off. Air transit to the east is also blockaded and the only air corridor for commerce is across the Mediterranean to Haifa and Lod.

First news of the tightened blockade came Tuesday when an Israeli military spokesman said an Israeli plane circling over Israeli territory at Eilat was fired upon by an Egyptian frigate in the Gulf of Aqaba.

Israel has no warships in the Gulf of Aqaba to keep her sea lane to the east open. They could not get in through the narrow straight of Tiran, 150 miles to the south, where shore batteries on the Sinai coast and two Egyptian islands control the channel into the Red sea.

The Suez canal is still completely closed to Israeli shipping.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is reported to be unwilling to meet Israel's request for an air-boundaries American guarantee against possible attack from Arab countries.

The U. S. has previously offered to join others in guaranteeing the borders of both Israel and her Arab neighbors if they agree on boundaries and settle other long-standing disputes. President Eisenhower renewed that offer Tuesday night, but neither side has yet accepted.

American officials believe that the immediate guarantee Israel is seeking is unnecessary even though Egypt is boycotting and refusing with big quantities of Russian-made arms.

Israel's security, in their view, is already taken care of through an American-British-French declaration on the Middle East issued in May, 1950, which requires the three governments to "immediately take action, both within and outside the United Nations" against any one who seeks to violate frontiers or armistice lines in the area.

WILL REVIEW POLICY

State Secretary Dulles, who returns from Geneva this week, will launch a major review of U. S. Middle Eastern policy.

A major immediate problem will be whether to ask for extension of further American arms to Israel to counter Egypt's Communist arms purchases.

Israel's Ambassador Abba Eban arranged to meet the acting secretary Herbert Hoover Jr. today for the first of the defensive weapons his country wants.

The U. S. has said repeatedly it will consider requests for defensive arms, but will not promote an arms race in the Middle East.

BRITISH REGRETS

LONDON (Reuters)—The foreign office said today it "regretted" that the Israeli government is not prepared to compromise to secure a peaceful settlement.

The statement came from a foreign office spokesman commenting on Tuesday's rejection by Israeli Premier David Ben-Gurion of Sir Anthony Eden's proposals for an Arab-Israeli agreement.

The Israeli denial is seen as killing-off all but the slightest hope that the Eden formula, calling for territorial concessions and a series of personal mediation in the dispute, might lead to a settlement.

The spokesman said compromise is needed "if a solution of this dangerous problem is to be achieved."

ISRAELI REJECTION

In Jerusalem, meanwhile, the Israeli parliament approved by a vote of 70 to 3 Premier Ben-Gurion's rejection of the British offer. The Knesset defeated by 63 to 3 a motion by the extreme right-wing Heruth movement for a debate on the Eden proposals.

Meanwhile, the Arab League discussed Eden's proposals at a meeting today. A prominent Arab League writer had expressed satisfaction with them, but no announcement was made of a league decision at the meeting.

Tuesday said it has completed seven wells producing from the 20th Century-Fox lot. The wells produce 100 barrels a day plus 4,000,000 cubic feet of natural gas. The company also put in 23 3-per-cent royalty.

Chicken Which Lays Technicolored Eggs Featured at Royal Winter Fair

By PETER MAITLAND
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — The nonsensical purple cow of modern times is not on display at the Royal Winter Fair this year. But there is a chicken here that lays technicolor eggs.

The multi-hued chicken represents 15 years of breeding and experimentation by O. P. Johnston, an Ontario Tory who is a poultry dealer.

Starting in 1938, Mr. Johnston last year finally produced a chicken that would consistently lay blue eggs.

In the breeding process over a 15-year period, however, some of his chickens laid eggs that would put an Easter bunny to shame.

Mr. Johnston said he got red eggs, khaki, olive green, grey, chocolate and light green. But in 1956, he got the color he wanted—blue.

His 100 "Onto-Cana" chickens now produce about 200 blue eggs each year, Mr. Johnston said. He sells the eggs all over the world for $2 each or $20 a dozen.

According to Mr. Johnston, the blue eggs taste just like an ordinary white or brown hen's egg.

He has sent several samples to Cornell University and the Toronto General Hospital. Mr. Johnston said scientists think the color of the shell may have some medicinal action on the contents of the egg.

The story of the blue-egg laying chickens starts in 1937.

Employment Situation in Area Is Better Than Year Ago

The employment situation in Belleville and district this fall is generally better than last and it is not expected that unemployment will be quite as acute this winter.

This was the picture presented today by R. H. Reed, manager of the Belleville Unemployment Insurance commission office.

As of Nov. 10th there were 852 persons on claim at the Belleville office as compared with a total of 697 at the same period last year. There are 167 men and 162 women on ordinary claim, 225 men and 95 women on postal claims. Ordinary claims are those persons living within a short radius of Belleville who call in person at the unemployment office.

Construction of the new Stellite plant of the Deloro Smelting and Refining Company immediately east of the city is expected to be completed by early January and when the plant goes into production approximately 50 persons are expected to be employed.

Some of the workers for the new plant on No. 2 highway are expected to move from Deloro where their jobs are now engaged in Stellite production. With the completion of the new plant the Deloro phase of operations will be moved to Belleville and the labor force necessary will be recruited locally.

Aspects of NATO Outlined To Kiwanis Club

An insight into a little-known aspect of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization was given Kiwanians when Wing Commander Harry C. Forbell, staff officer with Air Training, Trenton RCAF Station, was guest speaker at the club's weekly meeting.

Subject of W/Cmdr. Forbell's talk was the Air Training Advisory Group Squadron, an international body for the advancement of air training throughout NATO countries.

Formed three years ago the squadron's first commander was W/Cmdr. Forbell. The squadron was made responsible to the Supreme Headquarters Allied Powers in Europe (SHAPE.)

"Briefly, the aim was this," said W/Cmdr. Forbell. "To try to ensure that the various pilots graduating from the air schools in the various NATO countries were up to a certain minimum standard before being committed to NATO.

"We, of course, had to be a completely impartial and international organization," he added.

To this end the squadron was composed of, among others, Dutch, French, English, American and Turkish airmen.

ASSESS TRAINING

First job of the squadron was to visit the various NATO powers and assess their training abilities, using training and graduated pilots and instructors. Recommendations then would be made to determine how training could be improved. If the recommendations were wide in scope a country was unable to implement them, the international squadron placed itself at the disposal of that country.

In this instance language barriers between the squadron's instructors and their pupils arise, but W/Cmdr. Forbell says although it does become complicated, careful planning and interpreters make it possible to reduce barrier.

Another job of the squadron was the testing of jet training prototypes for the NATO powers to determine their suitability as trainers.

NO AXE TO GRIND

Commenting on the naming of Canadians to posts in Europe, he said: "We generally understood in Europe that we have no axe to grind."

Canadians were able to speak straightforwardly to NATO and "a little suspect," said W/Cmdr. Forbell.

"I think that much of this feeling that the NATO countries have for Canada is being earned, but again I think much of it is through circumstance.

"That is, we are not trying to sell any particular ideas nor ram anything down their throats."

Canada now must be careful in the personnel sent to Europe if that reputation is to be maintained, he thought.

He was introduced by Lawrence Kells and thanked by Bill Reilly.

The plan was prepared jointly for consideration by Los Angeles, San Francisco and New York.

Firemen Sponsor Campaign to Aid Victims of Muscular Dystrophy

MD stands not only for doctor, of medicine but for muscular dystrophy.

Ten thousand Canadians have muscular dystrophy, a disease with no known cause and no known cure.

Muscular dystrophy is an incurable disease that mysteriously attacks voluntary muscles, weakening them until they become useless and the afflicted person dies. It is a disease that afflicts three times as many men as women.

It is painless and gives no warning of its presence. Only five per cent of its victims are children who ever live to reach maturity. The disease can strike anyone of any age and while it gradually robs the victim of the ability to play games, dance, walk and finally, to stand, it does not dull the mind or blunt the mental anguish with which disability wounds the individual's pride. It is not contagious.

Seven victims of muscular dystrophy are in Belleville today.

In 1954 the Muscular Dystrophy Association of Canada launched its first public appeal for funds to assist muscular dystrophy victims and to support a program of research in Canadian medical schools and institutes to seek out the cause and cure of this disease.

Money raised last year has already launched a research program that includes two projects at the Hospital for Sick Children in Toronto, one at the University of British Columbia and one at the Montreal Neurological Institute. This past summer a fifth project was started at the Best Institute at the University of Toronto.

TO ESTABLISH CLINICS

Money raised by public subscriptions is making possible the establishment of clinics throughout Canada to provide patients with needed medical supervision and assistance. Chief clinic in Canada is at the Hospital for Sick Children, Toronto.

The Muscular Dystrophy Association also strives to establish a patient service to give a helping hand to patients and to their families by defraying the cost of purchase and repair of wheelchairs, special beds for home use and orthopedic devices.

This year, Belleville Canada, firefighters are spearheading local committees in their areas and local appeal for funds. The Belleville fire department is sponsoring the effort in this city.

Inspector Barney Smith is chairman of the committee. Other members are, Inspector Robert Fair, treasurer; Lt. Alfred Rump, secretary; Deputy Chief G. L. O'Brien, advertising chairman.

Chief Gerald Vance and Lieuts Leo Culhane and Ed. Post are on the toning and tag-day committee. Other members of the force are assisting the drive.

A tag day on behalf of the Muscular Dystrophy Association of Canada will be held on Friday afternoon and Saturday morning of this week. A house-to-house canvass will commence on Monday, November 21.

Campaign headquarters is located at No. 2 Firehall on West Moira Street.

ACTRESS SUES RAVE

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Movie actress Terry Moore Tuesday filed a $2,000,000 libel suit against Rave magazine for an article concerning her and the opening of the Hilton Hotel in Istanbul, Turkey. The complaint alleges that the October issue of the magazine contained a "malicious, false, libellous and degrading" article which held Miss Moore up to ridicule and contempt and implied improper action and indecent and unnatural conduct.

First Time In 4 Years Dollar Below U.S. Par

MONTREAL (CP) — The Canadian dollar today fell below par with the United States dollar for the first time in four years.

Bank officials said that the last time the Canadian dollar was below par was in March, 1952.

At the opening of banks the U. S. dollar was quoted at a premium of 1-32 per cent in terms of Canadian funds, which meant it was worth $1.00 1-32 Canadian.

In recent weeks the Canadian dollar has fluctuated close to the value of the U. S. dollar and for a brief period about two weeks ago was at par with the American dollar.

TREACHEROUS SPOT

Over the centuries about 50,000 lives have been lost by shipwreck on the Goodwin sands, off England's Kent coast.

Resting at the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home, 37 Campbell Street, where the funeral will be held Thursday, November 17th, at 2.30 p.m. Interment, Belleville Cemetery.

CARDS OF THANKS

I wish to express my thanks to my many friends and relatives who so kindly remembered me with cards, flowers and gifts while I was a patient in the Hotel Dieu Hospital, Kingston.
—Mrs. R. L. Hall.

Ballet Company Grateful For Interest Shown

The National Ballet Company of Canada apparently liked the Belleville audiences as much as the audience liked the company's performance.

A letter received by R. H. Tanner, chairman of the Belleville Theatre Guild committee, which arranged the company's appearance here, from Carman G. Guild, general manager of the company, said: "We found and did a far more successful opening."

"I wish to express my personal thanks for the success you have given us in Belleville. I want you to know that I share your personal interest and that of your committee in the success of the company. To you and to the whole Theatre Guild we are most grateful and we are leaving Belleville with a happy feeling that it is a wonderful city in which to appear."

Move to Give Deaconesses Place In Church Govt.

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto Centre presbytery of the United Church of Canada Tuesday night approved a motion to give deaconesses a place in the governance and courts of the church.

The move would constitute a major change in the governing body of the church. It would allow members of the deaconesses order to form part of the two church bodies.

Approval of the suggestion must come from two-thirds of the church's presbyteries before being presented to the General Council for action.

D. H. B. Henderson, minister of Forest Hill United church, in presenting the remit for action, said "We ask these young ladies to dedicate their lives to the church, then leave them with no appeal either against their employer or against tyranny within the deaconesses order."

Smashed Dory Shatters Hopes For Seven Men

HALIFAX (CP) — A smashed dory shattered hopes Tuesday that the seven Newfoundlanders on the ill-fated freighter Mabel Dorothy, the CNR motor vessel Canso will begin a grim search for the bodies today.

The Codroy found the dory, along with the freighter's bow, hull, deck and mast, on the rocks off eastern Horse Island near the entrance of White bay in northern Newfoundland.

Although the 140-ton vessel carried another dory, 12 days of silence made it unlikely that Capt. John Rabik and his men had reached safety.

Horse Island is about 40 miles southeast of Roddickton where the Mabel Dorothy sailed Nov. 3 for North Sydney, N.S. The freighter's stern was found about 30 miles from the island Sunday, floating in Hooping harbor.

Bits and pieces of wreckage were found by other searchers along 150 miles of the northeast coast from Hooping harbor to Cape Norman, where a lifebuoy bearing the name Mabel was picked up.

In Roddickton, the tiny town of Grand Bank, home port of the Mabel Dorothy, villagers gathered Tuesday for the old former fishing schooners must have struck Horse Island cliffs in a fog and been smashed by pounding seas.

RCAF and American air force planes patrolled the northeast Newfoundland coast on the slim chance the men might have reached land in an isolated spot. They reported no sign.

GETS LICENCE. DIES

CLEVELAND (AP) — Victor Doubek, 50, and Mrs. Ruth Zajowski, 43, a recent widow, met at marriage licence bureau Tuesday at Lakeside court house. Shortly after they drove away in Doubek's car, it slowed and came to a stop against a utility pole. Doubek had died of a heart attack.

LASHED BY STORM

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Powerful winds — possibly tornadoes—churned a path through North Arkansas Tuesday. One person was killed, 15 persons were injured, and 22 houses and two churches were demolished. Seven small towns were hit. Heavy rain and hail came with the storm.

No Pussyfooters Found in West

WINNIPEG (CP) — After two days of hearings in Winnipeg, the Gordon royal commission on Canada's economic prospects has noticed one big difference from eastern Canada.

Walter Gordon, commission chairman, said Tuesday the big difference was that people in the west don't "pussyfoot around" but frankly state their opinions.

The opinions were not always unanimous, he said, but the commission could have no doubts where everybody stood.

Police Blotter

The sudden application of brakes as a kind hearted motorist slowed to avoid striking a dog, caused a rear-end collision Tuesday afternoon causing property damage estimated at over $200.

John T. Hatfield, North Front Street, was cautioned on Dundas street followed by a truck driven by Leslie Reid of Shannonville, when a dog ran across the street in front of the first vehicle. Hatfield braked his car but Reid was unable to stop in time and skidded sideways into the car ahead.

Two youths, Robert H. Day and James D. McLeod, were apprehended for fighting outside a local restaurant and were charged with disorderly conduct.

A Cannifton Road motorist was charged with careless driving after he was followed at a fast rate of speed between North Front street and Albert College where he was stopped.

Boys testing their stone throwing abilities were blamed for breaking two windows in Mace Rigby's used car lot office on Foundry street.

SIGNS OF U.N. SANITY

There are now hopeful signs that the United Nations will adopt a sane policy on the question of membership.

U.S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and Russian Foreign Secretary Molotov are reported to have agreed to a deal which will make it possible for 17 states to gain admission to the UN. Four of these 17 states are Soviet satellites; the remaining 13 are sponsored by Western countries. The East-West split has, up to now, resulted in them being denied membership in the UN.

The earlier opposition of the Western powers to the admission of the Soviet satellites, (and Russian opposition to the admission of some, but not all, of the states sponsored by the West), was not without logic, having reference to the spirit in which the United Nations was organized. When the UN came into being at San Francisco, it was conceived as an organization of nations dedicated to certain high principles and, quite naturally, the organizers regarded adherence to these principles as a requisite of membership. Unfortunately it has long since been self evident that all of the charter members of the UN did not adhere to these principles and the insistence that future applicants for membership should meet these tests has been illogical.

The United Nations is not a union of nations with common ideals. The "deal" between Dulles and Molotov will give belated recognition to that fact. The UN can still serve a useful purpose provided its functions fit the facts. From that it is a convenient meeting place at which delegates from nations with widely varying principles can gather and debate their differences and endeavor to narrow the gaps which divide them. Whether it is to that end this function to the fullest, it is essential that the UN should have as its members as many of the world's nations as possible.

Canadians can take pride in the fact that it will be their country which will table a resolution calling for the admission of all 18 applicants seeking membership. It will be made clear that there is a difference in the number to be covered by the rumored Dulles-Molotov "deal" and the number covered in the Canadian resolution. The eighteenth applicant is Outer Mongolia. Henry Cabot Lodge, U.S. member of the UN delegation, says that Outer Mongolia will have no possibility of gaining membership. It would be interesting to learn just what Lodge thinks distinguishes Outer Mongolia, Communist-dominated, from four other Soviet satellites, Albania, Hungary, Bulgaria and Romania. Perhaps it is the U.S. view that Outer Mongolia is not even a satellite, that it is as much a part of Russia, as, say, the Ukraine. Oh, oh; should not have picked the Ukraine as an example, for it already holds a separate seat in the UN!

ANOTHER VIEW OF DISESTABLISHMENTARIANISM

As the result of the shattered romance of Princess Margaret and Group Capt. Peter Townsend, there has been a rising demand in England for the disestablishment of the Church of England as the state church.

It may be surprising to some to learn that this demand meets with sympathy among some of the clergy of that church. Very Rev. G. A. Lewis Lloyd, preaching in St. Paul's Cathedral, has declared that the church "must be free from the limitations of state control." The point does not seem to be that prime ministers of Great Britain have, in theory at least, the right to appoint bishops of the church—and the present prime minister, Sir Anthony Eden, is a devout churchman who has remarried, contrary to the doctrines of the Church of England.

We thus see that a state religion is a two-edged sword.

One of the results of disestablishment, aside from relieving the prime minister of Britain of the right to name the bishops of a church to which he may not belong, would be to relieve the monarch of the duty of defending the faith. But whether it is essential that the head of the British Commonwealth should be pledged to defend a faith to which the majority of her subjects do not belong is questionable.

CHEMICALS IN FOOD

Life gets more complicated all the time.

Long ago primitive man discovered that, if he added a chemical to his food, it tasted better. So he did. The chemical was salt.

Now, according to UNESCO, over 800 chemicals have been recommended in the U.S. as food additives. In Germany, over 1,000 different chemicals are added to food.

"The possible dangers arising from this wealth of chemicals in foodstuffs is causing concern in a number of countries," says UNESCO.

Considering the fuss which is made whenever somebody suggests adding just one chemical, fluorine, to drinking water, the surprising thing is that there has not been a real hubbub about this situation long ago.

HEALTH

Now I reckon that health is the richest possession that ever a mortal can own,
With health in his kingdom life's burdens are little and he can give battle alone.
He can rise to his day,
Let it bring what it may,
With zest he's brought in his mind.
With never a doubt
That his strength will hold out,
And never a fear left behind.

Give health to a man and the world is his own
And he will go fit to the task.
He'll stand to the brunt and the stress of the battle and little of mercy he'll ask.
The odds may be great

But up-standing and straight
He'll meet them and fight to the end.
And 'neath gray skies or blue
He will see the day through
And take what the fortunes may send.

But let him have riches in silver and gold, and let the world bow to his will,
And barren his days are of pleasure and charm if he or she is loved one is ill.
Then heavy of heart
He will play his poor part
And his gold will not cause him to smile.
For of all the world's wealth,
And the best treasure is health,
For without it there's nothing worth while.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

Nov. 16, 1935

The annual meeting of the shareholders of the Bay of Quinte Country Club took place in connection with a banquet last night at the Queen's Hotel. The retiring president, Eugene V. Ilsley, occupied the chair and the reports for the year were submitted by Hubert M. Jones, the secretary - treasurer of the club. The reports showed that the club enjoyed the most successful season in its existence. The following directors were elected for next year: Fred H. Deacon, Jamieson Bone, R. J. E. Graham, Roy G. Stafford, Sam Ford, R. Burrows, Harry W. Ackerman, Dr. George Sioble, Robert H. Martin and C. R. Parker. At a future meeting of the directors the officers will be elected. It was announced that the club house will be occupied during the winter months by the recently formed Ski Club headed by Fred H. Deacon.

The theft of fowl in Hastings county is increasing to an alarming extent. Last night chicken thieves got away with approximately 150 birds from the hen house of Percy Jackman in the 12th concession of Rawdon township. The fowl taken were principally Plymouth Rocks and White Leghorns. The night previous 50 turkeys were taken from the farm of Robert Matthews in Rawdon township. The provincial police are scouring the district and district for clues; they have certain clues which they hope may lead to the apprehension of the culprits.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fletcher of this city were recent guests of Mrs. Wesley Buchner in Campbellford.

A pre-Christmas air was given the market here yesterday by the appearance of turkeys in a considerable number; the price ranged from 18c to $1.80 each. One really large bird was held by the vendor at a price of $2.15.

Mr. R. J. Wray, Belleville's champion curler, is in receipt of a letter from Mr. George D. Piercy, Toronto, the secretary of the Ontario Curling Association, informing him that he is one of the eight men in Ontario who have been selected to represent the province in the curling tournament which is to be held in Scotland this winter. Mr. Wray has not yet decided if he will be able to accept the invitation. The party will be away eight weeks.

Mrs. P. Melchior is visiting relatives in Toronto.

Mr. L. R. Terwilligar and his daughter, Miss Gertrude, have left to spend the winter in Florida.

Mr. Victor Mackie of San Francisco, California, is home on a visit to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Mackie, Church St.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Wallace left today to spend some time in Florida.

The rugby match between teams representing the Belleville High School and the Peterborough High School, which was played on the Albert College campus, resulted in victory for the Peterborough team the scores being 21 to 0. The following composed the Belleville team: Bullock, Rode, Ketchesan, Allore, Bartlette, Phillips, A. Rogers, (Captain). Although the score was one-sided it does not indicate the play that was put up by both teams and is in no way disparaging of our boys.

The members of the Belleville Bankers' Hockey Club held a meeting at the city hall last evening and organized for the coming season. The following officers were elected: hon. president, W. Corby; patrons, Robert Tannahill, C. M. Stork, William Hamilton, and J. W. Murray; president, R. A. Bull; vice president, C. H. Meeman; secretary - treasurer, G. Williamson; executive committee, E. B. Shannon, W. P. Ragsby, R. H. Hamilton and W. N. Sheffield, manager W. H. Green.

The deer hunting season closed yesterday and the hunters are returning home. Less deer have been killed this season than in many past years, owing to their scarcity; wolves are said to be responsible.

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer:

I like that suggestion of John Diefenbaker (Saskatchewan M.P.) in an address to a Hamilton service club, as reported in the news columns, about the need for what was termed "A World Food Bank" at the UN operational level.

The idea, surely not new, certainly has a new significance in the face of today's surplus food preoccupation both sides of the U.S.—Canadian line. From my grassroots viewpoint, any mechanism likely to move burdensome food stockpiles into consumption, while still retaining a minimum rather than maximum damage to supply-demand conditions in the normal day by day markets, merits top level study everywhere.

Several years back, according to my trusty clipping-book, Fred Bodsworth shrewd paragraph in the course of a feature article by Lloyd Shearer on the theme "Peace is strengthened when there is enough food to go around"; "I have suggested that out of every 100 units of money devoted to armaments, five might be set aside for a common world pool of money for the development of agricultural and natural resources of the world. There is no reason why that can't afford re-armament, so all countries could contribute to such funds. It would be a good joint investment for all nations, in the war on poverty and malnutrition." Engineering Marvels Old

(Edmonton Journal)

The ancient world had its famed "seven wonders," of which only the pyramids of Egypt now survive. Modern engineers and builders can engineers decided to select seven engineering wonders of the United States.

Their choice: the Grand Coulee Dam, Washington; the Colorado Aqueduct, which brings water to the arid lands of the Southern Pacific Rockies; the San Francisco Bay Bridge; the Chicago Drainage Canal; the Panama Canal, and the Empire State Building.

The interesting thing about this list is that all the items on it were built before the Second War — in some cases, like the Panama Canal, a long time before. Apparently nothing constructed in more recent years meets the engineers' conceptions of the truly wonderful.

It is interesting to speculate why this should be so, when so much building has been done in the States since then. It may be that the construction industry is now spreading its efforts over a large number of relatively small undertakings, such as housing subdivisions and highways, instead of concentrating on a few huge jobs, as was the practice during the depression.

Perhaps, on the other hand, we are so accustomed to big things that really breath-taking projects are no longer feasible. In New York City, for example, the last twenty or twenty-five stories are usually being built on the last attempted anything remotely comparable to the Empire State building, Rockefeller Centre or even the 1915 Woolworth Building.

It is all rather disturbing, somehow. One has a mental picture of archaeologists, 1,000 years hence, from now, grubbing among the ruins of North American civilization, and finding only a few strange culture reached its climax before 1939, and that from that date on "the remains are progressively poorer and less impressive."

CAPACITY

In the purchase of many engines the outstanding question usually is: "What is its capacity?" This word is applied to many other things purchased for practical purposes. The most interesting application of this word is to human beings.

We can overlook a great deal in a person if we know that he, or she, has the capacity, and understanding, or of demonstrating that capacity when the time for it to be called capacity.

Real emergencies always bring out the heroic, or the opposite, in a person. How familiar is the expression: "He has the capacity for great things." But time and opportunity never call for the use of that capacity, both in others and ourselves. Many is the soldier who had no idea he could stand so much until he was tried in the crucible of war.

British Hero Feared Cats

(Montreal Gazette)

A tremendous crowd turned out to see the All-Breed Championship Cat Show, staged in the Queen's Hotel by the Montreal Cat Fanciers Association. But there was one man, had he been living, who would not have been there. Not only would he have kept away from the show like hell. He might even have taken a train out of town.

That man was Lord Roberts, once the commander-in-chief of the British Army, and a great hero of the South African War. Lord Roberts could not endure even the sight of a cat.

Once he was dining at Killeen, the country estate of the Earl of Fingall. As he came in to dinner, he turned pale and said, "There is a cat in the room."

"No, Lord Roberts," he was assured, "There is no cat."

"I am quite sure," he insisted. A search had be made. Behind a screen a tiny kitten was discovered, and hastily removed.

In 1909 Lord Roberts was in Westerham, Kent, to attend the unveiling of the statue of Gen. James Wolf. After the ceremony, he went to dine at Quebec House, the birthplace. Knowing Lord Robert's antipathy to cats, a cat named "Bouncer," was shut up. The animal had been seized and locked up.

But by some means or other it made its escape. When Lord Roberts came to the foot of the stairs, there was Bouncer, "Bouncer" serenely waiting to greet him on the first step. "Remove that cat!" he commanded, and refused to budge until the animal had been removed.

Once Lord and Lady Roberts were guests at a dinner party. A deck one evening a cat made its appearance. As the cat steadily advanced, Lady Roberts steadily retreated, until Lady Roberts seized it and handed it to a steward.

If there are any citizens of Montreal who feel as Lord and Lady Roberts did about cats, they were not missed at the cat show in the Queen's Hotel. The show room was filled the Spanish room, overflowed into the lobby and left room for a queue on Windsor street. If Lord Roberts had been present on this occasion to demand that the cats be removed, it is doubtful if anyone would have paid much attention to him.

RCAF Expert Too Prosaic

(Trenton Courier-Advocate)

Alas, a dream has ended.

The proud title of a weather forecaster at the meteorological office, Downsview, Ont., Trenton has revealed that the brilliant object sighted over North Trenton last week was not a meteor, a comet, not a flying saucer, but a weather balloon, which at great heights carries radio signalling devices, may have been borne from across the sea, or is used in super air control says he.

He's an think of no other valid explanation.

How much more romantic our own dreams.

It was an atom-powered space craft, from the planet Venus, with green men from Procyon II, who communicate telepathically, and had come to Trenton on a reconnaissance mission.

Skirts Disappear

(Bowmanville Statesman)

With small boys in long pants and grown men in knee pants and women wearing pants of all dimensions, it's got so you can't tell either the age or sex by the apparel. At least that was the thought that went through our mind the other night while watching 800 people skating at the rink. Didn't see one girl wearing a skirt!

First Name With a Punch

(Brockville Recorder and Times)

Sometimes a person's first name gives a mental picture of their personality. Consider Mr. Clarence the name may have no connection whatever with the type of person they are, the mind's eye sees but a certain type whenever some names are mentioned.

So-called rugged names may not necessarily mean that the owner is the fearless type, while names that are considered ratified are not always in keeping with the personality of the person thus labelled. For example the name Clarence may suggest a milque toast type of mild-mannedness, while to others this same name of Clarence may mean a big, burly courageous type, depending on the personality of Clarences they might have known.

But one name that brings to mind only one type of personality belongs to a deceased member of the nearby district. It is that of "Demon Bradford", whose name appears every year in the "On This Date" column, telling of his death at North Augusta at the age of 80 years.

To our knowledge we never met Mr. Bradford with the intriguing name of "Demon", and we have never heard any reference to his appearance or personality but we do know is that his name was Demon. He must have received this name as a boy — and any parents who would name their innocent child "Demon", must have had

Nuns Organize Fire Brigade

(West Germany Brigade)

It would be a terrible catastrophe if ever a fire were to break out in the many buildings of the Uraberg convent in Bavaria — far removed from any town. Many of its inmates are crippled or blind and might easily fall victim to the flames by the time firemen could arrive.

There is no danger of this happening, however. The nuns who care for the sick of the convent, long known for their resourcefulness and realism, have their own fire brigade. Today it is considered one of the most modern of the region. The 80 nuns who volunteered are divided into teams for operating the fire engine, the extension ladders and the 12 indoor and outdoor hydrants; one group stands by for first aid. Their equipment includes 9,000 feet of hose.

In repeated drills the nuns have achieved great speed and efficiency. When an alarm sounds, the brigade is able to put on fire-proof capes, leather helmets and gas masks, attach the hose lines and extend the ladders — all in four minutes 30 seconds.

Malnutrition and Spinal Curvature

Some readers ask why I never discuss spinal curvature in this columns.

That's difficult to explain. The answer is that I do write about it sometimes, but I never know whether what, I write will be printed.

Medical textbooks are still vague about the cause or causes of spinal curvature and as nearly as I can judge from current medical literature and the views expressed by recognized orthopedics specialists most doctors today have no better understanding of the deformity than had the doctors of the nineteenth century.

Curvature to right or left is called scoliosis. This occurs most frequently in school children, but the name scoliosis means crooked-disease and has nothing to do with school although the old time critics opined that improper seats and desks, carrying school books under one arm instead of knapsack fashion, and too much homework and piano practice and cheating the growing child out of his regular forenoon and afternoon play at recess were contributing factors, and I think they were right about it.

Round shoulders, humpback, hollow back or sway back is called kyphosis. Extreme hollow back or sway back is called lordosis.

The young person with scoliosis (right or left curvature) is likely to have a "high shoulder" or "high hip," which the child's mother, or a dressmaker, or a clothing salesman first notices.

Any growing child whose posture is poor should get a break — examination and advice or treatment by a physician before the functional deficiency or deformity becomes fixed and no longer subject to correction, because of crooked bone growing. Parents sometimes try to cover up their neglect of this duty to the child by constant and utterly unjustifiable scolding, and harsh commands to sit, stand or walk straight.

If a child is well nourished he or she will sit, stand and walk more correctly. It is natural for a healthy young person to do so.

By this time you will see I'm getting around to that tiresome old teaching of mine. If you can maybe you and your trick specialist or "clinic" racketeer can have your children brought up free-swinging harping on malnutrition (nutritional deficiency) as a cause of most everyday ailments.

That's right! I do.

In my opinion nutritional deficiency is the chief cause of spinal curvature, and possibly responsible daily intake of calcium and vitamin D.

Milk is the best source of calcium. Sunshine is the best source of vitamin D. Sunshine or skyshine on naked skin, that is.

A growing child who consumes not less than 1½ pints (three glasses) of milk daily and wears light clothing as he likes it most unlikely to acquire any spinal deformity.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

FOUNDED UPON A ROCK

Architects, engineers, and builders have made great strides in construction methods in the last decades. All kinds of new structural materials are available through ingenious developments in glass, steel, cement and wood. New methods and processes are in operation to use these materials and to handle the old ones more quickly.

But one very old-fashioned need remains the same — good foundations. Foundation materials itself — poured concrete, cinder block, cement block, stone, and so on — but they all aim at the same result: a firm, solid base on which to build. A house is no better than its foundations.

This is a good thing to remember, whether you are building a house, a business, a church, or a life. There is no substitute for a solid substratum of truth. A structure must rest on truth, faith, hope and love if it is to endure and be safe. Faulty decoration can never compensate for a weak or cracked foundation which may bring everything crashing down at any time.

Therefore, whosoever heareth these sayings of mine, and doeth them, I will liken unto a wise man, which built his house upon a rock: and the rain descended, and the floods came, and the winds blew, and beat upon that house: and it fell not: for it was founded upon a rock."

The PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

When TV arrives in a community, there is immediate evidence to plaint that TV spells the death of a great many small clubs and organizations. And so it seems.

It perhaps does spell the death of some that had not much vitality anyway. And for a fact there is a sharp drop off in attendance at the good many associations, clubs and groups that meet regularly. But this turns out to be a blessing in the end. TV has proved to be competition for some groups and social enterprises. Those responsible for meetings have had to get a wiggle on. They have had to revise, vary and inject fresh vigor into activities that somehow had got tired and amiably toddling along. TV has toppled many a stodgy committee into a dominating clique, in clubs and societies that had been in their prime. The w e a k organizations collapse, the good ones, after a brief hiatus, spring to life with fresh vigor. Meanwhile, the novelty of TV dies down. And in due course, the social activities, revitalized, carry on brighter and better than ever.

This has been the experience pretty generally all over the continent. Only one of the many organizations I belonged to died. And I was trying to think up a good excuse for quitting it myself when before TV arrived. Fortunately for my high principles, I did not have time to think it. But most of my fellow members did. I went to the first meeting, for one last wound it up, and, full of a marvellous sense of economic relief, I bemoaned the decease of the organization. Then I went right home and watched a TV show.

The other two suffered some pretties for some period, but shifted, in one case, our Thursday night meetings to Monday, figuring there wasn't much TV on Monday. But there was, apparently. Anyway, that decision had been tried and true members of the committees were on the point of wielding everything up, and going home to look at TV themselves, some young squirts in the organization raised coups d'etat and took over. Both societies are going full bang, and the one has moved its meetings back to Thursday night.

Tuesday nights are bad too. The 364,000 question is on. But a lecture on music and history in which I am interested had its latest show on a Tuesday and we had the choice of two.

TV is good, but not too good.

Butter Surplus Publicity Annoys Cream Producers

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario cream producers have moved to stop what they call consumer dissatisfaction over Canada's butter surplus.

In a resolution directed at the Ontario cream marketing board, delegates to the annual meeting of provincial cream producers Tuesday asked for more careful publicity in connection with the surplus.

Deegates said a disparity in figures as to what the present actual surplus is makes for misunderstanding among consumers. Estimates introduced at the meeting varied widely.

The National Dairy Council last month announced a surplus of 42,000,000 pounds but federal Agricultural Minister Gardiner said Oct. 21 the exportable surplus was only 12,000,000 pounds.

The resolution came out of a proposal by one delegate that newspapers and radio stations be asked to refrain from mentioning the surplus. Gordon Rynard of Ontario county who introduced the proposal said he is worried about the "detrimental effect" of publicity about the surplus.

FIGURES DECEIVING

Gilbert Macmillan president of the Dairy Farmers of Canada, said the surplus was "made to appear a lot more serious than it is." He said a point of balance between consumption and production should be reached early in 1957.

The meeting also passed resolutions asking the Ontario government to strengthen the provisions of the Oleomargarine Act and the federal government to restrict manufacturers to use of Canadian raw materials.

Lorne Reddick, past chairman of the Ontario Creamerymen's Association, said vegetable oil interests are planning a national campaign aimed at obtaining unlimited use of color in margarine.

"The present consumption of butter would be cut in half if the campaign is successful," Mr. Reddick said. He called vegetable oil interests the "worst enemy" of the dairy industry.

Jury Will Decide Fate of 3 Youths In Murder Case

BRANDON, Man. (CP) — The trial of three Quebec youths accused of killing a Roman Catholic priest during a highway robbery goes to the jury today.

The defence is seeking a verdict that would free two of them from the joint murder charge and send their companion to a hospital for the insane.

The crown is asking conviction of all three for murder in the death Jan. 9 of Rev. Alfred Quirion of St. Edouard, Alta.

Counsel completed their addresses to the jury Tuesday.

HAD BEEN SHOT

The body of the 44-year-old priest was found in his car on the highway five miles east of Brandon. He had been shot.

Mr. Walsh told the jurors they had heard evidence of a weapon in the hand of a boy who was in an unsound mind. He knew by his request he was committing Ferrage to a life in a mental hospital, "to a fate perhaps worse than death itself."

"But you, gentlemen, have heard the evidence of experts that he is legally insane."

ASKS CONVICTION

Crown counsel F. O. Meighen said the facts were that the three youths planned a robbery which turned into a murder and all three should be convicted.

He said there was nothing whatsoever in Ferrage's statement to police that indicated he was of unsound mind. How, he said, could Ferrage be committed to an asylum when the main charge of all mental hospitals in Manitoba testified at the trial that he definitely was not insane.

Canada Highway To Be Finished By March 1961

OTTAWA (CP)—A two-day conference aimed at continuing the federal-provincial partnership to complete the trans-Canada highway has ended with reluctant acceptance of the federal government's plan for reaching that goal.

The deadline for finishing the 4,580-mile highway, once hoped for by the end of 1956, will be set ahead to March 31, 1961.

The principle of the federal offer, intended to speed closing of the remaining gaps, received tacit concurrence by representatives of nine provincial governments at the conference's closing meeting Tuesday—Quebec is not participating in the highway project.

Highways Minister Gaglardi of British Columbia, one of several provinces which had urged a big boost in the present federal share of 50 per cent of the cost, said the new federal offer provides some relief, B.C. would have to accept but "under protest."

DENIES COMPULSION

Works Minister Winters denied there was compulsion by the federal government and termed its offer "pretty much of an all-out effort at gap-closing."

Mr. Winters promised fast action to put the new proposal into operation before next year's construction season starts.

It still must be embodied in agreements, formally accepted by provincial governments and approved by Parliament. But he said he hoped to send draft agreements to the provinces by year's end and have legislation passed early in the new parliamentary session beginning Jan. 10.

The federal plan, continuing 50-50 cost sharing for most of the road, provides for a 90-per-cent federal contribution to the cost of building up to 10 per cent of the highway's mileage in each province. These sections must be federally approved.

Mr. Winters said this would add $60,000,000 to the total federal investment. Parliament would be asked to approve that expenditure and another $40,000,000 to meet general cost increases under the new agreements to replace those expiring December of next year.

The 90-per-cent formula is contingent on the provinces maintaining without quibble for the road at the average level of the last two years and completing the cross-country route by March 31, 1961.

Mr. Winters, who originally specified a deadline a year earlier, agreed to the extension Tuesday. Five provinces led by Nova Scotia said 1960 would be impossible unless other provincial projects were to be neglected.

Plane Relays Save Life Of Eskimo Girl

EDMONTON (CP) — Plasma carried north in relays by freight-flying pilots is reported to have saved the life of an Eskimo girl on the coast of the Arctic.

The plasma arrived 15 minutes before the last of the available supply gave out.

The story of the flight by pilots working on the DEW radar project was told here Tuesday by a Pacific Western Airlines airman.

The pilot, who didn't want his name used, said the 15-year-old girl was bleeding internally with frostbite of the lungs at Coppermine, N. W. T.

When a radio report to RCMP at Yellowknife, N. W. T., told of the girl's illness, a Mountie took the plasma to a PWA plane at the airport. The C-46 transport flew to a northern site for the radar warning line, where the plasma was transferred to a single-engined light plane owned by Bradley Air Services.

Pilot Richard Debliasky flew to Coppermine across an open section of the Arctic ocean without the aid of radio to complete the mission.

Following the business session, Mrs. W. C. Mitchell opened the devotional period.

Mrs. Roy Clasie read the Scripture, John 14:1-15.

The theme for November was "The Way" read by Mrs. Clifford Reid.

Mrs. Jones read "Three Cheers" and Mrs. John Botting gave a reading "The Ladies' Aid".

A quiz "Jumbled Words of the Bible", was won by Mrs. Gedder Bradshaw.

The president closed the meeting. Later the hostess and her committee served refreshments.

The Christmas seals for the Hastings County Tuberculosis Association are in the mail, if not already delivered. This is a worthy cause that may some day help any one of us, but is always merciful to victims of tuberculosis.

Going shopping?

And who isn't, with Christmas just around the corner. Here are some tips for the all-important gifts for men whether it be for husband, son, father, brother or friend. A new departure in men's sweaters is the full-fashioned shoulder which gives better fit and prevents sagging from strain and stretch. These come in all leading colors including the popular charcoal brown and are reasonably priced. In the woollen department, we also saw beautifully fine, all-wool scarves for men in assorted shades and soft wide stripes. These go like hot cakes so shop early. The new socks of lambs' wool and nylon seem to be in demand, and small wonder. They have a soft tweedy look—some with nubs and flecks—others in diamond patterns.

Last week we referred to plaids with all their fetching popularity this season. Did you know that the new reversible pleated skirt was designed by a Canadian woman from North Bay who spent many years perfecting her idea? The tartan is defined on each side so well that it gives two skirts in one, the only difference being one of shade. The zipper which gave the designer her severest problem works equally well regardless of the side the wearer decides to have exposed. As the tartan suggests a native thriftiness, it is appropriate when applied to this reversible skirt which is all-service, economical and attractive.

Autumn is the season of harvest and we in the Bay of Quinte district have been blessed with bounty this year. The supplies of vegetables, such as Brussels sprouts, broccoli and squash are all at their best now. With these hearty, full-flavored vegetables, it is possible to economize on the amount and the cut of meat served with them. Squash and peppers may be stuffed with chopped meat or leftovers, while fried or scalloped parsnips team well with bacon curls.

Pork chops can be served often at this time thanks to the abundant pork supplies and to the variety of seasonings with which to change the flavor. They may be browned and spread with your own barbecue sauce, or done quickly with a dollop of ketchup and a bit of sugar. Another flavor twist is to sprinkle with sage or other herbs and top with a slice of onion. Still another way is to bake the browned chops in mushroom soup. So, with seasonings and imagination, you may take advantage of the good buy in pork at this time.

Good shopping!

Many enthusiasts will remember with pleasure, the exhibition last year at Albert College of portraits and landscapes by Vivian Walker of Montreal. You will be delighted to know that Vivian Walker who once taught school in Hastings County is becoming more and more recognized nationally and internationally. "The Artist" a publication in London, England, reproduced a Vivian Walker landscape and a portrait in its October issue. From October 29th to November 26th, Vivian Walker was one of three to have an exhibition of paintings in oil at The Canadian Handicrafts Guild Exhibition Room in Montreal. There were thirty new paintings by Mrs. Walker at this showing.

And speaking of artists, we wish a distinguished local artist the very best in Mexico this winter. Philippa Faulkner, her children and a friend have motored to Mexico where Philippa will devote herself to painting. Already, she is widely known for her art, and we expect she will find much in Mexico to interpret on canvas. Good luck Philippa!

Every woman is interested in peace and in the U.N., so it is worth a note to mention that over the All India radio on November 7th, our Minister for External Affairs stated that during the past few weeks, co-operation between India and Canada had taken on a "special significance" on the question of the use of atomic and nuclear energy. He went on to say that he believed their efforts had in large part succeeded, and we close on this encouraging note for today.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

SHORT ORDER BEAUTY TRICKS

Eyebrows need "shampooing," too. A small brush, well lathered, does the trick.

It's a smart girl who has a high BQ (Beauty Quotient). If you want to raise yours, here are some tips for doing it:

Are your eyes sparkling, lashes clean and well brushed, and your eyebrows well groomed? Remember that brows need "shampooing," just as your hair does. Unless you already have a special small brush for eyebrows, you can use a spare toothbrush for working up a good thick soapy lather. Be thorough, first scrub eyebrows against the direction in which the hairs grow; then work the "right way" again and again with rich suds. Rinse and brush your brows to a silky smoothness.

If you've acquired any tiny forehead lines from squinting at snow or sun, massage them out with thick lather while you're sudsing your face clean.

The towel bath has a definite place in your beauty scheme. It's important travel technique when you're dashing off for skiing or sunning at a winter resort, is fine for hurry-up evenings before an unexpected date. Plunge a Turkish towel into rich soapsuds, wring it out, and give yourself a brisk all-over rubbing. Rinse the towel in clean water and repeat the body rub-down. Finish off with a dry towelling.

It's easy to see why no one shampoo schedule can be right for everybody, but remember that your hair soaks up perspiration and picks up dust and grime the year round. So, if you want tresses that are easy to manage, silky, and attractive, freshen them up with a thorough shampoo at least once a week—oftener if necessary. Be sure to use two lathers, maybe three, if you'd have hair with that pretty satiny gleam.

Did you know that a moistened soapy finger rubbed over M'lady's eyebrows will keep them in place?

A worn down shaving brush makes a soft complexion brush for giving the face and neck an effective soap massage. Before use, cut the bristles down to about one inch from the handle.

Have you ever applied a bit of wet soap to stray or stubborn locks of hair to keep them in place?

All simple tricks, aren't they? But "played on yourself" faithfully, they'll make you a prettier girl.

FIJIAL OBSERVATION

TOKYO (AP) — Mrs. Katsuo Muto, a maid in a wine shop, told police today how a burglar had broken in, bound and gagged her, and made off with 20,000 yen. She had got a good look at the burglar, she said. He was her son, Mitsuo Muto, 21, who had left home a year ago.

Travel Talk

By Mary Moore

When you spend most of your waking hours writing to folks whom you never see, and then leave your familiar desk for a trip West to see your daughter, quite a few unforeseen things can and do happen.

When I reached Calgary readers got wind of it and the outcome was that we had an informal get-together in the Gas Company's auditorium and I showed some of the colored slides we took overseas.

I suppose there is nothing more gratifying to a lone desk worker than to meet face to face and shake hands and swap recipes with some of the audience to which she writes daily.

There seems to be no subjects with more universal appeal to women than food and children—clothes coming third.

I found myself wishing I could talk to some of the girls longer. One of them described the baked potato cakes her grandmother used to make but could not give the exact measurements because Grandma didn't cook that way.

Is there anybody in this audience who knows how to make potato cakes from mashed potatoes? I asked on a bountiful of flour, shaped and then baked? I asked Mrs. M. if Grandma added baking powder or soda but she thought not. I am writing this from Sault Ste. Marie but when I get home to my files I'll see what I can find on this old-fashioned potato cake subject.

In Calgary the whole family was invited to the home of another reader, Mrs. Ballantyne, and we had a glorious time and dinner. It turned out that they know some of my son-in-law's friends and relatives in Nelson, B.C. They wanted to see our colour slides and we wanted to see theirs so a jolly time was had by all and we hated to leave.

Kae served us delicious consomme, baked halibut steaks, baked stuffed potatoes, broccoli, Harvard beets, celery, olives, orange sponge and windblown cake. The only items which could safely be called economical, my current theme, were the Harvard Beets and

BAKED STUFFED POTATOES

Butter large potatoes before baking at 450 deg. F., until very tender. Slit top two ways, scoop out centre, mash with hot milk or cream, butter, salt and pepper until smooth. Refill skins and reheat for 20 minutes in hot oven.

HARVARD BEETS

Drain liquid from 20-oz tin diced beets. Reserve 1-4 cup and 1-4 cup vinegar to it. Mix together 2 tablespoons sugar and 1 tablespoon cornstarch, and stir into liquid over heat until thick. Add drained diced beets, and heat through, stirring. Before serving add 1 tablespoon butter and season with salt and pepper.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

OU NEED TO FIND THE ACTS AS HE DOES

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I am a married woman of 27. My husband is 31.

When we were married, I was very much in love, but now I am afraid I am losing that love. You see, my husband has a very bad temper, and flies off the handle at every little thing. Sometimes he even hits me. When this happens, he always says he's sorry, but I've been given this excuse so many times that his being sorry doesn't help. Also, he is a very jealous man, and wherever I happen to go out without him, he thinks I've gone with some other man.

Some of the trouble may be due to the fact that I had to have an operation, which has changed our marriage relationship somewhat. But we have talked this over with our doctor and he gave us his advice.

We have three boys, and it seems that now I am living only for them, to try and make them happy. My husband used to mistreat them so badly that the oldest one would go to school all upset. But that is a little better now, as he has seen what a mistake he was making that way.

I am so tired, though, of being mistreated myself that I feel at the end of my rope. — J.L.

Dear J.L.:

Do you think that your husband's disposition became worse after you had the operation, or was he treating you just as badly before it? Because it is entirely possible that your physical disability may have more bearing on your present problem than you have realized. I suggest that you think this over very carefully.

You have said that you and your husband discussed this matter with your doctor and that he gave you advice. But it might be wise, and very helpful, for you to get the advice of a marriage counselor, too.

If you decide that you would like to do this, but do not know of any marriage counsellor near you, then write a letter to the American Association of Marriage Counsellors, and ask for the names of some experts in this field who are in your area. You might find that a talk with one of these counsellors would show you the situation in a wholly new light which would enable you to deal with it more successfully.

Of course if your husband has been in this irritable, nervous, disagreeable state for a longer period of time, then the cause may lie elsewhere. Perhaps he is not well himself, and should have a medical checkup. Perhaps he is working too hard and having too little time for recreation and relaxation.

Have you tried having a really quiet talk with him in which you could ask him to tell you frankly just what it is in your marriage, or your family life, that gets so on his nerves, that he continually "flies off the handle"? If you haven't tried this, couldn't you do it some time?

Naturally, it wouldn't do any good at all if your talk simply precipitated a bitter quarrel between you. But if you were able to keep calm and friendly throughout, making it clear that all you are trying to do is to see if any misunderstandings can't be cleared away, and any trouble straightened out, so that the whole family could live in peace and harmony once more, he might be moved to cooperate with you.

Once you could get to the bottom of what ails him, the problem would be just that much simpler, for then you would know in what direction to move.

See what you can do along the various lines I have suggested, and then write me again. Perhaps I can help you further, once you have made a beginning yourself.

EFFECTIVELY ARRANGED NOCTURN IN NYLON

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

Nylon tricot is the fabric used for shortie pajamas that are simple in cut but rich in delightful detail. The color is white and the trimming is of yellow satin baby ribbon in looped effect forming a band down the front of the top, at the short sleeves and at the hem of the sleep shorts. As a further softening touch there is a large permanently pleated collar. This is a good gift item.

Mother's Helper

A TIDY game for children can be put together with a pencil, ruler, cardboard box and a large button. Draw squares inside the box, and number them for score. Each child in turn drops the button into the box, and his score depends on where it lands.

FOXBORO GUILD

The Presbyterian Ladies' Guild met at the home of Miss Nellie Bell for its November meeting. Miss Watt, Guild president, presided, the theme of the meeting being "Peace".

A Remembrance Day program was carried out, with each member taking part. Mrs. Johnston rendered a lovely solo, "The Stranger of Galilee."

A letter of thanks was read for sympathy in bereavements. Three former members of the Guild, Mrs. Weir, Mrs. McCullough and Mrs. R. Townsend, each spoke briefly, giving a synopsis of a recent W.M.S. meeting held in St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, Belleville. Mrs. Bukard invited the ladies for their December meeting to her home.

Several readings were enjoyed. Refreshments were served and a social time followed.

RAIN CAUSES WASHOUT

SANTA MARIA, Calif. (AP)—A movie crew spread 2,400 gallons of green vegetable dye over the 4,000-foot runway at Santa Maria airport, location for scenes of "The Spirit of St. Louis." GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

IT'S POLITE TO SIGN OUR NAME LAST

Here is a question extremely important to the wife who signs the Christmas cards for her husband and herself (as most wives do):

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When the wife is signing the Christmas cards for her husband and herself, whose name should be written first? Or is there no definite rule about that? — Ruth A.

Yes indeed, there is a very definite and special rule about this — the rule of courtesy. The rule of courtesy is that the person signing the cards politely writes her or his name last. That is, the wife signs Peter and Ruth. If the husband signs the cards . . . or perhaps some of them, say to his relatives or business friends . . . he writes his name last: Ruth and Peter, or Ruth and Peter Allen.

SIMPLE PLANS FOR WEDDING

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My daughter is to be married in January, and there are problems already in their plans. In the first place we cannot afford the elaborate menus the groom's family serve when they have receptions. Would you consider it 'acceptable' if we serve sandwiches, the wedding cake, ice cream, fruit punch, coffee and tea, nuts and candies? If you think this is all right, should we on the invitations, say "refreshments" instead of "reception."?

The couple are considering going to the parsonage to be married, and then, directly afterward, have a reception for the relatives and a few friends in the church basement. Should we plan a small wedding like one in a home, with the wedding ceremony taking place in the church basement, so that all the guests could see them married? — Worried Mother

Please don't continue to be a "worried" mother, for you and groom-to-be can easily plan a simple and charming and memorable wedding.

First you need have no regrets whatever that you can't plan to serve the elaborate foods that the groom's family customarily serve at their receptions. Actually there are only two items that are considered "musts" to be served at a wedding reception: (1) the wedding cake, and (2) a cold beverage for the wedding toasts, and very often, even at many fashionable wedding receptions, this is all that is served. So you see, the menu you have in mind is more than adequate, entirely "acceptable." And no matter how simple the food to be served, you may call the postceremony festivity a wedding reception.

Since your daughter and her prospective groom wish to be married in the parsonage, you should not, I advise, make any other suggestions.

CHECK GIVEN AS WEDDING PRESENT

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

As a wedding gift I have given a check made out to the bride. However, this is meant for both, is not? I expect this money to be used for a home furnishing. If the bride spends it for herself personally, hasn't the groom a right to object and question her act? — J.C.

When a check is given as a wedding present, it is correctly made out in the name of the bride-to-be, as all wedding presents are sent to the bride-to-be. But since this check is given instead of an item for the new home, you are quite right in expecting that the money will be used to pay for toward buying something for the new home. Very often the card or note enclosed with the check says something of this kind: "Instead of choosing a gift for you and Tom's new home, I am sending you this check so that you two may choose a something that you particularly want for your home." This suggesting isn't considered necessary, of course, but it explains why a check, instead of a furnishing-item, is being sent. The bride who would stoop to spending this money for herself certainly would deserve to have her groom set her thinking straight by a "a few well-chosen words."

WORDS FOR THE GOLDEN WEDDING RECEPTION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When, at a Golden Wedding reception, one goes up to congratulate the bride and groom of 50 years, what is the proper thing to say? — M.

As on all occasions such as this, what you say depends, quite naturally, on how well you know the bride - and - groom - of - 50 - years, and how much time you have in the receiving - line to say what you want to say. Something like this, perhaps: "It's such a wonderful occasion . . . and I'm so happy and proud to be with you on this great day. What a perfect Bride-and-Groom you are . . . God bless this day and all your days."

Mrs. Rhoda Gray Installed W.M. of Minerva Chapter

At the Masonic Temple, Foster Avenue, the Minerva Chapter O.E.S., recently saw the end and beginning of another year in its history. Mrs. Meta Williams and Mr. Windsor Bushell, with their staff of officers, completed a year of service and Mrs. Rhoda Gray and Mr. Fred Furmidge were installed as Worthy Matron and Worthy Patron for the 1955-56 term.

Before vacating their offices, Mrs. Williams and Mr. Bushell thanked their officers for their loyal support and the members for their faithful attendance during the year. Mrs. Gray presented Mrs. Williams with a set of luggage from the officers and members and Mr. Fred Furmidge presented Mr. Bushell with a club bag from the officers and members. Mrs. Williams and Mr. Bushell thanked the members for these gifts.

At this point the proceedings were turned over to Mrs. Winn Gunselus, PWM, who was installing matron and Mr. Garn Dobbs, PWP, installing patron. Those assisting with the installation ceremony were, Mrs. Bessie Marsh, PWM; Mrs. Hilda Matthews, PWM; Mrs. Bella Wonnacott, PDDGM; Mrs. Grace Vanner, PWM; Mrs. Nellie Clark, PWM; Mrs. Hazel Wilson, PWM; Mrs. Laura Hyde, PWM; Mr. Lorne Hunt, PWP; Mr. Windsor Bushell, PWP; Mr. Fred Wilson, PWP; and Mr. Percy Boulton, PWP.

EFFECTIVELY ARRANGED

The assembly room was prettily adorned with a white, picket fence, multi-colored chrysanthemums and blue and pink floor lamps while the East was effectively arranged with a rainbow on a red background with a harp and bluebird, and the Worthy Matron's motto, "Harmony and Happiness". Across the front of the East were baskets of bronze and yellow mums.

On the west wall of the auditorium was the honor roll of Minerva Chapter, draped with the Union Jack and below it a lighted white cross and poppy wreath—a silent reminder of those who paid the supreme sacrifice.

Mrs. Meta Williams was presented with her Past Matron's jewel by her son, Mr. Donald Williams and Mr. W. Bushell was presented with his Past Patron's jewel by his wife, Mrs. Jessie Bushell.

Among the gifts received by Mrs. R. Gray was a bouquet of red roses from her husbad, Mr. Wesley Gray. These were presented by Mrs. Eyva Thrasher.

Mrs. Gray was attractively attired in white English lace over white satin, the bodice having a long torso effect with scalloped edge, long sleeves pointed over the wrists, and round, turn-over collar. The floor-length skirt featured a panel front of finely pleated tulle.

Mrs. Gray and Mr. Furmidge thanked the members of Minerva Chapter for the honor conferred on them, and also thanked all those who had helped in any way with the installation.

Guests were present from many chapters in District No. 12.

At the close of the installation ceremony, bountiful refreshments were served by the special refreshment committee, Mrs. Janet Williamson, Mrs. Eva Heath, Mrs. Nellie Clark PWM and Mrs. Elsie Humphreys, after which dancing was enjoyed with Mrs. Evelyn Warham at the piano.

'Teddy Boy' Cult Replaces Milk Bar Cowboys in N.Z.

By J. C. GRAHAM
Canadian Press Correspondent

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP) — The "Teddy Boy" cult, a nuisance and cause for concern in post-war Britain, has spread to the other side of the world, where it is proving equally obnoxious.

"Teddy Boys" dress in a parody of Edwardian costume—long jackets, stovepipe trousers and narrow ties. They wear their hair long and wavy and favor a variety of eccentric hair styles. They are notably shy of honest work but always seem to have plenty of money and are at their most unpleasant when they gather in gangs to cause mischief.

New Zealand has for long had its own version of the "Teddy Boy," known as the milk bar cowboy. Mostly the owners of flashy and noisy motorcycles, they congregated at milk bars where they justled shoppers, molested girls and drove office workers to distraction by roaring the exhausts of their motorcycles.

The imported "Teddy Boy" vogue, however, has ousted the milk bar cowboys from favor. Brought to New Zealand by young seamen from British ships, it is a more vicious and unhealthy cult. The milk bar cowboys were at least enthusiasts over their motorcycles. The "Teddy Boys" are interested only in drink, dress and sex.

CARE KNIVES

They crowd the late-night cafes and engage in drinking parties in slum houses and apartments. Their girls, usually teen-agers, dress in tight sweaters and tight black slacks.

Many of the "Teddy Boy" carry knives and already there has been one murder charge and numerous cases of assault arising out of brawls in which they have been involved.

One of their typically unpleasant habits is to gather in mobs and jeer at isolated members of the armed forces. If the servicemen attempt to retaliate, the "Teddy Boys" beat them up provided they have overwhelming force on their side and the police are not in sight.

Servicemen in Auckland put up with this treatment for some weeks before resolving to take the offensive. Word was passed round privately among young trainees in camp under New Zealand's compulsory military training scheme.

On Sunday night, the favorite time for "Teddy Boys" to take charge of eating places in central Auckland, young soldiers, sailors and airmen flocked into the city on "Operation Scissors," so called because many of them carried scissors, vowing to sheer the long locks of the "Teddy Boys" if they showed fight.

The troops thronged into cafes and milk bars and gradually ebbed the "Teddy Boys" out into the street. The engagement led to several skirmishes and one pitched battle between more than 100 opposing sides. The clashes were quickly broken up by the police, but the "Teddy Boys" soon showed that they had no stomach for meeting their opponents on equal terms.

19 Whaling Fleets Getting Ready For New Season

By ASTLEY HAWKINS

CAPETOWN, South Africa (Reuters) — Nineteen whaling fleets from half a dozen countries are getting ready for the new Antarctic summer catching season, which promises to be one of the shortest and most competitive in whale oil history.

The International Whaling Commission has set a limit of 15,000 blue whale units — a whale oil measurement — in next season's haul. This limit was ordered to check the diminishing supply of whales.

Blue whale units are the mathematics of Antarctic whaling expeditions. One unit represents a blue whale or two fin whales or 2½ humpbacked whales. All fleets report their catches from day to day to the international authority by radio and the season ends the moment the seasonal limit has been caught.

FAST VESSELS

Britain, Norway, Holland, Japan, Russia and South Africa will be competing this season. The Greek-owned Onassis whaling fleet, sailing under the flag of Panama, also will be there.

Norway's expedition will be equipped this year with 109 fleet catchers, the fast, trawler-like little vessels which scout the whale packs, harpoon them and deliver them to their escorting factory ships for oil extraction.

With a lower limit set on this season's catch, every fleet will be out to take as many whales as it can find as fast as possible when the killing season opens in January. The 1955 season lasted from Jan. 2 to March 16. More catchers chasing fewer whales probably will cut the coming season shorter still.

Every season new mechanical aids are fitted to help whaling masters and gunners do their job faster. Electronic spotters are to be used this season by British and Dutch will carry spotter helicopters to scout the whales. Several British catchers will carry electric harpoons for "instant death" killings as well as the standard explosive harpoons.

At this year's meeting in Moscow of the International Whaling Commission, Norway proposed that an independent observer of another nationality should travel in factory ships to see that there were no infringements of whale-catching regulations. There was no time for this to be approved for the present season, but independent observers were expected to join the fleets of the 1956-57 season.

Foresees Trouble

TORONTO (CP)—David Archer, president of the Toronto and Labshore Labor Council (CIO-CCL), said Monday night many unions may lose their certifications after the Canadian Congress of Labor and the Trades and Labor Congress merge as one labor body.

He said management could demand that unions changing their names or identities under the merger be recertified. Unions seeking recertification would have to give up the check-off when they appeared before the Ontario labor relations board, he said.

The only solution will be new labor legislation, he said. "If the labor board tries to solve the problem without new legislation, I could tie up the courts for years."

CAMPBELLFORD

John Bradshaw Speaks On 'Public Relations'

CAMPBELLFORD — The Holstein breeders of Northumberland County held their annual banquet here over the weekend when the Masonic Temple was filled to capacity and the members enjoyed a turkey dinner.

A transformer outside the building blew just as the banquet was starting and could not be repaired immediately. PUC line crews strung a line to the building from a different transformer and eventually succeeded in lighting the building, but not until the guest speaker had been addressing the audience in the dark for several minutes. During the meal candles were placed in apples on the table, lending a dramatic effect to the meal.

President of the association, Henry Oliver, had a good program organized. The Rev. W. J. Hicks led in Grace and welcomed the guests.

GUEST SPEAKER

Guest speaker for the occasion was John Bradshaw, who broadcasts TV and radio farm programs. In introducing him, agricultural representative Ralph Banbury, pointed out the experience of this man, born and trained in fruit and flower spheres at Winona, an RCAF officer, and an agriculture graduate from the University of British Columbia.

Mr. Bradshaw impressed the audience with what they should do for good public relations. After his opening remarks he looked at the place cards, boosting Holstein milk for vigor and energy.

The speaker produced a quart bottle of milk and drank it during his talk. He pointed out that salesmanship was the final phase of milk production and often determined the profit. "Local milk producers," he said, "should have a special bottle supplied at all banquets at a special price in order to see that milk is served at every banquet table. Manufacturers of other goods give away samples in order to have the individual acquire a taste for their products," he added.

Gordon Macklin and Douglas Hosking were presented with special banners for a long time milk record, and secretary Charles Honey and Tom Convey presented HOP prizes to the following: John Goodfellow, Bertram Hoskin, Walter Honey, Alex. Merrill, Aylmer Petherick, Craig Nelson, B. D. Moore and William Moore. Craig Nelson also received the Bank of Montreal trophy, presented by Mr. R. D. McDonald, manager of the Campbellford branch of the bank.

Don Pollock received the Master Feed Trophy for the best dam and daughter at the Black and White achievement day held recently.

National officers Harold McColl and James Brown spoke briefly, as did past secretary Lindsay Anderson, and salesman John Tamblyn.

Visitors from Hastings county were Mr. and Mrs. Alex McComb, and from Peterborough, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Nelson.

Marysville

MARYSVILLE — A highly respected resident of the community, Mrs. John Cullen, passed away suddenly in Hotel Dieu Hospital, Kingston on Friday morning. Sympathy is extended to the bereaved family and relatives.

Miss Teresa McGuire, who teaches near Oshawa spent the weekend at her home in Marysville.

Mrs. Joseph Forestell is spending a few days in Montreal, visiting her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Smith.

Another successful euchre party was held in the parish hall on Sunday evening. Twenty seven tables were played. Ladies' 1st, Mrs. J. F. Brennan; Miss Helen Shaughnessy; Mrs. Leo Nash; men's 1st, Leo Nash; Mike Whalen; Don McLaren.

Some of the local hunters have returned from the north, with their quota of deer.

Vast Conservation Project Affecting Western Canada Operational After 8 Years

By DON PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—A vast conservation project that one day might mean the difference between drink and drought over much of the Prairies has reached the operational stage.

It took eight years; It cost $6,300,000 in federal funds for construction of almost 1,000 miles of roads and trails through some of the highest, most rugged—and, incidentally, most beautiful—terrain in the country. And it will demand unflagging vigilance from some 70 forest rangers and maintenance personnel until at least 1973.

The real work of the Eastern Rockies Forest Conservative Board is to manipulate vegetation in the 8,000 square-mile area so that its rich water resources will continue to supply the three Prairie provinces through the sprawling Saskatchewan river system.

IMPORTANT WATERSHED

Board chairman Maj.-Gen. Howard Kennedy said in an interview that virtually the whole Prairie population depends on the Rockies' eastern watershed water which is delivered to towns and cities across Alberta, Saskatchewan, and Manitoba by the Saskatchewan river and its many tributaries.

Other sources of water in the area, Gen. Kennedy said, are chiefly stationary: that is, water collected in low spots from melting snow and rain.

In some areas yearly precipitation rarely is more than 12 inches, which is said is close to desert conditions. In the Rocky mountains forest reserve, however, precipitation may average 30 inches annually, with some sections yielding up to 60.

At present, snow and glaciers high on the mountain slopes are the practical guarantee for the Saskatchewan's summer flow. But the glaciers grow smaller every year. One day they may be gone.

It was with an eye to that day that Alberta and the federal government in 1947 set up the joint board to administer watershed management in the forest reserve.

FEDERAL CONTRIBUTION

Main role of the federal government was to finance building of the road system and set up forest ranger stations and communications throughout the area. This part of the project was officially concluded on March 31, A few tag ends in gravelling roads and so on were cleaned up this summer.

Alberta now is responsible for maintenance through the remainder of the board's 25-year life. But the autonomous board, with one federal and two provincial representatives, remains the administrative body.

The board considers fire its greatest enemy. In a recent pamphlet on its work, the board said of fire:

"It not only kills the trees but it destroys the humus layer on the forest floor. This layer is composed of a mat of leaves, twigs, moss and other vegetation. . . .

"This layer can store several times its own weight of water, but it plays a more important function in protecting the mineral soil below from the impact of raindrops and the clogging of soil pores.

HUMUS COVER VITAL

"Water can readily infiltrate into a soil with a humus cover formed under forest conditions. . . .

"The water is fed into the soil and then gradually, by sub-surface flow, into the streams. When forest fires expose the mineral soil it becomes clogged and surface run-off is increased."

The network of roads and trails throughout the area enables fire-fighters to reach fires fast, before they get out of control. The web of 16 lookouts through the area keeps almost every section under observation during the fire-danger period. The whole system is closely integrated through a high - frequency radio network.

The reserve extends from the edge of Waterton Lakes National Park, on the International border, along the eastern slopes of the Rockies, skirting Banff National Park, north to the Brazeau river, most northerly Saskatchewan river feeder which rises on the northeastern reaches of Jasper National Park.

FINE TRUNK ROAD

Backbone of the system is a two-lane gravelled trunk road running 274 miles north from Coleman, in the Crowsnest pass of southwestern Alberta, to Nordegg, in the valley of the North Saskatchewan east of Jasper. The southern section of this road, from Coleman to the Kananaskis forest experimental farm on the Calgary-Banff highway about 30 miles from Calgary, was first opened three years ago; the remainder in September.

The project has opened up to motor traffic a Rocky mountain region rich in fish and game that once was accessible to only the strong-legged hiker or the pack-horse.

Gen. Kennedy described the scenery along the trunk road as superb. At one point near the Kananaskis lakes, some 60 miles southwest of Calgary, the road climbs to an altitude of 7,300 feet, believed the highest for any motor-ised highway in Canada. The Trans - Canada Highway reaches about 5,00 feet at the Great Divide on the Alberta-British Columbia boundary.

The road is open to public travel all summer except for periods of high forest fire hazard. All travellers must register with rangers at its entrances and exits.

"If a fire starts we want to know who started it," he said. "Then we are absolutely merciless. There were no serious fires in the reserve area this year, he said, and damage was negligible.

TOURIST SHELTERS

Nineteen shelters have been built at good fishing and viewing spots along the road where travellers may cook a meal or camp out. There are no coffee shops, hotels, service stations or any other form of urban civilization except ranger posts along the way.

Gen. Kennedy said traffic has risen as high as 40 cars an hour during summer weekends.

Oil companies use the road to carry out seismic surveys. Prospectors bring in their equipment over it. Lumber companies, currently the biggest source of surface revenue in the area, haul out timber over it. Commercial traffic pays one cent a ton each mile; tourists travel the road free.

Fishing and hunting is permitted in the reserve area under provincial regulations. Rangers issue permits to carry firearms.

Gen. Kennedy said game runs from elk in the southern section to moose and mountain sheep in the northern. Black bears also turn up. But so far no grizzlies have been reported along the road, he said.

Montreal Riding May Be Split Next Election

QUEBEC (CP) — Quebec's most populous riding, bursting at the seams with more than 100,000 eligible voters, may be split to increase Montreal island's representation in the provincial legislature from 15 to 16 members.

The case of the oversized Laval riding and the case of crowded Montreal island generally is expected to be discussed during the session of the legislature which opens Wednesday.

Within more than one-third of the province's total population, Montreal island holds less than one-sixth of the seats in the 92-seat elected legislative assembly.

The matter has become a lively issue in political circles because elections are expected to be called when the current session is prorogued, late next spring.

The board regulates all uses of the forest reserve with the object always is mind that its water must be conserved. Cattle and sheep may be grazed in its pastures, but only to the point where no conservation conditions will be damaged.

Gen. Kennedy said the vast project is self-liquidating. Surface revenues—charges for road use, grazing, timber rights and so on—have risen to about $300,000 a year, he said, from $30,000 before the area was developed.

Striped-Pants Brigade Pained By Maclean-Burgess Treason

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — The Cockney strolls across Whitehall and says to the cop on the beat:

"What's side is the foreign office on, mate?"

And the dour bobbie, not batting an eyelash, replies:

"Ours, I hope."

That little radio joke, dredged up in the wake of the British white paper about the missing diplomats, Donald Duart Maclean and Guy Francis de Moncy Burgess, crystallizes an episode the foreign office is going to have a hard time forgetting.

The subject, painful though it may be to the striped-pants brigade, came up again in the House of Commons this week.

Few events in recent years have given the press such an opening for sly thrusts at a dignified government department. Maclean and Burgess shipped town May 25, 1951, escaping presumably to Russia by way of St. Malo, France. For years, government spokesmen were reticent in replies to parliamentary questions about the two diplomats.

HESITATION CRITICIZED

Then it came out the authorities had known all the time—or at least suspected—that the two were passing secret information to the Russians.

Vladimir Petrov, former Soviet diplomat, said that Burgess and Maclean were long - term Soviet agents recruited for intelligence work while still at Cambridge. After some hesitation, which critics called stalling, the government then put out its white paper.

The News Chronicle, a Liberal paper, called this the "most fatuous and ill-considered document" issued by a government department. The left-wing New Statesman and Nation said it revealed nothing except incompetence, was crammed with inconsistencies and "crudely evades the crucial questions." Punch, the weekly humor magazine, went gleefully to work on an imaginary dialogue between two stuffy, blimp-like civil servants, Stough and Stubbish.

Among the misgivings expressed were that British security is woefully inefficient and that somebody must have been guilty of shielding Burgess and Maclean, two upper-class men whose behavior had been under scrutiny for some time. Was the old school tie at work?

Alfred Robens, Labor member of Parliament, said in a radio talk he wonders whether the foreign service draws its recruits from too narrow a scale. He also proposed that senior civil servants should perhaps accept security checks other people would not expect to undergo, just as persons handling large sums of money might be bonded.

But, Robens added, all the fuss about Burgess and Maclean should not obscure the fact that Britain is served "by a civil service whose integrity and expatriation remain the envy of the world."

Catholic Women Not Trying To Control Adults' Reading They Say, Answering Critics

TORONTO (CP)—The Catholic Women's League today blue-pencilled its own blacklist of books it considers indecent.

Mrs. Ward Markle, Toronto [illegible] said the league has removed Ernest Hemingway's "[illegible]" and "several others" from the list of 300 "indecent" books prepared by the National Organization for Decent Literature of Chicago.

The league is using the list in its campaign to persuade news dealers to return to distributors books considered objectionable and not fit for children to read.

At the same time, said Mrs. Markle, the league is adding titles to the original list. She said the titles were added by members who "glanced over them" while visiting bookstores.

She said Hemingway's book was removed from the list because children or teen-agers would chose to read his works and the league is not suggesting to adults what to read.

League officials said the league wants only to keep indecent literature away from children.

"We're not a lot of Carrie Nations with hatchets, not a bunch of do-gooders," said Mrs. Markle. "We're only interested in the welfare of our children."

Since the campaign began Monday, reactions have run from strong criticism to outright support.

About 1,000 observers are examining newsstands and bookstores in Ontario cities and towns. The league is a Roman Catholic lay organization.

NOT A CRUSADE

Mrs. Markle said the campaign is neither a crusade nor a purge.

"It is an attempt to bring home to dealers and parents the damage which can be done by distribution of indecent literature."

The league has no interest whatever in adult reading, she said. It is concerned over the influence obscene, immoral and sadistic literature has on the minds of grade and high school children.

"This is not a program of censorship. The plan prepared by the women is to approach the dealers in a courteous and kindly spirit with requests, not with demands or threats, realizing that through a local dealer, the customer is the master of the situation.

"This is an educational program."

MANY CRITICIZE

Criticism has come from authors, book store proprietors and news dealers.

The executive of the Association for Civil Liberties expressed deep concern over what it called "the book purge." In a statement it said:

"Any group of people may select its own reading material by whatever standards it adopts. But when they also claim the privilege of selecting books for others . . . the results are sure to prejudice democratic principles and undermine that faith in human beings. . . ."

Mrs. Markle said she is sure the association misinterpreted the aims of the campaign. In the statement clarifying the campaign's purpose is a partial list of the 300 books on the league's objectionable list.

GIVES SOME TITLES

Titles include:

The Impatient Virgin, Lament for Four Virgins, Pickup, Naked Act, Sexual Conduct of a Teenager, All Passions Spent, She Got What She Wanted.

Mrs. Markle said the list does not include crime comic books to which the league is also opposed. The list however was used only as a guide.

The two-week campaign is being carried out throughout the Toronto archdiocese which includes 30 subdivisions of the league. Subdivisions send out teams of two women each as observers.

Mrs. Markle said the group has received phone calls from individuals and organizations behind the campaign. Parent - teacher and home and school groups support it, she said.

The league hopes by the drive eventually to have legislation passed which will force what might be considered undesirable literature from newsstands.

Bombers Evade Elaborate Radar Warning System

FORT FOLK, La. (AP) — The United States has learned a sharp and realistic lesson about the vulnerability of its cities to atomic attack by jet bombers.

A comparative handful of swift bombers, streaking inland at low altitude, evaded an elaborate radar warning system and wailing interceptor planes and aimed simulated nuclear bombs at air bases located in southern states from Florida westward through Louisiana and northward as far as Virginia.

They were "enemy" aircraft participating in the giant military exercise Sagebrush.

AMPLY WARNED

When the aggressor planes set off this mock war with their strike Tuesday night, defending forces had ample warning that trouble was coming. Only the time of attack remained a surprise. Yet initial reports indicated that a substantial number of the attacking planes foiled radar warning systems and suddenly appeared over target airfields before fighters could go up to intercept them.

Radar did pick up the images of some of the fast-flying bombers, and three were some interceptions. But first reports suggested that too many of the enemy succeeded in their mission.

Scarboro Reeve Gives Probe Details About His Income

TORONTO (CP)—Oliver Crockford, reeve of suburban Scarborough township, Tuesday told a judicial inquiry he has an income of $10,000 in addition to his official salary of $11,800.

Reeve Crockford took the stand in the inquiry into alleged bribery attempts of four township officials to answer speculation on how his election campaign expenses were almost double his income. James Van Der Meulen one-time candidate for reeve, had estimated Mr. Crockford's expenses in two election campaigns last year at $22,250.

The reeve said his additional income came from stores, a service station, apartment rentals, a house mortgage and returns from property. He broke down his income from the township as: Reeve $5,000, industrial commissioner $4,000, car expenses $2,000, attendances at board of health meetings $100, police commissioner $500, public utilities commissioner $800, PUC car expenses $400, Toronto metropolitan councillor $1,800, member of planning board $200.

BOUGHT A CAR

Walter Pugh, a construction company executive, told the inquiry he sold Reeve Crockford a $5,000 Cadillac car last year for $5,200. It was explained that the difference in prices was the saving Mr. Pugh had made on the trade-in of another car.

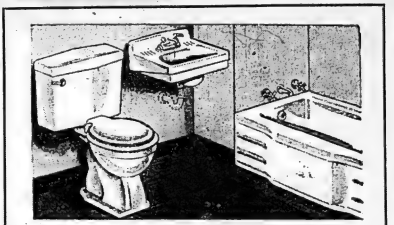
Pugh Brothers Construction Company, the inquiry learned, has built four subdivisions in Scarborough.

Mr. Pugh said Reeve Crockford paid for the car in three cash payments, the first of $1,200. The reeve told the inquiry he had just been paid back a loan of $700 by a real estate dealer.

"I added what I had in my pocket and made the first payment," he said.

The inquiry into alleged bribery attempts involving township officials resumed after adjourning four days ago.

GET BIG HAUL



PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Officials of the lands and forests department said Tuesday 23,000 hunters brought game and Christmas trees out of the area during the weekend. The check showed 600 deer and some bears were included in the weekend bag.

'Candy Kid' Back in Britain, 26,000-Mile Canadian Tour Sweetens U.K. Dollar Reserves

By SYLVIA HACK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Barbara Hopps, an ex-model, has just finished selling 30,000,000 "sweets" to North Americans, chiefly Canadians.

The job took nine months. The Canadian trek covered 26,000 miles and it deposited a good - sized "sweetener" in Britain's needy dollar reserves.

"It was fascinating," said Miss Hopps, 24, who hoisted a mobile candy store—a truck and trailer trimmed in tudor style. She found people "friendly everywhere."

Bill Thompson guided it from Vancouver to Quebec City and Miss Hopps made sales and goodwill all the time.

The attractive brunette was chosen from 400 applicants for the job.

"I don't know what star was shining on me at the time, but I just kept on talking and talking, remembering to keep my fingers crossed all the time."

On the trip she stayed in approximately 100 motels and hotels and "wore mostly feminine clothes, not slacks and lumber jackets."

Favorite place was Vancouver Island — "very British" — where British-born oldtimers asked for "butterdrops," which they hadn't tasted for 30 years or more.

Toughest spot was crossing the Rockies in a blizzard, "the most terrifying drive in my life."

Most amusing incident was the crossing of rainbow bridge at Niagara Falls, where, owing to a misunderstanding with the customs, they spent four stateless and stationary hours between Canada and the United States.

Miss Hopps, wearing a Canadian-made pink and black greograin suit said she thought Canadian styles "superb, although the rush to the garments isn't what it should be."

She was impressed by "Canadians wearing outrageous clothes on Sundays, sloppy jeans and sweaters, as opposed to the average Briton putting on his best Sunday suit." Canadian streets "struck me as more colorful."

The candy van, with Miss Hopps as the "candy kid," was the idea of manufacturer Kenneth Horner, who thereby raised his dollar exports from five to 125 per cent.

Sir William Rootes chairman of the dollar exports council, was on hand to welcome Miss Hopps and Thompson back to Britain to praise the project.

"The lesson they teach us is one which we as a nation, and free enterprise as a creed, must learn or neglect on peril — dollars don't grow on trees and even if they did, you can't shake them down from an office desk in Britain."

Miss Hopps settles down next year, when she is to marry a car dealer. Their house will include a "Canadian-style" kitchen.

JUMPED TO DEATH

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A 52-year-old chemist, Egbert Freyer, jumped to his death Sunday from a 190-foot-high section of the recently opened Buffalo Skyway. The death was listed as a suicide. The skyway is a high-level bridge which carries traffic around the waterfront district.

Immigrants Carve Wasteland Into Market Garden Goldmine

GRAND BEND, Ont. (CP)—A 2,200-acre tract of marshy wasteland near this Lake Huron resort town is being carved into market garden lots by New Canadians to produce a $1,000,000 crop.

The land, until last year the private duck-hunting preserve of Dr. Gordon Haigmeir, a retired physician, will provide a three-fold increase in the size of Klondyke gardens, a gold mine of first-grade vegetables.

During the last seven years 1,200 acres of land have been opened to farming by draining and cultivating. The new land has been brought into use through the decision of Dr. Haigmeir to break up and sub-divide much of his 7,000-acre holding.

DRAIN SHALLOW LAKE

Last spring, Dr. Haigmeir decided to drain shallow Lake Smith, the last of several lakes which once dotted the area.

Tractors now are working back and forth on the spongy lake bottom as New Canadian purchasers prepare it for spring seeding.

They hope to have 600 to 450 acres in various crops next year with a gradual increase during the following years. Their aim is to have one of the largest market gardens in the province.

The gross average income of the 25 original families—from Holland and Belgium—was nearly $10,000 last year and in some cases amounted to almost $20,000.

START OF ENTERPRISE

The gardens enterprise was started by a tobacco farmer from Delhi, Ont., Gerard Van den Bussbe who came to Canada from Belgium before the Second World War.

He bought some raw marshland and then arranged for settlers to come directly there from Europe. They paid him for land from crop receipts.

Mr. Van den Bussbe lived here several years, saw the settlers established and returned to his tobacco farm.

The first produce was sold at nearby Sarnia and Windsor, but Klondyke carrots, celery, potatoes, lettuce, beets and turnips are being shipped to Detroit, Hamilton, Toronto and even Baltimore.

William Blewett, secretary-treasurer of the year-old Klondyke Gardens Co-operative, says the co-operative has been so successful that a storage warehouse completed last fall already is too small. Plans are to double the space.

Car Salesmen For Cadillac Get Contract

NEW YORK (AP)—The world's best-paid strikers Monday night unanimously ratified their first contract with the world's richest corporation. Their union said they got what they wanted.

Eight-hour salesmen with an average yearly income of $17,000—and some reaching $40,000—went on strike against the Cadillac division of General Motors Corporation Oct. 27.

A spokesman for the AFL International Brotherhood of Teamsters said the contract provides for no discharge except for cause, no transfers, layoffs on a seniority basis, a 40-hour week and a guaranteed commission of $100 per sale.

The union said the salesmen had been working up to 60 hours weekly.

The salesmen are employed in factory outlets in the New York metropolitan area that sell to the public.

alvage Experts Close Drama f Flaming Munitions Ship

By RAE CORELLI
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ALIFAX (CP)—British salvage erts are writing the sequel to Halifax harbor drama of the ond World War on which y rang down the curtain. t was at 2.50 a.m. on April 10, 2, that a naval shell tore through burning holds of the explosives-en freighter Trongate and har-water snuffed out the towering mes that had yellowed the sky.

Probably less than 15 minutes re needed to sink the 7,000-ton archantman in 11 fathoms of ter. Salvaging her steel plates ll take three divers more than a ar.

WARTIME CONVOY

The Trongate began that spring y 13 years ago in Bedford basin the north end of the harbor ere, all through the war, con-ys were marshalled to move cross the Atlantic.

The freighter's holds bulged with ixed cargo—300 tons of TNT, sev-al hundred tons of small arms ammunition, wood pulp, paper and caros.

Late in the afternoon fire flick-ed below decks. Who first spotted or exactly when he not known. ther is the cause. Wartime nscribbly and those itself have ecured much of the Trongate's st hours.

Convoy masters decided to inch e vessel out of the crowded ein and down the harbor. The en sea lay 10 miles away.

Shortly before 2 a.m., as the rongate stood about midway be-ween the Dartmouth and Halifax orelines in the centre of the harbor, flames sheeted skyward from the deck. Rifle and machine-gun bullets began going off and the plates glowed against an omin-ous backdrop of oil storage tanks on the Dartmouth side.

The navy held a hurried con-ference with port officials. It was decided to run the ship with gut-fire before the flames ate into the TNT.

Two Canadian and three United States warships turned their guns on the floating furnace. The bark of 4.7-inch guns crashed through the general din.

One shell skated off the deck of the freighter, whizzed across open water, crunched through the wall of a building in Paddy Flemming's spar yard on lower Water street and thudded into a beam in Mr. Flemming's office.

It didn't explode. Paddy wanted to keep it for a souvenir but a harassed navy cleanup squad took it away.

A shell found its mark and the Trongate, clouds of steam aboveer ing upwards, slid beneath the sur-face.

CARGO TAKEN OFF

What was left of the cargo was taken off a few months later.

Rieden Beazley Ltd., of South-ampton started the current salvage operations last March. The bulk will yield about 1,000 tons of scrap; more than 700 tons have been raised already by powerful 50-ton hoists aboard the large vessel Bramsteel 16. The 10-ton chunks are cut smaller and the scrap is hauled away.

The divers had trouble getting used to the cold harbor "bottom" water but now don't mind the three-hour stints.

Salvage work will stop when winter sets in. It will be resumed when the weather improves and continue until the hulk is no more.

Fuel Oil Replacing Coal In Australia

SYDNEY (Reuters) — Memories of depression are haunting the coalfields of New South Wales as unemployment follows oil's challenge to coal as fuel in Australia.

Miners assert that some 2,000 men out of the 20,000 employed in the state will lose their jobs before the end of the year, although officials estimate the total will be less than 400.

The increasing use of fuel oil in Australia followed the establishment of oil refineries here. In the last few years, major oil companies have built four refineries in Australia at a capital cost of nearly £100,000,000.

This investment has switched Australian petroleum imports from refined products to crude oil for refining here. And the end product of refining is a residual oil which can be sold cheaply for fuel.

According to government observers, the competition of fuel oil is hitting mainly the smaller and less efficient sections of the coal industry. These mines are being forced to restrict output or close down. But many other mines are still working normally to supply fuel for the large section of industry which still depends on coal.

NEW CONDUCTOR VISITS

TORONTO (CP) — Prague-born Walter Susskind, conductor-designate of the Toronto Symphony Orchestra, arrived Monday for his first rehearsal with the orchestra he takes over next year. Susskind, 42, flew from Melbourne, Australia where he recently completed a tour as conductor of the Victoria Symphony Orchestra. His appointment to succeed Sir Ernest MacMillan, the Toronto organization's conductor for the last 25 years, was announced two weeks ago. It becomes effective next autumn.

'Medicine Murders' Reported Among Cannibalistic Africans

By ASTLEY HAWKINS

MASERU, Bazutoland (Reuters) —Witchcraft murders among Africans who use human flesh and blood for "prosperity potions" in primitive rituals are still being reported in this British East African protectorate despite all contacts with white civilization and police action to end them.

Bazutoland's "medicine murders" have been recorded by the police since 1885, when the first judgment officially filed described how a man was "slaughtered like a beast." Today, "medicine murder" is just as bestial and remains the most serious problem for Bazutoland police.

Nearly 150 such murders have been uncovered by Bazutoland police in the last 60 years, more than half of them in the last 10 years. Higher figures in recent years reflect better methods of detection and investigation rather than any unusual increase in the murders, long a part of African life.

Many Bazutos have been found guilty and executed for "medicine" killings, But this has failed to deter others from resorting to forbidden heathen practices when they believe that their prestige is threatened or life needs something of their own "magic" touch.

"Medicine murders" are believed to date back to the days of tribal warfare among African natives, when it was traditional for victorious warriors to take flesh or blood from defeated enemies on the battlefield for strength.

Today, the victim may be anyone. Cases in recent years have involved an African mission clergyman, a youth noted for his physical strength, an insane woman, a small girl, a young woman who was pregnant and a woman who had just given birth. "Medicines" made from human flesh or blood may be required to "heal" a whole village of evil influences, to improve the status of a chief, to counteract the appointment of an unpopular chief or to protect crops from hail damage.

Invariably, it is a chief or village headman who selects a victim on the advice of a tribal witch-doctor and plots the murder, which is usually committed at night in a remote place by a band of the chief's followers after a session of beer drinking.

The victim may be waylaid or lured into an ambush, betrayed even by relatives who submit to the murder of husband or wife, brother or sister, through fear of or loyalty to a chief. Various parts of the body or blood are taken through cuts or incisions, usually before the victim dies. In one recent case, the unborn child was removed from a young woman.

Suspect Arson In Montreal Fire

MONTREAL (CP)—Police Tuesday investigated the possibility that an arsonist may have caused a two-alarm fire Monday night that threatened to engulf a block of tenement buildings in the city's densely-populated St. Henri district.

Police said the blaze was the second of the night and the 12th in the last three months to hit the old district. All originated in sheds.

Fire-fighters from 10 stations battled the blaze for two hours before bringing it under control. One fireman was overcome by smoke and taken to hospital. No other injuries were reported.

Some 200 persons were forced into the streets by the blaze, which caused damage unofficially estimated as high as $150,000.

Chance Remark About Present Led to Arrest

DENVER (AP) — The Rocky Mountain News says a chance remark about a unique Christmas gift led to the arrest of John Gilbert (Jack) Graham in the bomb-plot massacre of 44 persons aboard a United Airlines plane.

The newspaper says in a copyrighted article that neighbors told the FBI Friday—eight days after the Nov. 1 crash—that Graham had told them he was heartbroken because he had hidden the gift, a jewelry-making tool, in his mother's luggage rather than giving it to her in person.

The FBI went into action as soon as it learned that the 23-year-old Graham had opened his mother's packed suitcase in order to insert the surprise gift, the newspaper says.

Graham formally was charged Tuesday with the murder of his mother, Mrs. Daisie E. King, 54, in connection with the dynamiting of the plane.

SHANNONVILLE

Baptismal Rite Held At United Church

SHANNONVILLE— The United church was the scene of an interesting event on Sunday evening, when Marlene Lyn, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Reid of R.R. 6, Belleville, was baptized by the Rev. T. Hogerward.

A basket of yellow and white Shasta 'mums made a nice setting for the occasion.

Miss June Bowerman, guest soloist, and friend of the family, sang immediately following the christening, accompanied by the church organist, Mrs. Harry Sine, who is the baby's grandmother. Mrs. Sine recently completed 25 years as organist for Shannonville United church.

The immediate families were guests for the occasion and enjoyed a social hour at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Reid, following the service.

Naval Review of Soviet Fleet Reveals Few New Features

By TREVOR BLORE

LONDON (Reuters) — British naval experts had their first close-up view of the Soviet navy in the form of two modern cruisers and four destroyers which visited Portsmouth in October. They didn't discover anything particularly new.

Although they had no opportunity to inspect the inner secrets of the ships, certain interesting points have emerged from this general survey.

Admiral Arsenal Golovko's flagship, the Sverdlov, and her sister ship, the Alexander Suvorov, are of definitely conventional design, and even look a bit old-fashioned with their bulky optical rangefinders towering above their triple six-inch gun turrets fore and aft. These rangefinders suggest the Russians may not be as far advanced in radar and other electronic gunnery controls as the British and United States navies.

Outwardly, there was nothing to suggest that the Soviet six-inch guns—12 in each cruiser mounted in four triple turrets—had high-speed system being installed in British cruisers which more than doubles their firepower.

FIRE HAZARD

Some surprise was caused by the wooden planking — seemingly of Baltic pine or similar timber— which ran along the upper deck where British ships would have plain steel decks. This seems to offer an unnecessary fire hazard for a warship.

Another major surprise was the towering bulk of the cruisers as they came alongside. Although the Sverdlov was at anchor off Portsmouth for Queen Elizabeth's coronation review at Spithead, it was not until the cruiser came alongside a wharf during her recent visit that her size could be fully appreciated.

In reference books, these cruisers, of which Russia has 12 and more building, are rated at 12,000 tons displacement. After a closer look, however, many experts here came to the conclusion that the two which came to Portsmouth were well above this tonnage. Some officers suggested 15,000 tons, and others as much as 17,000 tons.

Correlating the conventional design and armaments of these cruisers on outward appearance with what is known of the general shape of the Red navy, and remembering that these ships are the spearhead of the Soviet fleet, some strategic deduction can be made.

These ships do not seem to be designed to bear the brunt of a fu'l fleet action. The whole shape of the Soviet navy, without battleships or aircraft carriers, suggests that its leaders do not envisage any "set-piece" engagements between fleets.

The Sverdlov and the Alexander Suvorov have all the marks of being designed for high speed raids on merchant shipping, coupled with the role of fast minelayers.

Unique Trial Opens in Seattle

SEATTLE (AP)—A unique trial opened Monday in which a county jail prisoner contends a "captive audience" of prisoners should not have to listen to religious services.

The suit was instituted by William Harvey Rhea, a 25-year-old roofer serving a year's sentence for vagrancy and assault, and is against 19 religious organizations.

Rhea is seeking to require the King county sheriff and the jail superintendent to enforce a rule which limits religious services to the jail's chapel.

The religious groups are asking that the court prohibit jail officials from interfering with the services

Kinsmen Will Attempt to Raise $3,000 for Centre

PICTON — Efforts of Picton Kinsmen Club during the coming months will be directed towards raising $3,000 for the Agricultural and Recreation Centre at the Fair grounds. This amount was decided to be used for completion of a modern hall across the end of the 100 foot wide building which will eventually become an arena. All that remains for the latter development is money for purchase and installation of an artificial ice plant.

This hall when completed will be called Kinsmen hall, recognizing the support by the club of this community project. Previously $2500 was donated towards erection of the building.

In addition, the Club will continue to send underprivileged children to the Salvation Army camp at Roblin's Lake at a cost of around $500.

These pledges were made at Monday night's meeting held at Maple Inn, president Norman Walters presiding. There was an 85 per cent attendance.

Chief method of raising funds will be the bingos now under way.

Plans were made for the visit of Kinsmen Governor Ernie Douglas of Shawinigan Falls, Quebec, to the Picton Club on Thursday, Nov. 24. Deputy Governor Jim Hall of Campbellford wrote to announce the Governor will visit Kingston on Nov. 21, Tweed and Trenton on Nov. 22, Belleville and Campbellford on Nov. 23 and Picton on Nov. 24.

Recently married, vice-president Ken Stafford was congratulated by President Homer Walters who presented a cable lamp as a token of the club's good wishes.

Keith Maddox gave the treasurer's report. Ray Smith reported on the bingos and a committee is to investigate the purchase of chairs.

South Ontario Farmers Have Good Market for Winter Crops

TORONTO (CP)—A good market is open to southern Ontario farmers for winter crops.

This is demonstrated by production figures of wood-using industries announced by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

How the farmer can cash in on the market—so far almost ignored by him—is demonstrated in an attractive exhibit by the Ontario department of lands and forests at the Royal Winter Fair.

In 1953 southern Ontario factories producing furniture and other wood products shipped $229,564,870 worth of goods. These were from 1,700 factories spread throughout the area.

POTENTIAL CROP

"This shows that wood is potentially a very important crop in this part of the province," said J. C. Jackson, supervisor of extension and reforestation for the lands and forests department.

"But farmers are not taking advantage of this excellent source of winter income," he said in an interview.

"Most of these industries have to import their wood from the United States, northern Ontario and other places while right here in southern Ontario 4,000,000 acres of good useable land are wasting away."

He said that farmers, to share in the market, need only take advantage of the lands and forests department's plan of assistance in either foresting farm land not useable for cultivation or improving the quality of trees in present farm wood lots.

DESPISE WOODLOTS

"As a hangover from the time when land had to be cleared of trees to make way for cultivation, the farmer still looks on woodlots as land good for nothing else," Mr. Jackson said.

"They have allowed woodlots to deteriorate, and the quality of their trees now for the most part do not meet the standards required in furniture or other wood-product production; that is why almost all material used by southern Ontario wood industries must be imported.

"By getting the right trees in the right soil and giving Nature a little bit of a hand, the farmer can easily increase the yield of his woodlot and double the quality and value of the wood.

"Only 14 per cent of southern Ontario is forest. This percentage should be as high as 30 per cent. At $10 a thousand the lands and forests department will provide young trees of veneer quality. The department employs 30 extension foresters, distributed throughout the province, to provide free assistance and advice to farmers in reforesting their lands."

PICTON

Leon Branscombe, Navy War Hero, Believed Drowned

PICTON.—A Picton war hero and for the past few years a conservation officer with the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests, B. Leon Branscombe, 33, is one of two men missing since last Wednesday, and believed drowned, in the vicinity of Little Current, Manitoulin Island. The other is Arthur Noble, 28, guide and fisherman.

Both resided at Killarney, a community, 45 miles southwest of Sudbury, on Georgian Bay. Leon Branscombe is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer M. Branscombe, Spencer Street, Picton, and was awarded the Distinguished Conduct Medal for action against a German submarine in the last war.

High winds and heavy breakers have hampered the search by boats and aircraft. The men were last seen heading out from a Collins Inlet hunting camp in a 16-foot outboard boat. The boat was found late Thursday on the rocky shore three miles east of Killarney. There had been a severe windstorm. A rubber boot, with laces cut, believed to belong to one of the men, has been found.

PARENTS GO TO SCENE

Mr. and Mrs. E. Branscombe went to Manitoulin Island, to assist in the search and to be with Mrs. L. Branscombe and four children at Killarney.

Leon's grandmother, Mrs. Milton Branscombe, resides at Spencer street. He has a brother, Clifford in Kingston, and four sisters, Mrs. Mary Booth, Mrs. Madeline Farrington, Mrs. Joyce Carson and Mrs. Viola McConnell.

As a leading seaman in the RCNVR, Leon Branscombe was awarded the Distinguished Conduct Medal in August, 1944. He was serving aboard HMCS "St. Thomas', in action against a German submarine. A citation at that time from Hon. D. C. Abbott, then Minister of National Defence, stated "The Chief of the Naval staff, the members of the Naval Board and I highly appreciate the contribution your ship made to the destruction of the submarine's death blow. Just the 'Asdic' section was used, no sub-detection guns. A pattern was made and depth charges were dropped to his specifications. Following the sinking of the enemy sub, prisoners were taken aboard the 'St. Thomas.'

JOINED NAVY IN 1940

Branscombe joined the navy in October 1940, receiving his training at HMCS 'Stadacona' and later attended Asdic School at HMCS Cornwallis, Halifax. Here he passed his examinations as Leading Seaman and S/D. with high honors. He saw service in the North Atlantic, South Atlantic, the Caribbean and Pacific. He was on loan to the U.S.A. Navy under lend lease from the R.N., for a time. He was aboard the 'Snowberry" when the ship stood by the 'Oakville' for the beaching of a German sub in the Caribbean in 1943.

Leon enlisted with Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, Dec. 6, 1939, but was discharged as being too young. A year later he joined the navy.

Born in Picton, August 23, 1922, he attended Public school and Picton Collegiate. He had resided in Picton and district until becoming a conservation officer His father saw service in World War I and served in the Veterans' Guard in the last war. His brother, Clifford, spent five years overseas with Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment.

YEARS

Mr. Johnston saw a picture in a magazine showing an Arachuna chicken. The chickens reputedly laid blue eggs and were raised in Chile by Indian tribes living in the Andes.

The chickens lived in a semi-wild state and were almost impossible to get, Mr. Johnston said. It wasn't until 1938 that he got a pair of the chickens from a California bird importer.

A short time after the birds arrived, Mr. Johnston said, the hen died. In the meantime, he had discovered they laid blue eggs only occasionally and ordinary ones the rest of the time.

He mated the cock Arachuna with a Dutch chicken. This union produced a chocolate egg. The chocolate egg proved to him that this color of the egg depended upon the cock, and he was then on the way to producing a blue egg.

From that time on, he mated his cocks with various breeds of hens and got a variety of eggs in all the colors of the rainbow.

The objective of the 16 years of experimentation, was to produce a truly Canadian "chicken, Mr. Johnston said. After more extensive breeding, he eliminated the comb and wattles on the bird.

"Without combs and wattles, there is nothing to freeze on the chicken in the winter time," Mr. Johnston said. "I think the Ontario Cana is a wonderful Canadian bird."

As a final touch, Mr. Johnston added a feathered head-crest to his chickens.

"They look plain without a comb or wattles," he explained. "So I added an Easter bonnet to give them a little style."

Fuerd, 23, pleaded guilty to breaking and entering the post office where he worked and was remanded a week for sentence. Charged with him was Edward Paczier, 30, remanded until Nov. 23 for trial.

ASK INCREASES

WINDSOR (CP) — City police Tuesday asked an arbitration board for salary increases which would cost the city more than $37,000 a year. Constable Larry Collette, president of the Police Association, said the board 10 officers have resigned from the force already this year, six to go to better-paying police posts in the United States. The association is asking a four per cent across-the-board raise.

Announce New Way To Shrink Painful Piles
Science Finds Healing Substance That Does Both—Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids
Toronto, Ont. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain. Thousands have been relieved—without resort to surgery.
In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.
Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.
And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!
In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.
All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.
This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H®. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

'Get Ready for Fight'--Norris 'Go Jump in Lake'--Weill

NEW YORK (AP)—Jim Norris and Al Weill, the two most important men in Rocky Marciano's life, clashed openly today.

Norris, president of the International Boxing Club, which has promoted all heavyweight champion's fights, said Marciano should not be touring the country refereeing bouts, that he should be getting ready for a February title defence.

Weill, the Rock's manager, in effect, told Norris to go jump in the lake.

The argument was significant in that the IBC's exclusive contract with Marciano expired recently and hasn't been renewed. Under it, the IBC held rights to promote all the heavyweight champion's fights, either by itself or in conjunction with other promoters.

CAN'T SEE IT

"For the life of me, I can't see eye-to-eye with Weill on these tours," said Norris. "It doesn't make sense."

Norris said boxing interest revolves around the heavyweight champion.

"Therefore, I feel that he should be fighting and defending his title. We just got through doing a million dollars with Archie Moore and now is no time for Rocky to be running around the country on a refereeing tour."

Norris wants Marciano to make his next defence in February instead of waiting until June as announced by Weill, and said he could fight the winner of the Dec. 7 bout in Cleveland between Nino Valdes and Bob Baker.

What does Weill think of all this?

"I'm still the manager of Rocky Marciano—the only manager he's this year but allowed only three barnstorming, but a goodwill tour."

"As for Rocky fighting in February, it haven't given that a thought. He needs three or four months to get in condition. I won't discuss anything until I come back from the West about Dec. 22 or 23. I'll talk to Mr. Norris then about future business."

Although Marciano now is free to sign with any promoter willing to outbid the IBC for his services, Norris was not particularly worried. There isn't another promoter operating who can match his fat check book.

Soccer Axe Falls Over 'Ome; Matthews Out

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — England's strength - through - youth soccer movement will be tested Wednesday at Wembley Stadium against Spain in the last international of 1955.

The axe fell on some old timers, including right winger Stanley Matthews, after Wales took its first decision over England in years, and some 40-year-old maestro and some of his colleagues look pretty slow.

A rearranged outfit defeated the Republic of Ireland 3-0, well enough to gain the players a chance for selection against Spain. A 17-man squad has been short-listed. Inclusive touring, including practice games, is under way to breed familiarity and confidence.

'Y' Basketball

The Senior Basketball House League at the "Y" played their second round of games last night with Bill Spiegel's "Crawfords" playing heads up ball to defeat Roy Jeffery's "Galloping Ghosts" 74 to 53. Jefferys led the play, scoring 26 points followed closely by two opponents Spiegel and Jones who each scored 24 points. The Crawfords were defeated in the first game of the evening by Ted Batchelor's "Orfuns" who totalled 74 points to the "Crawfords"s 49 points. Batchelor played a brilliant game leading his team scoring 30 points. Jones played well for the losing team scoring 21 pts.

A good brand of ball is being played at the "Y" every Monday night and with a few more participants another team may be started.

TO HOLD CONFERENCE

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson, who returned Tuesday from a 12-country tour, has scheduled a press conference for 3 p.m. EST today.

It may be that Matthews, named 77 times for England, is finished internationally, but a 22-year-old forward named Johnny Haynes and a few other downy-cheeked stars offer some consolation for the loss of one of the world's greatest football artists.

'Peahead' Walker Claims His Larks Softened Hamilton for Argonauts

MONTREAL (CP)—Coach Pea-head Walker gives his Montreal Alouettes a bit of credit for Toronto's upset victory over Hamilton last Saturday but predicted that will knock off the Argos in the Big Four final here this weekend.

Walker figures the Hamilton team were liself down defeating the Alouettes in the final game of the regular season the week before their sudden-death semi-final against the Argos.

"They were so danged set on beating us the week before that they played themselves out," he said. "I don't know how they figured things up there in Hamilton but they sure wanted to beat the Alouettes, maybe figured it would ruin our spirit or give us an inferiority complex.

"They shot the works, threw everything at us, and we weren't up for the game, on top of that. It didn't mean anything to our team. We had the first spot won. And it didn't mean anything to Hamilton, but they threw in all they had."

WON THE GAME

Hamilton won the game 28-6 to provide a real celebration for Eddie Bevan Day.

Walker said he figures Montreal has a better team than Toronto but the Argos still be "all steamed up" for the game.

"I hope there's a dry field, so the ball-handling will be good. On any kind of a field, I think we can beat them. But we're not going to underrate them. I didn't have the team up for the Hamilton game. They'll be up for Argos. They'll rush Dublinski (Tom Dublinski, Toronto quarterback)."

"I don't think much of this sudden-death playoff," he added. "In football, there's a lot of breaks, and anything can happen in a game. The single game plan leaves too much to luck."

Montreal expects to be at top strength for the game, with the return of Johnny Williams, their ace pass defender. Along with Williams, Walker is counting on Hal Patterson and Tom Hugo to stifle a lot of the Argos' passing attack.

TWO CHARGED IN THEFT

TORONTO (CP)—Police arrested a 33-year-old postal clerk and another man Monday night in connection with the $18,700 theft from a post office here last September.

Thomas E. Puerd, head clerk, and Edward Paczier, 30, were booked on charges of breaking and entering, and conspiracy to commit a crime.

The loot from the post office safe was in the form of cash, postage stamps and unemployment insurance stamps. Police said that at the time of the theft they found that the safe had been opened with the combination. With the intention of concealing the act, the thieves had hammered away the dial.

Plante Leads League Goalies; Sawchuk Next

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK (CP)—At one time or another, just about every coach in the National Hockey League can be counted on to call a press conference and say:

"I don't care if he never wins the Vezina trophy—my goaltender is the best in the league."

The chances are that the reporters, who may have watched the goaltender let in five goals the night before, will walk away saying that the nice thing about their coach is that he always sticks up for his boys.

But there's also a good possibility that the coach is not far wrong—and that there are statistics to prove it.

The Vezina trophy winner, officially the NHL's top netminder, is the no., who plays the most games for the team with the fewest goals scored against it. If the season ended today Jacques Plante of Montreal Canadiens, who has allowed 26 goals in 17 games for a 1.53 average.

SAWCHUK SECOND

Terry Sawchuk of Boston Bruins is close second with 1.60 goals a game against him in 15 starts. Far behind are Detroit's Glen Hall, 2.12, New York's Lorne Worsley, 2.40, and Toronto's Harry Lumley and Chicago's Al Rollins who are tied at 2.71.

If you tally shutouts, they stack up in about the same order. Plante has five, Sawchuk four, Hall three, Rollins-two and Lumley and Worsley one apiece.

So if New York Ranger coach Phil Watson were to make the "best in the league" statement about Worsley, he wouldn't appear to have much of a case.

Of course, he could argue that Worsley stopped 40 shots in racking up his shutout at Toronto Nov. 3. No other goalie in the league has handled more than 36 for a whitewash job.

Statistics compiled by The Canadian Press show that Worsley has had 40 or more shots fired at him six times in 15 appearances. Rollins four times in 17 games, Sawchuk and Lumley once. Plante and Hall have yet to face that many drives in an evening.

Avatus Stone Named Winner Russell Trophy

OTTAWA (CP)—Halfback Avatus Stone, Ottawa Rough Riders' 60-minutes-a-game strong man, today was named winner of the Jeff Russel Memorial Trophy, awarded annually to the Big Four Football Union's most sportsmanlike and valuable player.

The 25-year-old former all-American from Syracuse University, in his third season with Ottawa, was recently named a defensive halfback on the Canadian Press Big Four all-stars, picked by newspaper men and sports broadcasters.

Two players from each of the four teams were nominated for the award by their teammates. Final selection was made by the five governors of the Interprovincial Rugby Football Union and the league's 12 game officials—referees, umpires, judges of play and head linesmen.

Near-Zero Weather Greets Eskimos, Blue Bombers In Important Battle

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

TEEPEE TONIGHT

The TPT's came out of the battle of Cornwall licking their wounds and vowing ice vengeance (goals, that is) when they clash with the Colts in Memorial Arena Friday night. They should be at near full strength on Friday night for Bob Wilson will have served his three-game suspension and his return to the defence corps will be greeted by cheers all round. Bill McMaster and Sammy Mulholland, added and abetted most ably at times by Gus Leonard, have done a noble job holding down the defence chores during Bob's absence, while another welcome addition to the troops is Bob Taylor.

Keith MacDonald received a blow in the eye that saw the optic almost closed in that Cornwall fracas, while Chum Fryia collided with the goal, causing a leg injury. Chum had the member X-rayed in Peterborough and it is believed the Peter player will be ready to go tonight.

Tonight the TPT's clash with the fast-skating Terpees from St. Catharines in what should be an outstanding exhibition of hockey. The Tetps are the first junior "A" club to show their wares here since Joe Primeau brought his St. Michael's Majors here several years ago when junior "B" hockey was trying to gain a name for itself in the village. The St. Kitts' club are raised one of the speediest aggregations in the junior circuit and they boast a galaxy of beardless stars that alone are worth the price of admission.

Bobby Hull, Point Anne youngster, the first district youth, along with Gerry Goyer of the Guelph Biltmores to make the Junior ver, the third game will be seen in a Teepees' uniform. Incidentally Bobby scored the only goal for the Teeps when they ran into an 8-1 setback down Quebec way the other day. Goyer has been going well, too, for the Bilts and has three goals and some half-dozen assists to his credit already.

AND AWAY THEY GO!

This is the week of the "big moment." This is the week that sees nearly six hundred puck-hungry youngsters toss tie lie in the teeth of those who have said that organized sport is the bane of existence for the moppet brigade.

The old man's pocketbook in many a household has taken a beating during the past ten days or so, for junior must have skates, shin-guards, shoulder pads and in general the greater part of the paraphernalia worn by big brother in his hockey jaunts. Skates have been sharpened, new sticks have been purchased. Uniforms from last year, if they have not met combine through summer wear, have been retrieved from the mothballs, in a number of cases darned and repaired—and all is set for the winter's activities that get under way starting in the main tomorrow night.

"Red" Doran, Mel Richards, Harry Rollins, "Beiler" Lloyd, Neil Hallam and all the conveners and coaches have been going the speed the past few weeks readying their rosters and preparing schedules. It is estimated that some 23 youngsters will form the roster of each minor hockey club and if possible all will get the chance to perform on the ice.

Thursday night, starting six o'clock, the squirts and midgets start the season's activities, while bright and early Saturday morning the bantams and peewees tee off for the big adventure. The peewees will inaugurate their season on Saturday starting at 7.00 a.m. and run through three games. The bantams take over at nine o'clock for their trio of pastimes. The rosters and schedules have been, or will, be published later in these dales.

And here's a tip to parents. The OMHA has again instituted its insurance plan and it behooves every "poppa" to take advantage of it. It only costs a dollar per player per year. Give the money to junior's coach and he will see that it gets to the proper source.

SOFTBALL

This is the night the softball gentry gathers around the festive board at the Shrine Club to celebrate the climax of a highly successful season. John Brady, Oshawa, president of the OASA; Ernie Simpson, past president, and other rotfball luminaries will join Belleville District League president Cy Barriage and his cohorts in a salute to three Ontario champions, Belleville Bobcats, Point Anne and the Madoc Juveniles. There will be presentations, eulogies and the usual championship ceremonies. It looks like a grand evening and a fitting amen to a season of proud achievement.

Cement-Hard Turf Forestalls Usual Pre-Game Predictions; So Cold, Anything Can Happen

By JIM PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

EDMONTON (CP)—The immediate football future of Edmonton Eskimos and Winnipeg Blue Bombers now is in the fickle hand of Fate. So say the coaches.

"I sure hope we can do it," says coach Frank (Pop) Ivy of the defending Grey Cup champion Eskimos. "But anything can happen in weather like this. You just can't predict anything."

"Sorry," says coach Al Sherman of Blue Bombers, "but I've got no predictions. It should be a good ball game. Otherwise you can't tell what will happen."

Ivy and Sherman sized up the situation in separate interviews here on the eve of the second game of the best-of-three Western Interprovincial Football Union final.

ESKS CAN END IT

Eskimos won the first game 29-6 on a frozen, snow and windswept field at Winnipeg last Friday afternoon. Tonight Esks seek the victory that would send them into the Grey Cup final at Vancouver Nov. 26. Victory tonight would also give them two straight triumphs over Bombers in the WIFU final, in which the two clubs are meeting for the third consecutive year.

Ice-floating conditions is a must if they are to stay alive. Should they win, the third game will be played here Saturday night.

As for weather, the forecaster sizes it up like this: Temperature just above zero, wind light to negligible, the sun out, snow.

Clarke Stadium's grassy turf is hard as cement. There is no ice or snow on it, but cleated boots have little traction on the solid surface, frozen by a week of below-zero weather.

ONE INJURY

Heathwise, both clubs are reported AI. Eskimos have one man on the sick list—Jim Quondamatteo, a husky 220-pound guard, who is in hospital with a back ailment, possibly a recurrence of an old injury. Bombers report no serious injuries.

Coach Ivy sent his Eskimos through a 1½-hour drill at the stadium Tuesday night, polishing offensive and defensive plays. The players turned out in running shoes and sweat suits, reinforced with several sweaters, parka hoods and gloves. Many wore woolen face masks to keep out the biting cold.

Bombers flew into frigid Edmonton Tuesday night and most of the players went to a movie. No workout was scheduled.

After Eskimos' workout, Ivy sat in the dressing room shaking his head.

"This weather is rough, awfully rough to play in," he said. "Anything can happen under these conditions. You just can't predict a thing. There might be a lot of fumbles and a lot of passes dropped. It's so cold out there anything can happen."

ROYALS WIN

MONTREAL (CP)—Third-period goals by centres Phil Goyette and Cec Hoekstra gave the Montreal Royals a 3-1 victory over the fourth-place Quebec Aces before 2,400 Quebec Hockey League fans Tuesday night.

The win moved the second-place Royals to within one point of the league-leading Shawinigan Falls Cataracts, who were idle.

Mercurys Whip Indians 6-2; Bulldogs Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Stratford Indians' hold on second place in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A race was being threatened today.

The Indians were whipped 6-2 by Owen Sound Mercurys Tuesday night in a game that left the winners only three points behind the second-place Stratford club.

It was the fourth setback of the season for Indians and they still are two points off the pace set by the league-leading Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen. Stratford has 14 points.

In the only other OHA engagement of the night, Windsor Bulldogs defeated Chatham Maroons 4-3 before 1,388 fans at Windsor.

At Owen Sound, Roy Leckie fired three goals for Indians and one another to lead Mercurys to victory. Leckie, Jack Taylor and Vera Gardiner formed a potent line for the Mercs and the move paid off.

Taylor, who had been playing right wing on another line, was shifted to centre and earned four assists, Gardiner helped on two goals.

Other Owen Sound goals went to Tom Jamieson, Buck Forslund and Bill Hunter. Bitsy Fleck and Dinny Flanagan tallied for Stratford.

In the Windsor-Chatham game, George Gee scored two, second-period goals for Bulldogs to beat an early 2-2 tie.

Jim Connelly cut the margin for Chatham late in the third period and was robbed of the equalizer in the last moment on the game on a sensational stop by goaltender Bruce Dale.

Chez Warchol and Reg Abbott gave Bulldogs a 2-0 lead early in the first period. Chuck Chalmers and Graham Joyce evened it up.

Ottawa Fans Want Clair As Coach

OTTAWA (CP) — A group of sports writers and broadcasters was reported plugging for former Toronto Argonauts coach Frank Clair to take over as head coach of Ottawa Rough Rider coach Chan Gurney. They want Caldwell retained as a public relations man.

The group, headed by Ed Hunter, Ottawa lawyer, and Noel Kerr, an Ottawa businessman, hope to put the suggestion before the capital's Big Four football club within 48 hours.

"Clair proved his class as coach with Argonauts," Houston told a reporter. "We believe he's the man who can keep football alive here because another strange American coach may need a full year to adjust himself to our game."

The Houston roster Clair is saying in a telephone conversation from Cincinnati, where he is assistant coach at the University of Cincinnati, that he has not been approached for the Rough Riders coaching job, vacated when the club fired Caldwell after one season.

"Certainly I'd be interested," said Clair, "I'm interested in anything which will improve my position. I'd like to get back in the Big Four because my family loves Canada after spending four years in Toronto."

Bannister Told Never Be Any Good Eight Years Later, Four-Minute Mile

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—An Oxford University track attendant had some blunt advice for a freshman in 1945:

"I'm afraid that you'll never be any good—you just haven't got the strength for it."

Eight years later, Roger Bannister came back to the same track and became the first of the human fold of men who have been the four-minute mile from the inside.

The years saved, the epic race itself, and his subsequent triumphs at the British Empire and European games are chronicled in Bannister's newly published "Four Minute Mile," (Putnams).

There emerges the portrait of an athlete, rather young man not of intelligence, who knew little about running other than that he liked it when he started 10 years ago.

He regarded it as "primarily a way of achieving a mastery over myself."

Bannister, who retired last year at his peak, held as his ideal the athlete who "was the sport and did not let it run him.

"He drank beer, he might smoke and he listened to coaches when he felt inclined.

"It is neither necessary nor desirable to spend unlimited time at running," says the lanky doctor, whose athletic philosophy is at odds with training habits followed by most modern top-notchers.

His boyhood idol was Sydney Woodersom, who retired in the early post-war period. The greatest natural athlete he ever saw, he says, was giant Arthur Wint of Jamaica.

John Landy, his Australian rival, he envied.

"He is the sort of runner I could never become and for this I admire him. Before Vancouver, he achieved a record of solo races that I could never have achieved."

Bannister, who cracked the four-minute barrier in 3:59.4 and beat Landy at Vancouver in 3:58.8, mentions a chest cold that he feared would rob him of victory at the Empire games.

That last lap was "one of the most intense and exciting moments of my life."

Bannister gives a lap-by-lap account of his Oxford race, including an outline of how he suddenly began to think on the last one, which he needed to do in 59 seconds.

"There was no pain . . . my body (with 30 yards to go) had long since exhausted all its energy, but it went on running just the same. The physical overdraft came only from greater will power."

It was only after the finishing line that "real pain overtook me."

THE Calvert SPORTS COLUMN

by Elmer Ferguson

When Jolly Jack Adams, for 29 years leader of Detroit's powerful hockey forces, swept through his Stanley Cup champions of this year, and traded off half a dozen of them including his fabulous goaler, Terry Sawchuck, many hockey fans wondered if he wasn't wrecking a great machine.

But owners and leaders of competitive teams uneasily tightened their belts and donned their armor to cope with the new Red Wing Dynasty, knowing full well that the shrewd and daring Adams makes few, if any errors in his re-building programme. Almost invariably he comes up with something better than before.

Jack Adams knows his hockey from the ground up. Late in the season of 1917-18 the Fort William native broke into the new National League with Toronto Arenas and his debut came amid stormy scenes. The Arenas were playing off for the league title with Montreal Canadiens in a 2-game series. The Toronto team won the first game on home ice 7-3.

Canadiens believed they could meet Arenas quit and overcome the 4-goal deficit on Montreal ice. Into this situations, fraught with possibility of mayhem, came the low-headed young Adams. Arenas survived a rough, slugging game, Adams scored two goals, and Arenas went on to win the Stanley Cup from Montreal 3-2.

To Adams must be attributed the success which hockey has achieved in Detroit. It is the United States capital of the hockey world, and Adams invariably has teams not only of efficiency, but color. His teams have won National title eleven times, including seven straight up to 1954-55, and the Stanley Cup seven times.

Adams is a man of many facets. Jock the Jolly can turn into a grim fighter. Conversely, he is a man of deep religious convictions and practice. He abhors foul language and once fined a player for swearing, bonused another to keep his epithets silent. Above all, he's a master craftsman in the business of building champion hockey clubs.

Your comments and suggestions for this column will be welcomed by Elmer Ferguson, c/o Calvert House, 431 Yonge St., Toronto.

Plodding African Giant Draws With Canadian Heavyweight In London

J.J. Parker Spots Potgieter Foot in Height, 100 Pounds; Verdict Draws Boos, Laughter

LONDON (AP)—Ewart Potgieter, the plodding African giant who had squashed nine previous victims, came off with a 10-round draw against James Parker of Barrie, Ont., Tuesday night in his first real ring test.

"Pottie," the nickname hung on the 7-foot, 2-inch, 325½-pound South African, had a weight advantage of 100½ pounds over the 6-foot-3 Parker. The Canadian was up to 223 pounds, his heaviest ring weight yet.

This was the bout in which Pottie hoped to show himself "a fighter and not a freak"—but he looked much like a clumsy bear as he moved around the ring.

Parker, no dandy himself, had all he could do to reach Pottie's towering chin. Next to the giant, he looked like a welterweight.

SWEPT UPPER AIR

The Canadian, a substitute for the recently retired Earl Walls of Toronto, overcame Potgieter's nine inch reach advantage with long swinging rights that swept the upper air in search of Pottie's bobbing head.

In the fifth round, Parker connected with five right hand swipes to the head, then dropped down to pepper Pottie's mid-section with straight left hands.

The 12,000 spectators, apparently drawn by the spectacle of the giant rather than the love of a fight, roared with laughter at the sight of referee Charles Davidson lifting the arms of the two boxers at the end.

The draw apparently didn't dampen Potgieter's hopes for a fight in the United States. Talks already are under way to match him against Rex Layne, a faded heavy, in Chicago next January.

THE FIRST TIME

It was the first time the 21-year-old South African has gone the distance in his 10 fights as a pro. He cut the others short, although his foes were even more obscure than himself.

Neither fighter showed anything near a knockout punch in this one. The best Potgieter could do was chop down with blows that glanced off Parker's cheeks and jaw.

Parker had a slight cut over the left eye, but it was Pottie's elbow, not his fist, that did the damage.

Pottie, who has an extra man in his corner because his body provides such an expanse to be attended, plodded out of his corner in the third and ran into a right hand thrown by Parker. From then until the seventh, Potgieter seemed bewildered. He rallied in the eighth and ninth, however, with his weight wearing Parker down.

The decision drew boos and derisive laughter from the capacity crowd at the Harringay Arena. It drew a laugh from Parker too as he went over to Pottie, reached up and patted him on the head.

The Associated Press gave Parker seven rounds, Pottie three. (Reuters called it 8-2 for the Canadian).

Parker thought he had won but admitted Potgieter "has prospects of becoming a good boxer, but obviously needs experience."

While more experienced than Pottie, Parker was not in the best of shape. It was only his fourth fight in two years.

Laufman Heads Senior Race

TORONTO (CP) —Stratford Indians hold four of the top five positions in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A scoring list released Tuesday.

But centre Ken Laufman of the league-leading Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen heads the race with 10 goals and 18 assists for 28 points.

Stratford's Billy Pilick and Mickey Roth are tied for second with 20 points each and Jimmy Flanagan is in fourth place with 16 points. Louis Bendo has 14 points for fifth place in the standing.

Indians' Don Head has allowed 30 goals in 10 games to lead senior A goalkeepers, with an average of an even three goals a game.

Bobby Gibson of Owen Sound has let in 29 goals in nine games for a 3.22 average.

Bob Forhan of Guelph Biltmores leads the junior OHA scoring race with eight goals and nine assists for a total of 17 points. Next are Pat Hannigan and Frank Mahovlich, both with Toronto St. Michael's Majors, with 16 points each.

Tommy Green of Barrie Flyers heads goaltenders in the junior A race. He has played only one game this year but allowed only three goals.

College Rules Will Be Changed Says Professor

TORONTO (CP)—Professor E.A. Allcutt, University of Toronto representative on the Canadian Intercollegiate Athletic Union, says it is quite likely" some changes will be made in the eligibility rules when they come up for revision next spring.

He said Monday night the revisions may be considered because of several protests voiced over two universities, McGill and Queen's, using quarterbacks from the United States.

Queen's, who won their first championship in 18 years this season had Gus Braccia from Temple University in the slot and Ron Carr, who came to McGill from Columbia University, was picked as the intercollegiate all-star quarterback.

Prof. Allcutt said there was no question as to the eligibility of the players, since they both enrolled in new courses at the Canadian universities. Some quarters said, however, the schools took advantage of a technicality to bring in experienced players.

Less Shoot, More Goals

New York Rangers Called League's Offensive Wonders

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK (CP) — New York Rangers, the early-season surprise of the National Hockey League, currently rate as the league's offensive phenomenon.

The second-place Rangers do less shooting than practically any team in the league. Yet they're tied for the lead in goal-scoring with the league-leading Montreal Canadiens.

Statistics compiled by The Canadian Press show the Rangers have fired only 421 shots at their opponents' nets this season and have 45 goals to show for it. By contrast, the last-place Toronto Maple Leafs have directed 547 shots on the target—league figures don't record the drives that go wild—and have scored only 26 times.

The shootingest club in the league, Detroit Red Wings, have 34 goals from 575 shots.

ONCE IN 8.4

The figures show the opportunist Rangers score once in every 9.4 shots. The first-place Montreal Canadiens rank second in accuracy with an 11.4 average from 45 goals on 511 shots. The fourth-place Chicago Black Hawks count once in every 13.4 tries and third-place Boston makes it once in 13.5.

Detroit has a 16.3 average and Toronto trails with 21.0.

The effect of the Rangers' accurate marksmanship on their place in the NHL standings is underlined by the fact that their opponents have outshot them by a wide margin, 563 to 421, yet have scored only 36 goals to the New Yorkers' 45.

On the other hand, the Red Wings have a top-sided 575-433 shooting edge over their opponents and Toronto's margin is 547 to 430, yet both clubs have been outscored by their opposition.

The offensive statistics, showing games played, shots, goals, and average shots per goal:

	G	S	G	Avr.
New York	15	421	45	9.4
Montreal	17	511	45	11.4
Chicago	17	483	37	13.4
Boston	15	418	30	13.5
Detroit	17	575	34	16.3
Toronto	17	547	26	21.0

Turpin Arrives For Legal Fight

NEW YORK (AP) — Randy Turpin, Britain's former world middleweight champion, arrived on the Queen Mary Tuesday to contest a $100,000 damage suit.

Attorneys for Adele Daniels, a New York Negress, said a $100,000 damage suit alleging assault and battery had been filed against Turpin in Supreme Court and that it was on the court calendar for next Monday.

Two years ago Miss Daniels brought assault charges against Turpin, alleging that the British Negro fighter beat her before and after he fought Carl (Bobo) Olson for the world middleweight title. She withdrew her charges, however, when Turpin sailed for home, Nov. 4, 1953. Olson defeated Turpin.

AT THE McCARTHY — Three's a Crowd! Joanne Woodward (left) is shocked to find Van Heflin with Allison Hayes in Columbia's "Count Three and Pray," at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre, on Thursday. They co-star with Phil Carey and Raymond Burr in the Caya Production in CinemaScope and color by Technicolor.

AT THE BELLE — Three of a Kind — George Sanders casts a baleful eye on the gallantry exhibited by Stewart Granger toward the former's wife, Joan Greenwood, in "Moonfleet," romantic thrill-packed suspense drama. Also seen in the MGM Cinema-Scope offering are Viveca Lindfors and Richard Hylton, and Jon Whitely, star of "The Little Kidnappers". A funny Tom & Jerry Cartoon is an added attraction.

Plane Relays TV from Cuba But Live Show Unimpressive

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—The optimistic prophets of television frequently talk of regular transoceanic TV as an inevitable innovation of the future. Doubtless it will happen, for no technical problem seems insurmountable these days.

Viewers of "Wide Wide World" (NBC-TV) had a brief glimpse of it last Sunday when a pickup from Havana was technically successful on American TV screens. An air-plane flying in horizontal figure-eights more than two miles aloft served as the relay station bridging the 220 miles of water between the Florida mainland and Cuba.

The pickup was far from being an intimate view of Cuban life, however. Its spirit failed to match the pioneering spirit displayed in the technical aspects of the event.

When trans oceanic television becomes a reality life obviously for live TV techniques will have to demonstrate their superiority over film. Once the novelty of the event wears off, television must show the public that cameras on the scene of an event in Europe, for example, convey an immediacy and excitement that is lost on film.

The Havana pickup on "Wide Wide World" was incidental to the program's theme of youth on a Sunday afternoon. Under the guidance of Dave Garroway and, once saw, among other events, Ohio high school students holding a football rally, a choir of Indian children, a demonstration of horsemanship in California youths, an ice show by kids in Toronto.

As a result, there was a staged effect that "Wide Wide World" has avoided thus far. Youth simply fails to speak for itself naturally and convincingly when it has to speak on cue.

From now on I'm going to keep my fingers crossed for trans-Atlantic TV. For one and another reason I'd missed seeing this Sunday evening feature from start to finish until the other night, when along came a television edition of Bob and Ray, Mr. Herbert's Broadway play, "A Girl Can Tell."

"A Girl Can Tell" is a pleasant bit of fluff, but as played by a distinguished cast it is good entertainment. Diana Lynn is my personal nomination for one of the best actresses on the TV screen today. Among actors, so are William Conrad and Fay McKenzie.

Gary Cooper Is No 'Yep' Man, Proves He Can Say 'Nope,' Too

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Talking up a storm, Gary Cooper denies he is merely a "yep" man.

This shatters another Hollywood tradition. Cooper is supposed to be the town's worst talker. A conversation with him is reputed to be the closest thing to a monologue, with Coop supplying only an occasional "yep."

The question was put to him point blank: Is he just a "yep" man?

"I don't think so," he replied. "I like to talk—when I have something worth talking about.

CAN SAY "NOPE" TOO

"Besides, 'yep' is a pretty positive word. You can't get by in this business if you say 'yep' all the time. You've got to learn to say 'nope.'

"For instance, I didn't do a picture for a year between "Vera Cruz" and "The Court - Martial of Billy Mitchell." I guess I read between 50 and 60 scripts. I turned them down.

"The majority of the scripts that are sent to me are westerns, and most of them are bad. They might be good for somebody, but they are things I have done before.

"I'm the kind of a guy who has to do new things. I don't have enthusiasm for what I'm doing. I give a lousy performance. That isn't good."

See—he guy can talk! As a matter of fact, he's pretty good at a pretty good clip, if he's interested in the topic.

Cooper said the "yep" situation became attached to him after he did an interview for a radio show in which he spoke only the affirmative monosyllable. Actually the legend has grown because of the tight-lipped heroes he has played on the screen.

He had some observations on the present movie scene.

"It's hard to find pictures nowa-

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Thursday, November 17, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Jupiter and the Moon's fine positions favorably influence personal achievement, sound money matters and other durable ventures.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — No really unfriendly aspects but in some instances, artistic and personal affairs may require patience and astute judgment. Sound business, finances, your occupational duties favored.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Generous influences for useful, purposeful enterprises, trades, industry, mechanical matters, foods, measures, surgery, dentistry, chemistry and research in beneficial fields.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Excellent influences for education, study, teaching, government, civil defense and interests relating to the public. All worthwhile activities can advance.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — This day especially favors conferences-seeking legal advice, holding meetings for worthwhile purposes. It is also stimulating for progressive methods and sound business matters. Good influences.

August 23 to September 23 — (Virgo) — Don't be too slow, timid or conservative to grasp advantages, progressive suggestions now. Advice to Gemini pertains to you, too.

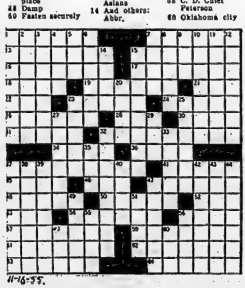
September 24 to October 23 — (Libra) — Be aggressive, astute for fresh attainment. Today inspires the doer. Add a new, perhaps unique, touch to even daily routine. Have system and don't waste time on unessentials.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — Physicians,, brokers, lawyers, judges, merchants, employees in all branches of labor or business and skilled mechanics are urged to go forward now. Invigorating influences.

November 23 to December 22 — (Sagittarius) — This day's planetary aspects should liven up your ambition and eagerness to attain more than just the usual. Your jupiter is in auspicious position for your specific interests.

December 23 to January 21 — (Capricorn) — You should be keen and more astute in judgment now. Resourcefulness, clever management, new ideas, and promoting worthwhile endeavors all encouraged.

January 22. to February 20 — (Aquarius) — Some tasks may come harder than others now but keep in mind that this day has friendly Jupiter, Moon and Neptune aspects; they incline toward achievement, progress and contentment.



February 21 to March 20 — (Pisces) — Very propitious influences. Undertake as much as possible, without straining health, even though you may not be able to complete all today. Get started promptly.

You born today have well defined characteristics: are independent, fond of outdoor pleasures and the good things in life; have good judgment and astute business sense yet may tend to procrastinate. You can truly succeed in any occupation if you give it steady, rather than sporadic, attention. Heed the value of system and consistency; apply them to your everyday endeavors. You have fine capabilities. Make proper use of them. Birthdate: Geo. Groie, English historian.

Orillia Boy, 2, Dies After Arm Hurt by Wringer

TORONTO (CP)—A two-year-old Orillia boy died in hospital here today, four days after his right arm was crushed in an electric clothes wringer.

Mrs. W. Miller of Orillia said her son, Tommy, got his arm caught in the wringer, as he was playing while she was wringing out clothes. Before she could free him his arm was crushed up to the shoulder.

She said Tommy was taken to a doctor for first aid. The next day he went to hospital here after his arm was released. His condition got worse Tuesday night and he was taken to hospital.

Coroner Dr. Julian Loudon is investigating.

TENNIS STAR ARRESTED

SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (AP)—Frank Kovac, 35, internationally known tennis star, was arrested on county jail Tuesday night on $2,000 bail. Detective Sgt. Edward Moorenghi said Kovacs had been picked up on a charge of molesting an eight-year-old school girl.

DESERONTO

C.W. League Sponsors Fine Bazaar

DESERONTO — The Catholic Women's League held its annual bazaar on Wednesday afternoon in the Legion hall, where Mrs. Gregory Gordon, president of the league, gave a warm welcome to the guests, who later wended their several ways to the enticing displays.

Pouring tea during the afternoon was Miss Agnes Martin. The table looked lovely with its white linen cloth, centred with a crystal bowl of yellow and white mums, flanked by two silver candelabra with yellow candles.

The small quartet guest tables were arranged with white cloths and centred by small baskets of white and yellow mums.

The convener of the tea Mrs. Edward Ewing was assisted by Mrs. Anson Lord, Mrs. Tyrell, Mrs. Albert Hick, Mrs. John Gartland Sr., Mrs. J. Graham, Mrs. Ted Murphy, Mrs. Parcell, Miss Cassidy, Mrs. Terry Whalen and Mrs. R. McKee.

The home cooking table, convened by Mrs. Ed. Roach, assisted by Miss Nora Fox was well stocked with home-made buns, fancy small cakes, cookies, raisin and date squares, jam tarts, chocolate cakes, angel food cakes, pumpkin pies, lemon, raisin and apple pies, loaves of fancy candies, all most tempting, and all sold very quickly and boxed for the eager and waiting purchasers.

VARIETY OF APRONS

The apron booth was convened by Mrs. Alex. Therrien and again drew a goodly crowd with its nice variety both in materials and colors and styles. There were a few all-over aprons in pretty print and gingham, also the half aprons of organdy and frilla, embroidered in dainty designs to please everyone's taste.

The miscellaneous table was convened by Mrs. Joe Roach. Here anyone might purchase anything at all, tiny tots' wear and those of older years. On display were baby mitts, bonnets and tiny booties, bonnets and sweaters, bibs, bolsters, towels embroidered, of all colors and size, tea towels, washcloths, fancy pillow cases, fancy serviettes and holders.

WHITE ELEPHANT

The white elephant table was in charge of Mrs. James Lawrence and was kept quite busy.

Mrs. R. McKee's table was also kept busy selling tickets on two beautiful decorated cakes, which were won by Mrs. J. Graham and Mrs. Audrey Gray.

Mrs. Ernie Dorey was in charge of the tickets for the draw and the lucky winners were: Mrs. Ralph Bolden, Mrs. Ernie Dorey, Mrs. Dimmell, the tablecloth; case of cokes, Jim Sherman; cost of stock, corn-cut gravel. Phone Mel Hartsiger, WO 8-4454. J20-tf

The most attractive bazaar and delightful tea, bringing appreciation to its convenors, and to all others whose assistance made it a fine success.

Little Benny's Notebook

Pop was reeding his paper and ma was reeding hers, saying, Well, William, it's happened, but as we thought it would. Mr. and Mrs. Spindle are suing each other for a divorce on the grounds of incompatibility. Here it is, in my paper, she said.

It's probably in mine too, but I don't know how to look up said, and I said. What's incompatibility? Docs it mean they haven't got enough money? I said.

No, it means they both want to talk and neither one will listen to, pop said, and ma said,'To put it in a single sillable, it means they fite.

How is it you and ma never file, pop? I said, and pop said, That's a very good question, and the very good answer is, it's because I have the good sense to keep my mouth and the wordly wisdom to realize that your mother is always right.

G, is that true, ma? I said, and ma said, It is, dear boy, but in another way the real reason is, a woman's intuition.. is her best weapon. I always trust my intuition.

What's that, ma? I said, and pop said, That's another good question, and I'm as eager as you are to know the answer.

Then I'll tell you both, ma said, in a sentence. Intuition tells me that your father is only human, and it's only human to be wrong, so when he happens to think nothing of it and refuse to pay the slightest attention to it, so most of the time your father blissfully doesn't even know he's wrong, and nothing makes a man happier.

So there you have it, Benny, in 2 nutshells, the essentials of the feminine, pop said, and I said, Oh boy, I bet you and ma will never have enough incompatibility for a divorce.

Which I bet they wont.

Italian Vessel Is in Distress

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—A coast guard cutter sped seaward from Argentia, Nfld., today to the aid of an Italian freighter in distress. A heavy wind and snowflurries, with rain, rain, kept planes on the ground.

The 7,031-ton Dea Marzella radioed for aid from a spot about 150 miles off Cape Race, on the southeastern tip of Newfoundland. She reported an explosion had occurred in her coal cargo, loaded at Sydney, N. Sc., for Britain.

BIG FOUR

Any progress toward a solution of the vitally important disarmament problem, and toward eliminating East-West barriers to trade, travel and uncensored information also has been trumped between the rigid positions of the two great power blocs.

As Foreign Minister Molotov, Premier Bulganin, Nikita Khrushchev Secretary Marshall Zhukov and Minister Pinay began the last day's heavy schedule of work they were even uncertain that they would receive any normally routine questions.

They did not know whether they could agree on a final communique admitting their differences and spotlighting the differences on which they approached some mutual understanding.

Also they did not know just what they would say about holding another Big Four foreign ministers' conference.

The round of closing speeches was expected to sum up the position of each side, and lay the groundwork for the propaganda battle made certain by failure of the conference.

The Western Big Three were reported completing a declaration of their position in case of the failure to bring a German settlement nearer.

They agreed among themselves that they would not commit themselves to the new proposals made with Molotov next spring on the German question.

The Russian foreign minister wound up the Tuesday session with an indication that he is eagerly awaited agreement on some kind of statement about European security.

Tuesday night Molotov, in what could be his final bid for some show of unanimity on security, fell back on the proposal that the four powers agree on a statement setting forth principles governing a European security treaty which both sides already had described in general terms.

These included renunciation of force, joint action against aggression, denial of assistance to an aggressor, creation of an East-West buffer zone in central military power, consultation and recognition of the right of self-defence.

But the Western Big Three said the list did not express the western viewpoint but merely corresponds on German unification.

SULTAN

The 41-year-old sultan took off from Karachi airport bound for the same four - engined plane that brought him from his exile in Madagascar to Karachi a week ago. A party of French dignitaries saw him off. The sultan's three wives, nines and household servants followed in another plane.

In a gesture of goodwill, French authorities announced before his departure that the nationalist daily, El Alm (The Banner), will be allowed to operate again. It was banned three years ago.

The French also released more than 1,100 political prisoners, and cancelled the curfew Tuesday night.

FINDS ROBBING

He plugged in the hammer—and it went up in smoke. The bank's voltage was 220, while the hammer's was 110.

Shocked, scorched and dismayed, he determined to salvage something for his trouble, Willey shook out all the desks in the place and came out with precisely 17 bob in silver.

INTERESTED

Wearily loading his tools he then started to walk home. A passer-by came along and the police became interested in him. Willey should be carrying 135 pounds of tools on a bicycle in a furtive manner.

Fed up with crime, Willey readily confessed.

With good behavior he will be back digging up those streets around the middle of 1960.

Don Newcombe Wants $30,000 Next Season

By ED CORRIGAN

BROOKLYN (AP)—A scowl on his face and a chip on his shoulder, Don Newcombe arrived in town today to talk contract with Brooklyn Dodgers.

"I'm asking for $30,000 and that's exactly what I'll settle for," said Newcombe, apparently still bitter over the 12½-per-cent he was forced to take last year.

Brooklyn vice-president Buzzy Bavasi was the unlucky official assigned the task of talking to Newcombe, a fellow who was armed with some pretty impressive figures.

He compiled a 20-5 record last year, hit .339, his seven home runs to break the National League record for pitchers and went 21-for-eight as a pinch-hitter for a .381 NOT BACKING DOWN

"I expect a fight and I'm not backing down one bit," he continued. "I'll sit it out into the spring if I have to. When you have a lousy season, they give you the ultimatums. I had a good season. Now I'm giving the ultimatums."

Last season, Newcombe got $17,500, a $2,500 increase for a .381 figure he collected in 1953. Now he plans to get even and Bavasi will have a hard time trying to cut his demands.

"Bavasi practically threw me out of his office last year," said Newcombe. "He told me then that if I didn't take the 12½-per-cent cut, he'd keep sending me contracts calling for $1,000 less each time until I got the full 25 per cent cut they're allowed to give you.

THOUGHT LEGIT

"Maybe Buzzy will throw me out of his office again like he did when I asked for more last season. I thought I had a legitimate argument then, and I think I have one now," Newcombe said. "That's about—you like your reasons and they like theirs."

The hurler's name has popped up in trade rumors since the end of the world series but he suspects they're designed to panic him into signing.

"I don't care where they send me," he said. "I'll still be in the big leagues."

He put a $27,000 price tag on his services and $3,000 on his hitting abilities.

"I pinch hit while other guys who get paid for pinch hitting sat on the bench," he observed.

THE LATEST THING

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—This city now has one chrome-plated street fire hydrant, replacing one that was painted yellow—like all the others—in front of the home of Fire Chief Courtney A. Smith. Dr. Courtney thought the yellow one too unsightly, and negotiated with the city water and fire departments to send the hydrant to a plating company. The job cost him $200.

Plante Seeks Sixth Shutout Against Leafs

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Unlike many coaches, Toe Blake doesn't tell his goaltender how to do his job. His reason is simple. "I never played goal myself."

Blake's only time Blake came close to giving an order to Jacques Plante of Montreal Canadiens was when he asked Jacques to stop wandering around the rink. Plante in the National Hockey League this season.

Since Plante checked his habit of skating far out of his cage in an attempt to stop oncoming forwards he has maintained a sizzling pace in the goaltenders' race. He has a goals-against average of 1.33 in 17 games.

Plante figures he's has improved greatly because he sticks close to his net.

Another reason is that I'm not failing so much in blocking shots," he added. Tuesday night in an interview, "I used to fall a lot. I would stop the first shot all right but I had no chance of getting the rebound because I would be down on the ice."

Plante has registered five shutouts with the leagueleading Canadiens so far this season. He'll be out to make it No. 6 tonight when the Montrealers clash with the last-place Leafs at Toronto.

In the one other engagement, Detroit Red Wings, in fifth spot, meet the second-place Rangers at New York.

Sport in Brief

SUBMITS RESIGNATION

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Claire Englewin, president of the troubled Pacific Coast League, said Tuesday he had submitted an "open and" resignation to the league's directors.

"They can act on it today, tomorrow or any time," Goodwin said.

Goodwin succeeded Clarence (Pants) Rowland as league president last year. He was and has been criticized during his short regime. He is a former chain grocery executive.

ABANDON PLAN

WINNIPEG (CP)—Frank Townsend, secretary of the Manitoba Summer Sports Association, said Tuesday the association has abandoned its plan to seek a recount of elected Tuesday night of monib's commercial Sunday sports referendum because the group had "no legal grounds."

Commercial Sunday sport was voted in by a margin of 1,000 in Oct. 26 referendum. More than 2,000 ballots were rejected because the words "Yes" or "No" had been written on the ballots, instead of the prescribed "X".

Four Are Burned To Death In Hull Blaze

Victims Trapped As Fire Sweeps Frame Building

Six Taken to Hospital, Some in Critical Condition

HULL, Que. (CP)—Four persons, including two children, died today after being trapped in a raging fire that destroyed a three-storey frame building housing five families.

The five-hour blaze, which sent seven other persons to hospital, one in critical condition, was fanned by a high wind with gusts up to 40 miles an hour. Firemen, hampered in their battle by temperatures ranging down to 26 degrees above zero, rescued several persons from the building at 124 Montcalm street. Neighbors helped others escape.

The dead:

Carmen Parent, 28; his daughter, Diane, 4; Yvonne Bellisle, 9, and Lucien Deziger, 40.

In hospital with burns and other injuries:

Mrs. Monique Parent, 26, with burns covering 60 per cent of her body; George Parent, 5, with face and arm burns; Mrs. Treffle Bellisle, 57, mother of Yvonne, with face, arm and back burns; Georgette Bellisle, 30, with face and neck burns; Diane Bellisle, 13 with face and arm cuts and face and body burns, and Joseph Bellisle, 34, with cuts and burns to body and arms.

The alarm was given by Prosper Bisle, 25, who noticed the flames as he returned home from work. He saw his four-year-old mother and his blind, deaf, dumb and crippled sister, Georgette, silhouetted against a background of flames.

Bellisle was joined by Eugene Blondin, a second operator of a restaurant next door, and between them, in two trips, they brought Mrs. Georgette and Dianne who jumped one by one from second-storey windows.

Constable Raymond Roque, 21, of the Hull police force suffered injuries when George Parent jumped from a third-floor window and landed feet first on his chest.

Blondin suffered a deep gash on his arm when he cushioned Georgette's fall.

An inquest into the deaths was adjourned by Dr. Gerald Brisson, Hull coroner, pending an investigation by Hull authorities and the Dominion fire marshal.

Deputy fire chief Emile Beaulieu described the blaze as a "real inferno". Damage was estimated at about $60,000.

The fire, which left 33 persons homeless, started on the second floor and spread to the third storey. Snow was on the roof immediately.

THREE-STOREY JUMP

Mrs. Parent jumped from the third floor and landed on a parked car. Besides serious burns, she suffered multiple fractures and internal injuries.

Andre Bellisle, 34, who occupied the third floor with his wife and family, said that when he awakened the smoke was so thick "it almost choked me." He, his wife and children were taken down a ladder by firemen.

Capt. Napoleon Lebeur, of the Hull fire department, suffered a deep arm cut while fighting the flames.

Firemen Paul Laramee jumped from the third floor when the snow-covered ladder slipped, but was uninjured.

Lost Five Days, Husky Hunter Loses 40 Pounds

STURGEON FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Jean Baptiste Daly, a giant of a man, set out deep in the veiled and ended up losing 40 pounds in a five-day wilderness ordeal.

He got his deer but couldn't eat it.

Daly, a husky 240-pound miner from Blezzard Valley, Ont., became, in turn, a hunting expedition with a friend 30 miles north of Sturgeon.

Searchers Wednesday stumbled on him huddled for protection beneath a pile of shrieking birds. His clothing was gone and he was dying of seeking a way out of the bush.

Rescuers said the 43-year-old Daly had eaten nothing. He managed to shoot a deer but had no matches to start a fire.

"I cut off a raw steak and tried to eat the meat but found that I couldn't," Daly said. "I chewed it from time to time."

Officials at hospital in Sturgeon Falls, 30 miles west of North Bay, said Daly was in remarkably good condition. He was allowed to go home after examination.

Daly, who works for the International Nickel Company, was employed by Ernest Robert of Sudbury when they became separated. For three nights he managed to build a fire to keep warm. Then he ran out of matches.

Tuesday he saw a search plane overhead but was unable to attract the pilot's attention. Finally he crawled under a pile of brush to keep warm.

A search party, led by Alfred Jackson, chief fire ranger at Field, Ont., missed hearing Daly the first time it searched the area. When the men backtracked to check on one of their cars they heard Daly's cries for help.

TO SURVEY JAMAICA

KINGSTON, Jamaica (CP)—The government of Jamaica has obtained the services of Graham F. Towers, former governor of the Bank of Canada, to make a survey of the island's economy, it was announced Tuesday. The survey is being undertaken to a view to developing the island's economic development.

'I Would Not Disturb Any Britons Except Those in Toronto' Says Hope

HOLLYWOOD (Reuters) — Bob Hope said Wednesday he is "mightily surprised" at criticism of Canada of his television program Tuesday night in which he had joked about Princess Margaret's romance with Group Capt. Peter Townsend, former governor the broadcasting Corporation said it had some protests about the show.

"I'd like to say to any anything derogatory about Princess Margaret," Hope said at a press mount Studios where he is making a film.

"She's a good friend of mine. If Princess Margaret had seen the show I feel sure she would have got a big kick out of it. I would certainly say nothing to offend her in any way."

Being an Englishman myself, I mightily surprised" at criticism of British subject — except maybe those in Toronto, they disturb easy."

The National Broadcasting Company, which carried the Hope show to Canada, came to his support. Studio officials pointed out that Hope not only joked about Princess Margaret, but about President Eisenhower, Sir Anthony Eden, General Motors (Hope's sponsor), and himself.

The comedian told viewers: "Up

CATTLE TRAIN BURNS AFTER STRIKING CAR

Several Hundred Head Perish in Flames

SUTTON, Ont. (CP) — Several hundred head of cattle were burned to death in a shattered freight cars today after a Canadian National Railways train collided with a truck at a level crossing.

Police said railway members of the train crew were injured in the engine.

Brakeman Hugh McMaster of Toronto was taken to hospital in Orillia, 22 miles north of here, with concussion, internal injuries and a possible broken leg. Engineer James Forbes and fireman Harvey Cox, both of New Toronto, were treated for minor injuries. Conductor Ken Willes was not hurt.

Ken Smith and Brian Lee, in the cab of the truck, were uninjured.

FIRE BROKE OUT

Witnesses said the train engine flipped back into the telescoped cattle cars and fire broke out in the wreckage. Flames, fanned by a 45 mile-an-hour wind, shot 100 feet into the air and the blaze was still blazing four hours after the crash.

Police shot 16 head of cattle because dying driven back by flames and 150 head escaped.

They said most of the train crew was in the caboose and not hurt by the collision. About 30 cars at the rear of the southbound train remained on the tracks. All southbound traffic on the rail line and on Highway 48 was blocked.

Iran's Premier Is Wounded By Fanatic

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—Premier Hussein Ala was shot and wounded by a fanatic today in the Shah mosque in central Tehran. A spokesman said later, after Ala was hospitalized, that the condition was not serious.

Ala had removed his shoes, in accordance with Moslem custom, and started to walk across the carpeted floor when the gunman stepped up to him, said a few words and then fired.

The premier, 72, accompanied by the Shah, was in the act of attending the mosque to mourn the death of Mostafa Kashani, son of Ayatollah Kashani, Iranian religious leader.

Bryson C. Reid Sworn In To Fill Unexpired Term Of Alderman Jane Forrester

Ex-alderman Bryson C. Reid was sworn in as an alderman this morning to fill the unexpired term of Alderman Jane Forrester, who announced Monday that she would not seek re-election.

Mr. Reid was sworn in at City Hall at 9.30 a.m. by acting city clerk Mrs. Anne Haggerty.

Mr. Reid, who came to city hall Wednesday evening to be sworn in and was told it was after hours, returned this morning unattended.

Mrs. Haggerty said in a telephone interview with The Ontario Intelligencer at 1.00 p.m. today that Mayor Baulk told her earlier in the week to notify Mr. Reid that he would fill out the unexpired portion of Alderman Forrester's term.

"Mr. Reid was notified to that effect from my office," said Mrs. Haggerty. "Alderman Shannon said he came to city hall after hours and I wouldn't swear him in."

According to regulations in the Municipal Act, when the seat of a member of council is rendered vacant by the resignation of a member of council for the purpose of contesting the mayoralty the seat shall remain vacant and till the next ensuing annual election, when it shall be filled in the manner provided by this act for any special act which may be applicable except that the person then elected to fill the vacancy shall hold office only for the remainder of the term for which the person who vacated the office was elected to such office."

The regulation was published in Tuesday's edition of The Ontario Intelligencer.

"I pointed out the article in the paper to Mr. Reid," said Mrs. Haggerty. "I told him there might be repercussions. I asked him to see his personal solicitor and the city solicitor."

"But following a precedent that applies to two aldermen sitting on the present council I didn't think I could withhold swearing him in if he wanted to be sworn in," said Mrs. Haggerty.

Aldermen Arthur Keegan and Baram Humphrey, both of this council as appointees to fill out the unexpired terms of Arthur Bateman and Robert Temple, respectively. After sitting on council for 1½ years Alderman Keegan was elected in 1953 for a two-year term.

Alderman Humphreys, who finished eighth in 1954, was appointed last year to fill the unexpired term of Alderman Robert Temple who resigned to run for mayor.

Mr. Reid, to this the late Urias "Sandy" Lummiss sat on council after being appointed to fill an unexpired term of a retiring council member.

"If the procedure was wrong in the past then it is wrong today," said Mrs. Haggerty, "and it was right in the past it is right today."

"As acting city clerk I felt I had no alternative but to follow the procedure that has set out in the past. I am aware there is an election coming and I am aware of the consequences."

"I simply followed a procedure that has been followed three times in the past and which applies to two men in council now," said Mrs. Haggerty.

Mrs. Haggerty said she had contacted city solicitor Robert Pringle, Q.C., but gave no details of the conversation.

The only persons present in the city clerk's office when the swearing in ceremony took place were Mrs. Haggerty and Mr. Reid.

Alderman Reid's right to accept and the office girls were in the office," said Mrs. Haggerty. "Mr. Reid definitely came in by himself."

It is expected that the private set of 1948 which governs the rights of aldermen in cases like this does not provide for allocation of duties of councillors who resign before their terms are complete may have to be interpreted by a judge.

There is also a possibility that Alderman Reid's right to accept a council seat may be challenged in the courts because of overlapping. This challenge, which can be brought by any public person, is the authority by which a member holds office.

East and West Squaring Off For New Round of Cold War

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

GENEVA (AP) East and West squared off today for a new round of the cold war.

Public statements at the Big Four foreign ministers' conference Wednesday left no doubt that the struggle, concentrated for three weeks in the Palace of Nations here, will be a propaganda battle, a widge conflict of international politics and psychological warfare between Moscow, Washington, London, Paris and Bonn.

The foreign ministers' conference ended with the spirit of Geneva, Wednesday left no doubt that the "spirit" conference here, torn to tatters. There was no decision to hold another session.

Each side blamed the other for the total failure of the talks to produce any constructive agreements on German reunification, European security pact, atomic disarmament and the removal of the Curtain between them.

After polite but tough exchanges in a final session that lasted 3½ hours, the foreign ministers began pulling out of Geneva to plan the next moves in the cold war struggle.

State Secretary Dulles headed for Washington aboard President Eisenhower's plane. He was scheduled to report on his trip direct to the president at the Eisenhower farm at Gettysburg, Pa.

It was learned that Dulles planned to tell the president that despite the setback to achieving anything substantial at the top conference, he believes Russia eventually can be brought to accept a German reunification on Western terms.

Toll Roads Are Inevitable Legislature Committee Says

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario legislature's select committee on toll roads says the toll method of financing highway improvements in the province appears inevitable.

Agreement came out of the committee's study Wednesday of a highway department report on three proposed toll highways in western Ontario and one member's argument for the toll method.

John Yaremko, Progressive Conservative member for Toronto Bracondale, told the committee construction of new super-highways cannot be financed out of current provincial revenues.

He said such highways should be toll roads because "the motorways do not indicate tolls would discourage them entirely, any tolls, however small, would help pay for the roads and release revenues for other road work, Mr. Yaremko said.

John Roberts, Progressive Conservative member for London, endorsed the idea. He said:

"I still like to build the roads that are needed we have to charge for it, it is not necessary that these tolls pay for the highway in any specific number of years."

Earlier the committee heard a highway report which said three of seven provincial routes studied are potentially capable of supporting toll highways.

The report said traffic justifies toll highways between Toronto and Windsor, Toronto and Fort William and Toronto and Ottawa. The Toronto-to-Hamilton route has a potential traffic volume that could justify a toll road.

PEARSON SAYS SMASHING NATO RED OBJECTIVE

USSR Plans No War 'Not Anxious to Suicide'

OTTAWA (CP)—One of Russia's primary objectives is to smash NATO, External Affairs Minister Pearson says.

He told a press conference Wednesday that the negative results of the July Four conference at Geneva and what he learned in Moscow have confirmed the impression of keeping NATO strong and united.

He suggested next month's meeting of the NATO council would afford Western nations an opportunity for developing policy toward Russia, being careful not to forfeit Soviet policy as fixed or final.

12-COUNTRY TOUR

Mr. Pearson, who returned Tuesday from a 6-day, 12-country tour, including 10 days in the U.S.S.R., said:

"I went off to Russia convinced that one important reason for the relaxation of international tension that seems to have taken place is that NATO is built up and strong. I believe even more now that nothing should be done to weaken NATO strength and unity."

At the same time, Mr. Pearson said, the West should not withdraw into a shell because of the Geneva deadlock but should explore every diplomatic avenue for possible agreement with Russia.

"The Russians want it's worth, Russia is not planning aggressive war against the West . . . they are no more anxious to commit suicide than anybody else."

NOT SURPRISED

Mr. Pearson said he received a cordial welcome at Geneva conference, which ended Wednesday, didn't surprise him.

The Russian leaders had told him in Moscow that they would accept Geneva conclusion on the West's terms but not to be too discouraged; Geneva was just the first meeting and it would take a long time to reach solutions.

Mr. Pearson said Communist party boss N.S. Khrushchev — "a man who speaks with great frankness and who has had a diploma of the old school"—had told him that the first thing Canada could do is to get out of the North Atlantic Alliance.

Mr. Pearson said he had tried to convince the Russian leaders that NATO is a purely defensive arrangement.

"I got the view that I made any impression on anybody," he added with a wry grin.

He said the Soviets were "receptive" to the idea of a trade agreement which is built up at Geneva "but I have been made clear to them that they would have to take agricultural products from Canada and that Canada's list of boycotted strategic materials must be a subject for negotiation. What Russia might get from Canada hadn't been mentioned."

Bullnose Bertie and Horrible Harry Rub Elbows With London's Elite

By HAL COOPER

LONDON (AP)—Wealthy and socially prominent Londoners rubbed elbows with some of the toughest hoods in the London underworld Wednesday night at a champagne party tossed by Billy Hill, self-styled "boss of London's underworld."

There were guests with names like Bernstein the Boy, Bullnose Bertie, Horrible Harry, Odd Legs Allen, Sam Ferryboat Kaye, who had faces to match the monikers. Knife scars and smashed noses were prominent.

Guests from higher up on the social scale included motor racing scion Sir Bernard Docker and Lady Norah Docker, and Henry Sherek, one of London's leading theatrical producers, and his wife.

The party was held on the second floor of a restaurant in the tough Soho district. A good time was had by all, the police were not called. But today some London newspapers were filled with indignation.

Hill, who admits spending 17 of his 44 years in prison, gave the party as "scandalous and shocking" in a newspaper article. "Here we are heading for, an Al Capone empire in London."

In his book, Hill claims to have built his knowledge of the world of crime crimes in Britain during the last decade. He says he ruled the underworld for five simple success of working his rivals over with his knife.

"I was always careful to draw my knife down the face, never across or upwards," he explains. "Always down, so that if the knife slips you don't cut an artery."

Hill, dark and handsome despite three razor scars on his one face, made a little speech to his guests.

"I write this book," he said, "as a lesson and warning to young starters that crime does not pay."

Gale-Force Winds Sweep Ontario; Mercury Drops

At Least 2 Die in New York As 5 Inches of Snow Falls

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

High winds with gusts up to 30 and 60 miles an hour Wednesday night left a trail of crippled trees, fallen power lines and loose signs over most of southern Ontario and Quebec.

Weather officials said the gale-force winds, accompanied by freezing temperatures, followed a storm from Lake Superior.

No fatalities were attributed to the storm but eight dock hunters and two of their would-be rescuers were reported missing in Lond Point bay on Lake Erie.

Police said the men set out at 1:30 p.m. on Wednesday and may have taken shelter from a storm in Lond Point reserved bird.

Two vessels ran aground in the Detroit river as water levels fell before the wind and shipping was halted in the Welland canal.

Toronto police reported no major damage but more than 300 calls piled up on police switchboards in general. About 100 power lines were said down in that area and residents in some areas of Montreal were without power for 45 minutes.

The winds added to hazards of snow and rain in Quebec City and traffic was tied up on ice-slick streets.

Explosion Rocks Kingston Plant

KINGSTON (CP)—An explosion in a giant safety switch rocked a downtown power plant early today and left most of the city in darkness for more than an hour.

Chief R. H. Hay of the public utilities commission estimated damage at $7,500.

Police said the blast in a 44,000-volt breaker resulted from a contact overload, probably caused by high winds swinging two lines together. Repairs were expected to be completed today.

Court Docket Shows Results Of Crackdown

Court summonses issued by Provincial Police during the recent crackdown program ordered by Attorney General Kelso Roberts are beginning to show up in the court docket with quite with a long list of traffic offenses on the list for this week.

Nineteen speeding charges appeared on this morning's magistrate's county court docket with other traffic charges running all the way from drunk and careless driving to failure to stop and operating a vehicle without a tail light. All but one of the speeders settled out of court, paying fines ranging from $8.00 to $22.50.

But the big bulk of traffic summonses issued since the crackdown began in the Quinte area will be returnable to next week's court docket. Already a long list of such charges has been assigned for next Thursday's court.

Sgt. R. H. Deverexx at the Belleville O.P.P. headquarters noted today that one car out of every five checked during road checks on highways fail in some way to meet with the safety requirements.

Instructions range all the way from ordering to have lights in proper working order to had the muffler and the bolts on the driver to notify the department of a change of address.

The officer said it was a bit early to tell how the checkup campaign is working in the area. "I don't rate but he was certain it would mean an overall improvement.

Whether or not it is through coincidence the accident rate in the Kingston area during the past week-end has been sharply reduced, while in the Belleville area there has not been a serious accident in the past four days.

Teacher Says Child Would Fall Asleep

TORONTO (CP)—Mr. and Mrs. David Cleverdon, charged with child neglect, Wednesday heard a teacher tell the court that their eight-year-old daughter—who died a year ago—continually fell asleep in class.

Mrs. Coral Wynne, a public school teacher, said Patsy Cleverdon would seem very interested and the father told her: "If Patsy falls asleep, just leave you to strap her."

The Cleverdons are charged with failing to provide the necessities of life for Patsy and her sister, Patsy died in Toronto's Hospital for Sick Children shortly after admission a year ago.

Dr. P. J. Ashmore said her injuries could have been caused by falling down stairs several times. Patsy had been treated for convulsions and she was "acutely ill" during a short emotional or pathological degree" and her left forearm was broken.

Mrs. Wynne, in her evidence, said Patsy had the ability "but not the health or strength to do her work." Patsy was taken to hospital by her mother Oct. 31, 1954. She died the next day. The trial continues.

Royal Bank Appoints New General—Manager

T. H. Atkinson K. M. Sedgewick

The Royal Bank of Canada announces the retirement on pension of T. H. Atkinson, Vice-President and General Manager. During his 44 years of service Mr. Atkinson has risen from a junior clerk in Newcastle, N.B., to the distinguished executive post he now relinquishes. His decision to retire at pension age is in keeping with his conviction that the arduous duties of General Manager make it undesirable for one man to occupy the post for a protracted period and that way should be made for younger men at the highest executive level. Mr. Atkinson will continue to serve on the bank's Board of Directors.

K. M. Sedgewick, succeeds Mr. Atkinson as General Manager. He has been Assistant General Manager since 1949, and for the past four years the chief administrative officer in Toronto of the bank's affairs in Ontario. Mr. Sedgewick will assume his new duties on December 8th, the date on which Mr. Atkinson's retirement becomes effective.

City and District Lashed By High Winds, Damage Light

Belleville shuddered this morning as gales up to 60 miles per hour lashed the city.

The wind, which blew up around suppertime last night, is expected to continue until at least nightfall today.

Temperatures plummetted as the cold westerly wind gathered momentum.

At midnight last night, the mercury was in the 30's. This morning it hit a low of 23.5 degrees while before noon a cold 31-degree atmosphere lay around the city.

Property damage, surprisingly, was lighter than might have been expected in winds that blew at near-hurricane force at times. One reason for the absence of falling trees in and around the city probably is that most of the trees unable to stand against such a wind force were toppled in a similar blow earlier in the summer.

One of the first reported victims of the big blow was the Provincial Tire Company premises at the north end of Front Street. About 8 a.m. the company's street sign was wrenched from position to crash through the front plate-glass window of the premises.

City power lines also escaped lightly. Only report of damage to hydro wires this morning was of a tree limb falling against a pole on Bleecker and Victoria avenues, bringing down a power line.

Two TV aerials, one on Front Street, the other on Bridge Street East, were toppled by the wind.

Also on Front Street, a roof hatch was torn from the top of the old fire hall, to crash onto a parked car in the street below. Damage to the car, owned by R. Tripp, 207 Pine Street, was $75.

A metal container was blown from the roof of a Front Street Hotel and crashed on the fender of a parked car below.

Outside the city snow was reported to be falling in Wellington area of Prince Edward County. The Belleville entrance to the county along the Bay Bridge Road was covered in slush as fierce winds whipped the waters of the Bay of Quinte over the causeway. Ice clung to the guide wires of the bridge, as temperatures dropped in the face of the cold westerly blow.

At Trenton big sections of the roof covering on the new $600,000 Trenton High School were blown off by the force of the wind, big trees were blown down carrying away hydro wires.

At Consecon, 13 miles south of Trenton, windows were blown in by the gale.

Trenton air station meteorological officers said gusts of wind rose to 72 miles per hour. The wind was expected to last throughout the day and to die out some time tonight.

NOT SIMPLE — BUT NO IDLE DREAM

Hon. George A. Drew's recent speeches have had one central theme — the desirability of Canada processing a greater proportion of her own raw materials and exporting a smaller proportion for conversion into manufactured products in other countries.

No sensible man will dispute that such a development would increase the wealth of the nation. The question at issue is not whether such a course is desirable but whether it is practical.

There's critics maintain that it is not. "It is indeed a golden dream," says the Oshawa Times-Gazette. "But it surely a dream."

The Oshawa paper maintains that if Canada banned the export of raw materials and had them processed in this country, other countries "would be much more likely to seek other sources of raw materials and Canada would be left holding the bag, with manufactured products and no markets for them, particularly as manufacturing costs in Canada are much higher than in other countries."

The statistics suggest, overlooks several pertinent facts. Nobody would be so foolish as to suggest a wholesale ban on the export of raw materials. But we could try to encourage that export when it appears possible they might be profitably processed in our own country, if proper encouragement was given for the establishment of processing plants here. Countries which found the flow of raw materials from Canada dwindling would certainly seek other sources of supply, rather than resorting to buy the finished product from us. But the reason why we export so much raw materials is that Canada is the cheapest source of supply. Cost would be a factor even in the home market of nations which now buy our raw materials, let us not forget, all of our raw materials, when processed abroad, are not consumed in the country which processes them. Some are exported. Countries which buy these goods must have reason to spurn Canadian-produced goods if the price were right.

The Oshawa Times-Gazette says it would not be right, that "manufacturing costs in Canada are much higher than in other countries." But, if lack of cheaper Canadian raw materials forced other countries to increase their prices for finished goods, this difference in cost would be reduced. If we did get a share of the export market now supplied by other countries, with our raw materials, our increased production would tend to reduce manufacturing cost. Success would be slow, but every gain would make it easier to close further the gap in costs.

Nobody will suggest that this can be achieved in a day. The suggestion is not that we should attempt what is not already being made to achieve it. Canada has made giant strides in recent years in processing more of her own raw materials. The question is not whether this is desirable, whether an effort is being made, but whether sufficient effort is being made, whether there is more that could be done.

One thing, though, does appear reasonable. If Canada exports essential raw materials, which she is not at present equipped to process in sufficient volume to meet her needs for the national production, she should at least could insist that the country processing her raw materials be willing to sell to Canada a reasonable proportion of the manufactured product. That is not unreasonable. If Canada sells iron ore to the United States, she should have some priority in the purchase of steel from the U.S.

ARGENTINE CONFUSION

Never expected to be mourning the fall of President Juan Peron of Argentina—not so soon after the event, anyway. But that development in Buenos Aires, following Gen. Juan Jose Uranga has replaced Gen. Eduardo Lonardi as president of Argentina, make one thing painfully apparent. It has now become increasingly difficult to follow the events in Argentina without a program—and the book appears to be peddling programs with guaranteed authentic information. Thus one is at a loss to know whether one should cheer or boo the latest to be flashed over the wires of the latest governmental upheaval. Things were simple in Peron's day. Then one was at no loss for a reaction. If Peron was for a thing, it was 99 per cent safe to be against it—and vice versa.

HARD ON THE PARENTS

Out in Vancouver, Santa Claus has already arrived—but not for a flying visit but to take up his abode there until Christmas.

Mary McAlpine of the Vancouver Sun thought that the old gent's appearance in November might create some problems and set out to make inquiries. According to her, everybody seems to be happy about the whole affair.

"There's nothing wrong with Santa coming early as long as the parents are good at answering questions," said one father.

There is nothing wrong with the rack and the thumbscrew, either, so long as the victim finds them comfortable.

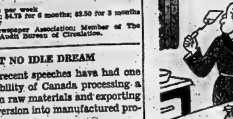
BEAUTY

The beauty of a lily and the beauty of a face
Make bright a gloomy corner and exalt the common place.
But there's nothing shines so bright in all the world of human need
As the beauty and the glory of a kind and thoughtful deed.



There are lovely things to look at; there's the blue sky and the sun,
And the hill tops in the distance and the works that men have done.
But the best of God's creations in this world of joy and smart
Are the helping hand of service and the big and generous heart.

Not on canvas or in marble, or in flowers which bloom to fade,
Or in lovely skies which vanish are the lasting beauties made.
They make bright the dismal places, but the kind and cheery voice
And the heart that is unselfish make the weary to rejoice.

There is beauty in a lily, and there's beauty in the hills.
There is beauty in the blossoms wet with dew the morning spills,
But the richest, lasting beauty which this world forever needs
Through its days of tribulation, is the beauty of our deeds.

Major Archdeacon G. R. Beamish, rector of St. Thomas' Church, and chaplain of the 15th Argyll Light Infantry, was presented with the Colonial Auxiliary Forces Officer's Decoration, the Green Ribband, during the service in St. Thomas' Church on Sunday morning at which the regiment was present. Col. S. R. Lazier, late the senior officer present, placed the decoration upon the breast of the Archdeacon and in a few remarks praised him for the excellent services he has rendered and expressed the wish that he might be spared to serve the regiment. The Archdeacon thanked Col. Lazier for the presentation. There was a large turnout of the regiment, also the Cadets and Girl Guides in uniform.

Chemler G. Howard Ferguson will open the high school commercial department here on Nov. 27 and will present the "war memorial scholarship" to the student who obtained the highest marks in the recent matriculation examinations.

40 YEARS AGO

November 17, 1915

Mr. M. T. Adamson of Toronto, an old Belleville boy, is spending a few days in town.

Miss Manning the Eagle in Colonial, Mr. R. Glenn Patterson, K.C., M.P., of this city, gave a delightful dinner party at the Dunham House in honor of Mr. Justice Sutherland, Judge Rogers and all members of the bar in attendance at the court.

Last evening the city brigade was called to Kerr's boat house, south Front Street; a lighted lantern dropped accidentally set fire to a boat. The damage was small.

From our file copy at this time in 1895: "West Bridge Street from the top of Murney's Hill to the fair grounds is about the worst street in the city; the mud on it at present is several inches deep.

50 YEARS AGO

November 17, 1905

Mr. P. J. O'Rourke of Trenton was in town Sunday.

Messrs. Marshall Vanderwater, Milton Hubbs, Percival and Gilbert Roblin returned home last evening after hunting in the north country. They were fortunate with them three fine deer, the total weight of the three being 610 pounds.

Mr. Corby Offers Library Building: Mayor Charles N. Bell, man has received a letter from Mr. H. Corby, ex. M.P., in which he states that Mrs. Corby and he desire to present to the citizens of Belleville a public library building and if the city will supply the site and undertake to maintain the property in a satisfactory manner they will give the sum of $10,000, for the erection of a suitable building. This is, indeed, a very generous offer and the kindness of Mr. and Mrs. Corby is much appreciated. Mr. and Mrs. Corby will leave shortly on a trip to Egypt. (Note 1955) The kind offer of Mr. and Mrs. Corby was gratefully accepted and the original plan to erect a building, was discarded and Mr. and Mrs. Corby by unfortunate Mr. Merchants Bank building and remodelled it for a public library. The Merchants Bank moved its offices to the north corner of Bridge and Front Streets and eventually it was amalgamated with the Bank of Montreal which now occupies the premises.

Mr. Byron Hudson, late of the staff of the Corby Company offices, has purchased the hardware business formerly conducted by the John Lewis Company. The Lewis Company will continue to operate the heating and plumbing department in the adjoining store where these departments are now located.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Friends of mine recently went on a trip to Europe for eleven weeks: Britain, France, Switzerland, Italy. They made careful planning for the excursion. From travel agencies, from their friends, from travel books they bought and borrowed, they worked out every detail to the last hour and the uttermost mile. They left me, along with other friends, a series of itineraries which showed exactly where they would be, say, at 3 p.m. November 21st at 8 a.m. December 11.

They had hotel reservations from start to finish. They had a car hired in Calais, France, fourteen weeks before they were to call for it. They had their return home tickets in the left hip pocket of their trousers.

George is their eldest son.

Well, it so happens, they won't be home on that date. They will be a little late. They've gone Egypt. They have seen the light.

The wife got an attack of dysentery on the ship going over—a good thing it was, too. You would never dream of catching dysentery on it. But catch it she did, and they had to lie up in London a whole week, while she got her strength and spirits back. However, they were determined to see Scotland, and, though their itinerary and reservations were all shot to pieces, they went to Scotland for three days and stayed sixteen. Why? Daddy slipped on a cobblestone in Inverness, pulled a ligament in his knee. So they wired Calais and cancelled the car.

A letter yesterday gives me this news:

"We think you put a curse on us. But you were always dreary about a trip in detail. We are now in Australia, where we didn't plan to go at all. We have adopted the plan of not deciding where to go next until we have reached where we are at any time. We are having the time of our lives. It's simply wonderful. We are staying at a little place instead of big. We skipped Paris and saw Marseilles briefly. Five nights out of each week, we have stopped at places where nobody ever heard of. We saw France, not Paris. We are going to see Italy, and Rome. Bits hold on, that's planning. We may see Rome, but it will be by accident. We don't know when we will be home, maybe for Christmas, maybe not. We'll telephone you when we get back."

And by golly, I will be glad to hear from them. It will seem like the same old story they will have to tell me, the cobblestone and all my other travelling friends have to tell about all the families' places.

Era of Omnipotent Oom

(By Walter Mesdried in the Milwaukee Journal)

Newspapers recently carried brief obituaries of one Peter Coon, alias Pierre Barzani, alias Oom the Omnipotent, who began his life as an Iowa farm boy and, in the 1920's became a New York society leaders to such an extent that he wound up a millionaire.

By turns he had been a swami, a guru, a yogi, a philosopher and a supreme flimflam artist. The twenties went down the chute of time as a garden variety of fool but they left a memory that refuses to fade. It was, in the last decade of relatively untroubled fun and excitement of minor events that seemed big.

For example, seven hoodlums massacred on St. Valentine's day in Chicago stirred up a tumult of excitement.

After the twenties came the drab, depressed thirties; then the war years and finally, now the atomic age of anxiety.

People no longer young look back to the twenties for comic relief. Oom the Omnipotent was only a minor part in the era of flamboyant screwballs — Alvin (Shipwreck) Kelly, Aimee Semple McPherson, C. C. (Cash and Carry) Pyle and his transcontinental walkathon, Ring Lardner, Connolly, who created the second Dempsey-Tunney fight by carrying a ladder and posing as an electrician.

Forget the twenties, indeed! The Scopes "monkey trial" in Dayton, Tennessee, starring Will William Jennings Bryan on evolution — is even now the subject of a Broadway play and movie, "Inherit the Wind". It was Darrow, Bryan's opponent, who defended Leopold and Loeb from the chair.

Yes, they had bangup murder trials in that era. Ruth Synder, jailed for the murder of her husband by means of chloroform, was the first woman ever electrocuted for tapping Mr. Synder with a sash weight. The murder of Pastor Hall and his partner in sin, Mrs. Mills, has not been glorified romantically. Nor the "pig woman", Jane Gibson, Queen of Greenwich Village, who is almost immortal.

The Sacco-Vanzetti trial and conviction continue to be forgotten, too. For seven years the case dragged on until Mr. Fuller declared that executions in 1927 on a charge of killing a paymaster. Many citizens were outraged that they were convicted of being anarchists rather than murderers.

It was also the era of the Ku Klux Klan and boobs parading about in bed sheets.

More than 30 years have passed since Charles Ponzi swindled Boston gullibles out of two million dollars, and his name is still a synonym for swindler. Almost people shrieked over Terry Carlisle's of Los Angeles, reached her height of notoriety when she disappeared for five weeks and asserted she had been kidnaped. It was later learned that she had been vacationing with a radio operator.

Floyd Collins, trapped in a Kentucky cave, became the object of hurling which the nation followed every detail of his tragic plight.

Rudy Vallee, then a obscure ukulele pilot, astounded the world by crying into a mike in New York City in May, 1927. Few indeed, have been the news stories to equal it.

The vigorous charleston was the dance of the twenties. It was also made a slight comeback recently! But it was supposed to be the dance of "jazz age" at its most vehement. F. Scott Fitzgerald was "jazz age" at its most vehement. F. Scott Fitzgerald was the twenties' literary spokesman. His phase, and his tales are still popular. "The Great Gatsby", "Tender is the Night", "The Young and Beautiful", is based on Fitzgerald's stories.

"Flaming Youth", a novel of that period which became a movie, was supposed to capture the spirit of those uninhibited times. Young people passed in cars rolling recklessly to pavilions were featured in many movies.

The Ziegfeld Follies brought peak stardom to the two greatest per-formers in film history, Chaplin and Garbo. That, too, was the era of Rudolph Valentino, the impassioned "sheik" whose death in 1926 caused grief in countless women.

Prohibition began with the 1920's. Speakeasies, whisky right off the "boat", "Legs" Diamond, Al Capone as its most sinister symbol, were prominent luridly throughout the decade. Books are still being written about them.

It was in the 1920's that sports became the huge panorama that we know today. Tex Rickard, the big scale fight promoter, introduced the million dollar gate. Fresh water colleges, previously unheard of, blossomed out with vast stadiums.

The most athletic heroes of that decade are still better remembered than most of their successors: Jack Dempsey, whose knockout of Luis Firpo has been voted by sports writers as the No. 1 sports event of the 20th century; Red Grange, the "galloping ghost" in football annals; Bobby Jones, the only golfer who ever achieved the "grand slam", which means victories in the American and British open and amateur championships; Bill Tilden, tennis champion; Jack Dempsey, the champion home run hitter, and Man o' War, the invincible race horse.

During this era Fio Ziegfeld reached his pinnacle in producing girl glorification revues.

The songs of the twenties were as good as any decade has supplied: "Yes, We Have No Bananas", "Red Boat", "The Desert Song", "Rio Rita", "The Student Prince", "Show Boat", "Sweet Adeline", "Shortnin' Bread", "Tea for Two", "Indian Love Call", "Rose Marie" and many that endure from the pens of Rodgers, Youmans, Gershwin, Berlin and Kern.

Radio entered the homes of millions of Americans in November, 1922. The early owners of crystal sets were known as "fans" and Roxy, Davenport, Iowa, direct, and the Coon-Saunders band of Kansas City were the first radio orchestras to broadcast regularly. Every day I am getting better and better" Today by Coue, was the book psychology.

The oft wed Peggy Hopkins Joyce was the glamour girl of the era. The 1920's that the frolicsome Tommy Manville began his 10 marriages and with syndicated quips. Queen Marie of Romania came over in 1926 and was the most publicized of friends by her beauty and jewels.

Edward Browning, a middle aged New York millionaire, married Peaches Heenan, 16, were married in 1926 and separated six months later. Peaches got $100,000 money in the separation hearings which not be used in the newspapers.

The twenties could reach a new low for a decade. After sleeping peacefully for 33 centuries, King Tutankh-Amen's tomb was found, humed, and he became the rage. The King Tut motif dominated the dress, decor, parties and stage stardom.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

IF YOU BELIEVE

What a multitude of useful happenings are the result of faith. No worthwhile enterprise is possible without it. Hope and faith and men have clung as an assurance that victory would be their's.

Many of the discovery and development of this Western Continent is a glorious story. Scarcely more than a hundred and fifty years has this vast Canadian and American territory been discovered, forests cleared, towns and cities established, transportation systems brought to full fruition. Much of this developmental work has been almost miraculous and faith always has a way!

Real failure cannot touch the person who is imbued with—the spirit of faith. If you really believe, you dedicate all that you are to the thing about, which you have wrapped all your determination, your courage and your faithfulness. You are your cheering radiates. The faith of the great is always contagious.

Believe in what you have been marked for success, and you will be amazed at it. There is no capital so effective as an enthusiastic faith in the enterprise to which you have decided to devote your life. A profound belief dismisses all fear and doubt. The man of one who has decided to make the most of his life.

If you believe, just think of all the things and people that may yet be defeat you in your purpose. But faith can hold you steadfast. It has also the fine power, time and time again, and it will work as well for you—if you have faith and keep it alive and active.

Many have been the disappointments and setbacks of us all, but we can always rely upon faith and belief to carry us through all emergencies—and to inspire us to go forward fearlessly knowing that this faith will not desert us!

Gloomy Suggestion

One of the more cheerless suggestions for going a man out of bed in the morning is a clock radio which would awaken him with a brief broadcast on current unemployment statistics.

Personal Health Talks

British Medical Research Is Not Subsidized

Some readers will recall, I hope, the piece or pieces in this column telling about the conclusions reached by the British Medical Research Council after several years of study and experiment on human volunteers, that ordinary everyday "exposure" to cold dampness, drafts and "insufficient" clothing has nothing to do with an individual's susceptibility to the C R I (the English investigators have not adopted this term, but you know what it means, don't you, huh?).

There is a significant difference between British and American medical research. No British group is subsidized from obscure sources; no British foundation is financed from obscure sources; no British foundation and study of the literature, with a view to provide answers. There are no "grants-in-aid" to scientific investigators, to say nothing of the gullible Yankee public, per-sist in calling "the common cold." The difference is that British scientific research. American expenditions just fade away and are never again heard from.

From time to time I have expressed here my honest opinion of the "research" conducted by certain foundations and by other agencies. Some of them are financed by people who have a direct personal interest in selling "the common cold," has made an extensive, pains-taking study of the effects of sugar on the teeth of children. The report of this study is a monograph of the Board of Sugar Supplements on Dental Caries in Children by Dr. J. Lee May Mellanby, H. H. Stones and N. M. Green—names that command respect—indicates that a high consumption of sugar or had no significant effect on the growth of decay.

sweetened beverage, but such food will not sustain one who depends on it as his main source of calories in the diet over a period of time, as many people do.

The unhappy child who is permitted to drink pop whenever he wishes becomes dull, inactive and irritable or peevish between drinks. This is attributable, not to the excessive intake of sugar, but to malnutrition. The child's diet is deficient in protein—the indigenous, albuminous part of milk, eggs, meat, fish, cheese, peas, beans, nuts, peanuts, whole wheat (from which nothing has been removed), oats—the food material which is essential for repair of wear and tear, building new tissue, growth.

When more than half the daily calories are derived from refined carbohydrate (starch and sugar or items in which these are the main ingredients) it is almost certain that lack vitamins and minerals which are essential to build and maintain health and efficiency.

The same British Medical Research Council that quietly launched, carried on and completed the study of "the common cold," has made an extensive, pains-taking study of the effects of sugar on the teeth of children. The report of this study is a monograph of the Board of Sugar Supplements on Dental Caries in Children by Dr. J. Lee May Mellanby, H. H. Stones and N. M. Can Now Cook In Umbrella

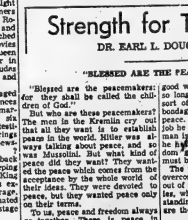
(Saint John Telegraph-Journal)

Don't be surprised if you see someone using a umbrella to cook hot dogs and other picnic items on the beaches next year. Dr. Jacques Du Pre, of New York, a solar specialist, has invented a solar cooker he calls an "umbrella."

Built like an umbrella—which indeed it is, about four feet in diameter, it is made of aluminized mylar, a new synthetic with a mirror finish. The ribs and handle are of aluminum. It weighs only a few pounds and when folded can be carried and stored easily in a car. Unfolded and set directly facing the sun, it becomes an aluminized mirror - reflector with a parabolic curve in it.

This device reflects the sun's rays from the entire 10-foot-square area into one small spot, about ninth sq-wife.

Texas Guinan, queen of the night spots, used to greet customers frankly: "Hello sucker." Will Rogers, the cowboy philosopher of vaudeville rope spinner, reached peak of his fame in the 1920's.



Edward Browning, a middle aged New York millionaire, married Peaches Heenan, 16, were married in 1926 and separated six months later. Peaches got $100,000 money in the separation hearings which not be used in the newspapers.

The twenties could reach a new low for a decade. After sleeping peacefully for 33 centuries, King Tutankh-Amen's tomb was found, humed, and he became the rage. The King Tut motif dominated the dress, decor, parties and stage stardom.

Too Proud To Be Clean

(Detroit Free Press)

The National Institute of Dry-cleaning says 95 per cent of the stains removed from vests and neckties are caused by gravy or coffee spots. Cleaners say they can make that statement without fear of losing business. So the roughly has the sensible practice of tying a napkin around one's neck been modified so that it is sure to stamp the occasional blotter as a compliment. We all laugh now while describing the poor boob during dinner conversation that was dribbled gravy over our unprotected ties and vests.

reaches 450 degrees and on a light grill across it can be laid the food to be broiled. So that if or if a container is provided, broiled.

Only drawback, of course, is you need a sunny day.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL I. DOUGLASS

"BLESSED ARE THE PEACEMAKERS"

"Blessed are the peacemakers; for they shall be called the children of God."

Who are these peacemakers? The men in the Kremlin cry out that all they want is peace and peace in the world. Hitler was always talking about peace, and so was Mussolini. But what kind of peace did they want? They wanted the peacemaking which comes from acceptance by the whole world of their ideas. They were peacemakers, but they wanted peace only on their terms.

To us, peace and freedom always go together. There is peace in Russia today—the police state sees to that. There was peace in the world when Jesus was born, but it was that peace of heavily armed legions marching across the world. The Bible speaks about peace and says that it exists among men of good will. There can be no peace so long as a man's life is in any sort of bondage. It is also in bondage to his creditors, he has no peace. If a man is in bondage to a job he hates, he has no peace. If a man is in bondage to his appetite, he has no peace and freedom go together, and freedom must be seasoned with good will.

The peacemakers are those who overcome evil with good, who go to the root of human problems and lives, who build bridges of understanding between peoples. Blessed are the peacemakers.

Dramatic Reality Depends On Proper Costume

Speaking at yesterday's meeting of the Belleville Theatre Guild at Queen Victoria School, Miss Merry dug deeply into her well stocked store of theatrical experience and produced a most interesting and instructive talk on the subject of stage costuming.

In emphasizing the great importance of costume in creating or destroying dramatic reality, Miss Merry cited numerous instances in which an otherwise good play had been lost by the incorrect dressing of either a single character, or, on other occasions, the essential rightness of the costuming has added immeasurably to a play's impact, as for example in the Stratford Festival presentation of the "Taming of the Shrew." Miss Merry quoted a case in which an experienced actress had succeeded in stealing the limelight from a younger and more attractive colleague by discarding the costume selected for her, and substituting a much more striking creation, incidentally altering the whole emphasis of the scene.

MALLEY COMPANY'S VISIT

During the business meeting which preceded Miss Merry's talk Robert Tanner reported on the visit of the National Ballet Company of Canada which the Guild had sponsored, and paid tribute to the members of his committee, which he dubbed Tanner and Co., and as co-conveyer.

Don Thomas and Stuart Robb had organized a most successful sale of tickets, involving the two innovations of reserved seats and small orders, both of which had been well received by the people of Belleville and the surrounding district.

Boyd Upper and Mary Moult had co-operated on a well laid out and effective publicity campaign, while Court Miller single-handedly produced an attractive and profitable program.

Under the direction of Eve Benger, Guild members acted as ushers and handled the capacity audience with expedience and dispatch, and Margaret Arnott was the committee's able and efficient secretary.

Last but not least, Jules Abramsky as treasurer had handled the financial side of the performance in his usual expert fashion.

Refreshments were served.

Women's Activities

HASTINGS-PR. ED. W. A.

On Tuesday afternoon, the Executive of the Hastings and Prince Edward Women's Associations of the Belleville Presbytery convened in Bridge St. United Church parlors, Belleville. A fine attendance gave evidence of keen interest in this phase of church work.

Mrs. R. C. Jackson, Madoc, led in a splendid devotional period using the Sermon on the Mount", sometimes referred to as the Charter of the Kingdom of God, as her theme.

Routine business was discussed and the president, Mrs. A.N. Fryar, reported on her findings regarding any further division of the large Presbytery. She explained what is being done in some other areas. It was decided to appoint a committee to study this situation and bring in a recommendation. Women were appointed from various areas, to meet after sufficient information has been gleaned.

Mrs. J.W. Sherry reported on the progress of the conference project, Quin-Mo-Lac, and stated that the interest is spreading rapidly throughout the Presbytery.

Mrs. Duncan Crawford introduced new pieces of literature and emphasized their value among women.

Refreshments were served and a social half-hour enjoyed.

WMS Discusses Bhil, Hindu Religions

The November meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of St. Andrew's Church met in the church with a good attendance.

The meeting was opened with a call to worship by the president, Mrs. Weir.

Prayers were given by the secretary and treasurer and there were 21 calls made during the month.

An interesting letter was read by Mrs. York, from Miss B. McMurchy, who has recently returned to her work in India.

STUDY PERIOD

The study period under Mrs. Bastow and her committee was opened with a hymn, followed with prayer by Mrs. MacLean. Mrs. Collins read the Scripture, followed with a solo by Mrs. Brown, accompanied by Mrs. Boyce.

Two of the several religions, the Bhil and the Hindu, of India, were discussed and these were ably dealt with Mrs. Barlow and Miss Mackintosh.

After the close of the meeting refreshments were served by the ladies in charge.

TEA EXPORTS

India's exports of tea during 1954-55 were valued at $307,-000,000.

St. Julien IODE Receives New Members

Five new members were received into the Chapter at the regular monthly meeting of St. Julien Chapter, I.O.D.E., held in the chapter rooms with the Regent, Mrs. L. R. Fonger, presiding. The meeting was opened with prayer of the order and the presentation of the Standard. The new members are Miss Phyllis Graham, Miss Marjory Sherman, Mrs. Ross Taylor, Mrs. G. Sucher and Mrs. J. Dymock.

Following the secretary's report of the September meeting, and an account of the October regional dinner, the treasurer gave her report and a statement of the recent bridge and fur fashion show, which showed a nice profit.

Owing to the increased number of applications from new members and introduction cards from Provincial Chapter, Mrs. E. R. Rutherford was appointed membership convener.

Letters were read from members who had received flowers and messages while confined to hospital, recently.

BURSARY PRESENTED

Mrs. G. Watkin, educational secretary, read a letter from the adopted school asking for a radio for use in the school. The chapter were fortunate in having two offered as donations from Mrs. C. Argue and Mrs. E. Doolittle. It was announced that the bursary for 1955 had been presented to Miss Joan Shoemaker at the recent BCIVS commencement exercises. Calendars were also distributed to the public schools as is the yearly custom.

Money was voted to send Christmas treats to Ongwanada Sanatorium, Kingston, and to Mrs. H. Thompson, who will look after the Christmas baskets for the aged. Volunteers were asked to do knitting and sewing and ten members offered their services. Each member brought a toy to the meeting to be packed and sent to Korea.

Commonwealth convener, Mrs. R. M. Patterson, gave an account of a recent meeting of the Historical Society, which she and Mrs. Watkin had attended as representatives of the chapter. Mrs. Patterson accompanied the Regent at the Remembrance Day services at the cenotaph, where they placed the chapter's wreath.

FINE REPORTS

The reports of the semi-annual meeting of Provincial Chapter, I.O.D.E., at Ottawa, were given by the delegates, Mrs. Gordon Vince, Miss Margaret Fairbairn, Mrs. G. Watkin and Mrs. Fred Carscallen. They are to be complimented on the fine reports they brought back. Miss Fairbairn carried the Standard in the procession of standard bearers at the meeting.

The December meeting will be held in the chapter rooms on the regular date with a pot-luck supper preceding the meeting, to be followed by a social evening.

Business of the evening was brought to a conclusion with the drawing of the lucky ticket for a wool blanket. It went to Mrs. W. R. Dawson of Campbellford. The blanket was donated by a local firm and the members were most grateful to them in helping to raise funds by this draw.

At the close of the meeting, tea was served by the hostess of the evening, Mrs. R. Daniels, assister by Mrs. K. Thompson, Mrs. Gordon Vince, Mrs. E. H. Rutherford and Mrs. Ken Davis.

CRITICIZE INVITATION

WINNIPEG (CP) — The anti-Communist Ukrainian Canadian Committee has criticized the United Church of Canada for inviting representatives of the Russian Orthodox Church to Canada, in a statement Monday. A. J. Yaremovich, committee president, and John H. Syrnick, general secretary, called the Russian Orthodox Church the "tool of the anti-Christian Bolshevik regime."

LADIES!

Now Mrs. Jones was a cheerful soul,
But when it came to dresses, she would boil,
No matter how much she scrimped and saved,
Whatever she bought, her husband would rave.
"Can't you ever buy something that is half that price?
For what you would spend on one dress,
You should find something that looks half nice.
You always look as if what you wear,
Is made from burlap and you don't even care."

Well, one day, she chanced to meet,
A very good friend of her's on the street.
"My goodness," her friend said, "why don't you see
How good and low priced clothes can be.
For smartness, style and quality too,
Winnie Van Wyck's is the place for you.
Your husband will tell you how smart you look,
And when you mention the price, you'll be tops in his books.

So now her husband has a smiling face,
And all because his wife found "WINNIE'S PLACE".

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

GOOD IDEA FOR HER TO SEND CHRISTMAS CARDS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband passed away in December of last year. Is it proper for me to send Christmas cards this year? — E.

Yes, it would be entirely proper for you to send Christmas cards this year. (1) If you feel inclined toward sending Christmas cards this year; and (2) If you choose the type of card suitable. Perhaps cards with a religious inspiration . . . perhaps cards of a conventional or traditional kind. Of course it does depend on whether or not you wish to send Christmas cards. But I think it might very well be a good and constructive idea for you, after this year since your husband passed on, to resume the friendly custom of greeting your relatives and friends at Christmas time with warm-hearted messages. Your relatives and friends, I'm very sure, will be comforted and proud to be "again remembered" with your Christmas cards.

HOW GIRL WITH KNOW-HOW MAY LAND SECOND DATE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

After an enjoyable evening date, is it proper for the girl or the man to ask for a second date? This question is very important to my girl friend and me. — Patricia M.

This is the man's privilege . . . to ask for a date. However a bright gal with alert know-how can say her appreciation of the first date with such an appealing grace that she may very well land a follow-up request for a second date. For example, she may say, with her most engaging manner, "I had a wonderful time this evening, Bob. It was great fun. What a perfect host you are. That was a delicious dinner, and you chose a grand movie. Thank you so much for inviting me." Hint: Get that important word "invited" right up in front . . . so it will, we hope, strongly suggest a second "inviting"!

GROOM'S PARENTS TO GIVE RECEPTION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Our son will soon be married to a girl who lives in a far-off state. We are planning to have a second wedding reception here in our home so that our many relatives and friends may meet our lovely new "daughter." On this occasion may the bride wear her wedding dress (ballerina - length) and her shoulder - length bridal veil?

2. Who stands first in the receiving-line?

3. What kind of invitations should I send? There will be at least 150 invitations, therefore hand-written ones would be a great task.

1. I'm so glad you and your husband are planning this charming occasion, such an important and significant welcoming-party. By all means tell your "lovely new daughter" to wear her wedding dress on this occasion . . . but definitely not her bridal veil, and she should not carry a bouquet.

2. You, as hostess of your home, stand first in the line, to greet your guest and to introduce them to your guest of honor, your son's bride. And since you are thinking of her as your "daughter," why not introduce her in this endearing way to your relatives and friends?

3. You might write the invitations on your visiting-cards; or on the inside pages of informals; or you may buy semi-engraved cards of invitation and fill in the lines with the information - details, writing above your names, "To meet Mrs. Mrs. Donald Robinson."

Second Prize Cookies For Holiday Rehearsal

By Mary Moore

Next week I am going to give you some high class recipes for cookies that keep well for your Christmas entertaining, because there are plenty of highly organized bakers in our midst who want to get that fussy job off their minds so they can get down to the serious business of buying and wrapping Christmas gifts.

But this week I have a couple of recipes picked up in my travels for cookies that I can conscientiously sponsor, with my built-in dislike of white sugar and white flour.

As I've trumpeted dozens of times, when the children (or your husband) ask for a snack give them an apple or an orange or some raisins or figs or dates or nuts. But occasionally (not regularly) lower the barriers and make some toothsome morsels like

OAT DATE DROPS

One-half cup shortening or butter, 2-3 cup sugar, 2 eggs, 1-4 cup milk, 1 cup sifted all-purpose flour, 1 teaspoon each baking powder and cinnamon, 1-2 teaspoon each nutmeg and salt, 1 cup each rolled oats and chopped pitted dates, 1-2 cup moist-pack shredded cocoanut. Cream together shortening and sugar until very light; beat in eggs well, then milk. Sift together flour, baking powder, spices and salt and mix with oats, dates and cocoanut. Stir into creamed mixture well. Drop from greased teaspoon onto greased baking sheet 2 inches apart. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. about 20 minutes.

FILLED COOKIES (Fruit-Honey)

Cookie Dough—2-3 cup shortening or butter, 1-2 cup sugar, 1 egg, 2 Tablespoons milk, 1-4 teaspoon vanilla, 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour. Cream together shortening and sugar. Add egg, milk and vanilla. Add flour and mix well. Chill until very firm. Roll out smoothly to 1-8 inch thickness on lightly floured board. Cut out with 2 1-2 inch round cutter. Put 1 teaspoon Honey-Fruit Filling (below) in centre of half of the rounds, cover with remaining rounds, sealing edges by pressing with fork tines. Bake on greased cookie sheet at 375 degrees Fahr. about ten minutes.

HONEY-FRUIT FILLING

Combine in a saucepan 1-2 cup each chopped pitted dates and seedless raisins, 3 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 tablespoon liquid honey, 1 1-2 tablespoons butter or margarine, 1-4 cup chopped walnuts. Heat through, stirring, and cool before filling cookies.

These filled cookies keep well and are delicious for an afternoon tea.

'Isn't It Time To Pray? Topic At W.M.S.

The November meeting of the Cannifton W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. H. Empson, with a good attendance.

The president, Mrs. J. Williams presided.

Business followed.

Mrs. C. Bird, literature secretary, gave a resume of the new books she had purchased.

Mrs. McCrae took charge of the election of officers for 1956.

It was decided to begin a Baby Band with Mrs. D. Williams and Mrs. H. Putman as leaders.

Mrs. H. Farnham had charge of the program. The theme of the worship service was "The Call to Fellowship" with the Scripture readings given by Mrs. A. Holgate, Mrs. W. Brenton, and Mrs. C. Brenton. "The standards Jesus set for life in a group of Christians are high and demanding. He taught His disciples to seek love, strength, wisdom and power in prayer."

TIME TO PRAY

Mrs. Farnham used 'Prayer' as her theme and gave some worth while and interesting readings.

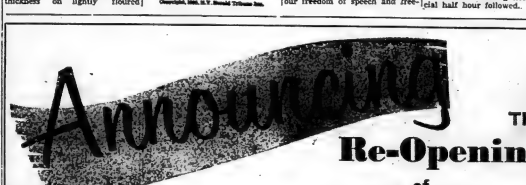
"When we consider that one half of the children and young people in United States, never attend church and Sunday school and that the majority of the criminals are under 20 years of age, isn't it time to pray?

"When we consider that we, as a nation, are spending far more for beer, wine and liquor than we are spending to evangelize the nation and the world, and that thousands of lives are being destroyed each year through drinking and thousands of precious souls are going to meet God unprepared, isn't it time to pray?

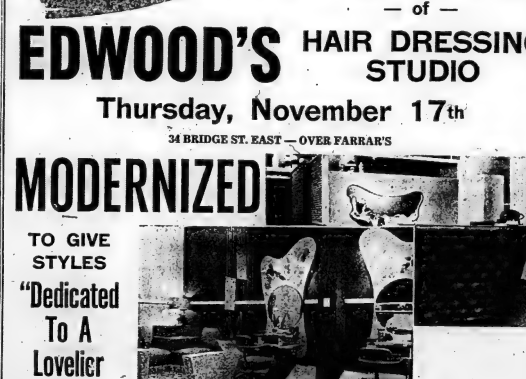
"When we consider the fact that masses of people of all nations are lost in sin and wickedness, and are on their way to hell, isn't it time to pray?

"Surely, surely it is time to pray. Only God can save us and change the trend of things that threaten the very existence of our government, our religious liberty, our freedom of speech and freedom of the press and this will be in answer to the earnest, sincere, effectual prayers of God's people. Isn't it time to pray?"

Mrs. R. Pound and Mrs. McCrae each gave an interesting reading and a lovely duet by Mrs. Howard and Mrs. Farnham was enjoyed by all.



After the meeting closed a social half hour followed.



AUTUMN ATTIRE

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

A bulky knit border in three tones highlights an interesting blouse that ends at the waistline. Two buttoned tabs hold down the knit border in front. Batwing sleeves end below the elbow. It's as easy as it is good looking. There is a wool tweed skirt in a harmonizing color. And matching the tweed is a bag of the same material with a leather handle and an outside pocket for hanky or scarf. The three pieces add up to an attractive country or casual town wear outfit and should see plenty of service.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

LOVE IS A MANY-SIDED THING

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I am 15 years old, and the other day a girl friend of mine asked me what love meant, and I didn't know. So I thought I would write and ask you.

The reason she asked me is because there is a boy she likes, and one day he tells her he loves her, and next day he says he loves someone else. So would you please tell me what you think love is, and if you think this boy really likes my girl friend as he says he does. —J.W.

Dear J.W.:

I think the reason you—and a lot of other teenagers—are confused about "what love is," is because young people use the word "love" these days when what you really mean is "like."

It just wouldn't be possible for anyone to "love" a girl one day, and the next day to think he "loves" someone else, as you say this boy claims he does. For real love is a steady, continuing thing; a feeling that endures, not only from day to day, but from year to year, and makes one person stand by another through thick and thin. That's one of the ways, you know, when you're in love—and, on the other hand, you know you're not in love if you find your feeling suddenly changes.

What love means is that two people want to be together for all the rest of their lives because they find each other more attractive, more understanding, more congenial and companionable than anyone else they know. It means that they want to take on the responsibility of making a home together, and raising a family together, and meeting together all the big and little problems, the big and little emergencies, and the big and little joys and sorrows that come to everyone as the years go by. They want to enjoy the happiness of together, and when trouble comes they want to bear it together, strengthening and comforting each other with their devotion.

Love means putting up with each other's faults, and talking things over instead of quarreling when there are misunderstandings.

It means believing that the other person would never intentionally hurt you, or let you down. It means having such faith in another's loyalty to you that there would be no room for jealousy or over-possessiveness in your relationship. It means, also, that two people realize that each has rights, and respect each other's rights, so that neither will be selfishly demanding. And most of all, perhaps, it means that each finds his or her greatest happiness in making the other happy.

And the big thing to realize is that the kind of feeling that brings all this about is not likely to come to a boy or girl at your age. It is something that can come only as boys and girls grow and develop and learn what life is all about, and understand what thoughts and attitudes and standards and ideals enter into the making of real love.

So be content to wait until you have had time to grow and develop in this way, and in the meantime show that you really are growing and developing by recognizing the difference between "like" and love."

Does this make it clearer to you "what love is," or do you have any questions? If you do, write them to me, and I'll do my best to answer them for you.

REST IS ESSENTIAL

Eight hours' sleep is about the normal amount required by the average person, although age, physical condition and occupation may increase the amount needed. It is advisable to find out the amount that seems to suit the individual and then try to keep to a regular schedule.

Fine Fabrics

By ALICE ALDEN

The fabric coat is going to queen it this season and it is going to be difficult to avoid an addition to the coat wardrobe. Would be a pity so to do for never were there such coat values, so much beauty, novelty, color, line and fabric awaiting our consideration at every price level.

If it is to be an all-occasion, all-purpose coat or an extra fine one to pinch-hit for that precious fur coat, then how about this beauty? It is a blend of wool and cashmere and five per cent mink, which adds up to downy softness, durability and warmth without weight. It has a soft shawl collar, easy push-up sleeves, nice lines.

Women's Institute

BAY OF QUINTE W.I.

The Bay of Quinte Institute held its November meeting on the 10th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sandercock with a good attendance of members and prospective members.

The ladies had quite a collection of hobbies, one lady said she liked making rugs and unrolled one she had brought with her to show; another said crocheting and displayed a centrepiece she had made. Some said knitting; another lady had brought an assortment of vases and candlesticks she had made from interesting shaped bottles and jam jars; another made wicker trays; still another said she guessed her hobby was baby sitting.

It was decided to send a letter of thanks to Mr. H. Campbell of Glen Miller, for the use of the hall for the demonstration held recently of "Sandwiches for all Occasions."

The Christmas meeting will be a Christmas party held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wilson of Trent Road. It was agreed to exchange gifts the same as last year, the price not to exceed 50 cents each.

Mrs. Reid said she attended the Stirling convention for officers and was sorry there were not more present as it was most worthwhile.

The meeting was then turned over to the Citizenship and Education convener, Mrs. Arnold Kovcheson, who said "To be a successful citizen, one must co-operate with others. The home is a basic training ground for good citizenship. The fathers of Confederation laid the cornerstone for our freedom. We must guard it carefully. Women should be more interested in municipal government.

"The people of this land are mostly made up of people who have come to this country one time or another seeking a homeland and they have much to offer us. To make good citizens of these folks depends a lot on us whether we accept them or not. To be great, one must believe in one's own greatness."

Mrs. A. Ketcheson compared the school of old times and now. She then had two ladies to choose sides and had an old-fashioned spelling bee.

Mrs. Alva Meyers gave her report as delegate for the W.I. convention held at Belleville, recently. Mrs. Reid thanked both Mrs. Ketcheson and Mrs. Meyers for their part in the program. Mrs. Reid said "as it was close to Remembrance Day, it is fitting that we should have something to remember it by," so she read a 'Remembrance Day' poem.

A fine luncheon was served by the hostess and conveners.

Club Activities

GRACIOUS HOSTESS CLUB

The third meeting of the Gracious Hostess club was held at the home of Mary and Mrs. Murray Reid. It was necessary to elect a new secretary so Barbara Howard was selected for this position.

The subjects brought in for discussion were —rules for serving and table manners.

The members set the table and served an informal luncheon as practice work.

At the home of June and Mrs. Clifford Reid on Thursday, the fourth meeting of the Gracious Hostess Club was held.

Since this was the eve of Remembrance Day the president, Mabel Craig, used the hymn "Abide With Me" for the opening of the meeting.

The 11 girls each gave one duty of a hostess to her guest.

At this meeting the essentials of an informal and a formal tea were taught. The leaders demonstrated by setting the table for a formal affair, and by making sandwiches and tea.

Today Mrs. Parrott entertained the club in her home.

WINTER SKIN CARE

Rubbing alcohol used after a warm bath will prevent chilling when temperatures are low.

There are several special skin care rules for these cold, blustery days.

The most important step you can take toward a clear, smooth, healthy skin is careful cleanliness. The skin on your face will reflect the kind of treatment you are giving your whole body. For it is greatly entire circulation, especially during cold months.

Our great grandmothers thought that taking a bath every day in winter was a risky procedure. Now we know that daily baths are essential. Regardless of temperature, baths may be safely taken correctly. Here are some good rules:

Don't use water that is too hot. Extreme changes of temperature tend to make the skin chap and crack. Take a cleansing bath in comfortably warm water using plenty of soap. Rinse yourself well. Then take a cool-off shower or sponge yourself with tepid water. If you prefer, an allover massage of rubbing alcohol will serve the same purpose. Any one of these three methods will close the opened pores of your skin so that you will not be chilled when you go out.

Rub every single square inch of your body briskly with a turkish towel. Rub until the skin tingles and glows. If your face is extra sensitive—and many of us do have tender skin—then cover your cheeks with a very thin veil of cream just before you leave the house. As soon as you come home again, wash your face well with warm water and soap. You may be surprised to see how much soot the cream has collected.

If you feel chilly when you get home, take a nice warm bath to stimulate your circulation. Relax in rich soapsuds and find how wonderfully revived you feel—so ready for the dinner and evening which are in store for you.

Be sure to change and launder all your underwear daily. A vast amount of perspiration is collected by clothing worn next to the skin even in cold weather; in addition to being uncomfortable and offensive, soiled lingerie may be especially hazardous to health in cold weather. In fact, cleanliness can help to avoid that annoying irritation of the skin, chilblains, according to one noted medical authority. His authoritative advice on how to prevent chilblains emphasizes that stockings should be washed thoroughly after each wearing, never putting them on again until perfectly dry.

Especially in winter, proper washing and drying are important for hand health and beauty. After washing well with warm soapsuds, rinse your hands in clear warm water and dry them carefully with a clean soft towel. If your hands tend to chap, pat them dry against the towel instead of rubbing them dry.

Women's Group Inquiry May Solve U.K. Loneliness Problem

LONDON (Reuters)—A women's group will try to find out why post-war Britain has so many lonely, unmarried men and women.

During a two-year inquiry, a committee representing 43 national women's organizations will "examine the elements in modern society which make for loneliness and recommend how voluntary organizations and public bodies may help to solve the problem."

Research shows that loneliness is greatest between 25 and 40 and more acute among cities workers than those who earn their living in factories.

Miss D.W. Homer, secretary of the committee, said one way of easing the problem now under consideration is "the setting up of voluntary marriage bureaus."

She said this would only be doing for the ordinary working girl what wealthy families do for their daughters when they hire people to introduce them to society in the hope of making a suitable match for them.

One aspect of the problem as far as women are concerned, she said, is that "when a girl reaches 25 and is unmarried she begins to think of security and saves her money and therefore goes out less and has fewer chances of meeting people."

Salvation Army Sponsors Successful Yuletide Bazaar

Yesterday afternoon, in spite of leaden skies and misty rain, the Citadel of the Salvation Army was thronged with friends and patrons at their Yuletide bazaar and tea, which was opened by Mrs. J. Both, wife of His Worship Mayor Jack Both, who was presented with a rose corsage by Mrs. James White. Mrs. Captain Marks spoke briefly; a Bible reading was given by Mrs. William Taylor and prayer by Mrs. F. Mason.

That Christmas is just around the corner was evidenced by the gay and pretty decorations which adorned the assembly room. Glistening globes of green, gold and rose peeped forth from the bands of green and red which entwined the tall pillars, and in the distance, a little Christmas tree, radiating a colorful welcome, sat on state upon a lace-covered table while near at hand on the piano, a glistening snow white sleigh, with simulated candy canes for runners, and filled with evergreens, and tiny little grape-like globes of many colors, added its touch making of the whole a most pleasing vista.

RECEIVING

Receiving at the door were Mrs. E. Reid, and Mrs. B. Humphreys, assisted by Captain Marks, whose hearty handclasp, as well as the welcoming smiles, of the receptionists, put each and all at east.

Nearby was the smiling treasurer, Mrs. W. White, seated behind a lace-covered table centred by a mystic bowl of little snowballs dancing in a red liquid.

Round about the room were the various booths which formed a recentagle for the quartet guest tables, with their fancy cloths, and centres of crystal globes with dancing white balls. Each of the booths were enhanced by little artificial Christmas trees—one at either end—and bands of green bells over valances of white.

At there was no regulation tea table, the tea was dispensed direct from the kitchen by the gracious waitresses, Mrs. D. Mason, Mrs. A. Davies; the Misses B. Jose, M. Lesnik and M. Townsend.

Those in charge in the kitchen were Mrs. F. Mason, convener, assisted by Mrs. L. Tapp, Mrs. W. Stone and Mrs. R. Dudgeon replenished the plates.

ATTRACTIVE BOOTHS

The booths, five in number, were well patronized, and most attractively displayed their various wares. Among the fancy work and handicrafts were lovely embroidered pillow slips, with plain and crocheted edgings; table runners, also prettily embroidered with fancy lace edges; dresser sets; embroidered tea cloths; floral pot-holders; lace-edged terry bath towels in colors of coral, green, blue and yellow; red, heart-shaped pyjama bag with zipper closing; little baby bootees in pink and blue; bonnets; mitts and other fine pieces, which included a bridge table cover in nylon with embroidered squares. Mrs. S. Lesnik, Mrs. W. Taylor, Mrs. T. Huston and Mrs. Petrie were in charge of these.

BEVY OF APRONS

The apron booth was convened by Mrs. R. Jose and Mrs. J. White. Here was a whole bevy of aprons fit for every occasion; little gingham aprons in yellow and white; plaid seersucker, plain yellow broadcloth aprons with smocked bands in shades of green, mauve and rose; and blue aprons also smocked in contrasting shades; black and white aprons; white, buckskin and green aprons embroidered with colorful Swiss needlework and a bordered apron in yellow with band of brown hearts.

The white elephant booth was about sold out when observed, but the remaining articles consisted of pale blue wall flower holders; fancy dish mops with rubber ends in yellow and rose; drinking water glasses; a green glass water decanter; an ornate, fluted glass fruit bowl; cards of buttons; quilt pieces; baby bigs; a mauve-colored sewing kit in chair design; bedroom pictures; crystal handleholders; egg timers; kitchen thermometer in tea kettle shape; and wooden star-shaped teapot stands. Mrs. G. Ellarby Jr., and Mrs. B. Hatfield were the conveners here.

Everybody likes to get a parcel from the post office, and judging from the number of parcels that were collected, the patronesses, Mrs. L. Price, assisted by Miss L. Mowat didn't find time on their hands.

Again the homecooking table proved the truth of the saying that 'people eat to live' even if it sometimes seems that some even live to eat. Whichever is the more true, both kinds of eaters found everything their hearts might crave on this booth with its delectable cakes; pies; nut-topped cakes; tatty apples; lily apple pies; baskets of candies; mince tarts; cherry pies; cream pies; pickles and relishes. All of which were in charge of Mrs. F. Wardle, Mrs. G. Ellarby, Sr., and Mrs. A. Austin, Sr.

During the entire tea hour, soft music was rendered by the pianist, Miss Dorothy Mitchell, to whom appreciative thanks are tendered, as well as to the conveners Mrs. F. Mason and Mrs. J. Green, and to Mrs. J. White; Mrs. G. Ellarby Jr., and Mrs. E. Reid for the pretty Yuletide decorations, and to Mrs. G. Ellarby Jr., for the signs and posters, for a fine bazaar and pleasingly convened. tea.

Here's How to Win!

Get Free Check list at any Dominion Store.

Find the "Phantom Famous Bread" listed on the check sheet but not illustrated in this advertisement. Next, if your telephone rings between 8 and 9 o'clock next Saturday evening, DO NOT ANSWER HELLO or you will be automatically disqualified from an opportunity to win $3,000.

Instead of answering HELLO, say "DOMINION STORES" and then state the name of this week's "Phantom Famous Bread". If you do, and it is the DOMINION FORTUNE HUNT callback, you will win the Grand Prize of $1,000.

$1,000 BONUS! If you win the Grand Prize and have in your home at the time a box top or label from this week's "Phantom Famous Bread" or a reasonable facsimile) PLUS a Dominion Store cash register slip dated this week and totalling $3.00 or more, you will qualify for a bonus prize of $2,000.

$100 CONSOLATION PRIZES! If the DOMINION FORTUNE HUNT calls your telephone number and you make two mistakes of answering HELLO, but can still name this week's "Phantom Famous Brand", you will qualify for a consolation prize of $100.

GRAND PRIZE MUST BE WON if this week's Grand Prize is not won on Saturday night, it will be added to next week's Grand Prize of $1,000. This will be repeated if necessary until someone wins the accumulated Grand Prize. All families or single adults in Dominion Stores Limited and their families are eligible for this contest.

Although 42 phone calls were placed last Saturday night in the DOMINION "Famous Bread" FORTUNE HUNT, no one answered with the right words to win last week's contest. Among the Ontario centres called were Preston, Arnprior, Kemptville, Renfrew, Pembroke, Brantford, Hamilton, Pinkerton, Peterborough, Kingsway, Timmins, Midland, Niagara Falls, Aldershot, Walkerton, Port Credit, Bellevue, Cornwall, Sarnia, Windsor, Port Colborne, North Bay, St. Catharines, Barrie, Chatham, Fort Frances, Sudbury and Orillia, as well as several calls to Hamilton, Toronto, London, Ottawa, Sudbury and one to Hull, Quebec.

Rawdon

RAWDON. — On Monday the township grader was busy doing the concession roads and getting them in shape for the winter storms.

Mr. and Mrs. John Ryan, 4th concession, Rawdon; Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Post and Paul, of Belleville, spent the weekend with Cliff Allan Fisher and Mrs. Fisher, Oakville, and also spent some time at Hamilton.

Mr. Cecil Nelson underwent an operation in the General Hospital, Belleville, Nov. 7th.

Folks on R.R. 3, Stirling, were without their daily paper on Nov. 9th and two papers arrived on Thursday's mail.

Mrs. John Carlisle spent three days last week in Belleville General Hospital.

Mr. Rose Hoard is spending this week in the north country. Others who went last week are Messrs. Earl McAdams, Stanley Williams, and Ira David.

Mrs. Fred McGee, Hastings, spent the weekend with her sister, Mrs. Allan Simpson.

Mrs. Blake Sharp and Mrs. Edgar McKeown spent a day last week with Mrs. Ernest Moore, Madoc.

Mrs. Leonard Sharpe is visiting her sister, Mrs. Frank Johnson, Kingston, this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Craig, of Ottawa, spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Will Potts and Myrtle and attended Mount Pleasant church service on Sunday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Campbell convened the Two-by-Two club at Mount Pleasant church hall, Friday evening.

Mrs. Campbell read the origin of the hymn "Onward Christian Soldiers," which all sang.

Mrs. Burton Sharpe read the Bible lesson and commentary and the Rev. W. G. Fletcher gave a talk on "Remembrance" and offered prayer.

Mrs. Will Jeffs presided at the piano.

The club accepted an invitation to attend Holloway church service on November 27th and made plans for a Christmas party on December 9th.

Gail Jeffs recited a poem "We Gave a Poppy", Judy and Joyce Cooney sang "Listen to the Voice of Jesus."

All enjoyed several games after which refreshments were served.

Mrs. John Simpson, Petherick's, spent a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Allan Simpson and family.

Mr. and Mrs. John S. Hagerman, Salem, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Blake Sharpe and Bert.

Mrs. Earl McAdam is holidaying with Mr. and Mrs. Douglas McAdam, Lakefield.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernal Sleacy and Murray have taken up residence in Stirling.

Mrs. Marguerite McMullen is spending this week with Mrs. Ray White and children, Eldorado.

Mrs. Don Campbell spent last week with friends at Gananoque.

Weather prophets say November 11 and 12 were the Indian summer following the recent snow flurries. The thunderstorm Sunday evening is an omen of more warm weather.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Potts recently entertained Mrs. Herb David, Stirling, and Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton Donnan and Mrs. James Sharp, Ridge Road.

Mrs. Paul Sharp of Wellman's, recently found an old Stirling News-Argus published March 26, 1921, and sent it to the Mount Pleasant correspondent. It was thrilling to read over four full pages of Mount Pleasant news and history. Several of the contributors have passed on namely, Mrs. Marguerite Winnifred Smith, Mrs. Nancy Fair, Mrs. John L. Bailey and Mr. James Linn.

The paper contains histories of both public schools, Allan and Williams; the church hall, Pump Street, the Rubble clan, the pioneer cemetery and many other items of interest. It is hoped some day the twin paper, April 2, 1931, will come to light. Some of those who contributed for that special column now live elsewhere. The old copy brought back a wealth of memories and its treasure house of valuable material.

Friends in Rawdon have received news that a former pastor of Carmel United church, the Rev. A. E. Baker U.E., is a patient in the Private Patients' Pavilion, General Hospital, Toronto, and undergoing a painful skin graft on his hand.

TWEED

W.S. Gordon Reaches 83rd Milestone

TWEED — A number of relatives and friends called at the home of Mr. W. S. Gordon on Saturday to wish him many happy returns on his 83rd birthday. Although not in the best of health within the past few years, he is greatly improved and is looking forward to meeting a lot of his old friends for a long time yet.

Mr. Gordon is a man who has been prominent in the business and industrial life of the community for 60 years. His long association with The Tweed Steel Works as president has made many friends for him from coast to coast.

Mr. Gordon is the last surviving one of nine children born to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gordon of the Lodgeroom district, three miles west of the village of Tweed. The Gordon family is one of the oldest in Hungerford Township. Mr. Gordon was always active in church and community life and for 40 years he was superintendent of the Sunday School of St. John's United Church, and was president of the Provincial Sunday School Association of Ontario. He was reeve of the village for two years 1930-31.

About four years ago, at the age of 79 he decided to call it a day, and since that time his son-in-law, Mr. Carm Aiton has been general manager of both the Steel Works and the Foundries.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon were married at Stirling 53 years ago and after the union, there were three children, Robert, who died at the age of 18 in 1923; Mrs. Alan McLaughlin (Bessie), Toronto, and Mrs. Carman Aiton (Gladys), of Tweed.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon celebrated the 50th anniversary of their marriage in June 1953.

FARM GROWTH

Saskatchewan had 16,100,000 acres seeded to wheat in 1953, compared with 1,130,000 acres in 1905.

Madoc Junction

EGGLETON W.M.S. and W.A.

MADOC JCT. — The regular monthly meeting of the Eggleton W.M.S. and W.A. was held recently at the home of Mrs. Harry Clarke with 11 members and three children present.

The president, Mrs. Maurice Clancy, presided over the program, which had been prepared by Mrs. Robert Danford, and opened the meeting by reading a poem on "Peace." The devotional period was conducted by Mrs. Fitchett, who read for the Scripture lesson Revelation 21: 1-7, 23-27.

A reading, "Morning Letter From the Farm," was given by Mrs. R. Danford. A two-minute silence was observed in Remembrance.

Mrs. William McMullen, W.A. president, presided over the business period when several important items of business were discussed and dealt with. Mrs. Carl Bridges was appointed to purchase a cushion for a gift. Mrs. Warren Harlow offered her home for the December meeting. Mrs. Harlow will also prepare the program.

Mrs. William McMullen read a letter she had received from Mt. Pleasant W.A. inviting the members to attend their bazaar on Thursday afternoon.

TREASURER'S REPORT

The treasurer, Mrs. Harlow, gave a report of proceeds from the bake sale, autumn bazaar and pie social. Two ladies paid W.A. fees.

Mrs. Clancy reminded the ladies about the W.M.S. potluck dinner at Plainfield on November 23 when a special speaker will be present at the afternoon session. Plans were discussed for several of the members to attend.

It was decided that Mrs. Bruce Stapley be appointed to take charge of the new Study Book for the year 1956. Thank offering envelopes were handed in. Proceeds $10.38.

A reading, "A Friendly Hand," was given by Mrs. Warren Harlow. The chapter from the 1955 Study Book was presented in an interesting manner by Mrs. B. Stapley.

1956 OFFICERS—W.M.S.

Mrs. C. Fitchett read the slate of officers for 1956, which was as follows:

President, Mrs. Maurice Clancy; vice-president, Mrs. Bruce Stapley; treasurer, Mrs. Carl Bridges; secretary, Mrs. Gordon Nelson; pianist, Mrs. Bruce Stapley; Christian stewardship secretary, Mrs. Milton Reid; community friendship secretary, Mrs. Harry Clarke; supply secretary, Mrs. Clarence Fitchett; temperance, Mrs. George Jervis; Mission Band leader, Mrs. Maurice Clancy; Baby Band leader, Mrs. Murray Kirkey; press secretary, Mrs. C. Fitchett.

W.A. OFFICERS

President, Mrs. William McMullen; vice-president, Mrs. Carl Bridges; treasurer, Mrs. Warren Harlow; secretary, Mrs. Gordon Nelson; auditors for W.M.S. — W.A. and Mission Band books, Mrs. Clarke, Mrs. Fitchett and M. Reid.

Mrs. Clancy thanked Mrs. Clarke for opening her home, the program convener and everyone who had taken part on the program.

The hostess, Mrs. H. Clarke, assisted by her mother, Mrs. S. Danford, served delicious refreshments.

3 Quebec Youths Sentenced To Hang for Slaying Priest In $90 Robbery in Manitoba

BRANDON, Man. (CP) — Three Quebec youths are under sentence of death for murdering a Roman Catholic priest in a $90 robbery.

Sentenced to be hanged Feb. 28 were Gerard de Tonnancourt and Claude Paquin, both of Montreal, and Guy Ferragne of Riviere des Prairies. An appeal is being considered for the trio—all 18.

They were convicted Wednesday by an Assize Court jury in the gun slaying of Rev. Alfred Quilles, 44-year-old priest from St. Edouard, Alta., whose body was found on the floor of his car Jan 9 on a highway near Brandon. They admitted taking his wallet containing $90. The jury deliberated less than three hours before bringing in their verdict.

The case went to the jury at 11:35 a.m. following the charge by Mr. Justice Samuel Freedman. Sentence was passed on all three youths by 3:15 p.m.

DID THEIR BEST

Mr. Justice Freedman told the jurors: "I am sure that you have all done your very best to see that the accused had a fair trial."

Defence counsel Harry Walsh of Winnipeg said the appeal would be based on an opinion the jury was perverse in respect of the insanity defence on behalf of Ferragne and in its consideration of the evidence given by psychiatrists.

Asked what decision had been reached in the charge of murder against de Tonnancourt, the jury foreman rose and said the single word, "Guilty."

de Tonnancourt, chin in hand, was seated with knees crossed. His tobacco-stained forefinger rested against one cheek. His expression did not alter. Seated almost directly behind him, his father closed his eyes and slumped down in his seat.

ONE BY ONE

Mr. Walsh asked that the jury be polled, and one after another the 12 men—half of them French-speaking—rose and said, "Guilty."

Claude Paquin stared over the heads of counsel when the jury foreman pronounced the verdict of guilty against him.

Seated behind him in the front row of the spectator seats, his father was crying. Ferragne leaned his head against the wall of the prisoner's box and did not move a muscle as the guilty verdict was pronounced.

Beside him, his brother, Rev. Marcel Ferragne, Roman Catholic missionary to Basutoland, South Africa, clasped his hands and prayed.

The three walked quietly from the court room. De Tonnancourt reached into his pocket for a package of cigarets as they went out.

Israel, Egypt Wanted Arms From Canada

OTTAWA (CP)—Both Israel and Egypt have requested arms from Canada in the last two or three years, External Affairs Minister Pearson told a press conference Wednesday.

It was not unlikely that both countries would make further requests, he added.

Mr. Pearson, who was in Egypt last week near the end of his 12-country tour, said some "defensive" arms, such as anti-aircraft guns, were shipped previously to Canada to Israel.

He also said he believes some small shipments of Canadian arms were made to the Arab states in the last 10 years.

Canadian attitude on shipment of arms to the Middle East was that nothing should be done to disturb the balance of armed forces or to add to the aggressive strength of one country.

OPEN THRUWAY SECTION

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The New York State Thruway Authority will open a 28-mile section of the Thruway, from Suffern, N.Y., to Yonkers, Dec. 15. The stretch, including a three-mile bridge across the Hudson river, linking South Nyack with North Tarrytown, will bring the total length of the Thruway open to toll traffic to 424 miles—from Buffalo to a connection with Central Park avenue in Yonkers.

Argentine Govt. Seizes Control Of Labor Unions

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Maj.-Gen. Pedo Aramburu's new Argentine government, using tank-supported troops, Wednesday night seized control of the General Confederation of Labor (CGT), backbone of the old Peron regime.

The government made its surprise move as a fizzling general strike by the CGT kept key meat-packing plants closed tight, but other important industries hard but left essential services operating simultaneously with the swoop by the troops on CGT headquarters here police descended on the headquarters of trainmen's unions and arrested about 100 leaders who were preparing to call a railroad strike. Failure of the railroad workers to join the strike at its start—three days ago was one of the main reasons why the walkout missed its sponsors' goal of paralyzing the country.

APPOINTS OFFICIAL

The government appointed navy Capt Alberto Patron as interventor (administrator) for the CGT, which claims 6,000,000 members. A government degree said all officials of the central organization and its member unions had been removed from their posts, and a commission was named to investigate the organization.

As a result of the intervention, the government now controls CGT funds. During the Peron regime the workers generally got full pay while on strike, and employers could not dismiss them without paying substantial indemnities.

The new labor minister, Raul Migone, said in a broadcast that the old CGT under Peron was "an instrument of force and violence." He added that "we will begin, therefore, to destroy this organism of domination over the workers by intervening in CGT."

Migone promised the workers that they would get a fair deal if they kept their unions out of politics.

Molotov May Visit Canada

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Pearson hinted Wednesday that Foreign Minister Molotov of Russia will be invited to visit Canada.

Asked at a press conference whether he had extended an invitation to Molotov, Mr. Pearson said nothing formal had been done.

He added jokingly that at the parties he attended during his recent Russian visit he might have asked a lot of people to visit Canada.

'Park and Shop' Men Bet 4 Billion Cities Will Not Succumb to Suburbs

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rumors keep creeping around that cities are done for, that they slowly will slither away to the suburbs.

But one industry is betting $4,000,000,000—with $100,000,000 in new construction during the last year—that the city is here for keeps.

They are the parking lot people, who think they know how to make sure that cities stay cities.

It's something called 'park and shop,' and officials of the National Parking Association say it's the hottest urban idea since Julius Caesar figured he had licked Rome's traffic problem by putting in one-way streets.

LARGE SCALE EFFORT

The park-and-shop plan has been tried in a number of cities—nowhere on as large a scale as in Washington.

L. B Doggett Jr., president of the NPA, says it works this way:

More than 200 downtown merchants, and 90 per cent of the parking lot owners, with room for 22,000 cars, have agreed on a plan whereby a shopper pays at least part of his parking fee paid for him.

When he enters a store and makes a purchase—the minimum varies from $1 to $3—a stamp is put on his parking ticket. This enables him to park for an hour free.

In the next store, he gets another stamp. He pays for any hours parked for which he has no stamps.

The merchant buys his stamps in advance. The parking man turns in his stamps at the end of the month and collects his fee.

Doggett says everybody wins. The customer has a cheaper way to park and can use any lot or garage. The merchant wins, since more customers are lured back to town. And the parking operator has a tidy supply of cars moving in and out.

Participating members include banks, dentists, a silversmith, a collection agency, a fountain pen hospital and a reducing salon.

The plan, used here for six months, successfully survived a transit strike—"downtown business was better than ever"—and has new members joining at the rate of five a week.

STIRLING

Remembrance Services Held

STIRLING — On Friday morning the Stirling Municipal Band led the parade of Girl Guides, Brownies, Boy Scouts, Cubs, members of the Legion, and officials from the community hall to the Cenotaph for a special Remembrance service.

A large number of folk from the village and surrounding county were in attendance to honor those who paid the supreme sacrifice in two World Wars. The group represented the Rotary Club, the I.O.O.F., Laurel Rebekah Lodge, the Masonic order, the I.O.D.E., the L.O.D.E., the local council, with a large number of next of kin in attendance.

The service, under the auspices of the Canadian Legion, Post 223, was in remembrance of Stirling and Rawdon township and was held at 10.30 a.m.

"They shall not grow old, as we who are left grow old; age shall not weary them, nor the years condemn. At the going down of the sun and in the morning we shall remember them."

The Rev. Arthur Packman, St. Paul's United Church, gave the invocation and the Rev. W. H. V. Walker, St. Andrew's Presbyterian, read the Bible lesson and all sang "O God Our Help in Ages Past."

The "Remembrance" address was given by the Rev. W. G. Fletcher, of Rawdon United circuit, and the Rev. H. C. Hocken, of St. John's Church of England, offered the prayers, followed by the hymn "Onward Christian Soldiers."

MEMORIAL WREATHS

The ceremony of laying the Memorial wreaths was most impressive with 48 wreaths placed around the cenotaph.

Councillor Harry Philp laid one for Stirling village and Reeve Theodore Cooney for Rawdon township.

The service closed with Last Post, Reveille and The Queen.

SERVICE AT RAWDON CENOTAPH

Immediately after the service in Stirling, members of Rawdon council, a body of Legion members and a large number of Rawdonians and Rev. Arthur Packman proceeded to Rawdon township Cenotaph at Harold on Highway 14. Here a brief service was held in honor of the names inscribed on that Cenotaph.

The reeve, Theodore Cooney, placed the wreath for the Province of Ontario and the president of the Legion, Ray Tanner, placed another wreath. Mr. Packman gave the prayer and bugler Garnet Thain sounded "Last Post" and "Reveille."

Just recently the names of six boys of Rawdon township, who paid the supreme sacrifice in World War II, have been carved on the west side of the Cenotaph. The reeve hopes that no name has been omitted.

Here it is for '56 - Best Buick yet

Illustrated—ROADMASTER 6-Passenger 4-Door Riviera

IT COMES upon the heels of the most successful Buick in history —and beats it on every score.

In shimmering steel and solid sinew, it's Buick for 1956—and there's never been anything like it for pure automobile.

You get a good hint of what we mean when you take in the sweep-ahead styling of it—from the air-splitting prow of its V-front grille to the robust rake of its canted rear profile.

You get an even better hint when you open the doors and see the dazzle there—in the decorator fabrics and décors—in the jewel-like finish of the fittings—in the precisely shaped steering wheel and controls—in the rich new instrument panel with soft-padded top and glowing dials that detail your progress in changing colors.

But it's when you put this beauty to the city streets and the open highways that you learn the best of it.

Performance Without Parallel

A new advance in Variable Pitch Dynaflow* goes airplanes one better—steps up your getaway in normal driving without flooring the pedal to switch the pitch. But when you need that extra surge, it's there, instantly—and in extra abundance.

The mightiest V8 engines in Buick annals bring 255 h.p. to the ROADMASTER and SUPER Series. Yet this is such high-compression power, such dynamic driving power, such completely usable power at the rear wheels—the whole rear end had to be endowed with extra brawn and heft and solidity to handle it.

We could spread before you an acre of blueprints on the engineering gems that spark the spectacular performance and ride and handling and roadability of these great Buicks for 1956.

We could tell you about a new double-Y manifolding of the engine for more usable power. And about a brilliant new front-end geometry that adds a whole new "sense of direction" to the car's travel. And about massive new direct-action shock absorbers that move three times more oil to cushion your all-coil-spring ride that much more buoyantly.

But you can get the full and magnificent story for yourself, at our showroom, in a face-to-face meeting with the best Buicks yet. They're all ready to set a dazzling new pattern for 1956.

New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflow is the only Dynaflow Buick builds today. It is standard on Roadmaster and Super Series.*

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

A GOOD SHOW!

Softball climaxed a highly successful season with what is said to be the best banquet in local history last night. The Belleville Bobcats, Point Anne and Madoc Juveniles, all 1955 Ontario champions, were showered with honors, shields and presentations before softball brass and representatives from city, district and province.

The city, and rightly so, through Mayor Jack Beth, one of this village's finest sportsmen, presented the Bobcats (runner-up) with handsome blankets as a civic token of congratulation and appreciation. "Tiger Cat" Temple, Canada Cement Company, Point Anne, presented their champions with jackets, while the OASA donated crests.

John Brady, popular OASA president of Oshawa, was present with some of the members of his executive, and spoke briefly in a guest orator role. An important feature was the unanimous endorsation of the league to hold the 1957 OASA annual convention here.

The night was full of surprises, especially for the Bobcats, who were three-way winners. In addition to the Temple jackets and city lighters they were presented with engraved medallions by Jerry O'Connor, proprietor of the "Jewel Box."

It was a highly enjoyable evening fittingly inaugurated with a tasty Shrine Club turkey dinner. The speeches were brief and to the point with the whole being a colorful climax to a season of well-merited achievement.

CHUMPS TONIGHT, CHAMPS TOMORROW!

What a difference a couple of points in the win column makes. A few days ago Gerry Mulligan, who writes the column "Sports Stew" in the Recorder and Times of Brockville, was bemoaning the fact that had Medalists, he believed Magedonas. One win and three defeats in four starts for a team that on paper was ready for senior "A" company. The roof fell in on Stew's stew and there was little or no optimistic flavor in the hockey potage. Fate had tossed the overalls into Mr. Mulligan's chowder.

In fact matters got so bad that boss-man Kitch Stanford fired the coach and shook up his lines like a terrier pooch eating the fluffier from an itchy rodent. The Maggies took on a new lease of life when they held the TPTs here to a two-all tie. They reached some sort of heaven the next night when they attained the "honor" of being the first squad in the loop to make the haughty, doughty Whitby Dunlops play dead dog, roll over and growl "uncle."

Overnight Gerry's "Sports Stew" transitioned into a rich, thick turkey gumbo. There were solid chunks of complimentary meat floating in the columnar gravy. It was garnished with superlatives and flavored with back-pats of luscious lumps of admiration for a direct-about-face.

And we don't blame the columnar chef. He cub has been acquued by an up-west writer of being the highest paid boy of pock-chasers in the senior "B" circuit. It was no mean feat to step into the Blair lair and make the powerclogged Dunlops emerge on the short end of a 5-4 score. And Mulligan gave it the rich chef treatment.

Reading between the lines, the amiable Gerry intimated that the Maggies be given the keys to the city—and a block of stock in the new seaway. He further intimated they build 13 new city halls for personal gifts to the Maggies. The old one apparently has been mortgaged to appease the Dunnites.

Better be careful, pal. It takes more than one swallow to make a binge—and those playoffs are a mighty long way off.

A COACH'S DREAM

Don't look now—but the backfield nucleus of Queen's University 1955 intercollegiate championship football team may remain intact for the next few years.

An informed source down Roddenvile way, a community that is still reeling from the impact of the first college title in 18 years has it that Gus Brascia, Don Stewart and Gary Schreiber may be playing pigskin pitch-and-catch for the Tricolor for maybe a quartet of seasons.

Press box gossip at last Saturday's intercollegiate playoff has it that Stewart, already the Tricolor's all-time touchdown king with 24 majors, might switch to medicine next fall. The stubby speedster gets his B.A. this spring. At present he is enrolled in the physical and health education course and has only one more year to go at Queen's. If he transfers to medicine he could enter the second year with his B.A., giving him five more seasons with the Gaels.

It may have been just the excitement but it was rumored that quarterback Gus Brascia, the ex-Temple university star who created a furore this season, may follow Stewart into the medical course as well. Tuition at Canadian medical schools is about half what it is in the States—a factor that is said to have deterred Gus from taking medicine at Temple. If it is true and Brascia does enter the medical faculty, he could have five more seasons to convince the so-called experts that he is the best QB in the college circuit.

In a pre-season interview with this reporter Gary Schreiber intimated strongly that he would take a course in medicine next season. Gary is taking physical education—and like Stewart, if he transfers to medicine he could enter the second year, giving him, too, a quintet of seasons with the Tricolor football squad.

Solid Ground Attack, Passing Fashion Decisive Victory; Meet Easterners for Grey Cup

By JIM PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

EDMONTON (CP) — Severe weather is a great equalizer, said coach Frank (Pop) Ivy of Edmonton Eskimos. But it didn't help Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

The powerful Eskimos, their hands in gloves to protect them from the three-below-zero cold, romped over Bombers to a 26-6 victory Wednesday night to enter the Grey Cup football final for the second consecutive time and the third time in four years.

The strong, fashioned before 12,000 chilled-to-the-bone fans and behind a solid ground attack and equally effective passing, gave Edmonton the best-of-three Western Interprovincial Football Union final in straight games, has whipped Bombers 28-6 last Friday afternoon in mud and snow at Winnipeg in the first game.

Eskimos will defend their Grey Cup Nov. 26 against the winner of Saturday's sudden-death eastern final between Toronto Argonauts and Montreal Alouettes.

LOSING BATTLE

Neither the cold nor the frozen, frost-covered field could halt the Edmonton attack. But it was quite evident early in the game that Bombers were fighting a losing battle.

The smooth ball handling and expert passing of quarterback Jackie Parker, Mississippi State quarterback who hadn't seen snow until he came to Eskimos last year; the plunging of two hard backs Normie Kwong and Johnny Bright; and the pass catching of halfback Rollie Miles, an Eskimo stalwart for years, were too much for Bombers.

Parker passed to Miles and end Bob Heyfenfeldt for two touchdowns, and the plunging of Kwong and Bright helped set up tackle Bob Dean's two field goals. Dean also converted three times and picked up two singles for an 11-point night. Second-string quarterback Don Getty, University of Western Ontario graduate who handled the club through the last half of the fourth quarter, lugged over for the other touchdown.

Bombers scoring was handled by halfback Gordie Rowland, who caught a 15-yard forward from Tom Casey and a third field-goal formation for the only Winnipeg touchdown. Quarterback Buddy Leake, rushed all night by the big Edmonton line, kicked the convert.

The yardstick story indicated the play, which was filled with excitement for the blanket-and-bottle crowd.

Eskimos who had possession most of the time after the first 10 minutes, rolled up 22 first downs on 248 yards rushing and 185 yards passing. Bombers picked up 14 first downs with 175 yards rushing and 92 passing.

Parker and Getty tried 19 forwards and completed 11 as the offensive line, led by centre Curt Burris, gave them excellent protection. Leake pitched 11 forwards, Casey and Lewis one each, and eight were completed. Each club had one pass intercepted.

Fumbles, expected in the severe cold, were few, with each club bobbling twice and losing possession each time.

BAGHDAD, EGAD!

BROOKLYN (AP) — The news of the Brooklyn Dodgers' world series victory last October has finally reached halfway around the world. The Dodgers' front office Wednesday received a cablegram from Baghdad which read: "Happy to hear of your success in the world series. Wish you always well."

The cablegram was signed by King Faisal of Iraq.

Ready Colorful Program For Grey Cuppers

By BRUCE LEVETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Grey Cup reception committee Wednesday night took the wraps off plans for welcoming and entertaining visiting football fans—and came up with a carnival.

The program begins Nov. 23, when fireworks will belch skyward from army mortars on the beaches as bands play and drill teams march.

RCAF planes will drop star flares and other pyrotechnics.

On Nov. 24 an Oriental parade will form in Chinatown. Firecrackers will pop and papier-mache dragons will dance.

The following night — Friday—there is the ex-cuppers' Grey Cup dinner and the mammoth party at which Blue Grey Cup will be chosen.

After that, a rube band will play and the Montreal Alouettes' drill team and musicians will perform along Georgia street in the heart of the hotel district.

PARKED CHUCKWAGONS

There will be parked Calgary chuckwagons and a pioneer stagecoach from Williams Lake, B.C. A cowboy band and square-dancers will perform.

Eight teams have been formed to meet all incoming trains and planes—20 cheerleaders and two sweeties from the British Columbia Lions form one group.

The transportation department is lending a comic engine, a Shriners' calliope will chime a welcome and 40 Indians will dance. Adding color will be a costumed parade of nations.

Two four-place planes will be available to "take dignitaries on a trip over the city."

Three spotlights — 800,000,000 candlepower — will illuminate the night activities. "Three or four yachts" will take press, radio and television visitors on a tour of the harbor Friday. Later, the reporters will be guests at a Chinatown dinner.

Eight hundred pounds of confetti will be distributed to office buildings along the Grey Cup parade route.

The press conference, at which plans for the extravaganza were announced, included officials from Harry McHrien, secretary of the Canadian Rugby Union:

"Remember men," he said, "somewhere in there we'll play a little football."

Ilabs Hand Leafs Sixth Straight Setback; Wings Clock Eighth Deadlock

Rocket Scores Winning Goal As Toronto Blows Lead Twice; Howe Gets Two Against Blues

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Detroit Red Wings had another one of those tie games Wednesday night. It must be downright frustrating.

The Wings, who have barged to the National Hockey League championship in each of the last seven seasons, opened their eighth deadlock of the 1955-56 season with a 3-3 split against the Rangers at New York.

The Detroiters have managed only one win in their last four games. They've picked up only three victories in 13 starts. That's a sick - looking record matched against performances in previous campaigns. They had 23 wins, 7 ties and 17 losses in 70 games last season.

In the only other game Wednesday night, the league-leading Montreal Canadiens kept Toronto Maple Leafs in last place by edging the Leafs 3-2 at Toronto. It was Leafs' sixth straight setback.

A couple of ace defence-men starred in the Red Wing scoring at New York's Madison Square Garden. Forward Gordie Howe fired two goals while left winger Ted Lindsay picked up the third. Right winger Wally Hergesheimer was a two-goal man for the Rangers. Rookie Guy Gendron scored the other.

The tie saw Rangers in second spot with 19 points, six behind Canadiens. Boston Bruins are in third place with 17 points, one more than Chicago Black Hawks. Leafs are last with 12, two behind the Wings.

Lindsay scored the tying goal at 18:06 of the third period, just when the 9,806 fans figured the Wings were heading for their eighth loss of the season. It was Lindsay's 11th goal of the year, tying him with Montreal's Jean Beliveau in the goal-scoring race.

Rangers took the lead three times, but the Wings drove back on each occasion. Rangers counted their goals from only 19 shots at goaltender Glenn Hall. The Wings kept New York goalie Gump Worsley busy with 40 drives.

The Montreal - Toronto contest, the largest crowd of the season at Maple Leaf Gardens, saw Maurice Richard score the winning goal at the 15-minute mark of the third period. That gave Canadiens a 4-2 win over Toronto.

Beliveau beat Leaf netminder Harry Lumley at 10:10 of the first period to put Montreal out in front. Bert Olmstead picked up the assist.

Leafs tied it at 1-1 on Bert Olmstead's goal at 5:47 of the second period but Provost fired it up at 6:46 of the third. That set the stage for Richard's goal, but third on Toronto ice in two years.

Referee Red Storey handled the hands full as he called 18 penalties. 11 against Leafs and one major to Jackie Leclair of Montreal.

Alouettes Rated 10-Point Favorites To Whip Argos in Big Four Final

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Alouettes itching to revenge their Grey Cup defeat at the hands of Edmonton Eskimos last year, today were established as 10-point favorites to defeat the Toronto Argonauts in the Big Four final here Saturday.

The Als, who whipped Toronto four times during the regular season, were 8-5 odds on favorite to win the game and one wanting to bet without the point spread.

Coach Doug Walker kept his charges at half hour routines during practice Tuesday to work on two new ground plays and variations in the passing attack. The Als also stressed pass defense to try to cut down the efficiency of quarterback Jim Dubinski of the Argos, who defeated Hamilton Tiger-Cats with his passing last Saturday.

WATCH ABRUZZI

The Argos will have to be on the lookout for galloping Pat Abruzzi, their biggest nemesis during the regular season. Abruzzi scored eight touchdowns against the Argos, all on ground plays.

The top scorer for the Argos was end Al Pfeifer, also the Big Four scoring champion, who gathered in six touchdown passes in the four games.

The starting time for Saturday's game was moved up to 3 p.m. EST from 1:30 p.m. Wednesday night to assure proper lighting for television crews. Officials of both the Toronto and Montreal teams agreed to the switch.

Montreal will be at full strength for the game with Johnny Williams back in action for the Als after missing the final game of the season. Walker is counting on Williams, a pass defender, to protect against many of Dubinski's accurate passes.

Royal Copeland, out for the season with a shoulder injury, will be the only absentee from the Toronto lineup.

St. Catharines Edge Senior TPT's By 9-7 Score

By GARRY ALEXANDER

A late rally fall short for the Black Aces' "G" Intermediate "A" here last night as they dropped a 9-7 decision to the Junior "A" St. Catharines TeePees in a rather dull exhibition game.

The local squad fell apart in the second period, after taking a 3-1 margin in the opening session, when St. Kitts rapped home five goals to take a 6-3 lead. They added another pair early in the third but Belleville came to life and pulled to within one, 8-7, on goals by 18.02. The winners pulled out of range with ten seconds left to play on Bob Buller's third marker of the game.

They were ragged throughout with both teams looking weak in their own zones. Only Junior shone to capitalize on the TPT's mistakes but the defence left in the clubs with at least two of their goals deflected into the net off Belleville players. Ron Vasko, TeePee captain, tagged for the NHL in the near future, was impressive on the victor's defence.

The trio of Vasko, Buller, Gary Edwards and Point Anne's Bob Hull paced the Junior 'A' club's offence as they collected all but two of their goals and helped on one with Hull and Buller setting up Edwards' other pair. Eatough drew two assists. Dick Latonlain picked up a goal and two assists with Hergott Plata gathering one and one. Ab McDonald, Ed. Hoskins and Art Stratton also scored.

Fort Hill speechmaded Belleville's attack with a brace of goals and an equal number of assists. Keith MacDonald, Bob Taylor and Chum Fryia each had one and one with Ray Gilmour and Doug Day completing the scoring.

Day and Gilmour gave Belleville a 2-0 lead in 2:10 of the first. Nobber banging home his own rebound and Gilmour sliding home passes from Hill and Fryia. Paris' turned back the second threat of St. Kitt shots but Plata deflected Vasko's long slap shot home at 19.51 with Day at the locals in the sin bin.

The visitors knotted the count at 6.36 of the second, Hull carrying in and Buller beating Paris. Hull, Donald, Latontain and Hoskstra made it 5-3 by 17.34 and Buller lifted his second goal on a three-way pass play with Hull and Eatough. The hosts beat Rose by 19.59 with a low backhand flip for a 5-3 score. Bob Wilson banked the first Belleville goal of the game at 13.00, catching Hull at centre ice and beating Paris' check. Wilson's spilled several others and picked up an assist.

Hull upped the score at 1.25 of the third, working his way back in the clear and attempting a pass out which deflected in off a TPT stick. Stratton made it 8-3 with his team shorthanded but Belleville's Taylor with a short drive and Hill on a two-man centre ice put the locals back in the game.

Buller went off for interference at 11.55 as Macdonald and Hill quickly rapping home Davey Jones' passes to draw within one goal. They pressed hard but were unable to draw on even terms and Buller iced it up.

The TPT's were minus Vern Goyer and Gus Bennett both of whom appeared back for Friday's big game here against the Cornwall Colts. Last night's attendance was announced at 575.

The teams:

St. Catharines: goal, Day; defence, Vasko, Grecean, Hillman, Kelly, Carter, Ravlich; forwards, Hull, Buller, Eatough, Stratton, McDonald, Plata, Helyes, Hoskstra, Latontain.

Belleville: goal, Paris; defence, McMaster, Wilson, Mulholland; forwards, Gilmour, Macdonald, D. Jones, Taylor, Day, P. Jones, Hill, Fryia.

Referee: Tim Williams and Don Barrett.

Brass, Turkey, Surprises Ontario Softball Champions Honored At District League Annual Banquet

By GEO. H. CARVER
(Sports Editor)

Three district Ontario softball champions were feted and honored at an outstanding Belleville District Softball League annual banquet at the Shrine Club last night.

It was an evening of "brass," turkey and surprises for the first collective championship celebration in the league's history.

The Belleville Bobcats, intermediate "AA" champions, Point Anne's intermediate industrial titleholders and the Madoc juvenile champs, winning their first softball crown, were the honored guests.

Presentation of trophies, crests and sponsor gifts highlighted the banquet with a surprise feature being the city's recognition of the Bobcats' feat by the presentation of handsome lighters through His Worship Mayor Jack Both. Another surprise was the handing out the gift of engraved medallions, presented by Jerry Corrall, vice president of "The Jewel Box."

Ontario Amateur Softball Association president, John Brady, of Oshawa, headed the list of special guests. Members of the OASA executive body present were Ken Wilson, Peterborough, old Dormer, Peterborough, and Jack Bond of Brooklyn. Also present were OASA past president Ernie Simeon, Kingston, and honorary president Harry Rollins, of Belleville. Harry Tufts, Madoc, represented the mid-Hastings village and its championship team.

PLAYED IN EUROPE

OASA proxy Brady was the guest speaker. Recently returned from a trip to Europe where he represented Canada at the International Softball Conference held in Geneva, Mr. Brady said that softball was making great headway in European countries. The senior brand is being played in Paris, France.

In Canada, he said, there are 250,000 playing organized softball with other thousands playing on the sandlots. He paid tribute to the fine work being done for softball in the Belleville district, making special mention of Harry Rollins, the late Harry Knott and the present executive.

Referring to the suggestion that Belleville would be the venue of the 1957 OASA annual convention, President Brady said that this city would be the host of the event if it's in the support of himself and his executive. He was certain that Belleville will turn out all the hospitality stops."

Brady said the OASA enjoyed a good year from the finance side. Forty-seven per cent of the finances are spent on the juvenile, he said. "We feel it is money well spent, and will continue to do so."

Under the chairmanship of Jack Devine, trophies and crests were presented to the local winners.

The J. Alexander Memorial Trophy was presented to the champion Bobcats by President Brady through captain Doug Bone.

The handsome Canada Cement Company Trophy after being presented to President Brady by Mr. A. O. Drysdale on behalf of the company was handed to the champion Point Anne team by past president Earle Simpson through captain Johnny Green.

Harry Rollins presented the Rollins Bowling Trophy to Harry Tufts, manager of the Madoc juvenile champions. Crests were presented to all three championships.

President Cy Barriage of the District League presented the Bill Ott Trophy to John Batchelor captain of the Belleville intermediate city league "A" champions while the Labatt Trophy was given to captain Doug Bone of the Bobcats, city intermediate "AA" titleholders by Gen. Hugh Young.

The Joe Beaver Trophy for the "A" batting title was presented to Gerry Goyer, in absentia, through Bobcats' manager Johnny Green by Ken Dueshury. The "A" section batting title trophy, the J. Alexander Memorial Trophy, was presented to Dave Lockyer by C. D. Jones.

Peewee and bantam Zone 4 championships crests were presented to Pint Clerk Gerald Vance through Les Culhane by Bill Vandervoort.

Surprise number one for the evening came when it was announced that the city had recognized the team's championship achievement. Mayor Both, presenting the players with the lighters said, "This city is fortunate in having such an outstanding club which has brought fame to us. We are deeply indebted to the team and the sponsor and I am sure the citizens of Belleville are in accord with what we have done."

Surprise number two came when Jerry O'Connor through the Bobcats' sponsor, Bob Temple, presented the players with medallions. And surprise number three arrived with the presentation of handsome red jackets to the Cats, the gift of Mr. Temple.

Mr. Drysdale on behalf of the Canada Cement Company, presented the members of the Point Anne champions with handsome double blue windbreakers.

During the evening approval was paid to the Belleville Dominion Stores, Loblaws, and the A. and P. Stores, the Bill Cook Tobacco Store and the Thomas Tobacco Store, the Bank of Montreal and other firms for donations to the banquet.

Special prizes were won by John Batchelor, Harry Brown, Roger Toth, who graciously returned it for further competition, and Phil Lott.

Jimmy Corrall was in his usual melodic form at the piano, while Frankie Lee and Harry Rollins led the lusty community singing.

Chuck Spieser KO's Young In 2nd Round

CHICAGO (AP) — Chuck Spieser's confidence as well as his ranking, as a light-heavyweight contender, got a boost Wednesday night when he made quick work of veteran Paddy Young.

The muscular former college champion from Michigan State floored Young with a left hook in the first round and felled him three times in the second before referee Frank Gilmer stopped the slaughter at 2:45.

A ringside gathering at 1,611 fans, contributing to a net gate of only $1,720 at Chicago Stadium, watched Spieser gain a probable next shot at Floyd Patterson. In his campaign for Archie Moore's light-heavy crown.

Sterling Hayden Acting Mother And Father to Lively Quartet

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Sterling Hayden, film star and ex marine, has another career cut out for him: Bringing up his four small children all by himself.

Last summer Hayden divorced his wife after a series of battles. He retained custody of their four children — Casey, 7; Dana, 6; Gretchen, 5; and Matt, 3. For a year, the towering, rugged actor has been acting as mother and father to his lively quartet.

"It hasn't been easy," he remarked at his roomy home, decorated with corn stalks and pumpkins, remnants of a big Halloween party he had conducted for the kids. (He later took his brood on their trick-or-treat rounds.)

"First of all, we had to get established as a family," Hayden explained. "I took the entire summer off. For four months I didn't work at all because I thought it was best to spend as much time with them as I could.

"At first I thought of taking an island cabin in the Puget Sound. But I realized at their age they didn't care much about scenery.

"What they needed most was a home life. So I stayed here with them and we played ball and swam in the pool and had a good time. We went camping a couple of times, and once we went sailing in a 29-foot boat, but they didn't like that much. Too confining."

Now that the kids are in school—Matt goes to nursery school, the others to public school—the actor is making three pictures in a row.

He said his biggest problem is finding a substitute mother when he works. He has placed ads in magazines and newspapers all over the country. Out of 300 replies, he found only two who seemed qualified.

But when she arrived from the east, it was evident she had no experience with small children.

"After I had to show her a dozen times how to put on a diaper, I knew it wouldn't work out," he said. (Matt was only 2 then).

IN-LAWS HELP

At present he is being helped by his mother-in-law and a young woman. When Hayden comes home from the studio he takes over. He also helps get the kids off to school in the morning.

"The ideal solution to his problem, he admitted, is finding a permanent mother for the children. But it's hard to find an eligible girl who wants to undertake a ready-made family. His divorce decree does not become final until next August.

Newcombe Rates Salary Hoist But Not $30,000

BROOKLYN (AP) — "Right-hander Don Newcombe and vice-president Buzzy Bavasi of the world champion Brooklyn Dodgers agree the big 20-game winner merits an increased salary—"But not," says Bavasi, "the $30,000 Newk wants."

Newcombe and Bavasi sat down and talked at Ebbets Field Wednesday, but both denied the conversation concerned Newcombe's 1956 contract. It was about the weather and many things, including a personal business venture Newk is considering, but pay-checks? "Who, us?"

First of all, Bavasi said, Johnny Podres was present—to talk over his draft status—and "You just don't discuss contracts with two players at once."

JUST MAIL HIM ONE

Secondly, said Buzzy, "What is there to discuss? When the time comes, we will mail him a contract. He did a fine job last year and deserves a raise, I'm sure he'll be happy."

Newk wasn't so sure.

"It's true we didn't get around to talking contract," he said. "We kidded a lot. We always do. But there's one thing I'm not kidding about—and that's the $30,000. I think I'm worth it."

Newk worked for a reported $17,500 last season, after taking a $2,500 cut on his 9-8 record in 1954.

3 Businessmen Recommend Council Purchase Properties For Use as Parking Lots

TRENTON (Special) — Three of Trenton's leading businessmen and largest taxpayers recommended to council last night the purchase of three properties in the Front Street area for use as a public parking lot. They were speaking for the Trenton Chamber of Commerce supporters of the idea first introduced to council by Councillor James MacDonald.

Clarence Saylor presenting what he termed "the point of view of the downtown downtown," said because he owned the properties on Front Street he could be accused of being personally interested in the issue. Clarifying his position in the matter Mr. Saylor assured council he was not speaking for himself nor generally who had gone before and will come after him. He stressed that he was thinking about the future generations of Trenton.

Mr. Saylor cited the growing populace and the increase in cars per capita. He pointed out that the parking problem was one that will have to be taken care of. Mr. Saylor expressed belief that parking accommodations in the Front Street area should be enlarged because that district has always been the hub of the Trenton business district. He pointed out that the business district was growing up from the river.

Mr. Saylor cited the growing populace and the increase in cars per capita. He pointed out that the parking problem was one that will have to be taken care of. Mr. Saylor expressed belief that parking accommodations in the Front Street area should be enlarged because that district has always been the hub of the Trenton business district. He pointed out that the business district was growing up from the river.

Councillor Claude Graham asked for his opinion replied: "After three years of living in Trenton my new hand heaviest taxpayers representing the Chamber of Commerce advise buying the properties I have changed my mind. At this time the people should vote on the question. Now I'm for it 100 per cent."

Mr. Saylor was acquainted with the facts behind the movement, in expressing his views and the view of other members of the Chamber of Commerce he said: "I am completely in accord with council taking direct action in securing parking lots. It's not a question of how many we have it's how to secure enough of them." Mr. Saylor felt that the price was relatively unimportant when the lot will pay for itself through parking meters besides paying for itself helping to guarantee the commercial life of the downtown business area.

Merchant Mark Tripp backed up Mr. Saylor's remarks. "I don't own any properties on Front Street so I can be accused of furthering my interest in them," he added.

Ex-Mayor Kenneth J. Couch agreed with remarks made by two businessmen proceeding him. He recalled a High school concert presented by Mr. Weller's theatre twenty-five years ago when the players visioned the west bank of the Trent river from Cobley's to the tracks as a beauty drive. He indicated the situation was a reminder of the adage. "Young people have visions but old people dream about them." He called for the people to dream ahead and keep ahead with the job. "I don't think anyone in Trenton would object to increased taxation if they could see the beauty resulting from transforming riverside lots," he said.

Two independent valuators, W. H. Ireland and Delbert McColl recommended the town spend up to $85,000 in acquiring the three properties along Front Street for parking purposes. Both of them considered the prices asked were fair.

Councillor Claude Graham asked for his opinion replied: "After three years of living in Trenton my new hand heaviest taxpayers representing the Chamber of Commerce advise buying the properties I have changed my mind. At this time the people should vote on the question. Now I'm for it 100 per cent."

Plane Rescues Stranded Hunter

TRENTON. (Special) — Duck hunter Grant Smith of 228 Dundas Street East, Trenton, stayed on Timber Island, Tuesday longer than planned.

At 4:30 p.m. he went to the island, a mile and a half off the grove, intending to get in four hours' shooting before returning home. He made a kill from the tide and when he started out to pick it up the boat swamped and sank. He had no waders and although he struggled in waist deep water to right the sunken craft he finally abandoned it and went back to the island to await rescue.

By two o'clock when her husband did not return Mrs. Smith became alarmed and notified authorities.

RCAF SEARCH AND RESCUE

Air Otter aircraft piloted by F/O D. LeBlanc found the stranded hunter in good condition.

At 6.00 p.m., after three Trenton men Jack Twigg, Cecil Smith and Clare Carr went to the island in a boat to pick up the marooned sportsman. They also hooked onto the sunken craft with his tackle and towed it to Twelve O'Clock Point.

GALE-FORCE

Television aerials were twisted or toppled in many centres.

Construction workers sprinted for their lives when a barn they were building near Brampton, Ont., collapsed.

Toronto police later reported about 12 barns and garages lost their roofs in the wind.

Thirty striking linemen and outside workers were called back to do emergency repairs on storm-damaged lines in the Cookville region near Toronto where there were intermittent power failures for hours without any early today seeking union recognition.

Highway officials reported four inches of rain had fallen on and around North Bay with drifts of 18 inches in some areas.

Telephone lines were cut by falling trees in the Huntsville and Novar areas, 80 miles south of North Bay.

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) — Gale-force winds swooping off the Great Lakes today dropped from one to five inches of snow over western New York state, blocked highways, toppled trees and caused numerous power failures.

At least two deaths in New York were attributed to the storm, and several persons were reported injured. At least two were killed in Michigan by the storm.

Wind. gusts of 68 miles an hour were reported in Buffalo. A Lake Shore drifts of trees feet were piled up in some places.

Icy streets and highways caused numerous traffic jams. Traffic on main arteries into Buffalo was reduced to a crawl. Overhead traffic lights swung like bells in the wind. Visibility was zero in some places. Schools were closed, buses and bus runs east from Buffalo were cancelled.

TREASURER KILLED

Albert R. Klaus, 40, Buffalo city treasurer, was killed today when his automobile collided with a disabled tractor-trailer. Police said Klaus apparently failed to see the truck through heavy snow thrried.

A massive search for a 14-year-old hunter, John A. Wick, 32, was resumed today on Strawberry Island in the Niagara river by the coast guard this morning. He had been missing since Wick's boat was found empty in the river Wednesday night.

Wick said the high winds send his boat into the river as he hunted ducks on the island.

Another New York fatality Wednesday night was a fireman killed at Rochester.

Scores of families were forced to flee their homes for a second hour Wednesday night after the winds of Lake Erie's storm surged far into a residential section of Woodlawn, a community south of Buffalo, frequently beleaguered by high water.

Phone and power lines were bowled over in and around Buffalo, Rochester, Niagara Falls, and southward to Dunkirk, Silver Creek, Westfield and Jamestown, N. Y. Many areas were without power for varying periods.

FOR AGRICULTURE

To the west, high winds in the Detroit river left two vessels aground and in more inbound in Lake Erie unable to enter the river channel.

The raging gusts lowered the river level by six feet.

The freighter J. E. Upcounvend aground about 25 miles south of Erie, Penn. The other vessel, owned by Wilson Transit Co. of Cleveland, was travelling light.

A 43-foot boat was grounded nearby when, the crew said, water poured in the swept from beneath the hull by the 30-mile-an-hour gusts.

The Northern area in northern New York state was hit by gusts up to 70 miles an hour and accompanied by heavy rains and lightning. The St. Lawrence river rose inches and the banks flooded highways in the Thousand Islands district.

The storm, starting late in the afternoon, brought little rain, but the winds raged inland from Lake Erie at a steady velocity of over 30 miles an hour.

State police closed a portion of Route 16, eight rums along the lake west and south of Buffalo, after a blowing curtain of water, cut visibility.

Several store windows in Buffalo were blasted in by the screaming gale. At times it was almost impossible to walk along downtown streets because of the force of the winds.

The storm rode to on the heels of a record-high 58-degree temperature Tuesday afternoon in Buffalo.

2 FRANKFORD MEN DIE IN WESLEMKOON

27 Dead, 40 Hurt In U.S. Plane Crash

Clayton Appleby, Son Gerald Drown Companion Lives

Jack Nicol Reaches Cottage, Sets It Afire Getting Dry

A deer hunting trip to the Weslemkoon Lake district, 70 miles north of here, ended in disaster Wednesday night when a Frankford father and son lost their lives.

Drowned in Weslemkoon Lake as their boat swamped in rough water was Clayton Appleby, 59, and his son, Gerald Appleby, 33, both of Frankford.

A companion, Jack Nicol, of Toronto, 40, saved himself by hanging to the overturned boat. He hung on for two hours until he drifted ashore on an island where he sought shelter in a summer cottage.

He is reported to have forced his way into the cottage where he started a fire to dry himself, then fell asleep and woke up to find the cottage ablaze. He just managed to escape from the burning cottage. The summer cottage, which was destroyed by the fire, was owned by Ralph Graham, of Belleville, acting crown attorney for Hastings County.

IN TWO BOATS

The two Appleby men and Mr. Nicol with three other men had started on the hunting trip from Frankford on Wednesday afternoon. At Weslemkoon they divided into two parties and taking separate boats started for their hunting camp some distance up the lake.

In the rough water were Mr. Nicol with the outboard motor. After this was remedied, they decided that it was too rough to attempt the trip up the lake and they waited until 8 p.m., when the rain appeared somewhat calmer. The two boats set out, about twenty minutes apart.

The first boat in which Mr. Appleby and his son and Mr. Nicol were riding was some distance ahead and became swamped in the rough water. It overturned. The swamping of the second boat was almost immediate.

SAW FIRE, THOUGHT MEN SAFE

Although soaking wet from spray splashed into their boat during the rough water, the trio made their way back down the lake in search of the other members of the party. Part way down the lake they saw a fire on the shore and thinking the occupants of the other boat were safe, turned their own craft about to make their way back to their hunting camp. They encountered the too rough and they had to put to shore and were stranded there by the rough water until noon on Thursday.

The hunters did not learn of the tragedy until they started a search Thursday afternoon for the missing members of their party.

Members of the Appleby family at Frankford did not learn of the accident until mid-afternoon Thursday.

Mrs. James Appleby, Frankford, said the entire party left Wednesday morning for Weslemkoon. The plan was to return Friday.

Motors Falter On Icy Takeoff, Plane Hits House

66 of 73 Persons Aboard Seattle Plane Were Soldiers

SEATTLE (AP)—A non-scheduled airliner, its motors faltering on an icy takeoff, crashed into a house, exploded and burned early today, killing at least 27 persons and injuring 40 others.

The crash of the Peninsular Air Transport Co. plane occurred a few seconds after the DC4 took off from Boeing field in a slight snowstorm with 73 persons aboard.

The passengers included 66 soldiers who had just returned from the Far East and were en route to discharge centres. A many woman and two children and three crew members also were aboard.

Mrs. Colin Dearing, 31, and her baby daughter escaped unharmed from the house into which the plane crashed. Mrs. Dearing's husband was away.

BODIES EVERYWHERE

Parts of the plane broke up in the yard of Mrs. Dearing's home, who said she heard a "terrific explosion," and next minute my yard was full of soldiers."

Some of the soldiers streamed into Mrs. Renard's house as she opened the door. Some were badly hurt, some grazing, some suffering several had burned hands and burned clothing.

When ambulances arrived, dozens of the soldiers were wandering or lying about the yard, some in a state of shock, others needing only minor treatment. Charred bodies were scattered through the still burning wreckage and it was some time before firemen could dampen the flames and start the grisly job of collection.

Herbert Gardiner, a Boeing Airplane Co. employee who witnessed the crash, said one of the four engines sounded "fast" and there were no exhaust visible from the other engine.

The plane was not more than 150 feet off the ground when I saw it. It was much too low considering the distance it had travelled from the field."

TAIL BOUNCED CLEAR

The plane exploded and burst into flames after barely clipping one house and crashing into the second.

One person who arrived at the scene a few minutes after the crash said only littered debris remained except for the tail, which apparently had broken off and bounced clear of the fire. It was 1,200 feet from the rest of the wreckage.

Survivors are believed to have come from the rear of the ship.

The crash was the worst single plane disaster in the western United States in six years.

Earlier today Thursday night, an air force transport with 14 persons aboard was high in the Southern Charleston mountains of Nevada while en route to Las Vegas, U.S. atomic bombing range near Las Vegas.

A ground rescue party was en route to the scene early today. I' was not immediately known whether there were any survivors.

Six Hunters Presumed Dead In Michigan

DETROIT (AP)—Four deer hunters and two duck hunters are "presumed dead" in Michigan in the wake of a blizzard which raked the state Wednesday night and Thursday. Four other fatalities were reported.

The four deer hunters were feared drowned in Gratiot lake, in the Keweenaw peninsula that juts into Lake Superior. The duck hunters were missing in Lake Erie off extreme southeastern Michigan.

The deer hunters included three Michigan professional golfers and the host of an Illinois golf club.

They are Daniel Nowack, 39, and Edward Van Popering, 35, both of Grand Rapids; Ted Lemanski, 36, Spring Lake, Mich., and Leonard Gillette, 36, host at the Kenwood (Ill.) golf club.

An all-day boat and helicopter search of Lake Erie Thursday failed to turn up any trace of the Gere Dickerson, 30, and Frank Holston, 30, both Detroiters. Their boat disappeared off Sugar Island, near Erie, Mich., in gale winds Wednesday.

Duck hunters Fred Lapointe, 51, of Dearborn, and Edward Kocher, 50, of Toledo, O., were found dead of death Wednesday night when caught in quicksand and mud by the rising tide a shore from Lake Erie. Winds had forced the water level up 200 feet from shore, making it impossible to reach firm land by boat.

Two Detroit construction workers also were killed in the storm.

Eisenhower Is Moving Into Area of Decision

By ED CREAGH

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—President Eisenhower was expected to move today into the area of decision in the new, post-Geneva international situation.

The president scheduled a secret talk with State Secretary Dulles, notably to examine the draft of the public report Dulles will make to the cabinet meeting back in a coast-to-coast radio-TV address tonight.

The Eisenhower - Dulles talks, which began Thursday, go well beyond a mere rehash of the unfortunate East-West relations have taken since the original, "summit" conference at Geneva between Eisenhower and the Russian, British and French prime ministers last July. . . .

WHAT NEXT?

Now the question is: What next?

And, partly by implication, some of the American officials most deeply concerned with the answer to this question were to call today on the president.

Today's Chuckle

The main thing worrying businessmen today is the number of unemployed , they've got on the payroll.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: With temperatures in southern Ontario reaching 66 today, milder, more seasonable weather is back for the weekend. URGES SHOWING WORLD LEADERS H-BOMB POWER

AEC Member's Plan Opposed by Colleagues

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four United States atomic energy commissioners have lined up solidly against a colleague's plan to "demonstrate the horror of force" to impress on world leaders the urgent need for peace.

The proposal was made by AEC Commissioner Thomas E. Murray in a New York speech Thursday night at the golden jubilee dinner of the Columbia University Law School. His plan would be to call representatives of the countries to what he termed a "meeting at the atomic summit," held in the Pacific proving ground used for the tests.

There, Murray said, these leaders—particularly the Russians and Communist Chinese — would witness an H-bomb explosion — a "show of force, a declaration of intention, a solemn demonstration of the strategy of deterrence."

ONLY FOR DEFENCE

Shortly after Murray's speech was released, his fellow AEC colleagues issued a joint statement here declaring that "commission tests in the Pacific have never been designed as a 'show of force' but are solely for the development of weapons necessary for defence of the free world."

The statement, the AEC several months ago formally rejected Murray's motion to invite foreign observers, including Communists, to nuclear tests in the Pacific.

The commission has never changed its position on this matter," they said. "Mr. Murray's proposal, therefore, is contrary to the statement of the Atomic Energy Commission."

Joining in this statement were Chairman Lewis L. Strauss and Commissioners Willard F. Libby, John von Neumann and Harold K. Vance—all appointees of President Eisenhower. Earlier, government spokesmen said Murray's plan had not been adopted as an administration policy.

NO COMMENT

Murray, appointed during the Truman administration, said he had no immediate comment on the statement of his colleagues.

In his speech, Murray said a demonstration such as he advocated might awaken the "blind" to our enemies of any false estimates of our superiority.

He questioned whether Red Chinese and Soviet leaders are familiar with the disastrous effects of a United States thermonuclear explosion and added: "Nor do they have the immense power of an American hydrogen weapon seared into their minds with regard to the meaning of disaster."

Murray's proposal for this plan was challenged by Strauss, Libby, von Neumann and Vance. Their statement recalled that Russian and other foreign observers "witnessed atomic explosions of relatively unimaginable destructive force" when they attended the 1946 A-bomb tests at Bikini.

They said the demonstration "did not persuade the Soviet government of the need to join with us in establishing an effective system for the international control of atomic energy. . . ."

Confusin' Are Fission and Fusion, But H-Bomb Hiss Not Fuse But Fiss

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Times says atomic energy commissioner Thomas E. Murray, who urged in a speech Thursday night a show of force" H-bomb explosion, has revealed one of the major secrets in making the bomb.

In a story by-lined by William L. Laurence, The Times says Murray "made it clear that the so-called hydrogen fusion bomb is actually a very large fission bomb of its liquid phase." Fission is defined as "a cleaving, splitting or breaking up into parts."

3 Children Burned to Death, Mother in Hospital With Shock

SUDBURY (CP) — Three young children died today when their frame six-storey home in nearby Neelon township was ravaged by fire.

Dead are: Gordon, 4, Bobby, 2, and Lynn, six months, all children of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Vail.

Firemen said they believed the children were suffocated by smoke in their bedroom.

Mrs. Vail, 23, of Flin Flon, Man., is in hospital suffering from burns and shock. Her 25-year-old husband, Robert, from Dauphin, Man., was working below ground at Mopani nickel mine when he saw the flames of the blaze.

Several firemen living nearby arrived at the scene within minutes of the outbreak and carried the children out of the blazing four-room bungalow. They said they believed the fire began somewhere over the chimney.

Mr. Vail, called from the mine, said: "I can't understand how this happened. My wife was all right when I left for work half an hour earlier."

The fire did not damage an adjoining home occupied by Mrs. Rose Dubois and her five children.

Provincial police reported Mrs. Vail in critical condition with extensive third-degree burns.

The blaze was discovered by 15-year-old Roger Dubois, who said he saw smoke seeping through a partition of the semi - detached home.

"I ran around to the front of the Vails' house and told Mrs. Vail try trying to open the front door I pushed it in and she was standing there with her hair and clothes on fire. I touched her and she fell in the hallway.

After Battering by Winds, Eastern Canada Now Shivers

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Cold air spread over most of eastern Canada today in the wake of the severe battering winds of the fall season.

Skies were expected to clear, temperatures were to drop slightly in northern Ontario but remain about the same in the south.

Snowflurries were forecast for some parts of the province. Winds were estimated at about 25 miles an hour, much lighter than the strong winds that lashed the province Thursday.

The storm caused heavy damage in nearly every section of Ontario. Power and communications lines were down, highways blocked and roofs damaged. The storm was blamed for at least four deaths.

A seven-year-old girl was killed when struck by a truck at Chicora-mi, Que. Three men were feared drowned near Blind River, Ont.

Disruption of hydro was widespread in Ontario. Three sections of Hamilton were without power Wednesday night. Kingston and Port Credit, near Toronto, also reported power cuts.

At Cornwall, an estimated $15,000 damage was caused when the steel screen of a drive-in movie buckled.

A 50-foot-high cement wall a tobacco, built to form part of a shopping centre, was toppled. The entire blew the roof off a new YMCA building at St. Thomas, and ripped the roof off Trenton's $600,000 district high school.

Fourteen parties of Ontario reported heavy snow. Four inches fell at North Bay and 10 inches at Timmins. Roads in the Lake Nipissing and Kirkland Lake district were near surfaced.

In Toronto 61 light planes were damaged. A small girl was blown into the ditch at Brampton and five construction workers escaped injury when a barn they were working on collapsed.

Reach Agreement In Three or Four Days Says Frost

TORONTO (CP)—Premier Frost said Thursday agreement for construction of the 675-mile northern Ontario section of the Trans-Canadian natural gas pipeline will be reached within three or four days.

He said $118,000,000 needed to build the Ontario section from the Ontario-Manitoba border to Kapuskasing will be put up by a crown company.

Ontario will negotiate with the federal government and is expected to conclude agreement for $60,000,000 of the cost.

The agreement will be signed between the federal government and Trans-Canada Pipe Line Co., Mr. Frost said.

He said signing of the agreement is merely a question of negotiation. It will go before the Ontario legislature for ratification when the legislature opens next spring.

Question Man About $100,000 Bank Robbery

MONTREAL (CP) — Provincial police said Thursday a man arrested earlier this week in North Bay has been transferred here for questioning in connection with a $100,000 robbery two years ago at a bank at Grenville, Que.

Name of the man was not disclosed. Police said he was arrested by Ontario police when found in possession of $8,000 worth of savings bonds, identified as part of the loot taken from the Bank of Nova Scotia at Grenville Dec. 24, 1953.

Accused Killer Has Psychopathic Personality

TORONTO (CP)—Four psychiatrists say 24-year-old Keith Bayliss, on trial for murder, is a psychopathic personality attached to crime without fear of punishment.

The doctors testified Thursday for the defence. Bayliss is accused of the holdup shooting last June 17 of Kenneth Jones, 29, a fruit-and-vegetable peddler, and Sam Ing, 41, a grocery owner. Only $180 was taken in the robbery.

Dr. Maurice Benson agreed that Bayliss is a psychopathic personality, they disagreed as to whether he knew right from wrong.

Dr. Maurice O'Connor of Kingston Penitentiary said Bayliss told him he was accused of murder in a four-year term in the same penitentiary in 1949. Bayliss told him he was pretending to be insane.

He said Bayliss, if he shot a man, would recognize the physical nature of the act but couldn't feel responsible "because he has no conscience."

Dr. John Senn, supervisor of the Ontario Hospital in Hamilton, said the youth was psychopathic but was not diseased. He was an "extreme psychopath" who would know if he did wrong.

Dr. Marcel Robinson of Toronto said he considers Bayliss understood the "nature and the quality" of his acts. He was "not suffering from hallucinations, Dr. Robinson said.

NO MORE SMALL TALK

CHICAGO (AP) — Chicago barbers have been directed by their union to talk to their customers less about the weather, politics and sports. "From now on," said Frank Alioto, secretary-treasurer of the Master Barbers Association, "barbers are going to get civic minded. Talk about the weather will be of benefit to the public."

SEARCHERS FIND 11 MEN MISSING IN LAKE STORM

Helped to Mainland, Given Dry Clothing

LONG POINT, Ont. (CP)—Nine storm-battered duck hunters were two-hour rescues were found Thursday huddled on the shores of this Lake Erie promontory.

The hunters, who set out in groups Wednesday, were scattered along the deserted shoreline of the lakes when a howling 50-mile-an-hour wind blew up, making it impossible for them to make their way back by boat.

When reinforcements were helped to the mainland in launches and bundled into warm, dry clothing before being taken home. The search started for those who were gone on since 10 p.m. Wednesday. Thursday two RCAF planes from Centralia and Trenton joined the hunt.

SEEN FROM AIR

The hunters were spotted from the air Thursday on this Lake Erie point, 25 miles south of Brantford.

Found were:

Dr. Richard M. Hall and Carson Bushell, Norwich; Robert Barnes and Bob Hawkinney, Delhi; Murdoch Curran, Brantford; Wes Carpenter, Simcoe; Ernest Butler, St. Williams; Jack Rice and Stewart McIlrien, Aylmer.

Searchers included Purser of SIMCOE and Harvey Ferris, a Long Point landowner, were reported missing early Thursday after setting out to search for the hunters. Crawley later walked through the mud and water to where the point joins the mainland. Ferris was picked up with the hunters.

SPENT NIGHT IN BOAT

The men spent the night as best they could in the open. Some sought shelter in abandoned fish shanties and others in the high dunes.

Several managed to build fires and the glow could be seen from shore. Wednesday, however, did not know how many of the men were safe. The search started Wednesday while most of them were in their duck decoys from the marshy shoreline.

GIVES ACCOUNT

Robert Barnes, one of the six hunters missing, gave this account of what happened:

"We left Long Point for the marsh about 1:15 p.m., and reached the marsh and got settled about 3:15 p.m. We picked up our decoys near Thorouchfare point and started for the beach on Long Point about 4 p.m.

"Some of the men struck out out on the south side of Long Point bay. Then a wave took a boat and swamped it with water. Bob Mawhiney and I dragged the boat back to shore until noon when later lost.

"We spent the night in a fishing shanty that had eight inches of water on the floor. We found some dry boards and bacon in the shanty and ate it for breakfast. There was a battery radio in the shanty and we heard that a search was under way.

"Bob and I were set to spend another night in the shanty when we were picked by the RCAF plane about 2:10 p.m."

RCEME Training Exercise Held At Point Anne

On Sunday, 13th Nov. 27 Technical Squadron Royal Canadian Electrical and Mechanical Engineers held its first Sunday training Exercise for the Fall Season. Under the direction of Lt. R. D. R. Willcocks the unit performed its training in the Point Anne Area.

In excellent weather conditions the unit left the Pinnacle Street armouries at 8 a.m. and using maps, completed a pre-arranged route to the training area. Upon arrival, WO 2 Ian Smith and S/Sgt. Bruce Prindle controlled a practical driving period in which unit members drove heavy military vehicles across all types of ground ranging from road conditions to mud and water-holes. Members were also impressed with the vehicles' capabilities under actual adverse conditions. Refreshment in the form of coffee and doughnuts provided by Sgt. Ed. Reid, Sunday's sergeant was appreciated at the mid - morning break.

Since RCEME also has a large infantry role in emergency conditions, training was also given in section and individual tactics. Cpl. Jim Graftman and Cpl. Jim Graftman Jim Ling, when he used grass and bushes to show his could improve camouflage. Corporals George Newton and Vic Allen then gave a demonstration of tender fire and Lt. Howard Armstrong lectured on the use of driving principles in an attack.

So much activity open air work made large appetites. The excellent chicken dinner provided by the Golden Arms Inn made a solid foundation for more strenuous afternoon activities.

The experience gained during the morning was very evident in the precision of driving competition. Craftsman Wes Prindle showed he had the keenest eye and a machinery lorry could get him anywhere fast and was awarded him in the winner of the primary class. In the advanced class Craftsman Gerry Hall showed great promise with his excellent handling of the 5-ton wheel vehicle. This vehicle through a quarry strewn with rocks and two-foot deep waterholes.

The grand finale of the day was a full scale training exercise. The enemy also came from the unit and were well entrenched suitably using black ammunition and thunderflashes. Travellers on the Point Anne Road got quite excited and saw the attack go in.

The exercise terminated at 3.00 p.m. with everyone expressing the opinion that the combination of excellent weather and interesting training made the day well spent.

The next RCEME exercise will be held early in December when the success of this RCEME Trade Training. Personnel will be required to perform repair work in similar conditions to those in the field.

Mailing Dates For Christmas Parcels, Cards

Wednesday next is the last day for mailing Christmas parcels to Europe, and it is acknowledged by the Post Office Department guarantees delivery before Dec. 25th.

Mail to continental Europe must be posted no later than Wednesday, Nov. 23rd, for parcels to United Kingdom mailed before Nov. 30th will be delivered on time for Santa.

Parcels to the United States should be posted by Dec. 8th. Delivery of mail in Canada is guaranteed from Belleville if posting is as follows: British Columbia, Dec. 11th; Alberta, Dec. 12th; Sask. and Manitoba, Dec. 13th; Maritime provinces, Dec. 14th, Ontario and Quebec, Dec. 19th, and local delivery, Dec. 17th.

Those are the important dates for mailing Christmas cards and parcels from Belleville.

Postmaster Carman Massey expects outgoing mail to reach a peak Dec. 15th, 16th and 17th. Incoming mail is expected to be heaviest Dec. 19th, 20th, 21st. Extra help to meet the Christmas rush will start work in the Post Office on Monday, Dec. 12th. Maximum increase in the labor force will occur during the same mail period, tapering off as Dec. 25th approaches with only a few temporary clerks remaining for the post-Christmas period.

888,970 PIECES HANDLED

Last year, from Nov. 9th to Dec. 27th, 888,970 pieces of mail went through the cancelling machines in the Post Office to be sorted for all parts of the world. Approximately the same number of pieces of mail flooded into the post office for city and district distribution.

Some 21,000 parcels were delivered by truck in the city in the same period.

Out of this flood of mail some 7,500 cards went to the dead letter office as "undeliverable".

To prevent loss of your cards to the dead letter office Mr. Massey offers the following suggestions:

Use sufficient postage — Unsealed cards weighing less than one ounce with no correspondence will be delivered to any point anywhere in the world.

City and district rural mail, sealed, costs four cents per card.

Five cents is charged for mail delivered anywhere in North America. The charge to some foreign countries is 8 cents.

Buy stamps early and avoid lineups at the stamp wickets in December.

Put your return address on all cards. Otherwise, if they cannot be delivered, they will be sent to the dead letter office.

If you have many pieces of mail for city or for the province, tie them in bundles and place out-of-town or local stickers on the bundles so they may be sorted. This practice speeds up sorting and aids a faster delivery.

Now is the time to prepare your Christmas mail.

Enlarged Wesleyan Methodist Church Will Be Dedicated Sunday

Pictured above is the rebuilt Wesleyan Methodist Church on Everett Street, which will be dedicated this Sunday.

It was in October, 1954, that previous Government plans became a reality with the actual construction of a much larger church auditorium and additional Sunday School rooms. Today, while there are many hours of work to bring everything to completion, yet there stands a handsome structure of brick and stone, a real monument to the sacrificial giving of the members and adherents of the congregation.

It was in the spring of 1947 that the original building was dedicated. At that time building materials were most difficult to purchase. Being impressed with the fact that a move must be made from the Schuster Mission on Dundas Street East, where the congregation had worshipped for almost five years, the original building was purchased from another denomination just across from Pembroke, Ont., on the Quebec border. While the moving of a structure its size almost two hundred miles over a winding hilly road represented a lot of hard work yet the labors of more than one year were soon forgotten with the dedication of a church auditorium and Sunday School rooms large enough to meet the needs at that time.

MODERN IN EVERY DETAIL

Modern in every detail the present remodeled and completely redecorated building presents a simple, but neat outward appearance. The structure which is of brick and stone has a silhouette lighted cross gracing the tower and front and a built-in glass block cross at the back. The main auditorium is beautiful in its simplicity and has pews to accommodate about 400. On the main floor there is also a cloak room, vestry, nursery, pastor's study and choir loft. A tone room houses the tone cabinet for the Hammond organ. The full-sized basement is complete with wash rooms, Sunday School rooms, furnace room and a main auditorium which with its new heating chairs will seat nearly 700 people. The building throughout is supplied with an amplifying system.

The work of Wesleyan Methodists opened in Belleville in September, 1941, under the able ministry of Rev. R. Chatreau. The present pastor, Rev. James S. A. Robinson succeeded Mr. Chatreau in May, 1942.

It is expected that large congregations will be in attendance at the three services of the day and special for the dedication service which will be held at 2.00 p.m. Sunday. Other services will be held at 11.00 a.m. and 7.30 p.m. An evangelistic mission will continue throughout the week with Revs. Carrie Hazzard and Lois Richardson.

Lieut-Gen. Howard Graham, Native of Trenton, Honored At Complimentary Banquet

TRENTON (Special) — Lieut.-Gen. Howard D. Graham, C.B.E., D.S.O., E.D., C.D., Chief of the General Staff of the Canadian Army, one of Canada's most distinguished soldiers and a native son of Trenton, was honored at a banquet here in the Queensway Hotel last night. The dining hall was packed to capacity for the occasion.

In introducing the speaker, Senator W. A. Fraser first assured his listeners that he would have no difficulty since he had been associated with the general all his life. The Senator read a message of congratulations to the army chief of staff from Minister of National Defence Ralph Campney.

Senator Fraser, recounting the general's climb up the ladder, directed part of his message to the younger people in attendance. "Let this be a lesson to you, my young friends," he said. "He (meaning General Graham) put application into his work, he refused to quit, he never gave up. He refused to be licked. But in his blood somewhere he had the military. He had the determination to acquire a military mind. He made up his mind he was going places and did. The Senator recalled the old days of town politics 'when we stuck together'. "I had the pleasure and honor of assisting in council with General Graham," he said.

The Senator noted that every step taken by the general in the military was a step of recognition. "He has been recognized by his biggest people in Canada," he explained. He revealed that the general on the battlefield in Italy put his life around a dying soldier and gave him comfort.

STORIES IN FILES

"All these stories came back to the files in Ottawa," he added.

"There is no man in Canada who has quite the responsibility or a greater load to carry," the Senator continued. "Howard Graham is tops," he declared. "Now you know why I am so proud on this occasion. General Graham is Canada's most distinguished citizen and most outstanding product of Trenton," the Senator remarked calling on General Graham to speak.

The former commander of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment spoke briefly. He indicated he felt humble but grateful. He mentioned his old friend S/Major Almey seated at the head table.

The general noted that three influences had guided his life—the school, his church and his wife. He drew attention to his homecoming after World War I, when he was met at the four corners by then Mayor William Wallace. General Graham was a private soldier then.

Later General Graham was presented with a life membership to the Canadian Legion, Trenton Branch 119 by local branch president Ezit Donaldson. The General's wife was presented a bouquet of red roses by Rhoda London, president of the Trenton Business and Professional Women's club. Councillor Gerald Weaver presented the General with a desk set on behalf of the citizens of Trenton.

Legion president Donaldson announced that Miss Hazel Farley, the Trenton school teacher who befriended every local serviceman overseas in World War II, had been made an honorary life membership in the ex-service-men's organization. She is now the 11th life member," he pointed out. Already Miss Farley was a life member of the Trenton branch.

Acting Mayor R. Smithrim was chairman of the program.

Expresses Sympathy

TRAFALGAR (CP)—Magistrate K. M. Langdon said Thursday he sympathizes with any motorist who knows he is in no condition to drive and pulls over to the side of the road to sleep it off.

He then fined Benjamin Kechego 34, of Hamilton $50 and $22 costs, for having control of a motor vehicle Nov. 5 while intoxicated. Kechego's car was impounded and his licence suspended for three months.

Written Exams Will Face New Ontario Drivers

TORONTO (CP) — Prospective drivers in Ontario will be required to pass a written examination next year.

A manual outlining the written examination system is being prepared, Highways Minister Allan said Thursday night. He indicated that the tests at first would be required for persons who do not hold a driver's permit, but they might be extended later.

Applicants unable to read and write English will be asked to demonstrate effectively that they know the rules of the road and can recognize road signs. For immigrants, the highways department will set up a sign recognition room where applicants will be taken for a test.

AFTER MEETING

Mr. Allan made the announcement at a press conference following a meeting of the highway safety committee. Attorney-General Roland said at the conference that the province is studying plans for a demerit system for motorists and driver's education course for secondary schools.

A special committee will be established to study demerit systems in operation in United States. Under the system, a motorist is liable to suspension of his driver's permit when he has received a certain number of marks for traffic law violations.

$100,000 Damage In Cobourg Fire

COBOURG (CP) — Fire caused $100,000 damage in a downtown garage early today. Firemen battled the blaze 3½ hours before bringing it under control.

Ten new cars, an ambulance, some Hydro vehicles and a Bell Telephone truck were destroyed. Cause of the fire was not known.

Wheat Parley Has Adjourned

GENEVA (Reuters)—The United Nations wheat conference has ended its first series of meetings here and adjourned until next February so the 60 governments involved can study the results of the present session.

It was learned that Britain will defer until then her decision on whether to join a new agreement to regulate international wheat trading. The existing agreement, to which Britain does not belong, expires next July.

Britain withdrew from the agreement on the ground that prices sought by exporting countries were too high. It is understood that some important wheat countries, including Russia and Argentina, are awaiting the British decision before themselves deciding whether to join.

GORDON ON COMPETITION

Donald Gordon, president of the Canadian National Railways, in a speech before the Economic Club of New York, came out solidly for free enterprise.

He said that always should be free to set whatever rates they choose in the "free competitive market area," where shippers can choose the mode of transport best suited to their needs. It seems evident that the "free competitive market area" refers to those goods which can be moved by plane, ship or truck as well as by railroad. It is almost certain that Mr. Gordon had truck competition chiefly in mind.

Truckers may cynically wonder that a man who undertook one of the world's biggest, and most effective, programs of government regulation of private business, progressive as it undoubtedly was, should be so much against the fact that railways enjoy such a monopoly in this market which effects the trucking industry.

"Freedom of action by the railways (in setting rates) may not yet be in the public interest" in such cases, he said.

It is this reluctance to recognize the necessity for regulation in certain cases which makes one wonder whether Mr. Gordon has a solution for a possible problem which might arise if railways were freed from regulations regarding rates in the "free competitive market area." Since garding rates in the "free competitive market area." Since railways do not depend on this area for all their revenue, if regulations were removed in this area the railways would increase their rates on those goods which can afford it, but would not quote rates uneconomically low, making up the loss out of revenue from other sources? Indeed, the railways might, in many cases, be content with a reasonable profit that would be certain if the rates were not uneconomic at all, that there would be certain items of overhead which they would have to pay in any case, and that they were actually better off by carrying certain cases of freight at very low rates than they would be if they did not obtain this business at all.

But these are only questions which guarantees have the policy were followed the railways would be free to do. Undoubtedly the railways would be able to meet the competition? If truckers could not meet the competition, the railways would soon have a monopoly in fields which now in the "free competitive market area." Then regulation would become necessary once again, by Mr. Gordon's own admission.

Nobody who recalls Mr. Gordon's ingenious management of wartime price controls will suggest that this is an insoluble problem for his nimble mind. Nevertheless, we should like to hear his solution before unreservedly endorsing his call for freedom from regulation of freight rates—although it is unquestionably true that railways are today, as he says, unfairly fettered with respect to setting rates in competitive areas.

"WHAT'S WHAT FOR CHILDREN"

The Citizens Committee on Children, Ottawa, has produced a parent's handbook, "What's What for Children," and is now, naturally enough, anxious to get it into the hands of as many Canadian parents as possible.

A hasty read through its contents suggests that here is a very valuable, or an enormously frustrating, book for parents, with its effect depending on the parent.

Surely the mother who purchases it with the avowed intention of following every bit of advice, providing all the instruction and purchasing all the equipment suggested by the book, will be broke in a fortnight.

But the parent who has sense enough to be discriminating and to consult these experts on specific problems will find here just the type of help he, or she, needs.

For instance, Sir Ernest McMillan gives advice on musical instruction. Those who are alarmed about the kind of boy their children are reading will find a long and varied list of good books for children of various ages. If a child acquires a guinea pig, a white rabbit or a turtle, this book will tell how the pet should be housed and fed. These are but a few of the many problems of parents to which the book offers solutions.

WHISTLER

"A man who whistles in public," says a newspaper feature on psychology, "is an emotional adolescent and may be a moron. He is usually an egotist with inferiority feelings trying to attract attention." The best way to cure all worries and inferiorities is to become really interested in other people instead of yourself."

But many a man who whistles in public has already become definitely interested in another person—and is frankly trying to attract her attention.

THE PROMISER OF FUPS

There are three promises men make which all men very slightly
make,
And one is fish as yet uncaught;
the second's game the hunters take.

The third is commonest of all.
To him should go the silver cup—
The friendly, smiling, genial man who gladly promises a pup.

The fisherman will promise fish to all who chance to pass his way.
The hunter smiles and says to you: "I'll bring you ducks some sunny day."
But still more liberal is he, for there's no chance to check him up,
The man who turns nobody down but always promises a pup.

There are three promises men make which no one thinks to see fulfilled.
Upon the pledge of fish or game
we long ago have ceased to build.
But man indeed would be the man with whom you chanced to dine or stop
Who would not gratify your wish and gladly promise you a pup.

The code of honor calls for strict observance of the given word,
Yet who would hold this merry three to pledges made would be absurd.
"I've bodied to indeed a sadder deed and never ever gather up
This gayest of philanthropists the man who promises a pup.

Miss Anna and Master John Moher entertained some thirty young people at their home on Friday evening. Community singing, games and dancing were much enjoyed. Music was furnished by Miss Marjorie Mess of Toronto.

Owing to the shortage of potatoes in the Dominion and the increased demand for export as a result of the new reciprocal trade agreements between Canada and the United States, it is predicted that the price of potatoes will reach a price of $1.50 per bag. The shortage here is said to be a result of unfavorable weather conditions and also owing to the impression entertained by many growers that a shortage would be a glut on the market and consequently grew smaller quantities for their own use. There are, however, it is said, some growers who are holding their potatoes for an increased price.

The New St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. From our file copy at this time in 1905: The new St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, which replaces the church which was destroyed by fire in the early morning of Sunday, Sept. 3, 1904, was opened and dedicated last Sunday, the special preacher being Rev. Dr. Barclay of Montreal; there was a large congregation at the services. The minister, the Rev. M. W. Maclean is at this time entering upon his third year in serving the congregation. To the following officials of the church is largely due the credit for the successful completion of the new place of worship: Mr. Kirk Session, the Rev. M. W. Maclean, B.A., (Moderator). Messrs. The communion plate was saved from the fire; it has been in use for sixty years and bears the inscription, "Belleville U. C. 1835." The contract price for the new church was $32,850. The land upon which the church stands was generously given by the Crown to the trustees by deed dated March 16th, 1839.

Strength for The Day

THE END AND THE RECKONING

It is sometimes said of men when they die that they were worth so many thousand or so many million dollars.

The question naturally arises in our minds, "to whom?" Were they worth this to themselves, their families, or the world? Or does the valuation of their estates simply mean that they have so much cash, property, and securities, and this apart from any influence these things had on them or any value these things have to society?

When the end of life finally comes, we will all be judged. Just as the state takes in hand the disposition of a man's property after he has died and appraises the value of this property, so the Power that brought us into the world and appointed us to live here for a time, takes us in hand and checks up on how much real value our lives possess. Few people go to receive government officials in matters such as these and the majority who make such attempts are apprehended and punished. But there are some. In the final appraisal, however, no one will try to be evasive, for all the evidences will be to the smallest detail and these will be rightfully considered.

All the bids we be careful how we live our lives day by day. The unimportant is counted by the way that eventually there is a day of reckoning.

Jehovah's Witnesses Case

(Montreal Gazette)

Tuesday, Nov. 15, the Supreme Court of Canada, by a unanimous decision, ruled in favor of the Jehovah's Witnesses and imposed costs upon the police officers who had disturbed them.

This unanimity in the Supreme Court yesterday may be contrasted with the closely divided judgments given by the same court in 1953, in two cases, also concerning the Jehovah's Witnesses. In these previous cases the Supreme Court decided in favor of the Jehovah's Witnesses but only by 5-4 rulings. These close decisions indicate how difficult because it involved attacks upon other religions. The present ruling is far simpler it involved freedom of quiet and inoffensive worship.

The facts in Tuesday's case were clearly set forth by the various judgments. Some 40 persons had gathered in the home of a private house in Chapeau, at two o'clock on a Sunday afternoon. Police officers went to the door of the house and asked whether a service was taking place. They were asked permission to enter. The permission was not immediately given.

They stood at the back of the room "for a few minutes," and watched the reading of the Bible. The police asked him to discontinue the meeting. Books, tracts and pamphlets were seized. Everyone at the meeting was asked to identify himself and his address. The preacher was escorted to the ferry.

It was the use of the house in which the meeting was taking place as the basis upon which the court which the Supreme Court decided Tuesday.

It is quite evident that, in this instance, the Jehovah's Witnesses were only exercising their right of freedom of worship. They were worshipping quietly, disturbing none.

As Mr. Justice Robert Taschereau said in his judgment, "Everyone (the owner of the house) clearly must live and work together.

the unquestionable right to convene at his home the meeting where some 40 persons gathered, and to invite Gutbold as a preacher. In our country there is no state religion. All religions are on an equal footing. . . . The conclusion of each is a personal matter and the concern of nobody else."

In judging this case, it is difficult to see how any of the judges of the Supreme Court could have decided otherwise. If the Jehovah's Witnesses always conducted themselves as they did on this occasion, all governments would right to worship, their position would be entirely defensive.

The divided judgments in 1953, which contrast so sharply with Tuesday's judicial agreement, indicate that the actions of the Jehovah's Witnesses enter in a field of great uncertainty when they cease to be claims for freedom of worship and become acts of assault and interference. The issue then departs from that freedom of worship, which is a personal matter; it becomes, instead, a question of how far one may go in exercising the freedom of their faith, without insult and disturbance.

It is to be hoped that the Jehovah's Witnesses, having established their right to worship in their own way, will accord a similar right to others. Among the peoples of differing religious beliefs are to live in goodwill and peace, members of each have the right of religious freedom is evidently necessary that this freedom be voluntarily modified by self-restraint, so as to prevent deliberate insult to the most sacred feelings of other worshippers.

The police officers in Jehovah's Witnesses had always practised their faith in the manner of members of others that they would ever have suffered interference in their worship, which is a personal one that their undoubted right to worship be supported by the highest court in the land—and by the unanimous decisions of justices of the Supreme Court. It is to be hoped that they will show one of the truest traits of Christianity, the spirit of courtesy and goodwill, which is the only spirit by which people of different faiths can live and work together.

Nightshirt Chilly Thing

(The Times of London)

It is perhaps no more than a coincidence that the day on which the Government's Clothing Conference, and set us all shuddering over our clothing coupons, should see the appearance of an advertisement suggesting that we should wear nightshirts.

To the elderly it must have brought a feeling of the frailty of agony and half of sentimental affection, the feeling of an icy, cold wash. It was that feeling that was the first to go when the long ago explain to his horses, "I tell you what it is, Bill, I don't put my nightshirt over my dayshirt." It is true that the nightshirt illustrated in the advertisement was not of starchy linen, but of some soft and colored fabric, productive of no such sensations. It is doubtless intended to be worn in the journey in a gleiss, and the advertisement is the utmost worth while to lack all perception of one's toes and fingers. It is a pleasant thing with the coming of a new instalment of prosperity, but the name of the nightshirt was at first perplexing but how beautiful was the simile of the rose! How the blanket gradually achieved their benefit! How the bedroom, potentially a cosy garment; it is necessary to suffer in it in order to be saved.

Even if people refuse to give up their pyjamas, they may be moved by the thought of night shirts to an eminently snug one-piece garment. Or the Moonstone yet again before a crackling fire, or the midnight work everything hinges on the nightshirt, the one bearing the stain of the egg. "I find out," said Sergeant Cuff, "how the person can account for the stain in this room and smeared the paint, between midnight and four in the morning. If the person can't satisfy you, you haven't far to look for the man." Or the case of Sherlock. And find out they did in the bin box festooned in the pockets for dreadful, quaking face of the Shivering Sand. There was the nightshirt and on the name of — but it would be wrong even now to give it away. Fingers have ever still some having before them the joy of reading about other mystery stories. Fyjamas could never have given the same thrill. They are too practical. They lack the true dramatic quality. "I'll frighten the thing away," cried Jack Mytton; he set slight his nightshirt and was instantly enveloped in orange flames, as shown in Aiken's picture. Fyjamas would only have smouldered sullenly by comparison. It would have been the same thing all

Should Detain Sex Criminals

(Edmonton Journal)

One of the greatest weaknesses of our Canadian system of justice is the treatment of sex criminals. As a class they are among the most dangerous of offenders. Yet they are often treated in an astonishingly casual fashion by the courts and at least as long as they stop short of actually killing their victims.

A startling example came to light this week. A 14-year-old seven-year-old youth was charged with attacking a nine-year-old girl. The boy admitted the charge but that he was mentally ill, and the magistrate remanded him for trial and transferred the prisoner to a mental hospital. After two weeks he was discharged and released, sent to Vancouver where his parents were living and set free on his own recognizance.

Fortunately this was discovered when he set out on a spree of theft and robbery. He was brought back, and after a preliminary trial and further adjournment date, and the accused was brought back, and sentenced to nine months imprisonment. Meanwhile a citizens' group an organization recently formed to protect children, has written to the Attorney-General for Ontario asking for a thorough investigation. The action will be taken against whoever was responsible.

The incident is certainly a flagrant one, and yet is it much worse than the treatment often given to sex criminals in these cases? All too frequently, the psychopathic sex criminal, the indecent assault or some similar crime is simply sentenced to a short term of imprisonment—often only a few months — and then released, with no medical investigation of his abnormal tendencies, and no attempt to treat or correct them. He is not only told to "be a good boy," like the Toronto youth, when he leaves the prison gate, but that seems to be the general idea. Yet criminal psychopaths are peculiarly liable to repeat their crime, often in a much worse form. Many have been released after one or more convictions, were eliminated their careers by murdering some helpless child.

It seems clear that the only way to protect society and particularly children, against sex criminals is by indefinite detention, and treatment under treatment, not for a fixed term. Only when psychiatrists and authorities are prepared to certify that their abnormal tendencies have been overcome and that they are no longer dangerous to the community. The criminal Code provides a procedure by which this may be done; offenders found to be "criminal sexual psychopaths" may be detained indefinitely at the discretion of the minister of justice. Yet for some reason prosecutors and courts are extremely reluctant to use this procedure. It needs to be invoked much more often.

More Obligations of The Middle-Aged

So you're on your second forty-year? There are older folks, or younger ones, who envy you? You have you only yourself, that wretched one who rattles about the place after the young ones are off?

However, it may be, you owe it to yourself and your loved ones to take stock, now. How will it be, from here on in?

You probably had some help or advice when you learned how to prepare for your job, whether it was housekeeping or engineering. You accepted, be it grudgingly, some advice in raising your children.

Would a bit of outside help in planning for your later years be useful? They're long years, could be wonderful years. Why not take a peek from here?

A useful aid in this process is a fine book written well by Bernard Steiglitz, M. D., published by J. P. Lippincott Co., Philadelphia and New York and selling for around three dollars. Find it at Read Dr. Steiglitz!

the public library or order it from the bookseller. But read it.

Perhaps your youngsters have not fled the nest and you're tied up with plans for their futures? Watch out. Perhaps your business or professional cares are so great that you haven't a moment to notice where you are in your life journey? Take care!

Shortly the aging process will begin to manifest itself. There is a way to prevent the panic that aging often brings even to those who least expect it.

It's like the way the Britons learned to meet the bombings. Each citizen had his duties outlined, so that in emergency he acted, and in the absence of his planned outline, he achieved self-protection and maintained his equilibrium.

Remember, in 1940, only 17% of Britons were over 45 years old. Today over 30% are over 45. In 1980, over five and a half million, that 40% be useful and fit? Will you?

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

"He has the biggest heart in the world," said one of my friends about another, "but his head is rather loose."

This might be said about a great many people. Characteristics of a kindly natural generosity of spirit is supposed to excuse all else. We are full of the weirdest prejudices, stuff ourselves stiff with preconceptions which we indignantly call high principles, and resolutely shut our minds to all facts, figures and realities that in any way conflict with those preconceptions; and yet we are highly-strung, we ordinary, everyday meaning of the phrase as regards our relationships with family, friends and acquaintances, we are forgiven.

Following one train of thought, it might be figured that big hearted-ness is the characteristic of a big mind. Or, more often, a mind that is developed by the unusual. Or, some of the more eccentric hearts alongside their brains every day, others of whom I wouldn't be found at a funeral with, has persuaded me that there is no exception to the rule that every living soul of us is an individual, regardless of circumstances, either kind.

is an ancient accepted theory that among the very poor there exists a spirit of generosity and helpfulness that makes life bearable. I regard it as a very trifling and speaking charitable appeals of various kinds and got my material by wending closely with social service agencies many a long day and longer weeks amongst the most pitiable of social levels. There were times when I was so depressed by the meanness and ungenerosity of it the slums towards themselves that I felt like my typewriter writing appeals for them. Then the tide would shift, and I would come upon days of experience so consistent in demonstrating the generosity and helpfulness of the down-and-out that appealing for them was a holy privilege. The more I saw of experience amongst the wealthy and the clever, the more I was impressed with hearts alongside their brains every day, others of whom I wouldn't be found at a funeral with, has persuaded me that there is no exception to the rule that every living soul of us is an individual, regardless of circumstances, either kind.

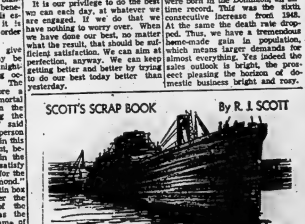
DOING ONE'S BEST

I have hard of people as being, "perfectionists." We can interpret that as explaining there are workers who take such pride in their work that they are only satisfied with the best they can do. Nothing could be more commendable. A reader of Asfeddio Hearn admired the following taken from Hearn's heartily. "I would never me hope that the state to which I am destined will be no worse than that of cicada or of a dragon-fly;climbing the cryptomeria I clash my tiny cymbals to the sun, or haunting the holy silence of lotus-ponds I flash through them as jewels of amethyst and gold."

Hearn's reply to his admirer was characteristic when that paragraph seventeen times before he was able "to express in his own satisfaction the impression in his mind." It is interesting that the interest in the writings of Hearn seems to be growing, though he died over forty years ago, and in 1904 to be exact.

It is our privilege to do the best we can each day, at whatever we are engaged. If we do that we have nothing to worry over. When we have done our best, no matter what the result, that should be sufficient satisfaction. We can aim at perfection, anyway. We can keep trying to do better and better by trying to do our best today better than yesterday.

Baby Crop Sets Record



(London Free Press)

Those perceptient men of affairs who look into the crystal ball of business and sales, and come up with lists of predictions for reprice to learn from the Bureau of Statistics that the current maternity is becoming busier and busier.

In 1954, for instance, 141,321 babies were born in the Dominion, an all-time record. This was the sixth consecutive year of increase. In 1945. At the same the death rate dropped. Thus, we have a phenomenal increase in population, which means larger demands for goods and services, and the prospect pleasing the horizon of the more business bright and rosy.

Release Cows Before Basement Ceiling Caved

PICTON — Electrical wiring believed affected by a fire which swept the district throughout Wednesday night and yesterday, is believed responsible for a fire which destroyed a barn owned by Marvin J. Pope, on Picton-Belleville highway, near Bloomfield. Lost with the barn were four pigs, the season's crops and a number of chickens. Mr. Pope and his hired man, Peter Brough were able to release seven cows from the stable, just before the basement ceiling caved in. They were working in the barn when the fire was noticed near the base of a milking machine. The blaze spread rapidly and in a matter of 15 minutes the building was a total loss. The gale was blowing away from the house and it was not endangered.

With wind of around 50 miles an hour and gusts several times that, many trees were felled in Picton and district. Limbs falling on lines disrupted telephone service in many sections and some areas were without hydro power. At the Outlet summer resort, all cedars were felled.

A car driven by Sid Drury, Milford, was not seriously damaged though the wind demolished the garage.

Fishermen who have nets set for fall fishing fear that they will lose several thousand dollars' worth of nets.

South Bay and Timber Island in Lake Ontario offered shelter for a number of freighters which were out on the lake when the blow came. An inn on the bay was held at its dock on the high shore near Picton, due to the weather.

In town there were many broken lines, broken signs, bent TV aerials and other damage, but in all it was surprisingly light in view of the wind which roared throughout the night and most of yesterday. Intermittent snowflurries almost blinded motorists.

WOMAN GIVES BEER

While many hunters are returning from the north without deer not so Prince Edward County's only woman hunter, Mrs. Bruce Martin, of Cherry Valley, is with her husband, one of a party of eight near Millbridge. While none of them had shot deer at last report, Mrs. Martin brought down a beautiful buck half an hour after she had gone out on the trail. Hoping not to be outdone, the males are trying their best to prove male equality, at least, before they return home this weekend.

Rebekahs Enjoy Birthday Dinner At Church Hall

PICTON — More than one hundred members of Macdpelah Rebekah lodge and a number of guests, enjoyed a birthday dinner at St. Andrew's Church hall on Tuesday night. During the year members contribute to a birthday box at meetings and the banquet comes as a birthday treat.

A delectable chicken supper was served by the Ladies' Aid and Y.W.A. of the church, the ladies being thanked by Ross Jeffrey. Rev. J. G. Hornsby offered grace and chairman Phil Bateman proposed the toast to The Queen.

Past Noble Grand Mrs. Edward Rolston, in welcoming the guests, expressed appreciation of the support given her during her term of office. With Mrs. Geraldine Wager at the piano, Mrs. Ralph Wright led a sing-song. A piano solo and encore were given by Robert Jeffrey. Mrs. Dulmage also accompanied Edward Rolston for violin selections.

Mrs. Fred Trumble operated the projector for the showing of the films: "Ukrainian Winter Holiday," "Road to Gaspe," "Snow Speed" and "Let's Sing."

Thanks to the chairman who arranged the program were expressed by Ross Jeffrey.

Wilfred Price Now Employed At Goodmans

After 43 years of service with the firm of Quick and Robertson, Wilfred Price, has retired from their employ and is now employed by Goodman's Store for men. Mr. Price has had a wide experience in the trade since the time he entered as an apprentice in his native Wales.

Mr. Price started in the business in Knighton, Radnorshire in Wales to serve four years without pay but his employers put him on salary within a month. After fulfilling his apprenticeship, he accepted a position as improver and junior salesman for a year in Neath, a coal-mining town in South Wales. Leaving that position Mr. Price journeyed to London and for the next nine years was employed as assistant floor walker and window trimmer for the firm of Davison Brothers.

At this point of his career he met his future wife and was married two years before he came to Canada. On arrival in this country, Mr. and Mrs. Price shopped around but liked Belleville and since that time have never been sorry for their decision. When the First World War broke out Mr. Price enlisted in the artillery but did not go overseas due to an injury sustained in training. Since coming to the city and until his recent move Mr. Price has been identified with Quick and Robertson and enjoyed a wide clientele.

Wilfred Price is a member of Bridge Street United Church and fraternally is a life member of Eureka Masonic Lodge. Probably in the realm of lawn bowling, Wilfred is better known among the sporting fraternity of the city. He has been and still is one of the most enthusiastic members of the club. He has served on the executive and at all times has given willingly of his time to promote his favorite summer pastime. He is also an ardent alley bowler in the Major "B" Bowling League. Fishing is another favorite pastime but it is hard for him to get away from the bowling green.

Before leaving for his new employment the staff of Quick and Robertson honored the long and faithful service with a presentation.

Supply Ship Member Coming Home on Leave

A sailor who has not seen a summer in two years comes home soon.

Raymond B. LaGuff, 23, son of Mrs. Earl Haldenby, 21 First St., is a member of the crew of the Arctic supply ship "Labrador" which docks in Halifax today after spending more than five months in the north.

"Last summer's cruise is the second for LaGuff, an A.B.E.M. who, this year completes three years of a five-year hitch with the navy.

In 1954 the "Labrador" sailed from Halifax in July, navigated the Northwest Passage and returned to Halifax in November. This summer the ship sailed in June to carry supplies to Arctic outposts and to deliver equipment to the DEW (distant early warning) radar line.

"He will be home on leave soon" said Mrs. Haldenby this morning. "He may be home in a few days or he may not come until he gets Christmas leave.

"You know he hasn't seen summer in almost three years."

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Rolut, Belleville; Mr. and Mrs. Merl Harper, Cobourg, and Mrs. Reg. Watson, Toronto, are vacationing in Florida.

Staff Girls Make Parting Camera Gift

Last evening 12 girl members, and former members of office staff of the Ontario Intelligencer met at the home of Mrs. Bob Mills, Trenton, for a social evening in honor of one of their number Marjorie Foster, who leaves shortly for Fairbanks, Alaska.

The evening was spent in a simple, enjoyable time talking over past experiences, the taking of several flash pictures in memory of the occasion and presentation of a camera which will find much usage in recording scenes in the Arctic, for which Marjorie is graciously expressed her appreciation.

Refreshments of hot dogs, cookies and coffee concluded a happy occasion.

Colored Films Enjoyed By Eastminster W.C.

Mrs. George Mayhee, Hastings Drive, was hostess last Tuesday evening, to 30 ladies of the Women's Committee of Eastminster United church. Mrs. N. Throop conducted the devotional service the theme of which was "Peace". Scripture reading was from John 14 and 16 and the meditation was entitled "The Prince of Peace".

Mrs. Throop closed with prayer.

Mrs. Norman Meldrum, president, took charge of the meeting and thanked all the ladies for making their first tea a great success.

During business discussion, plans were made for a rummage sale later this month. The regular meeting was changed to the second Monday evening of the month, but the December meeting will be a social one to which the Mens Committee is to be invited.

Mrs. J. Kuntze introduced one of the members, Mrs. F. MacPhail, who, with her husband, returned two years ago from Mackenzie, British Guiana, where they had lived for three years. Mr. MacPhail was employed by the Demerara Bauxite Company, a subsidiary of the Aluminum Company of Canada.

COLORED MOVIE FILM

It was the group's pleasure to watch these beautiful colored movie films taken while on location in that country, as well as some extraordinary fine "shots" of holidays on the Barbados Island as well as Martinique.

In her descriptive commentary Mrs. MacPhail expressed her preference, for vacationing on the former island with its ever surprising territorial land formations - Little Scotland has its highland and even a desert-shares a corner with its hardy cacti growth. By way of comparison, the mountain formation of Barbados is coralline whereas that of Martinique is volcanic, she stated.

Especially interesting were some excellent scenes of open-pit bauxite mining at Mackenzie. After the film drying, the bauxite is shipped to Arvida, Quebec, where aluminum finally is manufactured.

EARLY DWELLINGS

A visit to Georgetown showed the early dwellings of the Dutch settlers in contrast with the modern, residential areas; travelling is chiefly by mule drawn carts, bicycles and by river boats. An Easter trip into the city brought a gay spectacle of kite flying, along the beach area. This was called "The Kite Festival" and proved to be the official opening date for the flying sport season.

In spite of all the mysteries the country held for them, Mr. and Mrs. MacPhail were glad to return to Ontario, which is "home" to them.

Mrs. Janitsch graciously thanked Mrs. MacPhail for a most entertaining evening. Mrs. Ralph Wightman voiced the appreciation of the group to Mrs. Mayhee for opening her home for the meeting and for her kind hospitality.

After the Mizpah benediction, refreshments were served.

Good Public Relations Obtained by Golden Rule, Told to Canadian Club

"Public Relations must be a two-way street of mutual trust and respect," stated Don Henshaw last evening in the Masonic Temple, as he spoke to the Women's Canadian Club at the annual dinner meeting, on the subject of "The Terror and Power of Public Relations."

Mr. Henshaw, a senior executive of the MacLaren Advertising Company Limited, was introduced to the large assembly of approximately 200 by the president, Mrs. D. I. MacKinnon, who extended a cordial welcome to all and presented individually, the members of the executive, and the special guests who occupied the head table.

4 IS DEFINITIONS

In bringing his subject before the audience, Mr. Henshaw used several personal experiences to illustrate, by definition, mentioning as he did so that but few could understand the meaning of Public Relations. After interrogating 600 executives, he had obtained 4 different definitions. The only clear thing they understood was "Publications" smoothly, a "good" public relations, and if badly, it was "poor" public relations.

The story of the two Alberta shop clerks, who were too busy painting finger nails to attend to him, even though he had selected his purchase of a special cake of soap, had it in one hand and the exact change in the other, the manicurist, turned her head slightly to look at him, saying "in a minute Bub,' typified poor public relations.

BUSINESS REPRESENTATIVE

Behind the counter, the girl was her boss' representative of his business. Through her she was losing custom: missing the thing he was seeking to achieve, and forgetting that the customer is king, master of his business, and the employee's boss. Somewhere was being judged unfavorably. Another story bearing on bad public relations was that of a company in a certain town, which was known as the 'plant' where things were made for other firms, but what was made, or for what purpose, scarcely any one knew.

Finally an executive of the "plant" decided to do something about it. He began with the dilapidated fence which surrounded it, and replaced it by a new fence, that was sound, safe and attractive. He invited the employees' families to come and visit the plant, to hold "open house". Here the father pointed out to his family his machine, and what it produced. They met the chief officials who guided them on a tour of inspection. Finished products comprising the parts made were brought in and put on exhibition, washing machines, vacuum cleaners, and many other articles which lent interest in the work done, as well as information map as to where the various assembly line parts were shipped. The result was that the personnel was transformed, they took pride in their factory and in their staff, which made for more loyalty and other plants came to open up business. Poor public relations become good public relations.

BAD PUBLIC RELATIONS

There can be no good public relations where feelings are handled badly; when there is no concern for others welfare or others interpretation of things and ignorance of this selfishness he cited a truck driver who left everything he could to inconvenience others by parking his truck so that two cars or more would be unable to move; by carelessness (intended) in jostling others, causing fear. Consequently the' firm who hired this driver began to wonder why their business trade, finally one person was courageous enough to lay the matter before the executives; another followed, then another, until the whole story was made plain.

They hired another driver who lived in such a way as to make life enjoyable to others, and in so doing he was met with a smile; the company's trade began to grow, and prospered, and their friendly business was known through the courtesy of one man.

GOOD PUBLIC RELATIONS

Good business relations was brought out forcibly in the story of his little adopted daughter, whose little pink elephant, "Elmo" had been forgotten and left behind in Hotel Statler, and the little girl's sorrow for it. After telephoning the hotel, and explaining the circumstances, the proprietor finally after much searching in other places, located the little elephant in Utah, and requested that it be sent back to the Statler Hotel. After five days had passed, the little elephant was returned to Mr. Henshaw's little girl.

Henshawlike he had received a personal letter regarding the matter while the toy was being searched for, and much the proprietor valued his guests' confidence and respect.

"The epitome of good public relations is the understanding of others emotions", and the following of the "Golden Rule," which never makes a mistake, was Mr. Henshaw's summing up.

An interesting feature of the evening was the tribute paid to Miss Ruth Sharpe, graduate of Stirling high school, who was present with her mother. Miss Sharpe was the winner of the $100 scholarship awarded by the Women's Canadian Club, to the student obtaining the highest marks in the district, which included BCIVS, St. Michael's high school and Stirling high school. Miss Sharpe most graciously thanked the club for its award and for "Mid bowing winds and squalls of snow, the Cadet Mothers' Auxiliary to the St. John Ambulance held their initial afternoon tea and sale of home-cooking in the Cadets' Legion Hall, Command Street, yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. G. D. Ashley, Cadet Divisional Superintendent welcomed the guests at the door, welcoming them to the homelike atmosphere of the hall.

Presiding at the prettily appointed tea table with its Scotch lace cloth, bordered with clusters of silvered poinsettia's and centred by a silver basket of white pom 'mums were, Mrs. L. Henning, Divisional Nursing Officer and Mrs. J. E. Boyd, Mrs. C. D. Ashley, Cadet D.S.; and Mrs. Harold Reid, Cadet Officer; Mrs. J. Enright and Mrs. R. Long.

The Cadet Mothers served during the early portion of the afternoon and the cadets themselves, in their natty grey uniforms, during the latter portion.

Each little guest table was centred by a silver and green bowl of Scotch pine having one red poinsettia in its midst, while the fancy pink mats over red brought to mind the festive season ahead.

A table of homecooking also bore the Yuletide accent by its green and red border over white. Cookies, fudge and assorted cakes and tiny, cream-filled nutlopped cakes were a few of the fine assortment on sale. These were convened by the Cadet Mothers.

Mrs. G. Power, convener, is to be commended for an enjoyable tea under such adverse circumstances.

the kind invitation which included her mother.

Previous to the address, a delightfully arranged dinner was enjoyed, with special tribute extended to the Contact Club of Christ church for catering, and to Mrs. Fred Beely, for the attractively appointed head table as well as those of the club members and friends.

Mrs. J. G. Demeza presided at the meeting.

Mr. Henshaw was thanked by the president for his most entertaining and delightful talk to which the assembly added its appreciation.

It was stated that the Home and School Libraries furnish films for anyone interested in procuring same.

The meeting was turned over to Mr. Renouf and his committee all this time he being program convener for the month of November.

A beautiful film of Prince Edward Island was shown by Mr. Renouf which was followed by a description and a descriptive and enlightening talk given by Mrs. A. Clare on the trip to the Maritimes, which was taken during the Summer by herself and husband and two daughters.

Mrs. Clare's vivid description of the trip was most interesting and attracted the route which they had taken.

BEAUTIFUL SCENERY

She spoke of the many points of interest encountered on their trip, of the beautiful scenery and the many friendly people, quite by accident, even so far away from home which proves how small this big world is after all.

Mrs. Clare was sincerely applauded and thanked by Mr. Renouf.

Refreshments were served by the grades seven and eight mothers thus bringing another pleasant meeting to a close.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

THE STORY OF YOUR HAPPY MARRIAGE MAY HELP OTHERS

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I am one of those not-so-rare but also heard of women who are very happily married. My husband and I have been married for six years, and have three wonderful children. Our fourth is on the way.

My husband is not perfect, but I wouldn't want him so. He is a wonderful father, and is considerate, loving and reliable. His virtues far outweigh his faults, which I consider a part of his individuality. I have never tried to make him over, for I love him exactly as he is, and heaven knows, I have more faults than he!

Naturally we have our little differences—and wouldn't life be dull without them? But we have a rule never to argue before the children or in public. We keep our disputes private. We have both learned the healing power of words said in love, so we believe anything that sort, I always ask myself: How would I feel if he said that to me?" Usually, I find myself not saying what I had in mind.

A lot of newlyweds seem to believe that happiness will come to them automatically with the giving and receiving of the wedding ring. Unfortunately, therefore, they are disappointed to find this isn't so. For myself, I firmly believe that you reap what you sow, so I spend all my life trying to make my family happy, for if my loved ones are happy, doesn't it follow that I will be happy, too?

In our little family, each one tries to contribute to the general well-being. No one is "left out." No one is unfairly punished. Most of all, no one is too proud to say "I'm sorry" when proved wrong.

I am truly, yublimely happy, happier than I ever believed possible. My husband and I are so much in love that the problem of any other woman" can never stand between us, for I intend keeping him so happy that there will never be any need for him to search elsewhere for happiness.

"Deddy" is the head of our little brood, and his word is law. He is certainly not a tyrant, but he has the final say on decisions. I never question his decisions in front of the children, and he affords me the same courtesy. I think it is important for parents to form a "united front" for their children. Ours feel happy and secure, and they reflect those qualities in each other do and are very popular.

Perhaps I have boasted too freely, but I hope you will publish this, because we hear and read so much about marital misery and divorce, and so seldom of happiness and contentment. — Mr. and Mrs. D.A. R.

Dear Friends:

I am very glad indeed to publish this happy letter, for I certainly agree with you that while we hear much of marital misery, we hear all too little of the peace, harmony and beautiful companionship which marriage should mean. Moreover, I think that to read about a successful marriage, and to realize that marriages of this kind are "not born, but made," may well help some unhappy wives to see where and why their own marriages have gone wrong, and so to begin setting them straight.

Thank you for taking the trouble to write me. I appreciate being given the opportunity to pass on so many helpful ideas to other readers.

Mother's Helper

GETTING your young son to shine his own shoes regularly —and willingly—requires the right combination of time, equipment, and place. Help him to try to stick to a weekly shine date, give him easy-to-use polish, in a spot where spills and stains don't matter. And do praise his results!

MUST FIND THAT HAT TO WEAR TO THE WEDDING

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

I am 17 years old, and I am to be a guest at a wedding soon. I will be wearing a long brown green dress with white gloves (I love white gloves and I wear them with everything!), and I hoped I could find coppertone shoes and bag. I succeeded in finding the shoes, and I'm quite sure I can find the bag—but what about a hat? I wanted one of the new satin ones in coppertone if I can find one that looks well with my long hair. Have you any suggestions for another kind of hat? — G.

How about one of this season's smart small white hats, perhaps a glistening winter-white satin or velvet or velveteen or other interesting material? Perhaps a small, pert white beret, very fashionable this season, and a very good companion with your white gloves. Or, if you don't want a white hat, and can't find the coppertone one you like, how about a smart little hat of the shade of either green in your dress?

MOTHER TO SAY HER THANKS AT MEETING

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

I have always been backward about getting up to voice my thoughts in front of a group of people. Nineteen months ago the wonderful women who belong to the Women's Association of this village gave my daughter (then a baby) a lovely dress. Last month they gave my new son a pair of rompers. In both cases I thanked the member who brought the present to me, but not the entire group of members, although in my heart I was deeply grateful. Now I feel that I shouldn't let it go any longer without a thank-you to all. Also I haven't thanked them for all the cards the baby and I received from these wonderful people. Do you think it would be proper at this late date to express my appreciation and thanks for every thing at the next meeting? — Reader.

Here you have a perfect plan . . . and since, as you say, you are in

Readers' Friday Column

As Conducted by Mary Moore

QUESTION:

We all enjoy your column very, very much—at least I speak for the segment of folks I know, and all these girls are enthusiastic about you. Would you please let me have a tasty recipe for yams —my husband is crying long and loudly for some. We had such delicious yams when we were South this year that I have a standard to live up to . . . what would we all do without you? . . . let me know the inner secrets of making candied yams taste so scrumptious.—Elizabeth D.

ANSWER:

It seems to me Elizabeth, that I have some good recipes of yours in my files—I think you could manage quite well.

CANDIED YAMS OR SWEET POTATOES

Cook 6 medium-sized sweet potatoes in their jackets until barely tender (not soft), drain and peel. Cut into 4 or 5 slices each, into a buttered casserole. Pour over them a syrup made of 1 cup brown sugar, 1-4 cup each water and butter, and 1-2 teaspoon salt, heated until blended. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr., basting and turning twice.

QUESTION:

I am writing for assistance in planning a Christening menu. . . . My adults and five children . . . and lovely little daughter, 2 months, "Brooke". When we had our son and other daughter christened we had the following menu —Cold ham and chicken, potato salad, green salad and tomatoes, devilled eggs, hot rolls, ice cream and cake, coffee. I thought this time I would like something different. . . . Would like to prepare the food ahead. . . . could you possibly help. . . . silly question as you have the answers to so many problems.—Phyllis M. C.

ANSWER:

I would suggest two menus: (1) Savoury Hot Roast Ham, Glazed Sweet Potatoes (see recipe above), Perfection Salad with Stuffed Tomato Garnish, Butter-Rite Sliced Pumpernickel Slices, Pink Ice Cream, Pink Frosted Christening Cake, Salted Nuts, Coffee, Milk. (3) Chicken a la King on Hot Split Biscuits Supreme, Tomato Jelly Moulds, Cheese-stuffed Celery, Gherkins, Angel Custard Dessert, Pink Mint Wafers, Coffee, Cocoa. Judging from your letter I think little Brooke has a merry life ahead of her.

QUESTION:

I am due to go to hospital soon and would like to make Christmas White Fruit Cake before going in.—Jennie M. K.

ANSWER:

Best of luck to you Jennie.

WHITE FRUIT CAKE

One cup soft shortening, 2 cups white sugar, 8 egg whites (beaten stiff and folded in last), 4 cups sifted all-purpose flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 cup water, 1 lb. white raisins, 1 lb. cut citron, 1-2 lb. each candied cherries, pineapple, orange peel, lemon peel, 1 lb. blanched almonds. Cream sugar and shortening. Sift dry ingredients. Add all but whites in order given. Bake at 300 deg. Fahr. 2 1-2 to 3 hours, in paper-lined tinned pan, with water pan below in oven.

BEAUTY

THE HOME SHAMPOO

Scrubbing the hairline with a soapy brush to remove any trace of cosmetics is an essential part of the shampoo.

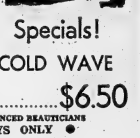
When you give yourself a shampoo chances are that what you mostly have in mind is how pretty your hair will look after it's been done. And you know, of course, that your hair can't possibly look pretty, shining and lustrous unless it's beautifully clean. And that's just fine—as far as it goes.

Actually, however, you should think of your scalp at the same time because you can't possibly have healthy hair if you haven't a healthy scalp. And hair cannot be beautiful if it is not healthy.

One of the most important aids to a healthy scalp is good circulation and this is best stimulated through massage. Therefore you should make every shampoo time scalp massaging time, too.

To be really effective, your home shampoo treatment should start with a good brushing while the hair is still dry. This will not only start up the circulation immediately but will help to remove atmospheric dust and excess oil from both scalp and hair. When you've brushed thoroughly for a few minutes give your scalp a nice, tingling glow, wet your hair thoroughly before you start lathering. And always remember that, for a really good shampoo, lots of lather and patient rinsing are essential.

Now, with your hair well lathered, you start your scalp massage. Do not use the palms of your hand but use your finger tips in rotating movements. And use plenty of pressure—enough to make it a bit uncomfortable. Keep this up until your head feels warm and tingliugly alive but be sure that you never scratch your scalp with your fingernails since abrasions there could rapidly lead to infection.



After you've completed your massage, rinse thoroughly and apply a second lathering. Rinse again—several times—and, if you have the time, a third lathering with plenty more rinsing is advisable. Emphasis must be placed on the rinsing since your hair cannot possibly be clean until it really "squeaks" as you run your hands over it. If it doesn't "squeak" that means you haven't gotten all the soap out, and soap deposits left on the scalp are detrimental to both the health and beauty of your hair.

While in the midst of the lathering process, it's a good idea to use a small soapy brush to scrub the hairline. Work it thoroughly across the forehead and at the sides of the face to remove any trace of powder or cosmetics. Many women, when giving themselves their nightly facial cleansing, don't go far enough into the hairline for fear of ruining their hairdos. This is wrong, of course, since every bit of make-up should be removed. Powder or any other cosmetic, such as foundation, allowed to accumulate at the hairline, can produce pimples, blackheads and other skin blemishes, so make it a point to remove all make-up at night and, just to be on the safe side, use that soapy brush around your hairline when shampooing.

St. Michael's C.W.L. Tea Bazaar Glowingly Successful

Baskets of fragrant pine, mingled with red poinsettias, scintillating bronze plumes and silver-leafed holly against the pastel-tinted green walls of the Kiwanis Centre formed a pretty setting for the bazaar and tea held Wednesday afternoon under the auspices of the C.W.L. of St. Michael's parish.

The various booths were prettily decorated with red and green in cutout patterns; gay garlands of red and green and fringes of iridescent red, green, gold, rose, silver and blue, while little silver bells in clusters were seen from many strategic points, all bearing out the Christmas motif.

Into this delightful Yuletide atmosphere the guests were welcomed by the gracious receptionists, Mrs. Ben Burley, president of the League, and Mrs. T. J. Flurey.

ATTRACTIVE BOOTHS

Around the large, spacious room were placed the attractive booths, beginning with a red brick post office with green trim, which was well patronized by eager ones seeking the mysterious parcels. This was under the supervision of the Sodality girls, the Misses Patricia Pigeau, Gwen Jones, Mary Trudeau and Mary Agnes Donoghue.

Close to this was the novelty booth, conveyed by Mrs. Gordon Power, assisted by Mrs. J. Farrell, Mrs. J. Walsh, Mrs. J. Martin, Mrs. A. Soden and Mrs. C. Casey. Here were some fine hand painted oil pictures depicting harbors with sailing vessels; a bevy of little figurines; Virgin and Child wall plaques; Sacred Christmas cards; silver deposit cream and sugar, and another set in cream china with flowery costume jewellery; water lily centrepiece; wall bracket flower holder in an orange design; and various plants including trailing strawberry plants, cacti, and others.

TOYS

In charge of the toy booth were Mrs. J. Watters, with assistants Mrs. J. Kelly and Mrs. J. Whalen. A most realistic "Davy Crockett" met the eye first, complete with the much-in-vogue outfit of raccoon hat and smock, which outfit went to the holder of the lucky ticket, Miss Marjorie Quinn. A lovely novelty doll was also won by Mrs. A. Latione both of which were donated by local people.

Among the many items offered were Peter Rabbits, doll suitcases; set of dishes in red with silver-colored flatware; stuffed animals; piggy banks; a calico plaid Scottie dog; dainty handkerchiefs; dolls in bibs and pink embroidered organdy dresses with matching picture hats; and rag dolls, which never lose their charm for little fingers.

The Peter Rabbits, doll suitcases; set of dishes in red with silver-colored flatware; stuffed animals; piggy banks; a calico plaid Scottie dog; dainty handkerchiefs; dolls in bibs and pink embroidered organdy dresses with matching picture hats; and rag dolls, which never lose their charm for little fingers.

The fancy work was convened by Mrs. A. Blaind with Mrs. J. Boyle, Mrs. T. Duggan and Mrs. A. McFee assisting. Lovely handkerchiefs in boxes; pillow slips, plain and fancy; tea towels; tea towels; frilled doily; dresser sets; kitchen set consisting of pot-holders and pin cushion, all in red; many little mitts of all sizes and colors; pink ... silk antimacassars with fringe; baby set in white crochet; bonnets; socks; heart-shaped cushions, and a beautiful brown felt shopping bag with floral centre. A lovely handmade quilt was won by Mrs. P. J. Kelly of Campbellford, and a big patchwork dog by Miss Ellen Messenger, also of Campbellford. These were donated by city residents.

APRONS

On the apron booth, which was under the direction of Mrs. W. Callaghan, assisted by Mrs. J. O'Connor and Mrs. J. Gallagher, could be found the answer to many a Christmas problem in this fine showing of nylon half aprons in green and mauve with lovely floral appliques; green gingham aprons; mauve nylons with rainbow ribbon stripe triangular pockets; prints and fancy-work aprons bound in wine satin around a huge basket of flowers; cobblers' aprons with their voluminous pockets; all-over aprons; cocktail aprons and almost any kind one might choose.

As usual the home-cooking booth was outstanding with all manner of pies, cakes, breads, tarts, cookies, angel cakes, jams and jellies and relishes, mustard pickles and marmalades. Those in charge here were: Mrs. E. Domenico, assisted by Mrs. W. Lee, Mrs. K. Burkitt, Mrs. T. Mascaro and Mrs. P. Feeney. A delicious looking chiffon cake was won by the Rev. Michael Simson and made by Mrs. San Domenico. A pretty little Christmas tree centred this booth lending a pleasing touch to an equally fine display.

JAMS—JELLIES

The jams and jellies had a table all to themselves, under the supervision of Mrs. V. McIntyre with Mrs. E. Brown, Mrs. Frawley and Mrs. C. Cox assisting. As well as the various tempting jellies and jams there were jars of relish; raspberries; pickled beets and a box of assorted jellies and relishes which became the property of the Very Rev. L. B. Garvin. This was donated by a city resident.

The candy booth was something that dreams are made of with its toothsome sweeties, neatly boxed and in little cups, filled to the brim with divinity-fudgey nutty maple creams and melting fudges. A lovely set of cellophane boxes of assorted candy was won by Miss Sheila Casey and Mrs. E. Logan. Convening this were Mrs. A. Morrell, assisted by Mrs. C. Young, Mrs. C. Burley, Mrs. J. Fitzgerald, Mrs. A. Fitzpatrick and Mrs. E. Haines.

GRAND DRAW

In charge of the tickets on the grand drawing, which consisted of a large oil painting, won by Mrs. Agnes Hurst, Belleville; the steam iron by Mr. W. Fowler, city; electric tea kettle by Joseph Deryaw, city; and set of dishes by J. V. Hamilton, were Mrs. S. Kroplnac, Mrs. J. Perrault and Mrs. D. Moran. The oil painting was painted and donated by Mrs. C. Murdock. Mr. E. J. Murphy drew the tickets.

Miss Alice Doyle assisted by Mrs. F. R. Ross, was in charge of the 15-pound Christmas cake, which was made by Mrs. Theda Lynch and won by Mrs. Grace Hendrick, Foxboro, R.R. 1.

The lovely dressed doll-bride and ten crisp dollar bills, in charge of Mrs. W. A. Graham and Mrs. G. Lloyd, was won by Tony Hanock, Mohrs Street West, City. The floral centrepiece by Mrs. A. Wilkinson and the door prize, a hamper of McIntosh reds, by ticket No. 104265, which may be obtained by contacting Mrs. Ben Burley at WO2-4329.

The tea room was upstairs where tall standards of fragrant pines and glowing red poinsettias carried out the Christmas theme, while twining bands of red set aside the little guest tables, each centred by a holder with pine sprays. Highlighted by one red poinsettia, from the long tea-table which occupied the northern end of the spacious room.

BEAUTIFULLY APPOINTED TABLE

Beautifully appointed with white damask, and tall red and white candles in tri-branched silver holders flanking an exquisite arrangement of white poms, red carnations and frosted oleander leaves mingled with fruits. Columbia huckleberry, and at either end the silver services, the tea-table was a symphony of loveliness.

Those who invited to the tea-room were, Mrs. W. Allore and Mrs. G. Donoghue, while presiding at the tea services were, Mrs. E. Logan and Miss K. Dolan; Mrs. E. Butler and Mrs. J. Boyd; Mrs. B. Flagler and Mrs. F. Fitzpatrick.

Those who served included: Mesdames R. Collins, W. Woolford, R. Barrett, Helen Patterson, G. Bell, H. Trepanier, G. O'Connor, S. Domenico, J. Morey, A. Berrigan, R. Cowan, C. Shannon, M. Ryan, P. Bellsle, J. O'Connor, B. Burley, L. Shiels, and the Misses L. Conway and K. Lafferty.

Replenishing: Mesdames T. Dolan, E. Lally, J. Boyle, B. Flagler. Mrs. R. Crull was responsible for the delicious tea, while Mrs. J. Winkle took charge of the silver and china. Mrs. J. Ehler had charge of the tickets.

The tea was under the direction of the Hospitality Committee of the C.W.L. with Mrs. George O'Brien as chairman, and Mrs. F. Hudon, Mrs. J. Trudeau, Mrs. A. Wilkinson and Miss Mary McLellan.

A candy sale and fish pond was featured in the early afternoon at St. Michael's Academy, with Mrs. S. Amo in charge of the fishing, assisted by Mrs. McDermott, Mrs. J. Sheridan and Mrs. R. McGillum. Mrs. C. Bailey sold the candy.

In charge of the admissions to the tea-room and door prize tickets were Mrs. J. Boyd, Mrs. C. Lovely and Mrs. F. Kelly.

Women's Activities

CARRYING PLACE W.A.

Mrs. Lloyd Mitts, 167 King St., Trenton was hostess for the November meeting of the Carrying Place United church W.A. Seventeen ladies were present.

Miss Hart presided over the devotional period, the theme of which was "The Way". "How Sweet the Name of Jesus Sounds" was followed by unison prayer. Mrs. Arnold Steenburg read the Scripture from St. John's Gospel, where Jesus foretells His coming for His own—for His Saints. Mrs. Frank Wilson gave the meditation on the Scripture, bringing attention to the fact that in daily life sincere prayer is the door to all miracles of good. Belief that God hears and answers is the key that opens the door.

Mrs. Bill Kemp, secretary, read the minutes of the October meeting which were adopted, as was the treasurer's report given by Mrs. Jack Baxter. This showed a profit of $200 and some cents on the chicken pie supper, which is most gratifying.

During business period, the ladies voted to buy three dozen tulip bulbs to add to those being planted by the Sunday school pupils. Plans were made for a bake sale at Trenton market, to be held November 26. Those in Gardenville are asked to leave their baking at Mrs. Stan Hart's the evening before, and Carrying Place women at Mrs. Bill Kemp's. Those in charge of the market sales are to be, Mrs. Hennessey, Mrs. Joe Rollins, Mrs. Jessie Taylor and Mrs. Jack Baxter. Pickles, jams, preserves of all kinds and candy are also welcome. Aprons, pillow slips, embroidered tea towels, scarves for dressers, pot holders, doilies, etc., are also being asked for.

The women have had previous experience with bake sales and their only regret has been they could have sold an much more. This time they are going "all-out" for a record day with the co-operation of members and friends of the congregation.

Mrs. Jack Baxter showed the church calendars for 1956 which are most attractive and helpful with their Scripture readings and verses for each day. Books and other gifts were also shown to be sold for the WA as well as Christmas cards.

Sympathy was expressed to Mrs. William Hendricks, Miss Margaret Harris and Mr. Frank Wilson, with all wishing for them early improvement.

The meeting closed with the theme hymn "Let the Beauty of Jesus be Seen in Me" followed by prayer.

Mrs. Hennessey and Mrs. Vader with the hostess, Mrs. Wilson served much welcome refreshments.

The next meeting will feature the annual Christmas party preceded by the election of the officers for 1956, and will be held at the home of the president, Mrs. Stan Hart.

Alderman McCabe Addresses Chatterton W.I. on C.A.S. Work

The November meeting of Chatterton Institute, was held at the home of Mrs. Harold Bloor, with an attendance of 17 members, six children and four babies. The opening exercises were as usual with Mrs. Ben Bleecker as convener.

Subject of meeting was 'Health'.

Business was dealt with; the treasurer's report was given and a few readings pertaining to Remembrance Day by Mrs. Bleecker, Mrs. Harry Reid, Mrs. Dixon, Mrs. Bloor, Mrs. Dixon gave "Current Events" which were good.

Mrs. Mitts gave a report of the convention on the theme "As a woman thinketh so is she."

Mrs. Gordon McCubbin of Warkworth, presided and community singing was led by Mrs. W. Insley with Mrs. Jack Parrott at the piano.

Roll call was answered by a one minute, talk from each district by the area vice-chairman of that district.

GUEST SPEAKER

The guest speaker of the day was Alderman, Mrs. Herbert McCabe, of Belleville, who brought the facts of the Children's Aid Society. "To me," said Mrs. McCabe, "this is stressing "Public Relations" as it should be; the city organizations making their appearance in the country organizations and so getting to understan each other."

Mrs. McCabe submitted facts and figures such as there are 55 Children's Aid Societies in the Province of Ontario and total annual disbursements are in excess of 7 1-2 million and together are approximately caring for 13,000 children as wards living away from their own homes. Also there are estimated 28,000 children under the care of these societies, but living in their own homes. There are about 3,500 foster homes throughout the province and more than 3,000 children are placed for adoption annually. As far back as 1924 a movement was a-foot to organize the society.

OFFICERS

In 1909, Mr. Herbert Wrightmeyer was appointed executive officer of the Society. In 1916 Capt. T. D. Ruston became superintendent and gave long years of service. In 1940, Mr. Lockyer took over the work. Mr. B. M. Kerr is present legal director, with the present board of directors as follows, president, one or more vice-presidents, a secretary, a treasurer, and two members of elected council of each of Belleville, Trenton and the county, and a total of not more than 35 other selected members. It is their responsibility to govern the society.

"The Children's Aid Society exists solely for the protection and welfare of children. It seeks to promote better family life; to try to improve inadequate and dependent families and, if the family fails entirely, to remove the children, by due process of law, and place them in another, more adequate family setting, that they may become good citizens."

12a FOSTER HOMES

"This Children's Aid now has approximately 130 foster homes, caring for nearly 200 children.

"There is one receiving home where infants are cared for.

"Some foster homes are used for what is termed, short-time placements.

A tremendous amount of care and work must be put forward to insure the child being put in the home best suited to his own individual needs.

"Each child receives a complete medical examination on admission, to care, and a future examination once a year thereafter, while in the custody of the Aid.

"The best medical resources are available to the Society and are utilized without hesitation."

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. Ben Bleecker and thanked by Mrs. Berson Mitts for an informative account of the Children's Aid Society.

Mrs. Gardiner put on a demonstration of a school-lunch.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Harold Bloor.

Bulganin and Khrushchev Get Welcome in New Delhi; On 18-Day Tour of India

By HAROLD K. MILKS

NEW DELHI (AP) — Russia's Premier Bulganin and the Soviet Communist party chief, Nikita S. Khrushchev, arrived in New Delhi today to begin an 18-day goodwill tour of India.

The two Russian leaders were greeted by Prime Minister Nehru and other high Indian officials at New Delhi's military airport, where thousands of persons had been assembling since early morning.

Bulganin and Khrushchev, on the first leg of a goodwill "invasion" of Southeast Asia, left Moscow early Thursday and flew to the Uzbek capital of Tashkent in central Asia for an overnight stop.

HUGE TURNOUT

An estimated million Indians lined the 12-mile route from New Delhi's military airfield to the presidential palace to see the visitors. Banners carried such slogans as "Russians and Indians are brothers" and "Long live peace."

Through the early morning move than 200 trucks shuttled along the parade route carrying Soviet and Indian flags for distribution to 20,000 school children for the airport reception.

The Indian capital was decorated lavishly for the welcome to the Russians, whose visit was set up five months ago when Nehru toured Russia as a guest of the Soviet government.

RIVALS DURBAR

Special trains brought thousands to the capital, and veteran residents predicted the welcome would rival any here since Britain's late King George V held a royal durbar — a reception for Indian princes — in 1911.

A government spokesman said there was no "declared holiday" but there "will be nobody working today." All government offices were closed.

Russia Obtained Hurricanes Which Canada Needed

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian-built Hurricane fighter planes needed by the RCAF in 1942 were allocated to Russia in Russia, Air Marshal W. A. Curtis said Thursday night.

The former chief of air staff and wartime deputy commander - in - chief of the RCAF overseas told a men's association meeting that the decision to allow acquisition of the Hurricanes in February or March, 1942, Japan had entered the war only a few months previously and an attack on Canada was feared.

Air Marshal Curtis said he was told at the time not to feel too badly about allocation of the planes to Russia. If their need for Canadian defence became urgent, Air Minister Power would intervene. He did not elaborate further.

The air marshal, now vice-chairman of the board of A. V. Roe Canada Ltd., Malton, Ont., also indicated that the new jet engine which will power the 1,500-mile-an-hour CF-105 interceptor may be ready for production in two years.

DESIGNED ENGINE

Avro is designing the PS-13 or Super-Orenda engine for the CF-105, Canada's first interceptor to the CF-100 jet interceptor now in RCAF squadron service.

Air Marshal Curtis said aircraft designers and engineers now are talking of a fighter plane that will travel 5,000 miles an hour and a rocket that will do 6,000 miles an hour.

Canada would be proud of the new Super-Orenda engine.

"You will hear a lot more about it in the next two or three years, probably two," he said. "The engine is going to be a surprise."

Air Marshal Curtis also said the Orenda Sabre—Canadair Ltd., of Montreal makes the airframe—is "the best day fighter there is today." It could outclimb, outrun and outmaneuvre American Sabres.

JUDGE SAVES FAMILY

CHICAGO (AP)—On his way to court Thursday Judge Cornelius J. Harrington stopped at a laundry to leave a bundle. He stayed to rescue the laundryman's family from asphyxiation from gas fumes. The chief justice of the criminal court found the laundry owner, Gus Loo, 30, staggering in a daze. His wife and their two children were unconscious. The judge threw open two windows and dragged the victims to safety.

Judge Denies Right to Adopt Father of Four

NEWARK, N.J. (AP)—A wealthy 76-year-old childless widow was denied Thursday the right to adopt a 36-year-old father of four children.

"Maybe some day you will understand that what I am doing is for your own protection," Superior Court Judge Mark A. Sullivan Jr., told Mrs. Mariam D. Hartman.

Mrs. Hartman is the widow of Fred Hartman, a General Electric Company executive who died a year ago. Court testimony indicated she is worth about $200,000.

In her application to adopt Arthur Gloss, Mrs. Hartman stated that Gloss and his wife had been kind to her and had helped around the house.

DOUBTS UNDERSTOOD

Sullivan said Mrs. Hartman had recently suffered a mental illness and he doubted if she fully understood the nature of her request although two physicians testified that she did.

He told the judge:

"Here's a woman of 76 with a great deal of money who meets and becomes maternally attached to a young man over a short period of time and seeks to make him her heir although she has other close relatives living."

After the judge turned down the application, Mrs. Hartman, a petite 120-pounder, asked to be heard.

"Maybe I'm selfish in wanting a son," she said. "If you have any children you can see why I want a legal son instead of a just pretended one. I beg of you to change your decree."

Will Be Charged With Trespassing

DRAYTON, Ont. (CP)—Twenty one charges of trespassing will be laid soon in connection with a Halloween shooting at the near-by farm of William Archibald, Ontario Provincial Police said Thursday.

Corporal B. J. Lynch of Mt. Forest OPP detachment said three charges of a different nature are pending and likely will be laid this week.

Roy Lambert, Drayton garage operator, was met with a shotgun volley when he went with five companions to play Hallowe'en pranks on Mr. Archibald, 67-year-old bachelor farmer. Lambert was struck in the eye, ear, shoulder, neck and head. Doctors removed his left eye in Guelph last week.

Police said another group of men had visited the farm before Lambert and similarly was greeted with a blast from a shotgun.

Three men were relieved struck but none was seriously injured. Police have not said who fired the gun.

20-Year-Old Lucknow Farmer Wins Guineas for Best Steer

TORONTO (CP)—Murray Gaunt, a 20-year-old junior farmer from Lucknow, Ont., Thursday night added to a starring role at the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair when he was presented with the Queen's Guineas by Lieutenant-Governor Louis O. Breithaupt of Ontario.

The Guineas, a highlight of the fair each year, are given for the best steer entered by an Ontario 4-H club member.

The prize was created nearly a century ago by King Edward VII, then Prince of Wales, for the development of agriculture in Ontario.

An Alberta breeder, E. D. F. Wood, Pincher Creek, received an award for grand champion steer with his 1,060-pound Hereford Princess, a Hereford, Mr. Noad was presented with the Alexander F. Westervelt Trophy, symbolic of Canadian beef cattle supremacy.

LEADS HORSE SHOW

In the horse show, the United States team swept into the lead Thursday night with its third win of the international jumping events held to date at the eight-day show.

Charles Dennehy, Jr., won the international two and two for United States, riding two horses in the event, Pillbox and Almeister. James Elder of Canada was second. Riders switch horses after one round.

Mexico has won two events, Ireland one and Canada is winless.

At the sale of the stars Thursday night, 29 head of Aberdeen-Angus beef cattle brought a total price of $31,375. The price of $2,000 was paid by Dr. Enrique Romero, Buenos Aires, who bought Anoka-mere 35th, bred and consigned by Edwards Bros., Arva and Watford.

Officials said the average price for the black beef breed Thursday night was about $300 above last year's figure.

HERO OF DAY

But for 176 young members of the 4-H club attending the fair, Murray Gaunt, the winner of the Queen's Guineas, was the hero of the day.

When his name was announced as winner in the afternoon, a crowd of club-reared compatriots hoisted him on their shoulders and carried the youthful farmer around the ring in the Coliseum.

Gaunt's winning entry, Silver Star, is a shorthorn steer, 19 months old and weighing 1,000 pounds. Reserve champion for the Guineas was Panther Lodge Eilesemere, the Angus entry of Keith Campbell, Middlesex county.

The winner of the Queen's Guineas was also awarded the Hon. T. L. Kennedy Trophy and $100 in prize money.

"A GREAT SHOW"

Agriculture Minister Thomas, in presenting the Kennedy award, called it "the climax of a great show."

The steer judging was the major livestock event of the fair. It attracted about 5,000 persons to the Coliseum. The reserve winner in the grand champion steer judging was an Aberdeen Angus, Blackie 3rd of Agincourt owned by Carr Hatch, Unionville, Ont.

Reserve champions in the four steer breeds were:

Shorthorn — Gordon R. Crow, Bespeler, Ont.; Hereford—Earl B. Savile, Alvinston, Ont.; Angus—Edwards brothers; Grades or cross breds—Ed Noad.

Also presented was the Alex G. Hall Challenge Trophy for champion beef carcass. It went to Edwards Bros. of Arva and Watford.

9 Years Given Pair for Armed Bank Robbery

THETFORD MINES, Que. (CP)—A man and his youthful girl companion were sentenced Thursday to a total of nine years in penitentiary after pleading guilty to the $30,000 armed robbery two days ago of a bank branch at Inverness, Que.

Marcel Cote, 24, and Huguette Thivierge, 21, both of Drummondville, Que., were sentenced to five and four years, respectively.

They were arrested only a quarter-hour after holding up a branch of the Royal Bank of Canada at Inverness, 15 miles north west of here.

Two Large Moose Hold Up Train

TIMMINS (CP) — Two large moose held up Thursday's southbound Ontario Northland Railway train from Cochrane for 20 minutes when they refused to leave the tracks, the ONR said.

The engineer decided to wait them out rather than risking damage to the front of the diesel locomotive. The animals stirred at the train for the 20 minutes and then sauntered off the right of way.

West Europe Federal Union Plan May Get New Impetus From Geneva Talks' Failure

By JOSEPH E. DYNAN

GENEVA (AP) — Leaders in western Europe's unification believe that the failure of the Big Four conference to reach an East-West settlement will give a new spurt to their long-stalled movement.

Many Europeans expected or hoped that the foreign ministers' meeting would produce some action to change the basis of European integration. That feeling now has evaporated.

The first reflection of the new emphasis on European unity comes this month when Jean Monnet's "action committee" holds its initial session in Paris.

Monnet was the author of the Schuman plan for the six-power European steel and coal community some three years ago. He hoped the "action committee" composed of political leaders in France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg, will spearhead a federal union in western Europe.

The political parties represented on Monnet's committee make up a parliamentary majority in each country.

A key element of the group are the West German Socialists, who in the past have been cool to European integration on the grounds it would obstruct German reunification.

The party opposed rearmament and the treaties tying Bonn to Western defence for that reason.

But their presence on the Monnet committee may herald for the first time a bipartisan foreign policy in Bonn. There are reports that the Socialists now may come around to Chancellor Adenauer's view that the best way to reunify Germany is to establish an "irresistible pole of attraction" in the West through strength and unity. This argument is that East Germans would be so attracted to a west European union that the Russians would not dare prevent a junction.

A Monnet scheme comes up to the government level later this month in a rport from technical experts on proposals for a pool of transport, nuclear energy and industrial power among the seven member countries of the WEU, the alliance that includes West Germany.

Sunday School Lesson

Christ's Call To Youth

By ROY L. SMITH

It we are inclined to be a bit critical of our young people, and if we talk of them as though they were all delinquents, let us remind ourselves that they did not make the world they are compelled to live in, neither are they responsible for the clamor of conflicting calls they hear. They will, however, be very wise if they listen to someone who can speak with authority, and not to some amateur at life who knows no more than they do. That means that, if they are to live magnificently, they will do well to listen to such a one as Jesus of Nazareth.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for November 20: "Evidence of Jesus' Power," Luke 7: 8-22-35.

In the story of the young man of Nain who was raised from the dead, and presented alive to his mother, there is an extremely significant word of command: "Young man, I saw to you, arise!" There is a very strong probability that, if Jesus were to return to the earth today and begin preaching to this generation, He would issue that same challenge to our modern youth.

After wandering about over the face of the earth and observing the hopelessness of life as it is faced by hundreds of millions of young people, He would undoubtedly say to American youngsters: "Arise to a new appreciation of your privileges as young Americans."

He could not fail to be impressed with the opportunities the American taxpayers have placed at the disposal of their young people. He could not fail to appreciate the abundance of good things with which American life is provided. He could not fail to take satisfaction in the freedoms, the liberties, and the rights that are accorded to boys and girls by the mere fact that they have been born to live under a democratic form of government.

And He would find it very difficult to understand the young man who said, "There's no chance any more. All the good ones have been taken, and all the great opportunities have been used up." To every teen-ager He would say: "Arise, and appreciate!"

New Sense of Responsibility

Understanding the world situation as He would, Jesus could hardly fail to challenge the American young man or woman today to arise to a new sense of his responsibility as a citizen of a democracy, to live as a citizen of the whole world.

The day is gone by when any race or nation can live to itself. Minor events in back provinces have a way of involving all the world in war. A depressed people, a retrograde race, an exploited province, and a people denied their rightful opportunity—these things have suddenly come to have world significance, and to shut one's eyes to them is to be blind to one's own best interests. Jesus would surely say: "Arise to a new sense of your own importance and your own responsibilities."

Just as He looked at life in His own day through the lenses of the spirit, so He would look at life in our day from the angle of the spiritual, and He would see immediately that every one of the great issues with which we are plagued is basically a spiritual issue.

Whether the impoverished and ignorant masses of Asia are to be provided with a new way of life is a spiritual question, even more than it is an economic problem. Whether the world is to accept the Communist or the democratic ideology is not a military question, but a spiritual dilemma. Whether we are to believe that the meaning of life is to be found within the soul of a man, or within his economic interests is certainly a spiritual problem.

For youth to try to live without spiritual skills is more hopeless than for him to try to live without an education in arts and science. Jesus would certainly say "Arise and be a great soul!"

Million Fans Can't Be Wrong

Montreal Alouettes, Eskimos Dominate East-West All-Stars

By WILF GRUBON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — The players picked by football fans for Canada's newest venture in gridiron glamor — the first annual East-West all-star game Saturday, Dec. 3—were announced Thursday night.

The fans, picking offensive and defensive teams from both East and West, showed an overwhelming preference for the two teams that dominated the country's major professional leagues during the season — Montreal Alouettes of the Big Four and Edmonton Eskimos of the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

The first meeting of the dream teams from the two sections of the country is at Toronto's Varsity Stadium, a week after the Grey Cup game in Vancouver. The all-star game is to alternate annually between East and West — in an eastern city when the Grey Cup is played in the west and in Vancouver when the Canadian championship is settled in the East.

PROCEEDS TO HOSPITALS

The all-star game is sponsored by the Toronto Star Weekly. Net proceeds are to be divided between Canadian Sinkers' Hospitals for crippled children in Montreal and Winnipeg.

A glittering pre-game parade and a colorful halftime demonstration will accompany this first clash between players the fans think are the best in East and West.

Although Montreal and Edmonton players predominate, every club in the WIFU and Big Four is represented.

The flashy Alouettes swept 11 places in the East, the greatest representation by any team. Edmonton placed 10 on the Western team. Seven Montreal players are on the eastern offensive lineup and six on the defensive squad. The 19 Edmonton players are divided evenly between offensive and defensive.

Here are the positions and players as announced by The Star Weekly which conducted the balloting:

Western offensive team:

Wingback—Lynn Bottoms, Calgary.

Halfbacks—Gerry James, Winnipeg; Ken Carpenter, Saskatchewan; Normie Kwong, Edmonton.

Quarterback—Jackie Parker, Edmonton.

Centre—Mel Beckett, Saskatchewan.

Guards: Frankie Morris, Edmonton; Art Walker, Edmonton.

Tackles—Dale Meinert, Edmonton; Dick Huffman, Winnipeg.

Ends—Ron Williams, Saskatchewan; Willie Roberts, Calgary.

Western defensive lineup:

Halfbacks—Orville Miles, Edmonton, Bobby Marlow, Saskatchewan; Gordon Rowland, Winnipeg.

Inside linebackers—Kurt Burris, Edmonton; Ted Fuhr, Edmonton.

Corner linebackers—Ray Willer, Edmonton; Mike King, Edmonton.

Middle guard—Ron Atchison, Saskatchewan.

Tackles—Martin Ruby, Saskatchewan; Buddy Tinsley, Winnipeg.

Ends—Gord Sturtridge, Saskatchewan; Norm Fieldgate, British Columbia Lions.

Eastern offensive lineup:

Wingback—Tom Tracy, Ottawa; Corky Tharp, Toronto. (Tied)

Halfbacks—Pat Abbruzzi, Montreal; Joey Pal, Montreal; Avatus Stone, Ottawa.

Quarterback—Sam Etcheverry, Montreal.

Centre—Tom Hugo, Montreal.

Guard: Bill Albright, Toronto.

Tackles—Ted Toulet, Montreal; Billy Shipp, Toronto.

Ends—Red O'Quinn, Montreal; Al Pfeifer, Toronto.

Weather Tricky For Junior Final

WINNIPEG (CP)—The weather man took a look at his crystal ball and said:

"It's too tricky. It's not clear-cut enough."

He was referring to a possible long-range forecast on the weather prospects at Winnipeg Saturday afternoon when Windsor AKO club defends its Canadian junior football title against the club it defeated last year, Winnipeg Rods.

One thing definite was that a storm brewing in British Columbia Thursday night is moving eastward. Manitoba might be in for more snow by Saturday.

At present, Winnipeg Stadium's gridiron is hard and practically free of snow, despite the heavy fall during the last week. Rods worked out for about one hour Thursday night and have another practice scheduled for late today.

Eastern fans are calling the AKO "the greatest junior football team ever" to represent Windsor. First team in history to compete in four consecutive Canada finals, the 1955 AKO moves into the final against Rods with a season record of nine victories and one tie in 10 starts.

All Work, No Wins

Injury-Riddled Maple Leafs Given Day Off from Toil; Meet Boston Bruins Saturday

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto Maple Leafs earned a day off by losing six straight National Hockey League games. That sounds odd but it's a fact.

General manager Hap Day gave his Leafs a day off Thursday. No practice. The boys just took things easy.

Day made the move after he studied a time chart which showed the length of time each player was on the ice Wednesday when Leafs dropped a 3-2 decision to Montreal Canadiens.

"Some of our fellows played a lot of hockey against Canadiens," Day said. "They had to kill many penalties. Defenceman Jim Morrison, for instance, played about 35 minutes. A rest might do them some good."

EVEN WORK

Time off from drills is rare around the Toronto camp, even when the team is on a hot winning streak. The Leaf brass always maintained that plenty of work kept the boys in shape.

But it can't do them much harm. The Toronto squad has lost six games in a row. They're in last place in the league race with only five wins in 15 games.

They won't see action again until Saturday night when they meet the third-place Boston Bruins at Toronto.

There is only one game tonight. The Bruins take on the fourth-place Black Hawks at Chicago.

A win for Bruins would give them a share of second spot with Rangers, who have 19 points, six behind Montreal. A Chicago win would hurl the Hawks into a third-place tie with Boston, each club having 15 points. Red Wings occupy the fifth position, with 12 points. Leafs are two behind the Wings.

PLAYERS HURT

Leafs had player woes following Wednesday's game against the Habs. They learned that veteran defenceman Jimmy Thomson will probably miss both weekend games. He suffered a groin injury.

That increased the injured Leaf list to four. Sid Smith missed his first game after 405 straight NHL starts last week when he pulled a groin muscle. He's still out and it's doubtful if the Toronto captain will see action Saturday. Right winger Eric Nesterenko and defenceman Tim Horton are also nursing injuries picked up during the last two weeks.

ORIOLES SHIFT

BALTIMORE (AP) — Off-the-diamond personnel of Baltimore Orioles, who went through nearly 90 changes on the field last season, will be shifted today.

Clarence W. Miles, the promoter of the money move the American League franchise from St. Louis to Baltimore two years ago, is stepping out as president. His law partner, Clyde Morris, is following him out as treasurer.

READY FOR FAINT

Fir plywood needs little sanding on most jobs. Sanded panels come from the mill smooth and ready for paint or stain.

Petes, Redskins Ready For Title Battle

FORT WILLIAM (CP) — Fort William Redskins, representing western Canada in the Canadian intermediate football playoffs for the second time in three years, left Thursday for Peterborough, where they meet the Orfuns in the sudden-death final Saturday.

Forty-one players boarded the train for the east. Coach Jack James calls this year's unbeaten team the finest the Redskins have ever produced.

Lakehead champions for the last six years, they moved into the Canadian finals after whipping the defending Canadian champions, Winnipeg Rizes, in a western semi-final and drubbing Victoria Oak Bay Drakes in the final here last Saturday.

JUST ONE TIE

Redskins started the season with their only tie, against Fort William Roughriders. From then on they piled up lopsided scores. They swept the best-of-three Lakehead finals in two straight games.

Orfuns moved into the final last weekend after defeating Montreal Lakeshore Athletic Club to take the eastern intermediate title. Redskins lost the Canadian final to Flyers in 1953.

Carrying a strong defensive line and a fast-stepping backfield, Fort William is expected to steer clear of a wide-open passing game in Peterborough. Their running attack has taken them to the finals and it is doubtful if James will alter his offence now.

Tail-Twisting Didn't Work

Lions' Brass Pulls No Punches Stukus Is Out-That's That

VANCOUVER (CP)—The men who operate the British Columbia Lions, sitting in judgment on their elected directors, put their seal of approval Thursday on the dismissal of coach Annis Stukus.

A wave of public resentment and controversy was stirred up when Stukus was dismissed as head coach of the Western Interprovincial Football Union Lions Oct. 27. Directors voted 13-to-10 against renewing his $12,000-a-year, three-year contract.

Don Mackenzie, president of the Lions, Thursday made public the detailed reasons for the directors' action in failing to renew the contract.

The speech denounced the manner in which it affair was handled by the press. Of the 200 members who attended the extraordinary session, only one voted against accepting the president's report. There are 2,200 voting members on the Lions' rolls and 100 are needed to form a quorum.

CALL STUKUS

Stukus, attending the meeting in his capacity as head coach—his term expires Dec. 15—was called to the dais by Mackenzie and said:

"This has turned out to be the best thing that ever happened to me. I have no regrets, no animosity and no bitterness.

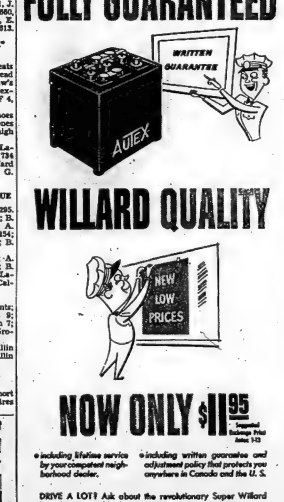
"The directors saw their duty and they did it. We got excited for a couple of days. Now let's forget about everything and get on to 1956."

"The reason for the majority decision of the board of directors was clear," Mackenzie said. "They did not wish to rehire Annis Stukus because they felt they could hire another man, better qualified for that position and that the many attributes of Annis could be better utilized in another executive position with the club to the betterment of the club, of football generally and of Annis himself."

NEVER FIRED

Mackenzie insisted Stukus was never fired but that it was a case of non-renewal of contract.

"It was the express desire of every single director that he remain with the club in an executive position."



Mackenzie said he had been asked to speak for the directors at the meeting and said he too would resign if a vote of non-confidence, forcing the resignation of the directors, was passed.

He said the unnamed director who identified to the press those 13 directors who voted against Stukus was a "spineless individual . . . who places his personal ambitions far above his responsibilities to the club and to football generally."

COLTS HERE TONIGHT

What shapes up to be one of the hardest-fought games to date in the senior "B" circuit hereabouts should be on tap tonight when the TPT's cross rapiers with the up-and-coming Cornwall Colts. The Colts, in a rampaging third period rally, overcame a two-goal deficit against Brockville the other night and snatched a tie out of what appeared to be certain defeat.

It was stated last night that Toodie Greenlaw, Peterborough star who signed with the TPT's and was forced to quit due to business reasons, will be back in the fold tonight. Toodie should prove a needed asset to the Coxmen who should be at full strength, what with Bob Wilson, having served his three-game suspension. At that the TPT's have not forgiten that 8-3 drubbing handed them by the Colts in the down-east corral last Sunday and will be out to avenge that setback.

The Men o' Miron have strengthened considerably of late and have no intention of adorning the cellar position of the group standing, regardless of which team pays the fare. They have won and tied in their last two outings, after dropping four games in a row and they will be in no mood to accept defeat this evening.

Meanwhile, the Whitby Dunlops, whose allegedly invincibility was rudely shattered the other night at the hands of the Brockville Maredemos, tangle with the Kingston Goodmans in Kaddenfoot, cast o' here, in what should be another ice-lane classic. There were plenty of high flinks the last time these clubs stashed and tonight may see plenty of fireworks down in Mike Rodden's ballyrick.

IN AND OUT!

It is true that the Ontario Hockey Association's referees-in-chief will hold his black-and-white-striped whistle-tooting hirelings to toss the book, the bookcase and the hull dunged lib'y at any hockey player who dares to cast a dirty look at the bonor-able opposition, from now on. Referee-in-chief Jerry Iserlo's lecture 575653429 that comes under the head of "consistency."

If reports of the printed word sifting in from various parts of the eastern senior "B" circuit as well as other sections of Cecil Frost's sprawling ballwick are true, the sweater-and-galoshes brigade are about as consistent as a sugar-hungry chorine.

Criticism of officials is usually the first alibi to be grabbed by supporters of the losing team. Like, that squawk that came out of Whitby after the Dunnies of that village were allegedly disallowed a pair of goals by "erring" officials which, if they had been allowed, would have changed the course of history, kept the unbeaten record of the Blairmen intact and robbed the good folk of Brockville of a joyous night of delayed celebration.

Here in Belleville up to the present state of senior "B" affairs, the situation has been that the arbiters have worn out one pet of books and are well on the way through another. They have toned out sentences that appeared to be faithful—and the press box—as crowding the borderline too closely, while some were given for reasons known to the officials only.

Kingston Goodyears had the same trouble in an ice tussle with the Whitby Dunlops. Coach Les Douglas charged that his team captains were not allowed to carry the cause of penalities and on one occasion one was given a misconduct before he had a chance to let the fresh air bathe his tonsils.

The shoe was on the other foot down Cornwall way recently when our side became embattled with the rampaging Colts of the riverside city. Thirteen penalties were called in a howling second period, fourteen in the four miscondcuts, game misconducts and minors. Prior to this, and which observers claim led to the embroglio which included fisticuffs on the ice and in the penalty box, with spectators involved, the officials, who hailed from Ottawa, and are still wondering what was contained in that first Pattersonian edict, let everything but mayhem go by the boards. "We could see that second period battle coming a mile off," quoth one observer.

Up in Western Ontario the senior clubs are having their troubles with officiating of various sorts. Here is what Chick Appel, sports editor of the Stratford Beacon-Herald, columned after an ice battle in his city:

"We don't think for a moment that referee-in-chief Pat Patterson of the OHA would have disagreed with his two hirelings, Maurice Walsh and Vern Buffey, who handled Saturday night's game, because he has to back up his referees. Yet, it would have been interesting to hear his reasons after that game, which saw much interference, hooking and holding of both teams, most of which was overlooked, had he been present. The press box occupants were unanimous that the officiating was lax and inconsistent, which resulted in rife frayed tempers as the game progressed and there were occasions when the least spark might have caused a good-sized brawl. Criticising referees when your team loses is usually considered an alibi, so let's get this straight—the Dutchmen deserved to win the game, even though the Indians served 12 penalties to the Dutchmen's four, but it was no fault of the referees that the game did not wind up in a hassle."

Waits 50 Years For Second Kick

VANCOUVER (CP) — Hugh C. (Bull)' Ritchie of New Westminster, B.C., will be rewarded almost 50 years for a second kick, gets the chance here Nov. 26.

Ritchie was a star of the first Grey Cup game in Toronto, Dec. 2, 1909. He kicked off to start the game.

Invited to kick off the 1955 Grey Cup contest here this month, the 67-year-old engineer said:

"This is quite an honor. I've waited 46 years to kick off the second time."

HUNT GREY CUP

VANCOUVER (CP)—A 24-hour search for football's Grey Cup by the Vancouver Junior Chamber of Commerce ended successfully Thursday.

The trophy, awarded to the winner of Canada's East-West football final to be played here Nov. 26, was in the safekeeping of Vancouver Wednesday for display in a department store.

Television cameramen, news photographers and models were on hand for picture-taking, but the cup was missing.

Officials of Edmonton Eskimos, last year's winners, were reached by phone. They were sorry; they had neglected to send the cup; it would be air-expressed immediately.

Upholstered Alouettes Work In 20-Degree Atmosphere; Dublinski, Cold Argo Hopes

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto Argonauts head for Montreal today on a right wing and a prayer. The right wing is quarterback Tom Dublinski's throwing arm, and the prayer is that cold weather will slow Alouettes down.

The Argos are telling themselves these factors will carry them past the Als, into the Grey Cup game at Vancouver Nov. 26, despite quoted odds against them of 5 to 2 or 10 points for even money.

Coach Bill Swiacki and he thinks cold weather or a snowy field won't have much effect on either team, but any advantage will go to his Montreal Stadium mates, who play with the quarterbacks doing a lot of throwing. If it's cold, the ball is going to be a bit harder to peddle. But Tom (Dublinski) has more experience playing in cold weather than Etcheverry and he's proved he can handle himself well. The weather shouldn't bother him."

THINES GOOD CHANCE

Swiacki hemmed and hawed over making predictions, but finally said the Argos had a good chance of winning "if they don't make any mistakes."

"I don't like to say too much before a big game, but we'll surprise a lot of people if we football all the way. We can't make any mistakes at all if we expect to beat that club.

"They're stronger now than at any time since the season started. We were troubled all the way through by injuries by players, and we just didn't have any good Canadian replacements for them. That's what licked us."

Halfback Royal Copeland will be the only Argo not dressed for the game because of injuries. He's still suffering from a shoulder injury suffered four weeks ago.

MONTREAL (CP) — Sharpening up the Montreal Alouettes for Saturday's eastern final clash against Toronto Argonauts has taken on the appearance of an acclimatizing process, replete with mittens, toques, heavy sweaters and all.

The Als go into their last practice session tonight prepared for another session literally under wraps.

Coach Douglas (Peahead) Walker bundled himself up in the heaviest sweater he could find and hands on Thursday night while his charges worked out in 20-degree weather and a bitterly cold wind that swept the field.

The man from Alabama, by way of North Carolina, was cold and shivering. But he wasn't too numbed to engineer some changes in the deployment of his players, changes undoubtedly aimed at strengthening Alouettes' pass defence against Tom Dublinski and his Argo mates.

ONE CHANGE

One shift sent J. C. Caroline to the left corner-back spot in place of Sam Darragh. Caroline has been working at left halfback on defence during the absence of Johnny Williams, now recovered from injuries. Williams is a good starter at left-half defensive place.

In another shift, Walker sent flying wing Joey Pal into the safety spot on defence instead of Bruce Coulter, who indicated that Pal will see plenty of double duty. The assignment of Caroline to corner-backer is believed to have been made because the fleet halfback is a good tackler.

On the offence, the first-string backfield of Pal Schuriet, Jacques Belec and Caroline was kept intact Thursday night.

But with his second-string backfield Walker made another change, taking Ralph Kempo and Hugh Campbell out. This was seen as further indication that the Alouettes would use the key man in the pass defence and will be given plenty of rest in order to do that job.

Johnny Blatcher, normally a flying wing, was put in the back field, along with Bill Bewley and Sam Darragh. With the change Blatcher went to fullback, Bewley to right half and Darragh remained at left half. Before the change Bewley worked at fullback, with Williams at right and Darragh at left.

The biting cold weather is considered a new experience for some of the players. Williams, who hails from San Antonio, said he had never played in such cold weather. Jean Arbuzzi, from Rhode Island, found it uncomfortably cold.

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—Lew Hoad and Ken Rosewall, Australia's Davis Cup stars, Thursday reached the finals of the New South Wales tennis championships. They meet Saturday on the White City courts.

OPERATE ON KNEES

LOS ANGELES (AP) — New York Yankee outfielder Irv Noren will undergo operations on both knees today, Dr. Robert Kerlan, co-owner of the baseball club, said Thursday night. Wehr said he had been assured that Noren's career "will be as good as new" after the operation.

Gerry Goyer Scores Twice For Biltmores

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto St. Michael's Majors are tied for second place in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A standings. Their coach, Rev. John Crowley, is a little surprised, too. Father Crowley predicted before the season started last month that his club wouldn't be any threat to the leaders in the league this season.

Thursday night St. Michael's climbed into a tie for the runner-up position by defeating the previous league - leading Hamilton Red Wings 4-3 while, idle, Waterloo Canucks took over first place by winning their fifth straight game 4-3 against Guelph Biltmores.

THE STANDING

Kitchener has 12 points, one ahead of Hamilton and the Majors. In fourth place are Barrie Flyers, eight points, followed by Toronto Marlboros, who have seven. Guelph has six points, two points behind Marlboros and St. Catharines Teepees occupy the cellar with two wins in five games, good for four points.

St. Michael's has broke a 1-1 tie in the second period with two quick goals in the 1.30 time at Hamilton. In the last frame, the Majors outscored Hamilton 3-1 to win their fifth game in nine starts. Gerry Goyer, lost three and tied the other.

Frank Mahovlich, Pat Hannigan, Bob McKnight, Tim Hook and Louis Angotti scored for the Majors.

Bill Blaine and Lloyd Haddon counted the losers' goals. Haddon's tally gave Cubs a temporary 1-1 tie in the first period. Blaine's goal came in the last period.

At Kitchener, before 754 fans, the Canucks notched a 2-0 lead in the first period and held a 3-1 lead after two periods. Kitchener Rangers scored the winners 3-1 in the final 20 minutes. Kent Douglas, Sonny Meeker, Ken Gribbon and Stan Balluk were the Canucks' marksmen. Every Goyer led Guelph with a pair of goals and Eddie Shack scored the other.

Filchock Signs As Rider Coach

REGINA (CP)—Frank Filchock, coach of Saskatchewan Roughriders for the past three seasons, Thursday signed a contract to pilot the Western Interprovincial Football Union team for a fourth term.

His signing was announced by Don McDiarmid, Rider Vice-president, who also said Enny Carpenter, all-round backfielder who won the league scoring championship with 18 touchdowns—a WIFU record—signed in 1956. Carpenter came to Saskatchewan in 1954.

They'll Do It Every Time — By Jimmy Hatlo

African Giant Won't Fight In America

LONDON (AP) — Giant Ewart Potgieter won't be going to America to fight after all. He can't fight well enough.

Instead the 7-foot, 8-inch, 325-pound Boer will be transported back to the Transvaal.

Pottie is the massive South African who was getting a Primo Carnera-type buildup before moving into the American market.

But Tuesday night James J. Parker—a diminutive Canadian at 225 pounds and six feet, five inches super-exposed Pottie. Parker and Pottie officially were ruled by the referee in the eight and drew although the consensus was Parker won the slow, sluggish scrap by at least seven rounds to three.

Maybe a year or two from now, after Pottie has learned to fight, he will take the big money trek to America.

Pastrano Meets Rowan Tonight

NEW YORK (AP)—Joe Rowan, a full-time steel mill worker and a part-time fighter until last summer, thinks he has a surprise in store tonight for favored Willie Pastrano and the experts.

The 21-year-old Phoenixville, Pa., heavyweight is a 4-to-1 underdog in the 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden. Pastrano is the world's No. 7 light heavyweight. Rowan is unranked.

"Full time fighting is easy," said Rowan, a solidly built, 5-11, 190-pounder. "The way I'm training now, Pastrano and a few others may be fooled. With a couple of breaks I might be up there fighting for the heavyweight title in a year or two."

Joe hasn't been beaten in the last 13 months. His non-losing string includes eight victories and one draw.

'Watch It on TV'—

Canadian Rugby Union Brass Hands Larks' Band Brush-Off

By W. R. WHEATLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—So far as the Canadian Rugby Union is concerned, the famous Alouette band and majorettes can see the Grey Cup game on television. Seemingly an official and cordial invitation from the city of Vancouver didn't matter.

The CRU cushioned the rebuff to the pride and joy of Montreal's Big Four football club—and a rebuff to the city of Montreal itself—by offering to arrange the TV showing in a church.

Happily, the club has decided to do something. It will scrounge enough seats from its allotment or somewhere or other and pay hard cash to get the bandsmen and girls into the game. Whether they will be seated together or scattered all over Empire Stadium no one yet knows.

CRU SAID NO

The Alouette club offered to pay for construction of temporary bleachers to seat the colorful contingent from the East—45 bandsmen, their leader, a drum major and 16 majorettes. The CRU said no.

The CRU condescended to allow some provision for public appearance of the group which, after all, is being hauled clear across the continent just for that purpose.

The band and majorettes can participate in the Grey Cup parade through Vancouver streets. They can also put on their show within the stadium before the game but they mustn't march or step toe on the field if it is wet. They'll have to take to the track.

After that, said the CRU, the band and majorettes would have to leave the stadium. They can have no part in any half-time spectacle.

REGARDLESS OF WINNER

The Alouette troupe, spic and span in their cardinal red and white uniforms, goes west for the East-West football battle regardless of the outcome of Saturday's meeting here between Alouettes and Toronto Argonauts. Essentially the group will represent the eastern winner as well as the city of Montreal and the Alouette football club.

The CRU knew as far back as last March that plans were being made to send the Alouette aggregation to the 1955 Grey Cup game. The Alouette management wrote to the CRU to that effect on behalf of the city, suggesting that provision be made.

The Alouette band, along with the majorettes, is backed primarily by the Alouette Football Council, active supporters of the club.

The official letter from Vancouver to the Alouette council inviting the band to the 1955 game was dated Aug. 8, last, and signed by acting Mayor G. T. Cunningham. It said he had learned there might be a way of financing the band's trip to Vancouver and he thought this "a wonderful gesture on the part of Montreal."

Mr. Cunningham extended an "enthusiastic invitation" on behalf of Vancouver and its citizens and said he knew his action had the endorsement of Mayor F. J. Hume.

Commies Won't Box in Indiana Says Official

WASHINGTON (AP) — Professional boxers and wrestlers who are Communists can't get a license to perform in Indiana. And that, one of the state's boxing rulers told Senate investigators Thursday, is exactly how he wants it.

Arch Hindman, executive secretary of the Indiana state athletic commission, told a Senate subcommittee on constitutional rights that his agency wants no Red to use proficiency in the boxing or wrestling ring "to become a hero in the eyes of our youth.

"It's against the law to be a Communist in Indiana," he said.

MUST SWEAR

Hindman said that to get a license, the professional boxer or wrestler must profess to the commission that he has never been a Communist or a member of any organization "which advocates overthrow of the American form of government."

Leo Hocker, counsel to the subcommittee which is studying whether citizens have suffered infringement of constitutional rights, suggested that from a legalistic standpoint, the term "American form of government" was rather vague.

Not so, Hindman countered. "It's the form of government we have in the United States."

Eskimos Send Scout To Eastern Final

EDMONTON (CP)—Centre Kurt Burris of Edmonton Eskimos had the only worrisome injury among the western Grey Cup contenders today.

Doctors who looked over the Eskimo casualties Thursday said the centre definitely suffered a torn knee ligament as the team eliminated Winnipeg Blue Bombers Wednesday in the Western Interprovincial Football Union final.

Coach Frank Ivy said he would not know just how serious the injury is until the team goes through a light workout. It will be the squad's first work since Wednesday.

The doctors had good news about halfback Rollie Miles, fullback Johnny Bright and end Bob Heydenfeldt. They said Miles should recover from a bruised knee with little trouble, that Bright's charley horse is not too serious and that Heydenfeldt's frozen heel is on the mend.

With the weather warming only slightly here, Ivy said there was a good chance the Eskimos would fly to Vancouver Sunday to prepare for the big East-West game one week from Saturday.

The most important document Ivy can get right now is a scouting report from former centre Eagle Keys, who will scout the Montreal-Toronto game. Among other things, it will affect the coach's choice of imports for the Grey Cup. They could play 12 in WIFU competition but may only dress 10 to play the easterners.

WILL SUPPORT MOVE

Sr. LOUIS (AP)—General manager Frank Lane said Thursday the St. Louis Cardinals will support a proposal that would make all minor league players subject to draft after one year in professional baseball if they're not moved to a major league roster.

"You're coming closer all the time, Griswold. Maybe you'll frighten one to death yet!"

SAME NAME, NO BROTHERS

KARNAK, Ill. (CP) — Karnak high school's basketball roster reads like a scorekeeper's nightmare.

Five Douglas boys are members of the Pulaski county school's varsity squad and none of them are brothers.

Wayne is an uncle to Clyde and Ronnie. Noel and Donnie are cousins.

Minor Hockey

The squirt and midget sections of the Belleville minor hockey association opened their 1955 - 56 schedules last night with close scores featuring all six games.

Squirt action saw the Canadiens down the Maple Leafs 3-2, Rangers nose the Bruins 3-2 and the Black Hawks squeeze by the Red Wings 2-1. Two midget games were ties. Teams One and Six battled to a 2-2 decision as did Teams Two and Six while Team Four whipped Team Three 4-3.

SQUIRT

In the Canadiens' barrow victory, Brian Williams scored the only goal of the game.

Allen Mott carried the Rangers to victory, scoring all three of his team's goals. Jimmy McGuire was the Bruin sparkplug with both his club's markers.

Richard Eves starred for the Black Hawks with both goals while Bill Graydon netted the lone Red Wing counter.

MIDGET

Unassisted goals by Gary Rowbotham and Clarke gave Team One their tie while Earl MacDonald from Brennan and Jack Elliott and John Brennan from Boulter accounted for Team Five's scoring plays.

In the second tie game, Gilpin and R. Hull scored for Team Two with Dave Coe and Clarke getting assists. Dever and Skelly were Team Six's marksmen with Smith, Box and Regent drawing helpers.

Jim Ellis paced the Team Five to victory with a goal and assist while Dick Hurst, Murphy and Henry also scored. Henry picked up an assist. Dennis Kerruish, Boomhower and Norm Bushlow fired for Team Three goals with Alyea gaining one assist.

The pee wee and bantam leagues open on Saturday morning with three games scheduled for each division.

YANKS BEAT SOLDIERS

NAHA, Okinawa (AP) — New York Yankees Thursday crushed the Okinawa all-star (U.S. service team, 9-1.

The Yanks blasted five homers, two each by Andy Carey and Bob Cerv and one by Tommy Byrne, starting and winning pitcher. The Yankees then left for the Philippines.

Connie Mack Fractures Hip Misses Party

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Old timers and admiring younger fellows gave a pre-birthday party for Connie Mack Thursday night, but the great man couldn't be there.

On Oct. 5 the baseball patriarch fell from his bed and suffered a right hip fracture. While in the hospital he fell from bed a second time. Later in October he underwent surgery, and is' what seemed like a long time at all he was back home and reported to be fit indeed for a man who will turn 93 on Dec. 22. Thursday night's party was held for his first venture out and at the 150 persons—club members, civic leaders, baseball fans and baseball giants of yore—waited for more than two hours. But his family and physician felt it inadvisable for him to make the effort to appear.

REMINISCENCES

Thus it came about that baseball stars of other times, men such as Frank 'Home Run' Baker, Bing Miller, Lena Blackburn and Howard Ehmke, gathered around the chair that was meant for Connie Mack. They spoke mistily of him as a friend and as a master baseball strategist who guided the Philadelphia Athletics to one-time dominance in baseball.

The loudest applause was cheered when he announced that President Eisenhower had sent this telegram:

"Dear Connie Mack.

"My warm personal congratulations are yours on the observance of your 93rd birthday.

"With all your friends in Philadelphia and throughout the nation, I join once again in an enthusiastic salute to you for your services to baseball, and in best wishes for continuing happiness."

Commission Hands Suspensions To Smith Managers

SCRANTON, Pa. (AP) — The Pennsylvania state athletic commission Thursday suspended the managers of lightweight champion Wallace (Bud) Smith and said it expected the section to be recognized nationally.

James H. (Sleepy Jim) Crowley announced the suspension of Anthony Ferrante and Carmen Graziano, top-ranked Smith, Joey Giardello, middleweight contender, and numerous other fighters.

Crowley listed this four-point inquiry against Graziano and Ferrante:

1. That their conduct and behavior had resulted in grossly and incompetent by reason of their habits.

2. That they had been guilty of unprofessional and unethical conduct.

3. That they had by their conduct and behavior endangered themselves in a manner detrimental to the best interests of boxing generally and to the public welfare and general welfare.

4. That they were associating and consorting with criminals, gamblers, bookmakers and persons of similar ill-repute and with persons of no known or visible means of livelihood, and that they had themselves engaged and were engaging in similar pursuits and conduct.

Graziano and Ferrante were given a hearing last Sept. 12 to show cause why their licences should not be suspended or revoked. The commission's decision to suspend the licences is the result of that hearing.

BOYS GOT MAD

SPOKANE (AP) — Whitworth College students, who have no gripes with the football coach, went out in eight-degree cold Wednesday night and hanged the weather man in effigy.

The Whitworth football team is on a goo8 hot streak of 16 straight victories but the weather-man has the worst for November in 75 years.

Big Battles On Tap In US Football

NEW YORK (AP)—There'll be a flock of traditional battles in college football this weekend, but for all practical purposes there are just two games on the schedule—Ohio State at Michigan and Southern California vs UCLA.

Both are on tap Saturday afternoon and the Rose Bowl lineup should not be surprised.

Michigan can take the Big Ten title and the Jan. 2 berth with a victory. University of the College of Los Angeles can win the Pacific Coast conference crown by defeating the Trojans.

Ohio State has first the Big Ten at stake. The Buckeyes can't go to the Rose Bowl since they performed there last New Year's Day. But by knocking off or tying sixth-ranked Michigan, the Bucks could hand-the bowl-berth to third-rated Michigan State, which wraps up the regular season against non-league Marquette in perhaps the worst mismatch of the year.

'Church of the Air' Has Been On Air for Past 24 Years

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the most popular radio programs on the air is not a quiz, variety or comedy program. It's a religious program called "Church of the Air."

During the 24 years of its radio history CBS' "Church of the Air" has presented more than 3,000 clergymen of Protestant, Roman Catholic, Jewish and Orthodox faiths, and hundreds of thousands of letters have written in gratitude for inspiration they received from the program.

"'Church of the Air' is not really a church service," says its guiding force, Grenville Crothers, the director of educational and religious broadcasts. "It cuts down the formal church service to good lit-urgical music, a prayer, Scripture and a brief inspirational message."

The advice Crothers most frequently gives guest clergymen is this: "You are not selling ethics or entertainment. Let's get real religion in what you have to say. Our radio represents the most effective way of preaching the Gospel that man ever invented."

LIKE TO TALK

CBS is aided in running the program by a board of consultants from many faiths. Leaders of all the major faiths have praised the program highly.

"A universal characteristic of all clergymen," says Crothers, "is to want to speak longer than the time allotted. Almost invariably they'll stretch a 13-minute talk into 14 minutes. In rehearsal it will be 12 minutes. On the air it will be 14 minutes.

Since every clergyman except one who ever appeared on the program read from a script, Crothers is at a loss to explain how this happens. But happen it does.

The clergyman who did not use a script was Bishop Fulton J. Sheen, AT whom he said, modestly, asked Crother how long he was to talk, and was told 15 minutes. He completed his message exactly 13½ minutes after he began.

Hollywood Building Legend Around Late James Dean

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—This town, which specializes in legends, is building another around the late James Dean.

The 24-year-old actor died in a highway crash Sept. 30, yet he is as much in the public consciousness as he was when he lived. Perhaps more so. Men of genius who die young always excite the imagination.

Hollywood is agreed that Dean was a genius. Says Nick Ray, who directed him in one of his last pictures: "I think within two years Jim would have taken his place with Laurence Olivier, Gerard Philipe and Marlon Brando as one of the great actors of modern times."

Dean's death hit Ray especially hard. A bond had been established between the director and Dean during the year they knew each other and worked together. Ray had planned to form their own company.

DIRECTED DEAN

Ray directed Dean in 'Rebel Without a Cause." He told of making unusual preparations for being honored for an Oscar.

"I had heard from everyone that Jim was difficult to work with," the director said, "So I decided to spend as much time with him which specializes in legends, is form the picture as I could.

"I went East and found out how he lived back there, the kind of music he liked, all about him. I had him spend a lot of time with my son, who is 17, I wanted him to experience the relationship with a younger boy, as he had to enact in the picture.

"I found that Jim wasn't dim-witted at all. He was a tremendously vital, gifted and earnest young man."

His reputation for eccentric behavior was due to the fact that he was still growing up, Ray thinks.

"Jim had a lot of maturing to do. He had had a rugged boyhood. His mother had died when he was 9, and he could never quite forgive her for that."

The love of racing was part of the growing-up process, said Ray, himself a car enthusiast.

"I'm sure he would have given it up in a couple of years."

Although Dean is gone, his influence is prominent as ever. "Rebel" is doing big business, and he'll be seen in "Giant," next year. Already he's being honored for an Oscar. The magazines are full of stories about him, and books are being planned, including one by Ray.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Saturday, Nov. 19, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — A promising day for wholesome and sturdy activities, mental and useful activities. Avoid quick temper and a sharp manner if you wish helpful cooperation from others.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Although this day sponsors difficult and laborious tasks, it also encourages wholesome recreation in leisure hours, invites study and other activities needed and enjoyed by good-living folk.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Good advice to Taurus now. You may enjoy some healthy pleasure even though you have work to do. Control emotions. Look at things from others' point of view, too.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Avoid "moods," desire and fear. Show your innate fine judgment and good humor (you have an abundance of both) and do important tasks first. Then take time for lazy recreation.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Your Sun and Saturn in auspicious aspects. All worthwhile activities should yield profitable, pleasant returns. Mars' position warns against ill temper, impatience.

August 24 to September 23 — (Virgo) — A healthy outlook for healthy thoughts, goings. Plan according to your ability to deliver. And, remember, you do need some time for rest and recreation, so allocate tasks with that thought in mind.

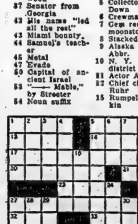
September 24 to October 23 — (Libra) — Personal affairs have improved aspects, can bring happiness, contentment if thoughtfully handled. Stimulating Sun and Saturn rays should prove inspiring.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — Do not strain and you will accomplish more now. This is a day for irritating discussions, bickering. It is promising for you flirtatious folks with a sense of humor.

November 23 to December 22 — (Sagittarius) — Difficult tasks, hard work? They are favored, so you need not worry. But it is important to your achievement not to fall prey to ill temper, fears. Forward — with a smile!

December 23 to January 21 — (Capricorn) — Steady application to important matters will earn you time for rest and pleasant diversion when you need them most. You have sound sense; use it.

January 22 to February 20 — (Aquarius) — A good period for miners, masons, agriculturists, farmers, florists; dealing in all items in public demand. Devote time to private plans, family needs. Have a good day.



February 21 to March 20 — (Pisces) — Heed Libra and Taurus now. Much depends upon you. Let you emphasize your pleasant disposition and fair mindedness. You will yield in proportion to the effort put in to it. Rest, too.

You born today: If your natural talents and capability are developed daily and used as they should be, you can be a highly useful, likeable, admired individual. You are suited to commercial enterprises, make wonderful surgeons, dentists, military leaders and organizers in public fields of endeavor. Control a tendency to dominate or want your way to the exclusion of others. You have gifts for music, writing, oratory, politics. Literary ability is also inherent. Don't jeopardy health; learn how really to relax. Birthdate: Jas A. Garfield, 20th U. S. pres.; Pershing and de Lesseps, canal builder; Charles I, King of England.

Doubt in Mind

TORONTO (CP) — A youth accused of chasing a boy cyclist through a schoolyard with his car was cleared Thursday of a criminal negligence charge.

Police said a 12-year-old boy was thrown from his bike when he collided with a car driven by Grant Frederickson, 20, in a schoolyard in suburban North York. Magistrate F. W. Bartzen told Frederickson: "There is some doubt in my mind that you deliberately chased the boy."

Little Benny's Notebook

Ma left me at pop's office so she could finish her shopping in peace, and pop was driving the car to where we were supposed to meet ma to go home, and we heard a traffic officer blow his whistle behind us, and pop said, Yee gods, I went through a red signal.

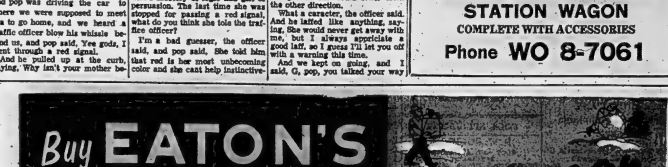
And he pulled up at the curb, saying, Why isn't your mother behind the wheel instead of me? She can talk herself out of any traffic jam, he said. Then why cant you, pop? I said, and he said, Because it's a woman's world.

Which just then the traffic officer came up looking serious, and pop quite said, I cant think of a thing to say, officer, I wish I had my wife's mastery of logic and gift of persuasion. The last time she was stopped for passing a red signal, what do you think she tole the traffice officer?

I'm a bad guesser, the officer said, and pop said, She told him that red is her most unbecoming color and she cant help instinctively avoiding it.

No kidding? the officer said, and pop said, It's an historical fact. The time before that, she was caught driving the wrong way in a one-way street, and she explained that she was just trying to teach the other drivers not to drive too fast just because the way thought no car could come from the other direction.

What a caracter, the officer said. And he lafted like anything, saying, She would never get away with me, but I always appriciate a good joke, and I guess I'll let you off with a warning this time.



And we kept on going, and I said, G, pop, you talked your way out of it yourself.

Which it was in a way.

No, that was your mother, pop said.

'Spirit Of Geneva' Not Quite Dead Dulles Declares

Risk of Hot War No Worse, Cold War Is Now 'Peaceful'

Press Freedom Being Restored In Argentina

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — The week-old provisional government of Maj.-Gen. Pedro Aramburu apparently is making sweeping moves to revive freedom of the press in Argentina after the tight controls of Peronism.

Aramburu Friday wiped out the presidential press office, the big 1,400-man organization which under former president Juan Peron fed a steady stream of propaganda to newspapers, magazines, radio, television and movies.

This was followed by a declaration that the government is seeking a "peaceful solution" of the La Prensa case. That big, independent newspaper — the sharp critic of Peronism — was expropriated in 1951 and turned over to the pro-Peron General Confederation of Labor.

Then the government announced that it was lifting immediately its temporary suspension of the pro-Socialist newspaper La Vanguardia and that the newspaper El Norte in Salta province had resumed publication.

To replace the press office, the government established a greatly reduced press organization and said it will be strictly informative.

Police Clamp Sharp Controls On Travelling

HELMSTEDT, Germany (AP)— East Germany's police clamped sharp controls today on West Germans traveling through Communist territory from the West to isolated Berlin.

The cuts at the eastern frontier check point of Marienborn near here began a close search of all eastbound vehicles to prevent their carrying Western newspapers and magazines into the Soviet zone.

It was the third move against West-East traffic in 24 hours. Germans in less than 24 hours, and stirred fears that it could be a new campaign of Communist harassment.

Simultaneously, the main ship canal leading from Berlin to West Germany was closed by the East Germans. They blamed a "mechanical defect" at one point, and said the canal will be reopened soon.

The canal and the highways are the main lifelines to West Berlin, blockaded by Russia from 1948-49. For one year, more than 2,000,000 West Berliners were supplied food and fuel by a gigantic Allied airlift.

BUTS DEATH WEAPON

ROME (Reuters)—Palmiro Togliatti, Italian Communist party leader, has bought the pistol with which a Sicilian student tried to kill him six years ago. The man tends to use it as a paperweight on his desk. The student, who wounded the Communist leader in the chest, was sentenced to 13 years.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO. (CP) — Synopsis: A weak disturbance that began to develop over the Mississippi valley late Friday evening caused precipitation to spread very quickly north and east during the night. By early this morning snow was falling from Lake Superior to Minnesota eastward to central New York. As the disturbance speeds northeast and towards the New England states, the snow will change to rain and move out of southern Ontario almost as quickly as it spread in, and should be all over by late evening. Sunday will continue mainly cloudy throughout Ontario with light snowflurries persisting in the far north.

By WARREN ROGERS JR.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower and State, secretary Dulles have closed the door on the failure of the Geneva foreign ministers' conference and begun a redoubled search for a "just and durable peace."

In a sober TV-radio report Friday night, Dulles conceded that his three weeks at the Big Four meeting "didn't get us very much at all."

But he said the "spirit of Geneva," flowing from the "summit" conference which Eisenhower attended in July, lives on even though the Soviet's summer smiles gave way to frowns this fall.

POINTS AGREED ON

Posing and answering five questions "in the air," Dulles declared that he and Eisenhower agree that:

1. The Geneva spirit is not entirely dead because the Russians are "less truculent and less abusive" which characterized their pre-"summit" diplomacy.

2. The risk of open war with Russia is no greater than it was in July when Eisenhower said the "summit" conference had made it "less likely."

3. The cold war is back, but it is a "peaceful" struggle, not "hostility and animosity."

4. The United States admits frustration but has no drastic revision of its defence and aid programs, although it has strengthened its guard on the basis of Russian promises last July.

5. More talks with Russia would be "foolish" as things now stand. But if the West keeps hanging together the Russians eventually will come around to making concessions.

SEARCH FOR PLACE

Dulles wound up his 4,000-word report, which Eisenhower helped draft, by quoting the president as personally pledging that "we shall back, no obstacle" will deter the search for real peace.

"In striving toward this goal," he said, "this country will never admit defeat."

Dulles blamed the Russians for failure of the foreign ministers to find solutions to the cold war issues of the issues which had been defined by Eisenhower and the prime ministers of Britain, Russia and France last July.

They got what yet willing to create the indispensable conditions for a secure peace. Also, they have seriously set back the growth of any confidence the free world can have in the peace pledges of Soviet premiers."

FEAR RETRENCHISMENS

The reason the Russians pulled back on their promise to work together, Dulles said, was Communist fear of the spirit of Geneva" would lead to more tolerance and to governments more responsive to the needs and aspirations of their own people.

BAYLIS SENTENCED TO GALLOWS ON MURDER CHARGE

Judge Concurs In Jury's Recommendation

TORONTO (CP) — Judge and jury have made strong recommendations of mercy for convicted murderer Keith Baylis, described by his lawyer as having no more sense of right and wrong than an animal.

Baylis, 24, was convicted of murder Friday night in the holdup shooting June 17 of Kenneth Jones, Toronto company office manager.

Mr. Justice A. M. LeBel of the Ontario Supreme Court sentenced him to be hanged Feb. 7, but said: "You can rest assured that the strong recommendation made on your behalf will be forwarded to the proper authorities and if it is any consolation to you I wish to add that I myself would concur in that very strong recommendation."

"MORAL IMBECILE"

defence counsel John Brooke said:

"I ask you to find that this man is insane and grant him the chance to live. No one disputes that he is more than Keith Baylis because he has never lived. Keith Baylis is a moral imbecile. It is my duty to show he has ever been anything else."

Baylis was charged with murder with James Brown, in after Jones was shot down in the street when he tried to stop two gunmen who had robbed the Bank of Nova Scotia to be tried this winter.

The jury deliberated just gave evidence. They described Baylis as a psychopathic personality attracted to crime without any sense of punishment.

Mr. Brooke said Baylis had "less intelligence of right and wrong than a dog."

"He is a sick man and you cannot ignore the fact. There never, in my estimation, could be a more tragic figure of a man than this young boy."

CROWN CONTENTION

Crown counsel Henry Bull told the jury:

"It would be a rash thing to turn this over to the psychiatrists and hospitals and say they know how to cope with it. Leave this matter with the medical world is not ready to handle, to the due process of the law."

The jurors retired at 4:35 p.m. Four hours later they returned and asked for a transcript of the review his previous explanation of the night of the murder, they said. At 11:05 p.m. the jurors returned with their verdict.

Mr. LeBel warned Baylis not to form any false hopes.

"You should prepare to meet your Maker," he said.

The guilty verdict was announced by F. W. Hughes, the jury foreman, who said: "We, the jury, find the prisoner guilty of murder, but we strongly recommend mercy on the recommendation of psychiatrists, but his life, has been abnormal in that he may be classed as an exceptional person."

Anonymous Tip Bomb Aboard TCA Airplane Proves Hoax

TORONTO (CP)—An anonymous tip to an Ottawa newspaper that a bomb had been placed aboard a Trans-Canada Air Lines Vickers Viscount airliner proved a hoax today.

The turbo - jet aircraft, which left Ottawa at 8:30 a.m., touched down out of a snowy sky on schedule at Toronto's Malton airport at 9:35 a.m.

An array of emergency equipment was spread out to receive it, the aircraft isolated in a stop without mishap and immediately its 36 passengers were unloaded, police and airline officials scoured it from jet-intake to tailfin without finding trace of explosives.

The passengers were unaware that anything untoward might be happening.

Passengers' baggage and mail were left aboard the plane pending the arrival of RCMP experts.

TCA said there has been no delay to points beyond Toronto all without to remain booked, and would continue as soon as the plane is cleared for service.

TCA official said: "We are just about convinced this is the work of a crank."

Youth Tells of Panic-Stricken Ride With Girl's Body in Truck

TIMAGAMI (CP) — A 21-year-old Timagami youth told a coroner's jury Friday of a panic-stricken ride through the bush with the body of a girl beside him in a half-ton truck.

Albert Lalonde was testifying at the inquest into the death of Grace Beaucage, 20, of Timagami, whose body was found 16 days after she had last seen at a dance with Lalonde.

The jury returned a verdict saying the girl died Oct. 17 or 18 from skull fractures received when she jumped from a moving vehicle driven by Lalonde.

A elder's jury verdict said Lalonde was negligent in not stopping his vehicle as soon as Miss Beaucage opened the door.

Lalonde said he met Miss Beaucage at a dance in Timagami Oct. 17. He took his father's half ton truck and drove a short distance south on Highway 11 to Gowerd, parked and apparently Miss Beaucage left willingly with the advances. He turned the truck around and was driving up a grade near the road leading to the Beaucage home. "She said she was going to jump—I tried to grab her—she jumped out."

Lalonde said he stopped the truck and scouted back. He said he picked her up and there was blood coming from her mouth and the back of her head. He put her in the truck and drove to Gowerd, some four miles north of Timagami.

He said the girl never made a sound. He said that he was driving 35 or 40 miles an hour when

BANK OF CANADA INCREASES RATE FOR THIRD TIME

Method of Applying Brake on Credit

OTTAWA (CP)—For the third time in 3½ months the Bank of Canada has increased its interest bills on loans to chartered banks as a method of applying a brake on credit.

The bank announced Friday night that its discount rate has been boosted by one-half of one per cent to an all-time high of 2½ per cent. The change was effective from the close of business Friday.

The bank's first increase in its discount rate occurred Aug. 6 when the rate was boosted by one per cent from 1½. The second was on Oct. 12 when the rate went up to 2½ per cent.

The Canadian increase followed a decision Thursday by four federal reserve banks in the United States to boost their lending rate to be charged from 2½. The Bank of England rate is 4½ per cent.

The bank, as usual, gave no reason for the latest move, but observers here say the boost follows two developments.

1. General interest rates in Canada are among the lowest in the Western world, despite increases in recent months have shown a tendency to get out of line. Canadian investments and transfer their funds to other countries where they can show higher returns.

2. Officials in Ottawa apparently believe the ever-expanding Canadian economy can stand further monetary restraints with a precaution against any possibility of inflation.

Generally, chartered banks do not borrow much from the Bank of Canada. But, changes in the central bank's rate tend to influence lending charges.

The increase in the rate is a signal to lending institutions to tighten up on loans to customers. A decrease in the rate results in a drop in general interest rates and an increase in lending activity.

Interest rates in Canada have for many years been slightly higher than those in the U.S. and overseas.

Mr. Sedgwick said Mr. Crockford was careless in not obtaining receipts for two cheques totalling allegedly worth a total of $14,900.

The reeve has denied giving the cheques of $500 to two councillors and two civic employees. The action constituted a definite attempt on the part of the company to gain special treatment.

Hunt for Plane In Pennsylvania

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — A snowstorm turned back a search party trying to reach a spot in rugged, mountainous woodland in south-central Pennsylvania today for a plane that may have crashed Friday night.

The state police and civil defence co-ordinator, said he hoped they will be able to send civil air patrol planes take off today to crisscross the area, about 20 miles northeast of Harrisburg.

The search began after Murphy said he received reports from about 10 civil defence airplane spotters of either hearing or seeing a plane plane, "probably in trouble," flying about 1,000 feet over the area. Spotter Murphy said she saw it go out of sight behind a hill, then heard something that "sounded like an explosion."

Lawyer Suggests McCarthy Uses Kamin as Stick to Beat Harvard

BOSTON (AP)—Counsel for Leon J. Kamin, former Harvard researcher on trial for contempt of Senate investigations, has suggested that Senator Joseph McCarthy may have conducted "a personal vendetta."

Kamin, associate professor at Queens University, Kingston, Ont., refused to answer questions of the Wisconsin Republican senator during a public hearing in Boston in January, 1954.

The implication of lawyer Calvin Hamlin that the senator's "vendetta" was against Harvard, was made during questioning of the president, Nathan M. Pusey, who formerly headed Lawrence College in Appleton, Wis., and opposed McCarthy's views, as did Pusey.

Bartlett told judge Bailey Aldrich Friday in United States district court:

"The court must determine whether McCarthy (sitting as a one-man sub-committee of the Senate permanent investigating subcommittee) was conducting a lawful investigation or was usurping the police powers of the executive

50 Soldiers Hurled Guaranteed Wage Offer Stands Declares GM

Scots Angry as English Will Get First Chance at Tourists' Wallets

GLASGOW (CP) — Scotland will soon be heard around the world, the liner Empress of Scotland won't call on the Clyde next year.

The Canadian Pacific Railway announced Tuesday that all three Empress liners will be placed on the Montreal-Liverpool route in 1956 to speed up the Atlantic service. The Empress of Scotland will no longer drop passengers at Greenock on her way to Liverpool.

In protest, the Scottish tourist board chairman, Duncan MacLeod, chief of the MacLeod clan, and Scottish Council vice - chairman, Sir Alexander King, telephoned lawyer Leonard Brockington in Toronto to appeal for his help. Brockington was born in Wales but has made some eloquent speeches in Scotland.

The Greenock town council decided to appeal to Norman Robertson, Canadian high commissioner to the United Kingdom, and also is mulling over a suggestion to ask Greenock associations in Canada and the United States to join the fight.

Scottish newspapers have taken up the cry. One Scottman, owned by Canadian publisher Roy Thomson, said the people of Scottish birth would prefer to land "on Scottish soil without making a circuitous journey to Southampton."

W. A. Nicholson, tourist board secretary, said in Edinburgh Friday that Brockington and CPR President N. R. Crump would meet before Sunday to discuss the matter.

The tourist board suggests that the Empress of Scotland concentrate on a Canada-Scotland service, and eliminate the Liverpool call altogether. Two other shipping lines still stop at Greenock.

The Greenock Telegraph says the CPR decision is "exceedingly damaging" for the Scottish tourist industry.

"Of course people will still come touring to Scotland. But now they will come when their money is nearly done, and not when their wallets are bulging."

Storm Blamed For 'Ghost Ship'

SUVA, Fiji Island (Reuters)—Authorities are to make a sudden freak storm for the deaths of 25 persons aboard the "ghost ship" Joyita, found drifting empty in the South Pacific last week.

British colonial authorities today released local newspaper reports that Japanese fishermen had sighted the Joyita on the high people when the vessel had come across a Japanese fishing fleet and asked them to help. Apparently did not want them to see.

The ship was found by Colonial Secretary A. F. H. Siddaras and a police launch on the ship gathered so far indicated that she had been overcome by some natural disaster.

Earlier this week Fiji government officials had said that piracy and violence had been ruled out as a cause.

The Joyita went cruising early in October on a routine 40-hour voyage from Suva to the Ellice Islands. She was not found until last week.

. . . of the FBI or other executive departments.

"Possibly, and perhaps, he had a personal vendetta."

Assistant United States attorney John Harrington upheld Mr. McCarthy's questions, arguing not Kamin, whose records were within the scope of the sub-committee's authority to investigate legislative needs of its investigation of the nature and extent of subversion and propaganda in defence establishments."

Judge Aldrich, hearing the case without jury, noted in a question that Harrington said that although the sub - committee's concern was with communism in the federal government.

"There were no questions about Communism in the federal government. On the contrary, there were questions about communism in education, which the committee admitted was not within the scope of its inquiry."

Judge Aldrich said his questions were for the purpose of learning the prosecution's views, and were not to be taken as an indication of his decision.

Snow Likely To Bring Rash Of Accidents

With the prospect of snow for the weekend city and provincial police are keeping their fingers crossed today hoping this area will escape the rash of motor accidents, which usually follows the first snow storm of the season.

Police appealed to motorists to drive with care, to reduce speed and thus avoid getting involved in crashes resulting from slippery streets.

"Every year with the first snowfall of the season a rash of minor motor accidents follow," stated Sgt. M. H. Devereux of the Ontario Provincial Police. "Motorists are involved in rear-end collisions, slide off the highways and skid at the intersections, and all because they drive too fast for road conditions."

Provincial Police are particularly happy with the accident rate in the Belleville area during the past week.

Monday to Friday, 5th there has been only one reportable accident in this area, reported to the local provincial police headquarters and this was a minor mishap.

Major A. Smith Salvation Army To Speak Here

An active personality in universal Salvation Army work, Sr. Major Allister Smith, will speak in Belleville next week.

Born in South Africa, he comes from a family that pioneered the work of the Salvation Army in its early days in that country. His father, still living at 90, was the first missionary station of the Army in Africa, when he trekked with Zululand in the wagon in 1891. Major Smith spent his early years on his father's mission station, eventually joining the South African civil service.

Later, he joined the full time service of the Salvation Army in London, and spent several years doing evangelistic work among unemployed and male misery.

He also has conducted mission work in Nigeria and the African Gold Coast, and toured Europe with revival meetings.

Major Smith recently finished a tour of the U.S. and the Far East, including a visit to South Korea. He will speak at the Citadel here next Monday and Tuesday evenings.

Santa Claus Parade Plans Nearly Complete

Santa Claus is coming to town December 3rd and it looks like he might have the biggest escort ever.

Preparations for the annual Santa Claus parade to be held in full tonight, with more than 45 units are forging ahead. Some 20 floats are under construction and more entries are expected to appear every day, parade committeeman Vernon Elliott pointed out.

However, Mr. Elliott added, there was still "lots of room for more floats." These need not be large, elaborate ones, but small and colorful and built inexpensively.

Motif of the parade this year is nursery-rhyme characters. Already several floats are rapidly nearing completion along this theme, as firemen, school pupils and private citizens join together to prepare the big garage.

Pupils at the O.S.S.D. already have nearly completed their entry, while other floats are a-building at the Quinte Secondary School and the BCIVS.

"Donations still are coming," added Mr. Elliott. "However we still need more help to reduce the deficit. Donations may be mailed to myself as secretary of the parade committee."

Other members of the parade committee are Fire Chief Gerald Vance, Angus Duffy, "Wimpy" O'Brien, Robert Fair, Clare Millar, Roy Wardell, Ted Speed and Albert Rump.

This week also Mr. Elliott and Mr. Fair picked uniforms for the parade after a special journey to Toronto.

Let's Keep the Record Straight

The action taken this week of swearing-in an aldermanic candidate in City Hall by city council would appear to have been done without full knowledge of provincial legislation governing such acts.

It is understood the same error was made last year when a similar appointment was made to fill a vacancy caused by a resignation from council, in both instances the oaths to be signed announced their intentions to contest the mayoralty election.

It might be pointed out that the provincial legislation differentiates between the procedure to be followed when a vacancy is caused by an alderman resigning to run for mayor and an alderman who resigns for personal reasons only.

Legislation under the Municipal Act under Section 170, sub-section 1 states in part that when a vacancy is created on council because of nomination of a member of council to contest the mayoralty, that the vacated seat shall remain vacant until the next annual election when it shall be filled by an aldermanic candidate for the duration of the unexpired term.

This particular legislation deals specifically with the filling of a vacancy when the vacancy is created by a councillor contesting the mayoralty.

Acting city clerk Mrs. Jessie Haggerty said today that in swearing in Mr. B. C. Reid to fill the vacated council seat she was following a precedent that had applied to the appointment of three aldermen in recent years.

The late Urias 'Sandy' Lummiss was appointed to council to fill the unexpired term of Alderman Dr. Richard Potter.

Dr. Potter resigned his seat several months prior to the election without specifically stating that he was resigning to contest the mayoralty and Mr. Lummiss was appointed under the conditions of the Municipal Act, Section 170, sub-section 1.

This section of the Act also seems to say that where a vacancy occurs in the office of alderman in the case where aldermen are elected by a general vote, the unsuccessful candidate who received the highest number of votes at the next preceding election shall be entitled to the office.

Alderman Keegan, who was appointed to council when Alderman Arthur Bateman resigned and moved from the city six months after being elected, was duly appointed under provisions of the Act.

In 1954, when Alderman Robert Temple resigned to contest the mayoralty, Brian Humphreys was appointed to fill the vacancy for its unexpired term.

Mr. Humphreys' appointment, like that of Mr. Reid, appears to contravene the provisions of the Municipal Act.

No one challenged Mr. Humphreys' appointment. Any challenge of his right to sit on council had to be made within one month after he asserted his right to take office.

Anyone entitled to vote can now file a notice of Motion to set aside the right of Mr. Reid to sit on council on the grounds outlined above. This must be done within one month after he has asserted the right to take office.

Alderman Forrester's resignation on Monday of this week will not become official until it is accepted by council at its meeting next Monday night.

Fifty Million Pounds of Fish Sticks Sold at Gloucester

By IRVING C. WHITNOT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

GLOUCESTER, Mass. (CP)—This biggest fishing centre in the United States is looking for little hopes for the future on attractive right- and 10-ounce packages of fish sticks.

Originally a "gloucester" in 1865 fish sticks are one-ounce portions of fish, boneless, pre-cooked and frozen. The housewife just heats and serves.

The big fear here, however, is that any lowering of protective tariffs would mean more ready-made fish sticks to move in and undersell local producers. Industry officials say Canadians can do this because of lower costs.

OUTPUT INCREASING

Gloucester turned out half of the United States' production of 50,000,000 pounds last year, and the output this year has increased still further, says Gloucester's only one of the biggest single factors in keeping alive the ailing industry that has reported that more than 25,000 for more than three centuries.

But industry leaders, worried by a $500,000 drop in fish landings since 1951, and irked at Canadian competition, are fearful that the time could come when they will have a tough time to hold even the fish stick production.

The only protection is tariffs, which at the moment the industry feels affords "reasonable protection."

The Gloucester Fisheries Association told the United States tariff commission this year that it believes should the import tariff be reduced "then this will mean the beginning of the end of an industry that has held forth such promise to this branch of the domestic fisheries."

Such a reduction, the association said, "could well mean that Canada would find it more profitable to process the fish sticks instead of exporting fish blocks and slabs as they now do to be processed by them in this country.

Canadian producers already have been quoting prices in the market possibilities as a result of the introduction of fish sticks.

IMPORTS JUMP

The import of groundfish fillets, including frozen blocks and slabs from which fish sticks are made has jumped from 108,000,000 in 1952 to 153,000,000 pounds in 1954. For the first time, that meant that imports topped the domestic production.

"This," said the association, "is striking evidence that the ability of the producers to the north have taken over our domestic markets."

The tariff commission earlier this year recommended an increased tariff and an annual import quota but the suggestion was rejected by President Eisenhower. He said that fish sticks "may finally bring about an increase in the consumption of fish."

"That it appears that the industry is on the way to solving an important part of its problem by tariffs and quotas."

The fisheries association, however, said the outlook isn't that bright.

"This newly developed fish stick item means a great deal to us in Gloucester," it said. It would be "most regrettable" if a lower tariff meant that Canada, Iceland and other countries moved into and dominated the market with a lower-priced fish stick.

Toronto Official Talks to Y's Men

Speaker at Thursday's meeting of the Y's Men's Club was Leo Vipond of Toronto. Mr. Vipond is secretary for personnel services of the Toronto Council of YMCA's and spoke on the YMCA and what it has to offer the young people in the community.

YMCA training, he said, was valuable to the youth in teaching him to make decisions and to accept responsibilities and in providing opportunities for spiritual revelation. Some boys join the Y and indicate their interest in learning to play bridge or pingpong. Some join the Y for swimming the companionship and warm, friendly attitude of others at a common meeting place, the speaker declared.

The YMCA is short of professional help due to its continuing expansion and the 100 years required to train a capable official, Mr. Vipond pointed out. Belleville YMCA as being in good hands, with its fine membership record and having good leadership.

He gave the Y's Men's movement credit for the success which kept many YMCA's in fine shape and even kept some from going out of existence. The speaker was introduced by Di Diamantides and was thanked by Bud Trill.

U.S. Editors Assail Government Secrecy

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — A resolution adopted by the Associated Press Managing Editors Association condemns government secrecy "that is withholding from American citizens facts about their own government that they are entitled to know."

The resolution says the APME "deplores the fact that executive order 10-501, promulgated in 1953 as a defense measure to safeguard military security, still permits civilian agencies not entitled to these defense secrets to classifying authority, allows too large a delegation of authority and no adequate system of continuous review of classified operations and provides no penalties for military or civilian abuse of classifying power to remove or withhold information that can be safely released."

Elected president of the association for the next year was V. M. Newton, Jr., of the Tampa (Fla.) Tribune.

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL

O COULD I SPEAK THE MATCHLESS WORTH

O could I speak the matchless worth,
O could I sound the glories forth,
Which in my Savior shine,
I'd soar and touch the heav'nly strings
And vie with Gabriel while he sings
In notes almost divine.

I'd sing the precious blood he spilt,
My ransom from the dreadful guilt
Of sin and wrath divine;
I'd sing his glorious righteousness,
In which all perfect, heavenly dress
My soul shall ever shine.

I'd sing the characters he bears,
And all the forms of love he wears,
Exalted on his throne;
In lofties songs of sweetest praise,
I would to everlasting days
Make all his glories known.

Well, the delightful day will come
When my dear Lord will call me home,
And I shall see his face;
Then with my Savior, Brother, Friend,
A blest eternity I'll spend,
Triumphant in his grace.

The world will always honor Dr. Isaac Watts for his hymns, but it was one of his sermons that was responsible, indirectly, for the composition of Dr. Samuel Medley's great lyric, the words of which are reproduced above.

Medley, who was born in England in 1738, was the son of a school teacher and was reared in a Christian home. At the age of 17, however, in the British navy, he drifted away from the home influences of his boyhood and he might never have found his way back to the church but for the serious injury which he suffered in the Seven Years War.

That famous conflict began shortly after Medley entered the navy. In 1757 he was severely wounded in a battle with the French off Port Lagos. It was while he was recuperating in the home of his grandfather in London that he yielded to the appeal of a sermon by Dr. Watts, read to him by his grandsire, and gave himself to Christ. Later, he left the navy, married, and taught school for four years. Then, in 1767, after entering the ministry, he accepted the pastorate of a large Baptist church in Liverpool.

For 27 years he had a most successful ministry. Many of his worshipers were men of the sea and because he knew how to fill his sermons with expressions which appealed to sailors, he converted many of the mariners.

Between sermons, Dr. Medley found time to write his hymns. Most of them, including his beautiful and inspiring poem, "O Could I Speak The Matchless Worth", were dashed off on loose pages of rough paper. None of them is as well known as the one here published but this one gem is fine enough to assure its author everlasting fame and the eternal gratitude of posterity.

A little while before he died, as he felt himself growing weaker and realized that "the delightful day" of which he had sung in the closing stanza of his hymn was about to dawn for him, Dr. Medley fell again into the language of the sea which he always loved and he said to those gathered about him:

"I am now a poor, shattered bark, just about to gain the blissful harbor, safe, oh, how sweet will be the port after the storm! But a point or two more and I shall be at my heavenly Father's house".

A Lift For Living

Pride of Self-Sufficiency

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

No doubt all of us are familiar with the expression "the handwriting on the wall". It has a sobering sound. When we say a person has seen "the handwriting on the wall", we mean he has seen the sign of divine judgment on what he is doing. It implies the beginning of the end.

We may not know the origin of it in the story of Belshazzar's feast. Belshazzar was the son of Nebuchadnezzar, the powerful Babylonian king who, in the sixth century before Christ, captured Jerusalem and carried away many hostages and much treasure. Nebuchadnezzar attained such power that the eastern world trembled at his step. But his years were pathetic. His power slipped; he became senile. And his end was glorious.

Belshazzar, his son, learned nothing from his father's fall. His own head was turned with vanity by the ascendancy royal throne. One day he made a great feast for his courtiers. Drunk with power, he ordered to have brought the sacred vessels which his father, Nebuchadnezzar, had carried away from the temple at Jerusalem. From those temple vessels he and his riotous party drank freely and further debauched themselves.

Then the writer in the Book of Daniel is that there appeared a handwriting on the wall. The king became frightened and summoned his soothsayers to interpret the writing. When they were unable to translate it, Daniel was called. Among the words which he saw there was this sentence: "Thou art weighed in the balance and art found wanting."

Consider the verdict pronounced on Belshazzar. That verdict was based on three charges in the indictment which Daniel brought against the king. I shall deal with only one of them.

The first charge was this: Belshazzar had not humbled himself before the Lord. He had seen the fate of his father, but he had not learned humility. He was guilty of the pride of self-sufficiency.

In listing the seven deadly sins the church fathers put pride first. At first we may be inclined to wonder at this, for pride is not a monster of such frightful mien as to be hated needs but to be seen." Pride is not a vicious sin like murder, or a shabby sin like lust. It does not look very deadly, and therein lies part of its deadliness.

It is the poisonous combination of vaunt and then go on to become a deadly drug.

The very virtues which make for material progress become the pride of self-sufficiency, until men think they can get along without God. And when a nation tries to get along without God, it gets a dictator. And this pride of self-sufficiency pervades all modern culture. We count ourselves so clever, we do not feel the need of God. Dazzled by man's inventions, riding on man-made trains, driving man-made motors, counting on man's political science to solve our social ills and man's medical science to cure our bodily pains—we feel no daily dependence on God.

DIRECTLY DEPENDENT

Our forefathers lived closer to the soil. They were directly dependent on God's rain, God's sun, God's good earth. They planted; God gave the increase. Yes, the machine age with all the blessings it has brought, has lessened our sense of dependence on God, and thereby has encouraged the pride of self-sufficiency.

Such pride can be broken by the "shock treatment." Danger or disaster can shake us out of our self-sufficiency. In the spring of 1940 when Hitler was at the gates of France, Parisians flocked to prayer. But why wait for crashes to bring us to our knees?

Daily self-examination, love and prayer will keep us from the pride of self-sufficiency.

THE GENEVA CONFERENCE

Coincidence besides being, on occasion, the very devil can at other times serve a useful purpose. The fact that Lester B. Pearson, Canada's minister for external affairs, should hold a press conference after a round-the-clock trip on the very day that the Big Four conference at Geneva concluded in dismal failure may be one of those fortunate coincidences. Having Mr. Pearson's opinions on the state of the world pointed on the same front page which carries the report of the end of the Geneva parley provides a link between the two reports which might otherwise have been overlooked.

One of the puzzling features of the Geneva conference was the distinct change in the Russian attitude since the last "summit conference" between Bulganin, Eisenhower, Eden and Faure. Hopes aroused at that conference were doused by the four ministers. Why the change?

Mr. Pearson may provide the clue. One of Russia's primary objectives, he says, is to smash NATO. Well, the "Geneva spirit" certainly failed to do that at one time, to do more to weaken NATO than all the tough-talking propaganda taken by the Russians before it. Once there appeared a possibility that Russia might, at long last, be sincere and realistic in all the NATO countries there arose a dislike for the burdens of preparedness. Perhaps because the "summit" parley's "Geneva spirit" hope that explains the Russians' change their tune? Why

Why, then, did the Russians change their tune? Why did they not continue the soft talk which had weakened NATO?

Because, at the foreign ministers' meeting, they had to produce something more than words. They had to produce something which Russia is ready to do to match talk with deed. And they were not ready to do so.

That is one explanation for the change in Russian tactics. It is not the only possible explanation. But whatever it is, it might consider well before Russia's hastily before we leave it, we might consider well before Russia to smash NATO. Mostly because she wishes to eliminate a barrier to world conquest. Mr. Pearson says, however, that he does not think that Russia is planning an aggressive war now. He is convinced that the Russians "are no more anxious to commit suicide than anybody else."

As for NATO, Mr. Pearson infers it is good as ever. He doesn't believe that the alliance is a real threat to them. Mr. Pearson says that he tried to convince the Russians that NATO provided security arrangements but added "I don't know that I made any impression on anybody." From this it would appear that Mr. Pearson thinks the Russians flagrantly lied when they said they wished to smash NATO.

Which, if true, and it NATO has negative intentions. Mr. Pearson's view is shared by U.S. State Secretary John Foster Dulles. It explains why Mr. Dulles was said to plan to tell President Eisenhower that the Russians will continually attempt to accept German reunification on Western terms. If Russia could ever be convinced that NATO was merely a defensive arrangement, since her attitude might change.

This, however, is only one explanation of the apparent change in Russian tactics. There are at least two others.

One of these, mentioned in an editorial on this page of that there may have been a shift in power in the Kremlin. The man or men who made soft talk at the "summit" conference may have lost power to Moscow politicians favoring a tougher policy.

The third possible reason is not hard to find. The explanation may lie in the timing of the Eisenhower heart attack. The Russians felt that they could wait him—but that now that he is ill and unlikely to seek re-election as president they hesitate to act in the earlier "Geneva spirit."

BAD COMPANY

Billy Hill, self-styled boss of Britain's underworld, has turned author and, copying other literary lights, gave a champagne party to the other night to celebrate the publication of his near-candid autobiography.

The guests were cosmopolitan. They included some of Billy Hill's old associates in crime who Runyonesque names like Old Legs and Sam Maryland Frisco. present also were three more in keeping with the atmosphere of champagne culture notables like Jayo Norah Docker of yesterday and today.

The London papers got all hot and bothered about the affair. "Scandalous and shocking" said the Daily Sketch.

It would be interesting to learn just what shocked the Sketch. It was, presumably, the thought of wealthy once socially prominent people consenting to be guests of a criminal. Another sin as exceptional, for Bill says he wrote the story of his life "as a lesson and warning to youngsters that crime does not pay" and whenever criminals blurt that out it is proof positive that they have never either reformed or discovered a more lucrative racket. If Bill has actually reformed, perhaps old friends like Old Legs and Sam Maryland Frisco, if they have not already reformed, should be given a chance to do so. Is it not the duty of society to accept them and help them become useful members? If so what is wrong with Lady Docker . . .

Perhaps, however, the Sketch has a point. Perhaps people who go in for zebra-skin car seats are not exactly the type most likely to assist the repentant sinner to resist future temptations.

"Anyone," says an advertisement, "can afford mahogany doors." How all we have to do is to discover a bank manager who will accept this statement as security for the annual pre-Christmas loan.

A bit of the rain and a bit of the Some days to take an' some days to play,
A bit of earth's beauty wherever we go; This is the life that we all have to meet
A bit of the laughter, a bit of the tear,
The most that we've seen, And the most that we can get is a bit of it all.
And a bit of the play till the curtain shall fall.
The bitter, a taste of Life has so much for us mortals
Then the most we can get is a bit of it all.

Papers Charge Patents Being Used For Unlawful Monopolistic Purposes by Large Corporations

OTTAWA (CP) — A strongly-worded brochure sponsored by two Canadian newspapers charges that patents have been and are being used for unlawful monopolistic purposes by large companies to the detriment of the consuming public.

The brochure, issued by the Regina Leader-Post and the Saskatoon Star-Phoenix for presentation to the royal commission investigating examination of Canada's patent and trade mark system is long overdue.

It charges that through the pooling of a series of patents among big companies monopolies can be set up prices and profits regulated on patented products. The companies then could "establish a private government for all parts of the economy on a world-wide basis."

Small competitors are broken with threats of expensive court action for infringement unless they make a deal, the brochure says.

CHANGE IN EMPHASIS

The trade mark, originally the mark a craftsman put upon his wares, now had been converted into the "brand" name system used in today's high-powered advertising. It also could be used "as a weapon to secure consumer acceptance and influence in markets."

The present patent office had neither the personnel nor the funds essential to separate real inventions from worthless ones. But the real problem lay not in the issue of the patent but in "the employment of letters patent and employment not sanctioned by the patent act and forbidden by the anti-trust laws."

"ARSENAL" OF PATENTS

Monopolies, says the brochure, grow out of the practice of corporations obtaining for themselves a whole "arsenal" of patents within an industrial domain. From these they could draw weapons to halt competition in the struggle for markets.

The corporations obtained patents not only on the original invention but on improvements as well. The practice was carried so far that such letters patent issue for improvements on improvements, for improvements upon these improvements and so on down a continuous line." Thus the door was shut on the latest developments and 17 years later when the patents expired the discovery was obsolete.

Another monopolistic method was "fragmentation." This involved the breaking down of a product into its parts or of a process into its several steps and selling a multiplex of patents on each of these.

In Canada and the U.S. the general trade was open to all who wished to venture into it.

But in manufacturing, especially in the newer fields of metallurgy, synthetic materials, chemistry and electronics, "the newcomer in the field runs the hazard of trespassing upon a technology which is private property held, or in the alternative, is compelled to come to terms with which control this technology."

Patent Examiners, because of licences for the use of their rights and attach their own conditions. A common provision was that the licences might not challenge the validity of the patent from which his licence stemmed. When corporations possessed a whole portfolio of patents the licensing possibilities became almost unlimited.

SEQUENCE OF PATENTS

The brochure says the real problem of the patent situation "lies in a sequence of patents which withhold the technology from the public for a period longer than the life of the grant."

"It lies in the collection of letters (patent) into a portfolio which makes it impossible to determine what rights in technology the patent owner possesses.

"It lies in the substitution of a monopolistic for a competitive market and the imposition of folly never contemplated by the patent law upon the consuming public.

"It lies, in a word, in the problem lies along the line not of the issue of the patent but of the employment of letters patent, an employment not sanctioned by the patent act and forbidden by the anti-trust laws."

Going Home To Meet Husband Believed Dead

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mrs. Lena Reimer, who has lived for 10 years in war widowhood, will go home next month to meet her husband Peter.

"I still can't believe it," she said here in an interview.

Peter Reimer, declared dead in one of the last great battles of the Second World War, was released from a Russian prison camp three weeks ago.

Mrs. Reimer was in a Russian jail with no prospect for anything else. Her middle-aged mother said: "Then six days later he was knocking on the door of the house in Braunschweig where we lived when I last saw him in 1943."

HUSBAND

Neighbors told Reimer, captured in the Battle of Breslau while a first lieutenant in the Wehrmacht, that his wife had gone to Canada.

"There seemed no hope that he had survived," Mrs. Reimer said. "In the Battle of Breslau, the last desperate German attempt to keep the Russian armies away from Berlin, thousands fell. Few were taken prisoner."

Mrs. Reimer, who had no close relatives in Germany, came to Vancouver to join her sister, Mrs. Gertrude Epp.

Her husband has written her.

"All he said was that he had been in prison since his capture."

Roslin

ROSLIN — Several members of the Eastern Star from here attended the installation ceremony of Minerva Chapter at the Masonic Temple, Belleville.

The Women's Institute held its November meeting at the home of Mrs. W. Slingerland. In the absence of the president, Mrs. A. Bates, the vice-president, Mrs. J. Vanwyck, presided. Papers were given by Mrs. H. Chisholm and Mrs. Empson. Representatives from the National Institute for the Blind were present and outlined the work being done by that society and appealed for help in this work. It was decided to make a canvas of the community for funds for the C.N.I.B. work.

The 8th Line Guild of St. Paul's Church held a bazaar and euchre on Friday evening in the Parish hall.

RECOMMEND CLERK

OTTAWA (CP)—E. Russell Hopkins, 47, secretary of the board of transport commissioners, is to be recommended for appointment as law clerk of the Senate, an $11,000-a-year job, committees of senators said Thursday they will make the recommendation to the Senate when Parliament convenes Jan. 10.

Quebec to Change Assembly's Name To 'Parliament'

QUEBEC (CP)—The Quebec legislative assembly gave first reading to 19 government bills Thursday.

In the assembly the pattern of praise for the policies of Premier Duplessis' Union Nationale party flowed unbroken by Liberal Opposition criticism. At the close of the sitting a bouquet of roses was delivered to the premier amid salvos of desk-thumping by his supporters.

Mr. Duplessis launched Thursday's sitting with remarks in connection with a bill to change the title of members of the assembly to "members of the provincial Parliament."

The legislature is properly a parliament, Mr. Duplessis said, and it would be fitting to call it "Le Parlement de Quebec" once the tenure of Castle Homme and receives royal assent.

Deserted Wife, Gets 3 Months

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) Cecil Kimball of Wawa, 160 miles north of Sault Ste. Marie, was sentenced Thursday to three months in jail, convicted of deserting his young wife and three small children 15 years ago.

Kimball testified he had spent nearly all the interval in veterans hospitals. In all that time he had earned only $300.

Welfare officials said that, since Kimball's disappearance in 1953 $2,600 had been paid in relief to his wife.

Magistrate W. K. Langdon said he did not believe Kimball's story.

'We Like the North' Is Comment Generally Heard From Many Residents of Uranium City

By R. J. ANDERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

URANIUM CITY, Sask. (CP)— The North exacts its price from those who seek its riches. In the case of the townsman, it means hard work and high living costs. But there are compensations.

The first-time visitor to Uranium City who asks a resident what he does in his spare time usually gets a glazed look and the reply: "What spare time?"

There is little in this frontier town in the wilderness of northwestern Saskatchewan, almost at the border of the Northwest Territories. To make a living, salaried worker and small businessman alike have to dig for it. Day-to-day costs are high for transportation sometimes can double the price of an item.

HAPPY IN NORTH

What brings people to this remote settlement 400 miles north-east of Edmonton? The replies vary. Running through all is a refrain: "We like the North."

Here in Uranium City many a small merchant finds the means and opportunity to own his own business. Here, in the southern settlement, is referred to here, he probably worked on salary for someone else.

Those on wages and salaries find their generally higher than in the south, offsetting to some extent the higher cost of living. And always there is opportunity.

Hopes are high in this northern land where the discovery of uranium has opened up vast new territory. So far, there is work for everyone who comes into the country with a grubstake. Those who can't make a go of it cannot afford to stick around long.

A miner in the Beaverlodge uranium field that is the reason for Uranium City's existence can make more than $600 a month. Even unskilled labor generally falls within the $300 - or - better bracket though these wages are levelling off now that the initial period of development and construction is over.

FOOD COSTS MORE

It costs correspondingly as much to live. Food costs are higher than those in cities to the south, though not excessively so. Ham sells for 70-75 cents a pound and round steak at 80-85, not much higher than prevailing prices in Edmonton. A bag of potatoes which used to cost $40 when shipped in by air in the days when 90-pound flour in gum City was young now sells for $7.50.

The big bite is in rents. Every house is occupied and fortunate is he in Uranium City who is able to rent a two-room apartment for less than $125 a month. That's one reason why residents work hard to get a bit of ground and to build some sort of house which can be added to as fast as their businesses and needs expand.

Most of the workers on fixed salaries, such as school teachers, Mr. and Mrs. John Woroniuk, who came from Canora, Sask., to teach in Uranium City pay $150 a month for two rooms. Lloyd Hewlett from Rose Valley, Sask., shares quarters with another teacher at $125 a month. At that rental is still on the salary of a first-year teacher—$2,300 a year plus $600 northern allowance.

Ken Knight, who has kicked around as a steel worker on the west coast and in the northland and now runs the news stand in the town hotel, pays $150 for a two-room apartment. Is he making money? "You have to, to pay that rent," he says.

$2,000 A YEAR

A Uranium City merchant works hard for his living but there are financial compensations here, too. The gross turnover of a well-run general store has been since with approximate $17,000 a month.

That of Aleck MacIver, who came here years ago, nearly Goldfields died as a gold mining town and now a general store, is $30,000 a year. Elderly Aleck says he wants to sell out and retire Outside but other Uranium City old-timers scort at this. They say he's been in the north to long to leave it.

Work seldom stops for men like Ben Maguire who, with the exception of four years in the navy, has spent over 20 years in the north country and says he wouldn't live anywhere else. He came here from Yellowknife, N.W.T., 30 miles north, two years ago as a partner with Ben in a hardware store and now owns it.

Ben and Alec, a north-country merchant is much greater than that of one in the south. He must plan and buy ahead for a year to get his supplies in before freeze-up and starts when his shop door closes.

FURTHER OPTIMISTS

Ben is "high" on the future of Uranium City. So, too, are Dana Spence, who runs a hardware store and is president of the Uranium City Commerce this year, and Hector Nadon, owner of a building supplies firm. They are here for the same reason as everyone else: To make money.

Some are in the north country when a store sold only the bare essentials. On display now is attractive stores are chesterfield suites and other living-room furniture, electric refrigerators, propane gas stoves and all the finie's of up-to-date living. To keep that stock moving and planning ahead means work.

It's not all work, though, in Uranium City, especially on Saturday night. That's party night when the miners come in to relax.

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

Within the past week, your correspondent has spent the joyous grand coverage of the performances on two outstanding cultural groups which visited the city. We wish to mention something very significant about the enthusiastic patrons who were delighted by these artists. Spotlighted by these artists. Spotlighted throughout the audiences at the Collegiate for the ballet and the Capitol Theatre orchestra was a splendid representation of youth.

It augurs well for the coming of age in Canada of a sense of deep national and cultural growth. We draw attention to this factor because youth is entitled to a value and ability to be imparted by it. Youth is receiving a great deal of publicity, much of which may be tragic, but we hope this pat on the back is a constructive factor in the boys and girls. It is good if we are reminded that Canada is blessed with a fine new generation. Young Canada needs and should have our sincere support so we wish them—good luck.

Last Saturday we referred to a few events which should be brought our attention "The Official Handbook of Present Conditions and Future Progress." Vital statistics are rather cold possibly but the fact that our coal unless it is ignited. Lumps of statistics reveal a fine picture of the way of life in Canada. We have one of the lowest death rates in the world, coupled with a high birthrate. It is a peculiar fact that the birth rate should be in excess of female births as girls take note. Canada is on the move and is the best in education, in health, in welfare, in the field of sports and friendships. If any reader cares to possess this handbook it may be obtained from the information service of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, Ottawa, Ontario. "This and That" may refer to turn from time to time to repeat pertinent information if our readers desire it.

By the time this goes to press, your reporter will have the pleasure of delivered to be a guest on a Toronto radio station for the Dominion network. Naturally, we are thrilled and hope to report to you how we made out. Needless to say things it will be our privilege to experience. We take this opportunity of thanking the various commentator who has made this visit possible. Watch "This and That" next week when we can tell you more.

'Last week—we interviewed an enthusiastic visitor to Belleville, Mr. Macauley, RCAF Trenton and Middleton Park. We were delighted to discover that within our own community we have a group of women who can lay claim to such a diversity of talents and hobbies. It is another case of meeting people who are normal of so many fine things to do and say. We have the knowledge about far away fields of ways looking greener for more green.) We realize that there are women pilots anxious to teach girls to fly, experts in the handicrafts, there are wonderful ladies in the fascinating cook books and all sorts of interesting Canadian women. We hope to learn more about this and will pass it along to you. It is not a surprising fact when you stop to remind ourselves that here, women from all across Canada are a Canadian composite. Better understanding is one of the little gems we have discovered so we hope to learn something about Newfoundland, British Columbia, the Yukon and every Canadian province by introducing them from time to time to you.

Happy weekend!

Going Places
See America for More Fun

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

The travel ads beckon inviting-ly to such once impossible places as Istanbul, Iachia and Indo-China but you wonder, ever happened to Illinois, Indiana, and Iowa, let alone California, Florida, and Novia Scotia?

Well, in case you haven't looked lately, they're still there. And you can reach them without passports, visas, shots, double-talk, or foreign tickets, or an English-Hindustani-English dictionary.

We need to feel self-conscious about seeing America first, either. More than 95 per cent of all travel is by residents of this continent to and without crossing any oceans. Maybe we'd like to go abroad—who wouldn't—but if you can't, you're a terrific group company.

Where to go and still keep land under foot? Try down for size — they're as much worth seeing as anything in the world:

Niagara Falls, while breath-taking water show, one of the world's great tourist wonders, is not something no one ever gets tired of looking at.

Or the Canadian side, which offers the best view, is a 15-mile complex of free and fee attractions, river scenery, and national monuments, which make a morning and an early afternoon enough to take it all in.

A wondrous place in itself is the fine restaurant looking down thunderous Horseshoe Falls on the east Niagara River glen, with a view for many miles along the river and lake. Reservations suggested.

Courtesy of the new New York Thruway and Canadian highways, a hike from the east, and the Ohio Turnpike from the west, plus fine clear road signs all the way in Ontario Canada, the Falls now are within half a day's drive of over a population of the continent.

New England—Here's where you love variety in sightseeing and heartwarming beauty of a prosperous countryside. Take a look at this oddly-isolated yet typically picturesque corner of the country.

New England is the original home of the four seasons, thickly green, and bucolic in summer, incredibly dappled and colored in autumn—a time of year when vacancies in winter; promising and refreshing in spring.

In contrast to the bare rugged mountains of the west, those hills on New England are dressed in foliage that makes them look like huge cushions from the distance. The roads that wind through them offer a new, sweeping view with every curve of the road.

There are the unbelievably neat little green villages, each with their manicured public and private lawns, that look convincingly as if they haven't changed since colonial days. In the eastern part, the twisting, mountainous Maine Coast is the heart of unchanging coastal towns where just now the commercial sea fishing is an integral part of the land's character.

From western hills to Maine woods to ocean shores, only a few hundred miles of driving takes in all New England in a few days.

Florida — This state is much, much more than Miami Beach. With tropical jungles, vast citrus groves, and unlimited white sandy sands and sapphire ocean, ancient mission, and seaside and even plantation, it offers more in sheer unusuiness than any other part of the country. Florida is always a something really different, it's hard to beat.

California — Here you'll find much more than Hollywood or smog. From the subtropical south through the hauntingly strange and beautiful Monterey peninsula, rich inland fruit valleys, unique metropolis of San Francisco — perhaps the only big city in the country that is really different — to majestic redwoods and crystal forests where the great Northwest begins, California earns its billing as a majestic, exciting place.

What begins in northern California merges with Oregon, Washington and British Columbia. The Pacific Northwest has one of the finest climates in the country and surely has the most imposing views of spectacular nature—black-green forests, jagged, snow-crowned mountains, the modest hills as symbols of the ancient faith by which people live.

There's Salt Lake City, where you can stand in the center of town and see each main street be a sheer-faced mountain standing guard at its end; Denver, where you do the same thing with the Sahara in Death Valley. But nowhere can you see anything like the Grand Canyon, a scene that is nature's at it's worst. Still want to go abroad? What on earth for?

Cannifton United Church W.A. Sponsors Successful Bazaar

A very pretty and successful Christmas bazaar was recently held in the Sunday School room of Cannifton United Church. The Rev. T. F. Townsend offered prayer and declared the bazaar open for business.

Mrs. D. Brenton, president, and Mrs. McCrae greeted the visitors at the door as they entered to a pretty scene of booths done in red and green in keeping with the approaching festive season. A Christmas tree with colored lights and trimmings filled in with the color scheme and lent a cheery glow to the proceedings.

APRONS

The apron booth with its pretty aprons of all styles and sizes was in charge of Mrs. H. Tweedy, Mrs. A. Boyd and Mrs. G. Dywood.

The novelty table looked pretty with stuffed animals, small pot holders and fancy worked pillow cases, towels and doilies, and children's dresses. This was in charge of Mrs. W. Brenton, Mrs. R. Pulp and Mrs. C. Steele.

The vegetable and small plant booth was in charge of Mrs. W. Merrifield and Mrs. H. Lywood.

The home cooking booth looked tempting with its fruit cakes and pies of different kinds and was in charge of Mrs. T. Howard, Mrs. R. Anderson, Mrs. R. Anderson, Mrs. G. Brenton and Mrs. D. Williams.

TOUCH-TAKE

The red and green touch and take table was real Christmas-like with its red and green candles and red stickers. This booth did a flourishing business and was sood sold out.

Mrs. F. Putman and Mrs. E. Stewart had charge of the fish pond which looked attractive done in red, green and white curtains with its trout sign hanging suspended.

At four o'clock the school children's choir and Mrs. Vondell and Mrs. F. Furmidge were kept busy in the merrymaking and served gifts of childhs hearts.

The G.I.A. girls' booth was decorated in their colors of blue and white. Here was offered for sale home made candy, ear rings and a beautiful doll dressed in satin and lace. Aprons were made and decorated by Mrs. C. Ellsworth. Mrs. J. Milton was in charge with others.

Mrs. R. Pound had charge of the Christmas card booth, the proceeds of which are turned over to the W.M.S. ladies.

The tea room looked restful centred with the large table covered with a Scotch lace ecru colored cloth centred by a large bowl of fruit and white 'mums and silver candelabra and at either end a silver tea service. Silver plates of delicious cakes and sandwiches finished a very pretty setting.

Those pouring tea were Mrs. H. Empson, Mrs. O. Roblie, Mrs. S. Thorpe, Mrs. Farnham, Mrs. W. Cole, and Mrs. McCrae. Those replenishing were Mrs. R. McMurter, and Mrs. H. Lywood. Those serving were Mrs. C. Bird, Mrs. H. Putman, Mrs. Trch, Mrs. K. Ewing. Mrs. S. Pound, Mrs. R. Plumpton, Mrs. M. Mitchell, Mrs. D. Williams and Mrs. L. Jarrell.

Mrs. H. Farnham played soft music during the afternoon.

A hearty vote of thanks goes to Mrs. J. Williams who was convener for this pretty and successful bazaar.

All were so pleased to have Mrs. Wardner present again after her brief absence through illness.

Everyone seemed very happy and satisfied with the piano purchased by the committee appointed and already placed in the Board Room of the YMCA.

The piano remains in the possession of the club for the use of any program taking place in the Board Room, and with approval of the staff of the YMCA.

Plans are made for a "Get-together Supper" to be held in Assembly Room of the YMCA on December 2, with each member inviting a guest. Mrs. J. Garbutt and Mrs. N. Montgomery and their group will make plans, but all members will co-operate.

Mrs. D. Moxam presided for the program.

Mrs. Rowlsock led in "The Old Rugged Cross" and contributed a piano solo.

Mrs. W. Baird gave two fine readings, and the meeting closed with "The Mizpah".

Mrs. Moxam, with her co-convener, Mrs. Cunningham, and her group, served refreshments and a social time was spent.

Weddings

BELL—BARTMAN

Cherry Valley United church was the scene of a wedding, November 5, at 2.00 p.m., for a very pretty event in fall colors when Doris Eileen Bartman of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bartman of Picton, became the bride of Malcolm Edward Bell, son of Mrs. Bell and the late Mr. Elizabeth Bell. The Rev. R. Sherwin, pastor of the church, officiated before an arrangement of white and yellow chrysanthemums interspersed with ferns, while similar flowers adorned the aisles and altar. The guest pews were designated with white satin bows.

Miss Evelyn Moore, church organist, provided the wedding music, and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Gordon Bell, who sang, "Through the Years", before the ceremony; "The Lord's Prayer," during the signing of the register, and "Bless This House", at the reception.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a lovely waltz-length gown of white, Chantilly lace over taffeta fashioned with strapless bodice having a deep pointed waistline, and matching jacket with stand-up collar, pearl buttons and long fitted sleeves ending in lily-points over the wrists. The full, flared skirt was enhanced by crinoline. Her fingertip veil of aprion tulle was held by a cap-like headdress encrusted with rhinestones. She carried a white Bible crested with red rosebuds and knotted in the white satin streamers.

Miss Shirley Bartman, only sister of the bride, was maid of honor, gowned in waltz-length blue nylon net over taffeta with lace bodice, matching headdress and shoes. She carried a bouquet of yellow 'mums.

The bridegroom's mother also received wearing rose crepe with pink carnation corsage.

The bride's table was prettily appointed with a three-tier wedding cake topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom, while evergreens and white and pink 'mums, pink and white cascading streamers, and white wedding bells were centred above. The luncheon was prepared by Mrs. Amos Fraser, Mrs. Ernest Fraser, Mrs. and Mrs. Doris Scofield; while Mrs. Leonard Horswood Miss Mar-

THESE CHRISTMAS CARDS TO ENCLUDE GREETINGS FROM SON

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My son, our only child, is in the Service, stationed in Germany. Regarding what we were talking about sending our Christmas cards, my husband said he thought that it would be a fine idea to include our Phil's greetings with ours on our Christmas cards. Would this be proper? If so, please suggest how. Phil's name is ——.

And a fine idea it would be . . . please do follow your husband's suggestion. This would naturally be a greeting warmly welcome to our relatives and friends, even though your son may send cards himself. I'd like to have you make a real feature of including your son's greeting by writing a friend-to-friend letter. Perhaps something like this: "Our Phil is still stationed in Germany and will be there at Christmas time, and we know it will make him happy if we send the devoted greetings with our devoted greetings to Christ. Christmas means the desire to bring him closer to home." Then his address is—, and he'd be thrilled to receive a postcard from you with a bit of news of you and your family. He's always starved for mail.- Dearest greetings to you from the Clark family . . . and may it be a Well Merry, Happy Christmas, Happy New Year!

ADVERSE MARRIAGE CEREMONY IN CHURCH IF POSSIBLE

Dear Mrs. Beekbman:

Let I am writing a past middle age, and am planning to be married again. Would it be proper to have this event take place in the afternoon, or in the church? Then I had thought of the cake and ice cream in the afternoon, and a reception some place in the evening. Also we would like to have the children and his children as our guests.

Do you think we should send out invitations, or telephone the invitations?

2. Would it be appropriate for me to wear a white dress, or some of simple design? — Reader

Ans.—From advice that, where possible, the marriage ceremony take place in church. The attendant is usually at no beautiful fitting and right as the background for this sacred ceremony.

I suggest you plan to be married in your church, and then have a guest at your home for an informal reception. There y o u can have a buffet-style wedding supper, with ice cream if you wish; and beverages are the kind, punch or fruit punch, with which to drink the toasts "To the Bride and Groom" and "To the new couple." And attendant for each of you . . . daughter as your attendant, if you have a daughter of the proper age, and your bridegroom might have a son of the suitable age, as his attendant.

If, as I judge, your wedding is to be rather small and informal, you may properly invite the guests verbally or by telephone, or upon wish to, write notes of invitation to the guests who live at a distance.

Yes.

ONLY FAMILIES TO THE CEREMONY . . . RECEPTION AFTERWARD

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My daughter is soon to be married for the second time. She and groom - to - be want a small church wedding, with members of families only. But the problem is that they have so many friends they would like to have a reception at our house after the ceremony. In this proper, when their friends are not to be invited to the wedding ceremony?

Ans. — It is entirely correct to invite the members of the families to the ceremony, and to such, and invite as many guests as may wish to the reception following. This is quite often the plan.

ADVICE To the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

IF THIS BOY REALLY LOVES YOU, HE WILL STAND BY

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

Two years ago, I fell in love with a boy my parents didn't like, so we never told them. When they found out about it, my mother said that I knew very well they didn't like this boy and they didn't want me to get involved with that kind of people. The reason she said this is because people used to say that my boy friend's mother was a street woman. Since then my boy friend's father is not living, people can say anything about his mother, and I don't believe that they say about her is true. Even if it was, though, I don't think her children should be blamed.

Well, about three months ago, I started going with this boy friend again, and one of my brothers told my mother. She scolded me, and said that if I loved him to go away with him. I wouldn't do that, though, because I am the oldest of five children in our family, with the youngest only 12 years old. We have a restaurant, and I'm the only one who helps my mother; because none of the others will even wash a dish.

I have put my boy friend off when he talks about marriage because I'm only 19 and really could never give permission, and if I got married, without her permission, I'm afraid I would always have it on my mind. So, since I have been putting things off, my boy friend has changed a lot. There is one boy who is always telling me that he saw my boy friend with another girl, and he told my mother, too. I got mad at him, so he still is not seem to get it out of my head. I have thought of telling my mother my boy friend, but I love him very much. Please tell me what I should do. — Mary F.

Dear Mary:

Are you convinced that this boy is a reliable, trustworthy chap, who would carry out the responsibility of taking care of a wife and family if you were to marry him? Has his conduct right along proved to you that he is this kind of boy? Ask yourself these questions and give yourself an absolutely honest answer.

For myself, I would seem to me that if he really is that sort of boy, and if, also, he really loves you and wants to marry you, he would stand by you and do his work things out so that marriage would eventually be possible for you.

But, instead, you appear to be worried that because you aren't ready right now to throw over your own responsibilities, and antagonize your mother, your boy friend has lost interest and begun to go out with other girls. So you're thinking of telling on him.

What I suggest is just this: The next time you have an opportunity to talk with this boy, tell him that while you don't feel you can marry him very soon, you are willing to wait if he is willing to wait, the problem between you and your mother yourself might straighten out. Tell him that he himself might be able to do a lot toward changing her attitude if he made a special effort to win her friendship, and to show her by his behavior that he is a fine character.

If he wishes to do this then your mother may, in the end, approve your marriage. But if he does not care to wait, or to make the effort to gain her approval, then it will be clear that he does not consider you worth waiting for and working for, and you had better let him go his way.

None of this has anything whatever to do with what the boy's mother may or may not have done. I fully agree with you that it is not only wrong and unfair, but utterly ridiculous, for anyone to be scorned because some member of his family may have acted badly. All that is at issue here is what the boy has made of himself, and it is on that basis that your decision should be made.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

DIET DEFICIENCIES BRING ON DENTAL TROUBLES

A normal appetite—an interest in food, restful pleasure when one sits down to the festive board—is a blessing. Yet there are women who never experience these feelings. They are nervous and jittery and their teeth go on edge at the merest sight of a lamb chop. Then they wonder why they are losing weight and eventually fall prey to what may be brought on by malnutrition. You can't run your motor without fuel, though many women seem to think it is possible.

A tired, undernourished woman may as well throw her beauty aids out of the window. For no toiletry can be found that will put sparkle in the eyes, ginger in the step, or conceal the wrinkles born of weariness. The beauty of health is built on the foundation of health. And to have vitality it is necessary to pay heed to nutrition.

Modern cures for their children have poor eating habits; if they refuse the necessary proteins, vitamins and minerals found in meat, sea food, poultry, dairy products, fruit, cereals and vegetables. And so they should. But these same mothers may not be at all aware that their own needs, failing to make up properly three times a day.

Breakfast, too often, is a cup of coffee and a nibble of toast after getting father off to work and the children to school. Instead they should have fruit, a beverage, fruit or cereal, an egg, two slices of bacon or a slice of ham. Then, if they are going to get through the day's domestic job unless they have a maintenance meal as a luncheon.

The homemaker should study balanced diets for the sake of her family and herself. She will not serve two starchy vegetables at one meal, and be sure to include a green, leafy one. Instead of rich pastries for dessert she will concentrate on fruit of one kind or another. Every child should consume a quart of milk a day, every adult a pint, for the sake of its calcium content. Milk is more than a beverage; it is a food containing many important elements.

MRS. BRADT'S DATE PIE

One lb. dates simmered for 1 hour in 2 1-4 cups milk in top of double boiler. Mash well and add 1-2 cup sugar, 3 beaten eggs, dash of salt, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla. Bake in uncooked shell (like pumpkin-pie). Chill and serve with whipped cream. (Yum Yum).

Watch your column for new-tested recipes. . . . sure enough they finally come. . . . the last one was the very next morning, the Angel Custard Desert.— Kathryn H.

ANSWER:

Thank you for handing me the above when I was in Calgary. It was a hope come true to meet so many readers.

QUESTION:

Last (?) Hallowe'en you printed a recipe for popcorn balls, wherein you just popped corn and then poured sugar and corn syrup mix over the popped corn and stirred. It sounded sort of queer but "M.M." had never done me wrong and they were the nicest popcorn balls. Alas, I cannot locate the recipe and it was so quick and easy I would like to do it for this year. Hope I haven't left it too late. Your column is still the first thing I read in the paper. Just a few weeks ago I tried Florence M. T.'s recipe printed in your column for cake and cookie mix and have already gone through two "mixes". Holy cow—it's a miracle. I use it for pie crust too and hubby and my two children love it. Your peanut cookies, creole liver (taught me like that), the cream cuicidles, fruited angel delight and Swedish cookies made with whole wheat are a very few of my treasures. —Mary W.

ANSWER.

If I'd been home you would not have been too late, but mail had to be forwarded. I'll send a copy of the Popcorn Balls and along anyway, Sorry. I have a new recipe for a tart lemon pie given to me by my hostess in Calgary that may her family will eat liver.

Father of a Universal Language

By NICHOLAS MIRA

(Article 6)

The Bible tells us that once the whole earth was of one language and of one speech. Perhaps this world languages would have remained until today, had not the children of men attempted to be like God and build the tower of Babel whose top would reach unto heaven. Therefore, the Lord confounded them and said: Let us confound their language that they might not understand one another's speech.

And so there are over three thousand languages and dialects in the world today. Many of them are as different from each other as day and night. Some are simple, others are tongue-breaking.

Have you ever been in a foreign country with no more knowledge of its language than that of the gesture in your pocket? Well, if you have you probably got a taste of the trouble you can get into when you cannot understand a single word. Or have you ever ordered a steak in a foreign restaurant and the waiter stared at you as though you just fell from the sky? Well, that will help you either when you raise your voice about the stupidity people do in a desperate effort to make the other one understand. I wonder if you ever wished from your deepest heart that the whole world had just one and the same tongue, preferably your own.

ARTIFICIAL LANGUAGE

This is exactly the thought which occurred to a man in Poland about seventy years ago. And by it he meant everyone should learn Polish. He was obsessed with the idea of an artificial language that was simple and easy to learn. In other words, it should be free from the complications of grammar and the many finer shadings and meanings of words.

Oddly enough, his profession had nothing at all to do with languages. As a matter of fact he was an eye specialist in Warsaw. Whether or not he was a good doctor I don't know, but nevertheless he achieved international fame by his linguistic efforts to create a new world language.

For many years he experimented with this idea in a thousand different combinations. At last he found a solution. He based his new language on the chief European languages and gave it the name Esperanto which means "hopeful". Hopeful he was that one day the world would recognize the value of a language that could be understood by men written and spoken by everyone. We know this hope will be a dream, perhaps forever. But he built a bridge that could well be a means of understanding between the many different nations of this globe.

WIDELY TAUGHT

In more than thirty countries Esperanto is being taught in schools. Books for self-teaching and magazines, in this language are turned out the American continent and Europe as well as in China and Japan. More and more people study Esperanto, some for fun and others because they like it because it is helpful and practical. They find friends all over the world with whom they can exchange letters and thoughts without the barrier of a foreign language. They recognize each other in any country by a little green star worn in the lapel.

And so Esperanto still means "hopeful" hopeful of uniting the countless tongues and feelings of humanity into one. Hopeful of laying the foundation for this bridge of understanding was Dr. Ludwig Lazarus Zamenhof.

Dr. Ludwig Lazarus Zamenhof appears on Brazil stamps of 1945.

Season for Indoor Plants Is Here

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

For the next several months our attention will be focused on indoor plants.

Foliage plants are subject to various forms of grief.

These plants have come into wide use in the home today, not only here, but in public buildings such as hotels, lobbies, offices, restaurants, and show-rooms. Growing under many different surroundings results in various forms of difficulty.

Most of the trouble comes from air, water, or light, in that order. The water and hazy ways the roots can be adversely affected by using too little or too much water. Some plants may receive too much water, or too little for their particular needs, or they may be "sour" soil at irregular intervals. This causes a build up of salts.

If the growing medium is kept over-saturated it is likely to cause root and crown rot. If the soil is kept too dry the roots and stems, the tubes that carry water, are apt to collapse.

The soil, or the soil substitute should be porous. This can be attained by mixing a large portion of peat moss, vermiculite, or other mineral material with the soil.

GOOD DRAINAGE

This will provide good drainage, retain moisture longer, prevent root rot and the building up of mineral salts, around the roots. Such salts build up quickly where the drainage is poor, especially where the water is high in mineral content, or plant foods applied are not absorbed by the plant. You can see these salts on the surface of the soil ft you water from the bottom of the pot, or on the outside of the pot. This film is often mistaken for mold. It can be scraped off the side of the pot, and work in the soil surface lightly with a table fork.

Unless the atmosphere is very dry, the large deep rooted plants such as sansevieria, dracaena, dizzas, dracenas, Chinese evergreens, rubber plants, dieffenbachias and aralias will need water only once a week. Test the soil with your finger tip. If it is dry, or even a slight feeling of dampness without water on the surface is dry, but not cracked. The more shallow rooted plants such as the strawberry and water-melon begonias, peperomias, and pothos may need it as often as twice a week, or three times.

Where different plants are combined in planters, the deep rooted types may be planted directly in the soil of the planter. The shallow rooted types may be planted in pots which are sunk to soil level in the planter. This will enable you to supply extra water to those which require it without having the planter soil overwet for the first group.

MOIST AIR

Most of these foliage plants need fresh moist air. Remember such plants as the philodendrons, and the ivies included many others, as heavy air feeders. They will not do well where the soil is stagnant, over-dry, or hot. Change the air daily by opening all the doors and some of the windows for a few minutes each morning, even on cold days. Dry atmosphere can be remedied by humidifiers—or you can put the plant saucer with loose spagnum moss or an inch layer of vermiculite.

KEEP IT DAMP

All foliage plants need light even if they do not require sunlight. If you wish to grow ivies, or other plants in a dark hall, take them to a lighted position for at least a few hours weekly. Keep in a dark place the leaves will become smaller and smaller, the color will become pale and the stems soon and spindly.

Many of the most attractive planters are not provided with bottom drainage. If you do use these containers be prepared to change your plant material occasionally. Some plants will not remain in the pink of condition without drainage material. A few pieces of charcoal in the soil will help keep the soil sweet where drainage is poor.

For Parents Only

Teach Children How to Cook

By NANCY CLEAVER

"Mummy, let me help get supper!" Margaret's voice was eager.

"You can set the table, dear."

"But I don't want to set the table! I know how to do that. I'd like to learn something new—how to cook a surprise for Daddy!"

"Well, we're having macaroni casserole."

"With mushroom soup and tomato mixed in, and cheese on top? Oh, I know how to do that, I'm sure I can make it!" Margaret's blue eyes were full of mischief. She thought, "I might as well teach her how to help prepare food, since she is so keen about it!"

Interest in getting food ready to eat is not just confined to girls. Small boys, with healthy appetites can get "a bang" out of simple tasks like opening packages, toasting, scrubbing them, arranging things on the rack after a little cris-cross cut is made in the center top skin, and then watching the change in temperature and the clock. Timing is so important in meal preparation. Planning ahead so the food will be ready at the right time comes with practice.

CAMPFIRE COOKS

Boys are often surprised at the variety of foods and the ease with which they can be prepared over the embers of a camp fire. Apples can be baked in the can "Foil Blanket" (small sausages enclosed in biscuit dough in a small sacrifice outdoor oven or in the embers after being wrapped in heavy paper.

There are so many easy-to-prepare dishes that any boy or girl boy can get ready all by themselves. The "instant puddings" are a boon to busy housekeepers. There is no danger of little fingers being scalded when cereals are made by adding cold milk to the powdered "mix".

A child learns to measure the milk exactly and stir it gradually when the pudding powder. If "Junior" is careless and uses too much milk, the pudding will be "sloppy" or if he uses too little milk, it will be too thick. Thus he discovers that a good cook must observe directions carefully and follow them with precision.

Gelatine desserts are also very simple to get ready and there is a wide range of flavors. A child enjoys "dressing up" a plain dessert with chopped nuts, a few whipped cream or shredded cocoanut or chocolate chips. Mother discovers that the children will be taken such pride in his "creation" he eats up every bit of the dessert serving with relish. Soup is another easy food to prepare and so are rice dishes.

GIVE THEM CAKE

Packaged cake and cookie mixes are also a great boon in a busy household.

"You can hardly have a failure with them, even if you tried!" one teen-ager said with scornful contempt.

"Mother lets me use two similar mixes regularly, Friday after school or early evening. One cake or one batch of cookies which I can bake to treat any of my friends who drop in—and the family gobble up the rest of them."

Daughter should be allowed gradually to take more and more responsibility in the kitchen, growing as she gets older. A girl discovers how much thought has to go to making out a food shopping list—She often gains new admiration for her mother who can "stretch a food dollar" and plan nourishing meals from many useful food preparation combinations.

Having a guest of her own for the evening meal stimulates a daughter's desire to excel as a cook. If it's her company, suggest that she plan and prepare the meal completely herself. Let some other member of the family attend to the dish washing chore that night.

Encourage each youngster to compile a cook book in a loose leaf note-book or card file. In it favorite recipes which can be followed without assistance from anyone are written out. There are a number of cook books specially written for children with easy directions step by step. But the most modern cook books make no mystery of how to get a meal ready. Some of them feature dishes from different countries. A child is often intrigued by them.

Meals are often the only time in the day when the family all come together. On week-ends, why not let mother have a holiday and daughter share in food preparation? Thus, they make their own contribution to home happiness. As they make one of their favorite dishes, they discover for themselves that cooking is fun for children!

Mrs. Runion is leaving on Sunday next for Germany where she will make her home for the next two years.

Group No. 3 of the W.M.S. met at the home of Mrs. Ken Kingston on Wednesday night.

Miss Jean Grant was a Sunday guest of Billy Hopkins.

Dizzy Mountain Ledge Domain Of British Columbia Goat

By GRAHAM McMULLIN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP) — A dizzy mountain ledge, far above the timberline, is the domain of one of North America's fine, trophy animals.

The range of British Columbia's rocky mountain goat is so remote and forbidding that the animal was once considered legendary.

The B.C. game commission says that only an average of 50 goats are shot each year, although an estimate places their number in the thousands.

Unlike the Rocky mountain bighorn sheep, known for its spectacular running and jumping ability among cliffs, the goat is almost ungainly.

SURE OF FOOT

But what it lacks in speed and grace, it makes up in assurance of foot. Even the bighorn must take a back seat to the goat in navigating sheer, precipitous slopes.

The agility of the goat in mountain crags is such that no sane hunter would try to follow it. Despite this, a goat can be bagged—if you know where to look for one. And not all successful goat hunters are at the risk of fractured limbs.

The heart of the elusive goat ranges is 7,000 feet with the heaviest concentration along the coastal mountain area. The animal is also found in some abundance in the Purcell range of eastern B.C. with more sparsely throughout the central interior, Alaska, Washington, Idaho and Montana.

Their coat is a solid white, sometimes tinged with yellow. They are sometimes spotted from the decks of coastal steamers, adding an interesting note to wildlife of the mountains.

The animal's confidence in the safety of its rocky retreat often permits a hunter to stalk within easy rifle range. In the Williams Lake area of central B.C., an hour's climb from a boat will put a hunter in the midst of the herds. And in the interior, the terrain sometimes allows a man on horseback to get within easy hiking distance of their hideaways.

ROUND GOING

On the coast range, however, hunters usually prepare for a stiff climb unless the animals are driven down by snow. Even in winter they have been known to stay above the timberline, feeding on grass, brushwood, moss and lichens blown free of snow by freezing winds.

Many sportsmen feel the rouge going isn't worth the effort. Some consider the meat unpalatable, good enthusiasts say it is a delicious animal, care for the meat properly and that it rates with venison and bighorn.

A goat's weight ranges from 200 to 300 pounds. The animal stands three feet high at the shoulder.

Both male and female carry short, sharp horns and have tufted cross chin whiskers.

The protective coloring of their feet permits them to move about the rocks with amazing speed.

YOUR CAR

Door Noises Often Hard To Eliminate

By EUGENE MILMOE

Many car squeaks, chirps and rattles are puzzling and particularly those annoying ones which originate around the doors. Silencing the noise is usually a matter of skill, the problem is in locating the exact cause.

Door checks, hinges, striker plates, locks and lock cylinders often become noisy because their lubricating needs are neglected. Sometimes, a general tightening up at these points is the right cure. Or doors which have seen a lot of wear and usage, replacing the rubber weather-stripping and buttons that compress against the jamb has solved many a mysterious case of rattles.

These are probably the more common trouble spots. Other noise-makers include loose window, loose or vibrating parts in the window regulator and lock mechanisms inside the door panels.

F.P. asks "If a voltmeter test is made on a six-volt auto battery, what voltage should be shown for each cell when the starter is cranking the engine?"

(A) A battery in action will give a reading of approximately 1.5 volts per cell.

GREASELESS SPRINGS

B.S. writes: "While my 1932 car was in for a greese job, the mechanic told me the rear springs should not be lubricated. Is it correct?"

(A) Yes. Like most new cars, yours has rear springs of the semi-lubricatish leaf type. Between the leaves are special wax-impregnated fabric inserts or liners which eliminate the need for further lubrication. Lubrication is only unnecessary but harmful to this type of spring.

J.L. writes: "I have trouble with my engine when it is cold. After starting, it does not warm up properly, but has a tendency to rock and pull before it finally smooths itself out. A new automatic choke was installed and the carburetor adjusted only recently."

(A) Have the manifold heat control inspected. These symptoms will occur when carbon or dirt causes the valve to stick in the open position.

W.A. asks: "There is a noise while my car idles in gear but it disappears if I press the clutch pedal down. What causes this?"

(A) This usually indicates wear at the clutch shaft rear bearing.

NO PICK—UP

JOHN G.K.: "About two months ago my eight-cylinder engine was tuned up. Although the mechanic thought it needed new plugs, he said my old ones would do and after cleaning them, put them back in. Since then my car has no pick-up and is very sluggish as to speed. It seems to idle all right but labors when one starts when I accelerate. Do you think it might be the carburetor or the fuel pump, or would all be caused by the plugs?"

(A) I would say the plugs are to blame. When compression increases and the plugs operate poorly stop firing properly. Look for broken or fouled plugs, faulty installation or incorrect gapping.

CONFIRM ENGAGEMENT

ROME (AP) — Close friends yesterday night confirmed the engagement of Prince Francesco Borghesi, handsome 28 - year - old member of one of Europe's proudest families, and Lyn Russell, red-haired British former film actress. The 22-year-old Miss Russell, who had made a promising beginning in Italian pictures, gave up acting some months ago in favor of a job as a fashion model for Prince Borghesi, who in private life is an architect.

ASSAULTED ASSESSOR

OTTAWA (CP) — Wellington Miller, Metcalfe, Ont., farmer, was fined $50 and costs on Thursday when he pleaded guilty to assaulting Osgoode township assessor C.O. Dow, Oct. 25. Miller admitted striking Dow with a fence rail while both men were on their way to the Osgoode township Court of Revision. The incident took place after Mr. Dow increased Miller's assessment figures.

Bulletins From Birdland

INCREASE IN BIRD LIFE

It is good to learn from an expert and Mr. Pough, an ornithologist of note, says so) that in spite of all the species that through ignorance, carelessness, and vandalism have been lost to their "New World", the bird population has actually risen since the white men settled on this continent.

There are two definite, though absolutely different, reasons for this. The first, at a glance, seems strange, the second is quite understandable.

Where civilization came to our shores, there was also found a great variety of country from which a bird might choose to make a home. There were streams, ponds, rivers, and lakes in abundance, but when it came to "land" there were forests—and more forests.

Every species has its own idea as what makes for comfort and happiness, and, consequently, a man's ruthless cutting, burning, and general abuse of the land gave certain species the needed opportunity to expand their territories and multiply.

With no difficulty, any bird watcher can name many land birds that would still have but a tiny corner to live in were it not for a party for his own benefit and partly through stupidity and lack of knowledge, exterminated.

If America were still thickly forested, the passenger pigeon would larks be, our hummingbirds, goldfinches, chipping and savannah sparrows, bluebirds, purple martins, house wrens, and yellow warblers!

BIRDS PARADISE

It was several centuries before man wakened up to the fact that birds were not only beautiful but good. Any species might be lost in his or her nurture and destroyed at any time. Around 1885, the most beautiful birds were nearly exterminated in order to supply fashion's demand for their beauty. The millinery trade paid well for plumes, and even whole skins.

Somebody is said to have seen in a shop window in Paris, a Baltimore oriole stuffed skin at 75 cents each. Birds of Paradise, passenger pigeon were practically extinct, being sold at a few pennies apiece — and the latter, which might be trapped, netted — killed in any manner.

Gradually laws of restriction were made in both Canada and the United States, and in 1916 these two countries signed the Migratory Birds Convention. Also in 1916, a great protection to non-game birds and summer birds. The fourth article Edible Conference took place in Montreal with 3,000 persons attending.

Since 1887, when Canada's oldest sanctuary was established in Saskatchewan, more than 72 others have been added by the Canadian governments, and there are many privately owned ones. Canadian universities are offering courses in wildlife management. No wonder our bird population is on the increase!

Pilot Runs Jet Interceptor Into Barrier at 100 MPH

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Flt. Lt. Bill Lawlor Thurs. ran a 21-ton CF-100 jet interceptor into a barrier at about 100 miles an hour.

The barrier, made of nylon mesh and dug stakes, was set up in an 880 foot, The 27-year-old pilot from Lindsay, Ont., said there was a noticeable jolt when the jet hit the barrier but that the slowdown was smooth.

It was the 10th in a series of tests conducted at Uplands airfield here during RCAF development of a barrier to stop planes that lose their brakes or make an abortive takeoff, and thus save lives. It was the sixth run for Lawlor into the barrier. As far as could be seen, the plane was not damaged in the slightest.

The nylon mesh, about 2½ feet above the runway, catches the nose undercarriage of the plane and pulls a heavy steel cable stretched across the runway. The cable begins to splinter the main undercarriage of the plane. It in turn is attached to 30 tons of chain on either side of the runway.

DRAG STOPS PLANE

Drag chutes and behind the aircraft, its weight and friction from the ground and showers of sparks were caused by the friction between chain and runway.

One disadvantage of the barrier at present is that after a plane hits, it takes 20 to 30 minutes to put the barrier back in position. It is hoped eventually to develop a system to do this automatically. The barrier costs $30,000. The plane's web bombing portion costs $200 and has to be completely replaced each time.

Flt. Lt. Lawlor, who joined the RCAF in 1950, was intrigued when asked if he considered the trials dangerous, there has been no serious accident so far during the tests.

Cannifton

CANNIFTON — There was a nice crowd out to the Armistice day service in the town hall on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Hall of Belleville, spent the dinner hour on Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. F. Windsor.

Cannifton and Corbyville Business Club held its monthly euchre at Corby's cafeteria with seven tables of players. Prizes were won by: ladies, Edith Stewart, Alice Thompson and Elsie Philp; Men, Emily Sharpe, Bruce Walsh and Mrs. M. Morgan. SHIPS COMPLETE FIVE MONTH ARCTIC DUTY

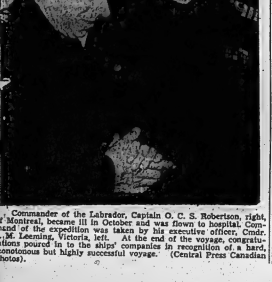
HMCS Labrador and 14 other ships have completed one of the greatest seaborne operations ever attempted in the Arctic. Their mission, which began in June, was to deliver thousands of tons of supplies to Distant Early Warning Line sites, to chart unknown waters and to set up temporary and permanent navigation stations. Here are two of the Labrador's convoy picking their way through an icefield.



Use of helicopters speeded the work of the convoy both in scouting for breaks in the Arctic icefields and in transporting men and equipment to shore stations. A 90-foot radio antenna is being hurried ashore here to put a navigational control station in operation.

A prefabricated Atwell shelter is quickly set up at Cape Fisher. For two months this was home for four of the Labrador's men.

This polar bear appeared annoyed at having his privacy disturbed and ambled off without a backward look. Crews of the ships soon became accustomed to the sight of walrus, bear and seal.

Commander of the Labrador, Captain O. C. S. Robertson, right, of Montreal, became ill in October and was flown to hospital. Command of the expedition was taken by his executive officer, Cmdr. J. M. Leeming, Victoria, left. At the end of the voyage, congratulations poured in to the ships' companies in recognition of a hard, monotonous but highly successful voyage. Wheat Farmer Said Alone In Subsidized World By Head of Sask. Wheat Pool

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

REGINA (CP) — The Canadian wheat farmer has been pictured before the Gordon economic commission as a staunch fighter making his way in a subsidized world of razor-edge competition and standing alone against the huge treasury of the United States.

John Brass, head of the Saskatchewan wheat pool, said Friday "the Canadian farmer is competing not only against the national treasuries of exporters and importers alike, but "almost alone among the farmers of the world the Canadian farmer is carrying the full burden of producing, handling and marketing his wheat crop."

All Saskatchewan farm groups argue it is high time Canadian taxpayers rally round the wheat grower and provide him with federal aid so that he may continue producing some of the world's highest-quality wheat without fear of poverty and marketing defeat.

But the question apparently on the minds of the farm spokesmen and the commission itself is how far the federal government would be willing to go in providing aid.

TREASURY SHOULD PAY

Mr. Wesson suggested that storage charge on unsold wheat stocks be paid by the federal treasury. On the carryover reported last August, this might amount to some $70,000,000. If the government provided subsidies on the same scale as the U.S., the federal charge on the basis of the 1955 crop, might run to some $250,000,000 or more.

Could the Canadian federal treasury stand the strain of such payments?

To this, farm representatives say: "If other countries can subsidize their producers, why can't Canada?"

The U.S. is operating on a $1,500,000 food giveaway program that involves grain sales boiled cost. American farmers get some $2.35 a bushel for wheat sold on the export market at about $1.70.

Mr. Wesson said that Britain gives its farmers up to $2.37 a bushel for wheat sold on the U.K. market for an average of $1.62. France gives its farmers up to $2.81; Argentina, the equivalent of $2.72.

GET GOING PRICE

The Canadian producer gets the going price for No. 1 Northern about $1.74 a bushel, less handling and storage charges. His top quality is landed in Europe at $2.18.

The crux of the problem appeared to be that importing countries are willing to subsidize their producers to boost domestic production to some extent, rather than pay for imports.

Probe Cause Of Plane Wreck Near Seattle

SEATTLE (AP) — Government experts met here today to begin piecing together the broken fragments of a wrecked airliner and the stories of the people who saw it crash.

Twenty-seven men died when a Peninsular Air Transport Co. DC-4 bounced to explosive destruction early Friday in the backyard of a suburban home. Four of the dead were persons, including a woman and three children, survived.

Upon the stories of the survivors and the few witnesses who watched the plane crack up out of a snowy sky, civil aeronautics board investigators pin their hopes of solving the mystery.

The investigators said they had no preconceived notions what caused the Miami-based plane to falter two miles south of its take-off point, hit a tree, a utility pole, and a garage, and then break up and burn in a back yard.

Two men who watched the plane's final few yards of flight said its engines were falling, and one had even quit. Fred Hall, co-pilot, agreed that one engine had given trouble "right after the take-off." But "the other three engines were functioning perfectly, and that's enough to get that type of plane up without too much trouble."

He couldn't say, though, why the plane began to settle in a matter of seconds after the takeoff instead of gaining the altitude it needed to clear the hill south of the runway.

MINISTER DIES

WATERLOO (CP)—Canon R. J. Seton-Adamson, 84, retired pastor of Anglican Church of the Holy Savior in Waterloo, died Friday. He came to Canada from England in 1896 and had served in Owen Sound, Southampton, Delaware, Chatham, Paris and Waterloo in Ontario.

Veteran Carriage Team Retired From Show Ring

TORONTO (CP) — Two champions of sport, identically named, shared the spotlight last night at the horse show of the Royal Winter Fair.

King Clancy, a veteran carriage horse, for the first time met his human counterpart, Francis King Clancy, coach of the Toronto Maple Leafs hockey team, before a hushed crowd in the Coliseum.

Clancy, the man, was paying tribute to the horse, owned by Lance Rumble, Toronto automobile executive, on the occasion of the horse's formal retirement from the show ring.

The Leaf's coach placed floral collars around the necks of the horse and his partner in harness, Scarboro Princess.

Clancy and the Princess, the first 22 and the other 16, are being retired to Mr. Rumble's farm at Durham.

PROUD RECORD

The pair was often referred to as one of the continent's most celebrated tandem hitches. Mr. Rumble has driven the team to victory at nearly every major horse show in the United States and Canada. They have earned more than 100 prize ribbons a year since he bought them in 1947.

After the ceremonies, Clancy said: "He's a great champion, sure wish I had a record like him."

Civil Servants To Get Holiday On December 27

TORONTO (CP)—Tuesday, Dec. 27, will be a holiday for Ontario civil servants, it was learned Friday.

Provincial government employees will be off work from Friday night to Wednesday morning because of the extra holiday approved by the Ontario cabinet a Queen's Park official said.

They also would have off the Monday after New Year's Day.

Monday, the day after Christmas, is a holiday, but not because it is Boxing Day. Federal legislation provides that when Christmas Day falls on a Sunday, the day after is a statutory holiday. Tuesday also may be declared a holiday by municipalities.

Ontario's Interpretation Act, which defines holidays, provides that Monday is a holiday when New Year's occurs Sunday.

HONOR COMPOSER

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. Healy Willan, Canadian composer and church organist, has been awarded an honorary Lambeth Doctorate of Music by the Archbishop of Canterbury through Most Rev. W. F. Barfoot, Primate of the Anglican Church in Canada, it was announced Friday. He is the first Canadian to be so honored. Only nine awards have been made in the last 30 years.

No Discrimination Shown In Immigration--Pickersgill

VICTORIA (CP) — Canada will try to encourage more immigrants next year, but we "cannot conscript" them, says Immigration Minister J. W. Pickersgill.

In an address Friday to the Victoria Chamber of Commerce and Canadian Club, he made these observations:

He shares the regret expressed in newspapers across the country that more immigrants didn't come this year. But "we cannot conscript immigrants."

The picture for the 10 years since the war shows there is certainly no reason whatever for pessimism about the growth of our population or about the contribution of immigration to that growth."

ONE IN 15

About one person in 15 in Canada today is either a post-war immigrant or the child of a post-war immigrant.

The Canadian people do not want to alter by immigration the fundamental character of the population.

This means a process of selec-

Soviet Leaders Turn Tourists On Indian Visit

NEW DELHI (AP) — Russia's Premier Bulganin and the Soviet Communist party secretary, Nikita S. Khrushchev, turned tourist today for a look at New Delhi's famous historic spots.

A sightseeing tour on the second day of their 15-day state visit to India also gave the Soviet leaders an opportunity to pay homage to the martyred Mohandas Gandhi, whom the Soviet Union once termed "reactionary."

The itinerary for the tour was announced beforehand, and security measures covered the Russians' swing around the city. But the presence of hundreds of police tipped the public where the visitors were heading, and crowds gathered all along the route.

PRESSURE ON POLICE

Despite the police lines, the crowds threatened at least once to overwhelm the open car in which Bulganin and Khrushchev were riding.

The tour started at the site of Gandhi's cremation. The two Soviet leaders sat on a stone bench to remove their shoes and advanced to the Gandhi memorial, where each placed a huge floral wreath.

Just over a year ago the Indian government protested informally to Moscow on learning that the official Soviet Encyclopedia said Gandhi "pretended in a demagogic way" to lead the Indian independence movement. Some observers thought today's tribute represented Russian atonement for that unfair reference.

Also on the tremation site the Russians went to see New Delhi's Purana Qila, or Old Fort, built by the Moghuls 300 years ago — and site of the last resistance by Indian rebels in the 1857 mutiny against British rule.

Suspend Sentence On Youth Who Threw Ball Bat

CHATHAM (CP) — John Mathew, 18-year-old athlete who faced charges of assault as result of an incident in Tecumseh Park in July when he threw a baseball bat into a crowd of spectators, injuring an elderly woman, was given a year's suspended sentence in city court Friday.

The woman suffered a broken arm as the three-foot bat struck her face to protect herself from the flying bat. She was diabetic and the break refused to heal after lengthy medical treatment.

Mathew was remanded several times and has paid off $400 of medical costs. His suspended sentence was on condition he pay remaining medical costs of $1,050.

Shortly after the incident he was banned from participation in all city softball competitions and the Canadian Amateur Softball Association forbade him to play in any contest over which it had jurisdiction."

ON 36 DRUG CHARGES

MONTREAL (CP) — Edward Russell, a 43-year-old dyemaker, Friday was ordered for voluntary statement next week on 36 narcotics charges. Russell is accused of 30 charges of forging prescriptions to obtain drugs, 30 charges of uttering the prescriptions and six charges of obtaining narcotics with the forgeries.

30-DAY WEATHER OUTLOOK

Most of Ontario, Quebec and New Brunswick can expect above-normal temperatures for the next 30 days, according to this map based on forecasts of the United States Weather Bureau. Much-below-normal temperatures are forecast for southern British Columbia while most of the Prairies can expect below-normal temperatures (CP Photo).

Calls Royal Winter Fair Horse Show Greatest of Kind in North America

TORONTO (CP) — After 24 years of calling the tune at the horse show of the Royal Winter Fair, master of ceremonies Tommy McClure thinks it is the greatest show of its kind in North America.

McClure, a veteran Canadian sports announcer who admits to 70, says the horse show is one of his first loves. He has announced sports ranging from football to yachting.

"It's the finest horse show on the continent," he said. "We looked after 1,500 entries this year and housed them in our horse barn. We can look after many more entries than the shows at New York or Harrisburg, Pa."

One of the notable features of this year's show, he said, is the large number of exhibitors from the United States with hunter horses. In previous years U.S. horsemen showed mostly in open classes.

NO INCREASE SIZE

With the growing popularity of the horse show and the agricultural section of the fair, general manager C. S. McKee says fair buildings may increase their size 50 per cent by next year.

He said the expansion program, if approved, would take about two years to complete.

In the feature of Friday night's horse show, the international jump event, Mexico won its third victory on the day to tie with the United States at three wins each.

Brig.-Gen. Humberto Marilles, riding Chihuahua II, broke a four-way tie for first place in the international team stakes with four faults in 38.8 seconds.

Charles Dennehy, Jr., of the United States was second with four faults in 39.3 seconds, and Lieut. Patrick Kiernan of Ireland was third with eight faults in 43 seconds.

The auction of Hereford beef cattle was the final sale of the stars Friday night brought $17,605 for 32 head, an average of $550. Bulls average $807.50 and females $433.

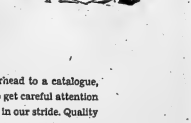
Legless Mayor Gets 11th Term

BLIND RIVER (CP) — Louis Berthelot was returned as mayor of Blind River Thursday for his 11th term.

The mayor, a diabetic, is confined to a wheelchair. He had one leg amputated in 1953 and lost the other last July.



SHELL EXPLODES

CASPERTA, Italy (AP) — Antonio Orsi, 30, a deaf mute since birth, found a wartime shell in the woods. He was playing with the shell, authorities said, when it exploded. He will be blind for the rest of his life.

Magistrate Faced With Heavy Court Docket

BANCROFT — Pleading guilty to a charge of driving whilst his ability was impaired, Bernard Monsour of Cardiff, was fined $75 and costs or 21 days by Magistrate R. C. Jackson at Wednesday's court. Police evidence was given that a blood test taken three hours after an accident on October 29, in which Muscliow was involved, showed an alcohol content of 13 parts per 1000.

Hallowe'en pranks resulted in the appearance in court of Frank Hibbard, at Bancroft, charged with property damage to the home of school teacher George McKelvey. Police Chief Lockhart said that accused, with other youths, threw stones at a house being occupied by the teacher during the early hours of November 1.

Some damage was caused to the roof. The boys had since made restitution. Appearing guilty, Hibbard was awarded one day's suspended sentence.

Canadian Competition Makes Times Tough in U.S. Fish Port

By IRVING C. WEYNOT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

GLOUCESTER, Mass. (CP)—Here in the United States' biggest fishing port, times are tough. The trouble, say leaders of the fishing industry, is Canadian competition.

For a time, low-priced imports from north of the border could spell a major economic recession. The immediate answer to the threat, say officials, appears to be stiff tariffs on fish products.

So far the industry hasn't been able to convince the government that these are necessary. The future, at best, is uncertain.

BLUNT COMMENT

As Lawrence J. Hart, secretary of the Gloucester chamber of commerce, put it:

"Our industry is dying poorly."

A fish processing plant manager said bluntly:

"We're having a hard time meeting the Canadian competition. . . It's a cut-throat business."

The business is a big one, worth $8,256,000 in 1954 and employing 34 per cent of all the groundfish—such as cod and haddock—landed in the United States.

That makes Gloucester the largest U.S. fishing, freezing and filleting port in the country, much the same position as Lunenburg, N.S., is to Canada.

The two Atlantic fishing ports have been competitors for years, fighting for markets and in years past for the schooner racing championship. But now they are fighting bankruptcy.

BUT MEN LIKE IT

But men like Hart and others in the industry complain that Canada is helped in its take over the once lucrative salt-fish markets in the British West Indies, and, more recently, in Puerto Rico, by construction, transportation, lower labor costs and other assistance. It was also in more United States and undersell domestic products.

"We spent thousands of dollars developing the mid-west market and then the Canadians moved in. Now we're not sure how long we can hold the import fish-stick industry in the face of this compelling," said Hart.

Fish sticks, a comparatively new development, are a big factor in the present fight to keep the industry going.

Packaged fish sticks are precooked portions of fish, boneless, breaded and frozen. All the housewife has to do is heat and serve.

PRODUCTION GROWS

Gloucester started processing them in 1953 from cod and haddock. Last year the United States produced 50,000,000 pounds—and Canada produced more than half. This year the production will be higher.

This is the brightest spot on an otherwise clouded future.

Gloucester has had plenty of various sizes in the industry, giving it a cosmopolitan flavor. Men of sea and about 2,300 ashore during the banding season in the 23 plants.

But landings have dropped more than 50,000,000 pounds in three years, and with the government unwilling to act at once on higher tariffs, the town faces an uncertain future.

Memorial Service Held

IVANHOE—Huntington township veterans paraded to Beulah United Church on Sunday evening to attend a memorial service honoring the dead of World Wars I and II, and the Korean war.

The parade was marshalled by Doc McFadden.

Rev. George Tesky conducted the service and extended a welcome to the veterans and their families. Following the singing of "Faith of Our Fathers," a brief memorial service was conducted by Reginald Haggerty. A wreath was placed on the altar by William French. The names of those who paid the supreme sacrifice were read.

"All the going down of the sun" And in the morning

We shall remember them."

There is already a touch of sadness at a service of remembrance as the veterans line grows a bit shorter, and another familiar face is missing. Let us re-dedicate ourselves that we may be worthy of their sacrifice.

The last Post was sounded.

The junior choir sang "O God Our Help in Ages Past", with Mrs. Keith Bray at the piano.

Rev. George Tesky chose for his text: Matthew 10:32 "Think not that I am come to send peace on earth: I came not to send peace but a sword."

"When first glance at this text verse we are startled and begin to wonder. Did Jesus mean He would bring not peace only but war could peace be won? If we look deeper we will find this was not the sword taken on the battle field of strife. "This was the sword of persecution.

"We will always find differences in the various denominations groups spreading to nations. Because we have not come with another and are intolerant of others' views, because we have not been able to see the truths of the sermon on the Mount, and be long as it doesn't only be exist as they exist today, there is bound to be conflict.

"In Luke 12: 52, this was spoken of as a division.

"Unfortunately impossible. Have we the courage and strength to face the days of persecutions and go out to fight on the Lord's side? If we are called to do this we can be assured the battle will be won. Then only can we hope for peace," concluded the speaker.

ROARING RALLY

Anyone that remarks that hockey "as she is played" in this senior "S" group is a pasty-waist pastime should have his noggin' examined. Especially the way the Cornwall Colts dish it out. There is no stopping for less nor assessing the slamming one's ribs through the boards when the Colts are on the pitching end. They play it rough and rugged—and the divil take the hindmost.

There was more clutch-and-grab with some free piggy-back rides that escaped the notice of the striped-shirts in last night's game than you could shake a stick at. Frintance M'sieu Stanley dumped M'sieu McMaster into the boards heading after a Belleville puck and the "Smiler" went down for the count. All this was unnoticed by the stripeshirts, who were busy concentrating on Leacock and Nobber Day, who were doing a spot of trafficing a few yards down the ice. Both got the gate for glaring.

However, on the other side of the ledger, it was heartwarming to see the TPT's come up with the brand of offensive hockey that has been more or less dormant the past game or two. Shorthanded as they were, with only one regular defenceman available for duty, they threw everything to the winds and produced a brand of hockey in the second and third periods that had the 1,800 faithful handclapping in the pews. They thoroughly deserved the victory—and should have won by a larger margin. However, credit goes to Devanney, the Colts' goalie, for a standout job and while on that subject Tony Parisi was more than a stumbling block in the TPT netting.

This column, however, doffs the chapeau to one Peter Jones. The scrawl-top, drafted for defence duty, looked as if he had been in the position all his life. He checked fore and aft and set up not a few plays. He used the body to effect when necessary and was a thorn in the side of the Colt attackers all night. He made a fine stablemate for Sammy the Man, who again came up with a fine two-way performance." The whole crew played hard, fast hockey and no one can begrudge them last night's victory.

TIP TO PARENTS

While parents of the city's puck-chasing moppets are doing a grand job in furnishing the sweaters with equipment, insurance and lots of living-room support, a lot of them are lacking in another respect—that of showing up at Memorial Arena and watching their sons and heirs go through their ice-bone paces.

President Bill Gault of the Belleville Minor Hockey Association, is of the opinion that minor hockey in the city would be given an extra boost if fond mammas and pappas took time out on Thursday nights or Saturday mornings to drop in the arena and see these embryo Richards, Beliveaus, Howes and Lindsays cavort up and down the glaze.

And don't think these apple-cheeked puckists do not take their hockey seriously. They have a loyalty all their own. And if you don't believe that, just drop in to a dressing room and lend an ear to the post-game chatter. The arguments wag long and hot at times with practically all the youngsters displaying a fierce belief in the prowess of their respective players and clubs.

The arena resounds to the cheers from boyish throats when one side or another scores a goal. A two-goal getter is a hero for the nonce. A little fury loaded with pads that weigh nearly as much as the boy, puts as much value on a shutout as does any of his big brothers. And under organized hockey, such as promoted and endorsed by the Ontario Minor Hockey Association, every little guy is being taught the spirit of sportsmanship. True the arena rings with boyish exuberance of the winners. The losers, it seems a shame there always has to be one, may be a little glum, but they readily come up with the true spirit of "we'll win the next one."

It is really heart-warming to see these half-pints go through their ice calisthenics—and not a few parents are missing much in the arena. Try it sometime.

BOXING, NOVEMBER 26th

The Canadian Order of Foresters' benefit boxing show scheduled for the Bridge Street Armouries on Saturday, November 26, is rapidly rounding into what appears to be a highly attractive mitt card. The proceeds of the show, says Manager Billy Eustace, go to the Hospital Building Fund. Tickets are on sale at Thomas' and Cook's tobacco stores.

Eddie Schamerhorn, hard-punching Belleville belter, who faces Lee Blair, Ottawa, in the main bout, is training hard for the fight. Eddie has been whipping himself into shape at the city YMCA and has made several trips to Toronto where he has worked out with Don Miller, western Canada lightweight champion, who is associated with the Royal School of Artillery in the Prince Edward County town.

Miller will provide one of the highlights of the show when he steps in the ring against Eddie Beattie, western Ontario lightweight titleholder. This fight will be carded as one of the two main bouts of the evening. If Miller gets the nod over Beattie it will elevate him to the top ranks of provincial scrappers.

What should be another crowd-pleaser is the bout scheduled between Tommy Pau, Hamilton, who stands six feet four and tips the scales at 216 pounds. Arrangements are under way by Eustace to match the giant Pan with Jerry Adams, a 205-pounder, formerly of Pakistan, now residing in these parts.

The card is the first boxing show to be staged in the city in some years. Mr. Eustace says he is trying to bring the best ring talent available in an effort to revive the sport here, which in the past saw some savvy days. The cause is a good one, with the proceeds, as said before, going to the Hospital Building Fund.

Mickoski Is Hawk Trigger Man Firing Home Trio of Goals; Clubs Tied for Third Place

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It only takes a game, as any goaltender knows, to rule a goal-against average. It came Friday night for Terry Sawchuk.

Sawchuk was pressing Jacques Plante of Montreal Canadiens for the honour of the National Hockey League's top goalkeeper until he and Boston Bruins got a working over by Chicago Black Hawks. Hawks walloped the Bruins 6-1.

Odder than the engagement—watched by 6,664 fans at Chicago Stadium—Sawchuk had allowed 37 goals to get by him in 15 games. Plante's record is 38 in 17 games. Now the Bruin netminder is five goals behind Plante and has played in two games fewer.

Nick Mickoski was the big man for Hawks. The 27-year-old left winger fired three goals in his Chicago move into a third-place tie with the Bruins. Each team has 17 points, two behind New York Rangers, who trail Montreal by six points.

Besides Mickoski's three markers, centre Bill Mosienko and forwards Hank Ciesla and Jack McIntyre added Hawk goals. Boston's only goal was scored by Doug Mohns in the opening minute of the final period.

Sandford gave Hawks a lead they never relinquished in the first period when he beat Sawchuk at 18:33. Mickoski counted twice in the middle frame—the first at 9:15 and the other at 19:40. Ciesla sandwiched his goal between the two by Mickoski. It came at 11:22.

Mohns spoiled the shutout attempt of Al Rollins in the Chicago nets when he drilled a hard shot at the 59-second mark of the final frame.

McIntyre closed out the scoring at 7:50 after taking a pass from Eddie Litzenberger, who also drew an assist on Sandford's goal.

Dutchies Edge Stratford 4-3

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen just don't like Stratford Indians threatening them for the lead in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A League.

Friday night in the only game, the Dutchmen edged Indians 4-3 at Stratford. It was the second win for the league-leaders over Indians in less than a week, and increased their lead over second-place Stratford to six points.

WAS TIED

A week ago, Stratford was tied with Kitchener for the lead in the OHA senior A standings and the Indians had two games in hand. They've still got those two extra games to make up for but a loss against the Dutchmen at Kitchener tonight would put them eight points behind.

Joe Schertl, Jack McKenzie, Bob White and Jim Logan scored for Kitchener-Waterloo. Billy Flick, Tommy Wylie and Bobby Mader connected for the Indians.

The teams were tied 2-2 at the end of the first period before White's second-period goal gave the Dutchmen a lead they put then in front to stay. Logan made it 4-2 early in the third before Mader ended the scoring at 13:13.

Bowl Hopes Ride High In Today's Games

NEW YORK (AP)—Injuries and capricious weather became important factors as the college football season reaches "Climax Saturday" with the bowl hopes of half a dozen teams riding on the outcome of key games.

At Ann Arbor, Mich., where Michigan and Ohio State clash for the Big Ten championship, grounds keepers dug out from a wintry mid-week storm and prepared for a chilly, drizzly day.

Rain is in prospect also at Los Angeles, where UCLA meets Southern California in renewal of their bitter backyard rivalry. UCLA, ranked nationally and beaten only by Maryland, must win to clinch the host berth for the Rose Bowl game. A loss could throw the honor in the direction of Oregon State, if the Webfoots beat Oregon.

Michigan is conceded a one-touchdown edge over Ohio State, the Rose Bowl representative a year ago.

But should the sixth - ranked Michigans bow to the No. 8 Buckeyes, the Big Ten Bowl bid would go to Michigan State, the team many now regard as the Midwest's best. Michigan State, third ranked nationally, has completed its Big Ten schedule with only a loss to Michigan and closes with non-league Marquette today.

TPTs Vault Into Second-Place Tie; Defeat Cornwall 4-2 In Rugged Game

Overcome Two-Goal Deficit With Fine Offensive Effort; Score Three in Torrid Second

By GEORGE H. CARVER
(Sports Editor)

Unleashing their best offensive effort of the season, the Belleville TPT's vaulted into a second-place tie here last night, roaring from behind a two-goal deficit to defeat the Cornwall Colts 4-3 in a rough and rugged senior contest.

The TPT's snatched victory in the second and third periods after the Colts had taken a two-goal lead in the first seconds of the second frame. Faced by Bill Gallagher, the Belleville crew, fortified the lead they lost their ace defenceman, Bill McMaster, who was sent to the penalty box for the remainder of the game. Paced by Bert Hill, who banished from the bench, took near comthe six min. McMaster was charged with pletes mastery of the third period, scoring the only goal and outshooting the Colts 13-4.

Referees Mulligan and Casterton of Kingston dished out 18 penalties, all minors with the Colts drawing down eleven. Leacock was the "fall guy" as the visitors sitting out four sentences.

ROUGH AND RUGGED

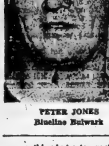
The teams pulled all stops out in a rough and rugged second period that saw a steady parade to the sin bin. McMaster was charged heavily into the boards and was carried off on a stretcher and sent to hospital. The blow was given the heave-ho for too much argument with a reward of over 1,000 standing on its feet. Later Davey Jones and two Colts crashed en masse into the boards, holding up the game while repairs were made.

Annoyed at the Colts' one up in a comparatively mild first period after a three-game series with Seward and Deslets. The latter player gave the Colts a two-goal lead after a minute of play in the second period with Landon and Savard getting the tallies.

Midway through the best the TPT's have shown offensive life. Vern Goyer cut the lead to one with the Jones brothers and after 34 minutes Cornwall led Hill count on a brilliant passing play with Davey Jones.

Still driving to the attack the TPT's took the lead with Bert Hill scoring the winning goal with four minutes to go on a spear-head play with Jones and Mulholland.

The Colts drove back with spasmodic attacks and Parisi came up with some sparkling stops. He beat Lysaght when the Colt forward drove in alone with not a TPT within 30 feet of him.



The Belleville crew practically dominated the third period. They hemmed the Colts in their back yard and only a brilliant performance by Gerryson, who was beaten cleanly by all four goals prevented a higher score. Keith MacDonald slammed home the insurance marker with four minutes to play. Taylor drew a belated penalty with the clock ticking off the seconds.

Bob Wilson, who was sick in bed with swollen throat glands, did not play and coach Danny Cox was forced to juggle his troops. He sent Peter Jones back on defence with Sammy Mulholland and the red-head came up with a brilliant blueline performance. He checked well at both ends of the fence veteran and drew the well-earned plaudits of the crowd. Both Jones and Mulholland did yeoman service, playing most of the game on occasional relief from Gus Leonard.

DESERVED VICTORY

Keith MacDonald and Vern Goyer put in a whole TPT crew played heads-up hockey after the first period. They generated the best offensive effort of the season thus far and with a little more luck and little less Perversity the score would have been greater than it was. In the third period they had nearly 90 per cent of the play and how they failed to score more than once, is one for the book.

Cornwall was without Belmore and Payette, two of their star players. Leacock, a tall rangy defenceman, carried a chip on his shoulder and was given the gate no less than four times. The game was anything but a tea-party with both teams throwing the toro at the slightest provocation.

PETER JONES

Keith MacDonald sparked the TPT's attack, scoring two of the four goals, the last putting the game on ice. Vern Goyer hit the lamp once and had an assist, while Bert Hill scored the other, the winning marker. Davey Jones was credited with three assists with Peter Jones and Sammy Mulholland each getting one.

The Colts outshot the TPT's 12-5 in the first period but the Coomen wound up the game on the long side of a 32-19 shots-on-goal count.

Tonight the Whitby Dunlops defeating the Kingston Goodyears 8-3 in Kingston last night, the TPT's win put them even-stephen with the Goodyears in second place, each with seven points for three victories and a tie. The TPT's meet Whitby here next Tuesday night.

The teams:

Cornwall — Goal, Devanney; defence, Marshall, Bingley, Leacock; forwards, Batten, Landon, Savard, St. Jean, Wells, Carpenter, Deslets, Annand, Ingram.

Larks' Band Will See Game From Stadium

VANCOUVER (CP) — Members of the Montreal Alouettes band and cheerleaders will be able to see the Grey Cup game after all—and not on television.

Harry McIntire, secretary of the Canadian Rugby Union, said Friday the CRU has rounded up enough standing-room tickets to give the band space on one of the west-end ramps leading into Empire Stadium. The tickets have been offered for sale to the band and the girls and the next move is up to them, he said.

HAVE THE SPACE

"The CRU has gone to no end of trouble," McIntire said. "Now we have space for them. We have made the overture—now it's up to them to accept or reject."

The space will be similar to that allotted to military bands taking part in half-time entertainment and constitutes part of the stadium's 4,000 standing-room section.

McIntire made the statement in reply to reports that the band and girls would have to view the sport spectacle via television and that Montreal supporters were trying to round up tickets for them.

At Montreal, Alouettes management said Friday night that "we have no better offer, we will have to accept the present one" to get the Alouette band and girls to and from the stadium."

Bears Favored To Whip Lions

NEW YORK (AP) — Chicago Bears, who tore into the Lions to a tie for first place in the Western Conference of the National Football League, have a chance to grab the top rung all for themselves Sunday.

Winners of five straight after blowing their first three, the resurgent Bears are favored to whip the wakening Lions at Detroit in a first meeting of the two clubs this season. Beaten in their first six starts, the Lions, defending conference champions, snapped out of their slump with consecutive victories over Baltimore and Pittsburgh.

Los Angeles, whipped by the Bears last week and the Colts, defeated by them last two, have it out at Baltimore. This is another first meeting of the season.

Green Bay Packers fight to keep in the race in a game with San Francisco at Milwaukee.

Cleveland, which figured to romp away with the eastern title, suddenly finds itself knotted by Washington Redskins, winners of four straight. The Browns have only a game edge now with their 8-3 record against Washington's 5-3.

Western Aides To Help Ivy

EDMONTON (CP) — Coach Frank (Pop) Ivy will have an assistant from Saskatchewan Huskies as well as one who worked against him this year, when he guides the Edmonton Eskimos team in the Eastern Bowl game in Toronto Dec. 3.

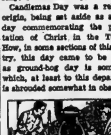
Saskatchewan's Ivy's Edmonton Eskimos said Friday night Ray Prochaska would be on hand to help in the East-West game, as well as coach Al Sherman of Winnipeg Blue Bombers whose team was eliminated by the Eskimos in the western football final.

as a result, 23 penalties were handed out, including two majors and a misconduct. Majors received 13, one of them a major.

Stan Balukh kept the Canucks in the game with three first period goals, one in each of the second, third and first minute overtime periods. Walt Bradley and Bob Dunn were the other Canuck marksmen. Sid Womack, Jack Kane, John Chaszewski, Bob Beckett and Bob Cherry scored for the Flyers.

Guelph Biltmores came from behind twice to defeat the Teepees. St. Catharines went ahead 2-0 early in the first frame but 10 minutes later Guelph tied it up. The Teepees went ahead again in front mid-way through the middle stanza but Biltmores answered with a pair of goals before the period ended. They added two more in the last frame.

Dan Bellas scored twice for Guelph and Bob Thompson, Bill Sweeney and Pete Pilotta once each. Mast Plata and Bob Butler counted for the losers.



Solmar Notes

Amateur Weather Forecasters

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT
(Field Sportsman, Author and Creator of Solmar Tables.)

In a town in Pennsylvania there is a club, formed for a single purpose—the annual glorification of an event known as ground-hog day. Another and more ancient and authentic name for this day—February 2nd—is Candlemas or, more fully, Candlemas Day.

Candlemas Day was a religious origin, being set aside as a feast day commemorating the purification of Christ in the Temple. How, in some sections of this country, this day came to be known as ground-hog day is something which, at least to this department is shrouded somewhat in obscurity.

In any event, ground-hog day is a day of prophecy of forecasting for a short time at least, the future. On this day the ground hog, a hibernator, wakes up and emerges from his burrow. If the day should be cloudy and overcast, all is well; spring is just around the corner. Conversely, if the sun happens to be shining and the ground hog casts a shadow, the shadow is reputed to terrify him so that he scurries back into his burrow, thereby foreboding the arrival of warm, sunny weather for another six weeks or so. In the state of Missouri, ground-hog day is fixed at February 2nd, but there are quite a few folks who take this superstition seriously and begin to grade up their gardens should the signs be favorable.

GOOSEBONE GUESSING

There are many such superstitions, dating rules of the weather call them what you will. No doubt you have heard of "goosebone" weather prophets. Goosebone forecasting is done, mostly in th middle west. The prophet examines the breastbone of a wild goose, shot in the autumn. If the breastbone is thin and somewhat transparent, then the winter will be mild; should it be thick, heavy and opaque then the winter will be cold and severe. If the breastbone is thick, there will be much snow; if red or red-spotted, there will be little snow but much cold, wind and so on.

Fur trappers tell us that pelts of animals are more heavily furred before a severe winter than in their normal condition.

Here in Pennsylvania there is a weather prophet that shows up in September. This insect has a dark brown band on each end of each and with a yellow band in the center. Should the yellow band be dark yellow the winter will be mild and the other bands black, then we are in for a severe winter. Light ones indicate a mild winter.

Migration dates of birds, particularly of geese, forecast the characteristics of the winter ahead. Early migrations mean "mild winters. Heavy acorns mean snow; acorns, hickory nuts, etc., mean hard winters ahead. If the muskrats build large lodges that usual, look out for rough winter weather to come.

You have heard of a "wet moon" or "dry moon," a crescent moon that lies flat with its points up, so that it will "hold water" is a dry moon and that month will have little rain. One that is tipped up on edge, so that the water runs out, is a wet moon and it forecasts plenty of rain for the month. If the crescent is fixed so that "a powder horn can be hung on its tip," there will be a moderate amount of rain.

Again, should the moon be "red," there is dry weather ahead. Also, should the big dipper be tilted, there is rain ahead.

CLEAR, RAIN AHEAD

A clear, bright, cloudless day, with little or no wind and when there is no limit to the visibility of distant objects, is called by many farmers and sailors a "weather breeder." Strangely enough, the barometer usually is falling slowly on such a day and, as a rule, rain follows within 24 hours.

On humid summer days, when there are thunderheads in the sky, surely you have heard a "rain-crow" calling in nearby trees. A rain crow can be one of three things—a yellow-billed cuckoo, a black-billed cuckoo, or a tree toad or tree frog. These creatures are supposed to predict rain in the reasonably near future, a matter of hours and, believe it or not, they are usually right.

If you know a farmer in the Pennsylvania hills who had a rain guide that was well-nigh infallible for spring and summer weather. Across the valley from his house was a large rock slant in the mountain. If there should be fog in that hollow early in the morning, the day would be fair; if there was no fog in the hollow, rain would soon follow. The forecast seldom failed.

MORE SUPERSTITIONS

The old rule of "rain before seven—quit before eleven" holds out much of the time. However, it goes by the board when a wide low pressure area and general storm are present. And the rule of insects and furriers—red at night, sailor's delight; red at morning, sailor's warning—usually comes true. Believe it or not, I have seen on tree turning upside down in humid Indian summer.

To list here all of the weather superstitions would be impossible. There are hundreds of them. Even so, unscientific though they may be, they have in the main more often than not.

And speaking of weather forecasts, one enterprising New York reporter came up with a novel idea of his own. He interviewed people over a year before making it public. Should you ask," he said, "anybody on the street what the weather will be next year, each person should reply that it would be about like it is today, he says, he would be right 22 per cent more often than the U.S. Weather Bureau."

As to the exactness of that one, I'm sure I can't say. I'm passing it along, and you have to admit the thing it all up, I guess that the best thing to do is to take the weather as it comes and not worry about it too much.

Frozen Field For Dutchies, Imps

KITCHENER (CP) — A frozen field, clear of snow, is predicted for the third and final game of the best-of-five Football Union series for playoff this afternoon.

Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen, defending champions, and Ottawa Imperials split the first two games. Dutchmen won 24-0 here in the first and Imperials took a 20-3 victory last Saturday at Sarnia.

Each team will have two injurers on the injured list. Halfback Ted Urbanowicz and guard Ed Fochuk won't dress for Dutchmen and end Bob Sokol and linesman Frank Polliseno will miss action for Sarnia.

Both teams have indicated they may have some new offensive plays ready to unveil during the opposition. Temperatures moderated Friday and a light covering of snow on the field nearly all week disappeared.

Willie Pastrano Defeats Rowan In Fast Bout

NEW YORK (AP) —Willie Pastrano of New Orleans, given a shot at being the best young fighting man in the land by nearly two Floyd Patterson came home from the 1953 Olympics.

The slender dancing master from the bayou land—now transplanted to Miami Beach—may not be able to knock your hat off but he can make all the moves. He made most of them Friday night at Madison Square Garden while beating Joe Rowan, a plodding aggressor, on a unanimous decision in 10 rounds.

Those who watched the 18-year-old boxer could think of nothing but a match between Pastrano and Patterson, current No. 1 challenger to light-heavy champ Archie Moore. Although Pastrano weighed 181, exactly the same as Rowan, and Rowan, No. 2 boy in the 175-pound division.

Except for the first and ninth round, it was all Pastrano, dancing from the ring, flicking his left, countering with his quick right and feeding off the plodding Rowan. The beat the Scranton, Pa., youth to the punch consistently and landed three for every one he took.

Eskys Head West On Sunday

EDMONTON (CP) — Edmonton Eskimos work out for the last time here Saturday before leaving for the Pacific coast in search of their second straight Grey Cup victory.

Eskimos meet Whitehorse Rangers in the Coast-West game, Burris suffered a torn ligament Wednesday.

Coach Frank Ivy said all 34 players he has in camp will travel with the Vancouver for the Grey Cup game. Dutchmen left only seven behind will go to Victoria for training next week.

A knee injury made it possible all - western centre Kurt Burris would be among the missing in the East-West game, Burris suffered a torn ligament Wednesday.

Minor Hockey

The Pee Wee section of the Belleville Minor Hockey Association opened with three games on tap at Memorial Arena this afternoon and evening.

The Canadiens handed the Maple Leafs a 5-0 whitewashing in the opener, while the Rangers shaded the Bruins 2-1 in the second battle. The final fixture was more one-sided with the Black Hawks trimming the Red Wings 4-0.

Pat Hennessy and David Blakley potted the Ranger markers with Woodcock assisting on one. Wayne Gilmour, in goal, was tops for Gary Benson, accounted for the Bruin goal.

In the Canadiens' triumph, Jim Johnston and Teddy Rowland fired home the hat trick while Jeff Forrester, Brien Skinner and Bob Forrester.

Five players shared the scoring for the Hawks, Al Flunder, David Reid, Rodney Turner and Stu Muirhead each scoring while Butcher drew an assist. Rodney Turner drew two minor penalties in the game, the only ones handed out on the morning's play.

Three Bantam games were also played this morning. The results will appear in Monday's issue of the Ontario Intelligencer.

'They Fly Through the Air'

Sensational Passing Duel Looms in Larks-Argos Battle

MONTREAL (CP) — What may be one of the most sensational passing duels in Canadian football history, with the eastern championship riding on the single game, will be unfolded today before upward of 23,000 fans already worked into frenzied anticipation.

The two men most talked about as Montreal Alouettes and Toronto Argonauts prepare to shoot the works for a place in the Grey Cup classic are Sam Etcheverry and Tom Dublinski.

As far as thousands of fans are concerned, this eastern final comes down to a two-man struggle between the passing wizards of the Big Four League — Etcheverry of the Larks and Dublinski of the Double Blues.

The fans may be right. But the personnel of each club must figure in the serial circus.

WANT ANOTHER CRACK

The Alouettes finished on top of the Big Four and are hungry for another crack at the Edmonton Eskimos in the Grey Cup classic in Vancouver a week from today.

The Alouettes are a polished, well-balanced club, admittedly the class of the Big Four over the season's run. They're rested, with a two-week lay-off, and in top shape physically. They are well fortified in reserve strength, particularly with home-bred players.

Etcheverry, brilliant all-star quarterback, is undoubtedly the key man in the club's success, not only on his passing but his all-round generalship.

The Argos are at the peak of their success. The club was ridden out of the cellar to start this season although it was packed with high-priced import talent. Then new blood in Canadian imports came quietly in to take their places in a reorganization and finally the club got moving.

By right of might and record, Alouettes rule favorites in today's game. They met the Argos four times during the season and squelched them four times.

On the ground the Als rate better and they have better bench strength in nearly every position. If the air—it's up to Etcheverry and Dublinski and such brilliant receivers as Red O'Quinn, Hal Patterson, and Joey Pal of Montreal; Al Frazier, Bucky Curtis and Jim Furlong of Toronto.

Agreement that an air duel is in the making came Friday night from general manager Vic Obeck of the Alouettes.

"They are primarily passing teams, but Etcheverry is ready to throw everything at the Argos," said Obeck. "I wouldn't be surprised to see the winning team need five touchdowns."

General manager Harry Sonshine of Argos warned: "Don't underestimate us. It took us a long time to work up a head of steam. Right now we have a better club than when Alouettes beat us earlier in the season. Don't let those big scores fool you."

Word got around Friday that Billy Shipp, huge Argo tackle who not be ready for today's game; that he has recovered sufficiently from the ankle injury he suffered in the game against Hamilton.

St. Mike's Hands Marlies 4-0 Shutout As Biltmores Wallop Teepees 5-2

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

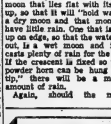
A recent deal between Toronto Marlboros and Toronto St. Michael's College Majors produced the first shutout victory in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A League Friday night.

St. Michael's received goaltender Bob Savage from Marlboros in the trade and Savage shut out the Marlboros 4-0 in one of three games played.

In the other contests, Kitchener-Waterloo Canucks and Barrie Flyers battled to a 3-3 overtime tie at Barrie and Biltmores defeated St. Catharines Teepees 5-2 at Guelph.

The Majors' win sent them into a first - place tie with Kitchener-Waterloo in the standings. Each team has 13 points.

A small crowd of 2,333 saw Savage, third goalkeeper used by the Majors this season, ring up 18 shots. His busiest period was the last when he came up with nine saves. Savage never actually played with Marlboros but was with their farm team, Weston Dukes in the OHA Junior B League.



Bob McKnight, Stan Ulmiaci, Dick Maxwell and Pat Stapleton were the goal scorers. Majors held a 1-0 lead after the first period and led 3-0 at the end of two.

The game threatened to break out in brawls several times and, as a result, 23 penalties were handed out, including two majors and a misconduct. Majors received 13, one of them a major.

Stan Balukh kept the Canucks in the game with three first period goals, one in each of the second, third and first minute overtime periods. Walt Bradley and Bob Dunn were the other Canuck marksmen. Sid Womack, Jack Kane, John Chaszewski, Bob Beckett and Bob Cherry scored for the Flyers.

Guelph Biltmores came from behind twice to defeat the Teepees. St. Catharines went ahead 2-0 early in the first frame but 10 minutes later Guelph tied it up. The Teepees went ahead again in front midway through the middle stanza but Biltmores answered with a pair of goals before the period ended. They added two more in the last frame.

Dan Bellas scored twice for Guelph and Bob Thompson, Bill Sweeney and Pete Pilotta once each. Mast Plata and Bob Butler counted for the losers.

Wants to Help Coach

Caldwell Propositions Riders Refuses Public Relations Job

OTTAWA (CP)—Chan Caldwell, former coach of Ottawa Rough Riders, has made a new personal to the capital's Big Four football club for settlement of his two-year contract.

Ralph Sweet, Caldwell's lawyer, said Friday night that the 35-year-old fast-talking southerner asks $4,000 of his contract which still has 13 months to run at $10,000 a year. The balance would be paid over the next year.

Caldwell's offer also provides that on the mutual agreement of Caldwell and the new coach, Caldwell would assist the new mentor in any capacity the latter might desire.

Sweet said the new move has been made "without prejudice."

WANT IT FRIENDLY

"We have no desire to force any issue and want to make an as amicable arrangement as possible," he said.

Sam Berger, the football club's legal counsel, said he would study Caldwell's new proposition to the attention of the club executive and Inform Sweet of their reaction at the first opportunity next week.

Meanwhile, Caldwell has originally turned down a $6,000-a-year public relations job with the club. The job was offered as a take-or-leave-it basis as a settlement of the two-year contract.

"The first thing to do is petite the contract and then we can talk about a new job," Caldwell said earlier Friday.

"It is not a fair offer," Sweet said.

"After all, Chan Caldwell is a football coach, not a publicity man," Sweet said.

Berger said the offer is final and that if it is rejected it may be left to the users to decide on a settlement.

He said that in the publicity job Caldwell would be required to make speeches and show football films and do other public relations work to promote support for the club.

HAS MADE SPEECHES

Caldwell has drummed up a lot of fan interest with his speeches before Ottawa organizations during his term as head coach.

Caldwell, who was fired last February, was fired a week ago after a season marked by rifts in the coaching staff, fining of players for poor play and large scale shakeups of imports on the line. Rough, tough and tumble, he threw out of 12 outings, finishing last and out of the playoffs.

Meanwhile also said the club has been in touch with four or five prominent football coaches and that two are interested in coming here. He declined to mention any names.

But he got a diamond lead from west and made a grand slam in spades redoubled. So, just forget what I have said. I want out.

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Some bridge players are never satisfied. With a part score of any sort they try for game. With game they extend to small slam. If a small slam looks safe they try for grand slam.

If there is slam in a minor suit they look for slam in a major. If they see slam in suit they attempt slam in no-trump. If they are doubled they redouble. Never satisfied unless in difficulties.

Which is enough to let you see this deal:

NORTH
♥ 3 2
♦ A 10 6 4
♣ J 6 5 4 2

WEST
♠ 8 6 3
♥ 8 6 5 4
♦ 7 3
♣ Q 10 9 8

EAST
♠ J 10 9
♥ K J 10 7
♦ K Q J 9 8

SOUTH
♠ A K Q T 5 4
♥ A Q 9
♦ 5 3
♣ K 3

The bidding went like this:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
3 ♣	Pass	4 ♣	Pass
4 N-T	Pass	4 ♠	Pass
7 ♣	Pass	7 ♠	Double
Redouble	Pass	Pass	Pass

No objection to the first three rounds of bidding. Maybe east's simple overcall of two diamonds was a trick overboard by rule. But a defender could not be hung for this lead director.

In answer to four no-trump, six clubs is Gordon convention for showing two aces and no kings. And with a discovery of 12 tricks in the exchange of bids, looking for small slam is sensible.

However, south has support for rebid clubs and should end this right there in six clubs. He has not heard support for spades and should not assume that this is their best trump suit.

If he insists on spades as trumps he should certainly not take it to seven. And if he is doubled at seven there is nothing he has yet learned to make him confident enough to redouble.

Dearth of Film Stars Forces Noted Director Into Television

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—One of the screen's most distinguished directors is working in television instead of the movies. The reason: The dearth of film stars.

How come? Listen to Leo McCarey, who has brought forth some of Hollywood's most delightful films, including "Ruggles of Red Gap," "The Awful Truth," "Love Affair," "My Favorite Wife," "Once Upon a Honeymoon."

His two biggest successes rank among the greatest money makers in film history. "Going My Way" is credited with a $6,500,000 gross in the United States alone, and "The Bells of St. Mary's" drew $8,000,000.

Recently, McCarey's only filming activities have been to direct a couple of half-hour shows for the Screen Directors Guild Playhouse, a labor of love for his union. His last feature film was "My Son John," made four years ago. Starring Helen Hayes, the late Robert Walker and Van Heflin, it was not considered a success.

NUMBER OF PROJECTS

McCarey has had a number of projects on the fire. One is the story of Adam and Eve. The other is a musicalized Marco Polo, about which he says:

"I can't get them going," he explained between TV takes. "It's impossible to call a picture these days. There just aren't enough stars to go around.

"The old ones are getting older, and there are few new ones. I don't know how the studios expect this business to survive without stars."

The producers are beginning to realize this more and more, yet little is done about it. In the last five years only a handful of really top-flight names have been developed.

MANY NAMES

But in the old days, there might be a dozen bright names emerging each year from the list of unknowns. That was when studios had long talent rosters. They could afford to keep performers under salary for seven or more years waiting for the star quality to emerge.

Nowadays a starlet is seldom kept under contract more than a year unless she shows definite promise. The result is that few stars are rising from the movie ranks. Most of the new names are brought in from other fields—the stage, TV or night clubs.

Weekend Television Shows Include the Best in Drama

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Things to see on television this weekend:

Saturday, CBS—"Omnibus" presents Oliver Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer," starring Michael Redgrave and Hermione Gingold. Goldsmith called this romantic comedy, and if you want to see the 18th-century roots of the plots and characterizations of many a modern "romantic comedy" here is your chance.

Sunday, ABC—"Famous Film Festival" presents the British film, "The Lavender Hill Mob," starring Alec Guinness. Here is one of the best British actors in one of the best of many the films. A close look will reveal Audrey Hepburn in a small role before her discovery and stardom.

Come to think of it, this week end might be called "The British Influence on American television."

Sunday, CBS—"Climax" presents "Hostage," starring Michael Rennie and Gig Young.

Sunday, NBC—"Hallmark Hall of Fame" presents George Bernard Shaw's "The Devil's Disciple," starring Maurice Evans, Ralph Bellamy, Dennis Hoey, Wright, Dennis King. This is one of Shaw's "plays for Puritans," which means it's a satire on conventional morality.

Hassard's game - winning shot was from 40 feet out and at an angle.

Your Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Monday, November 21, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Do it without much ado, but don't do it if it is a time-waster or a substitute for what - should - be - done - now. First things first, eh? Show your ability to attain without strain.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Give and take with equal ease. Today stresses a need for less tension and anxiety about work or play. Protect health sensibly — without worrying about it.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — You can achieve a great deal now if you do not overlook truly important details. have sufficient knowledge of situations and if you will allow yourself plenty of time in which to accomplish. Keep trying.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Even if you lose out in one way, you don't have to in another. Personally up to you and the way you go about your affairs whether you will succeed is the long run. Don't indulge in self-pity.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Read it over carefully — write it carefully, do it carefully — with minus irritation or misgivings. This is no time for moodiness or discouragement. On the contrary, it is a period for optimism.

August 24 to September 23 — Take it easy.* Not necessarily (Virgo) — Your planet today says, slowly, and surely not fearfully, but with the ease of manner that denotes better results, less tension at day's end. Eat sensibly.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — You may find it hard to get started in the way you would like now. And more difficult to continue without interruptions, obstacles. But a little stronger purpose and more determination will do the trick.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Attend to your affairs without cluttering your program with a lot of non-essentials. Leave time for some personal recreation, too.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — Enjoy the company of wholesome friends in your own home. Keep yourself above the little annoyances that mean nothing in the final analysis.

December 23 to January 21 — (Capricorn) — Give the benefit of the doubt to all who deserve it. You may find the key to more satisfying results by being a good listener.

January 22 to February 20 — (Aquarius) — Your Sign's planet, Uranus, indicates a need for tightening up "slack rope" and "loose ends" now. Review carefully; then go to work making things more presentable, better or easier "on the eye."

February 21 to March 20 — (Pisces) — Tendencies toward introspection and sensitivity can be harmful now. Don't fear punishment, criticism. Work with reserved confidence and the will to do better every day. You can successfully.

You born today: Mars (of Scorpio) and Jupiter (of Sagittarius) are the double-ruling planets of this carpel change of Signs. While principally Scorpio, you have characteristics from Sagittarius, too. You are enterprising (among the most intrepid leaders and fighters), daring, will shoot straight to the point. Sagittarius' zeal usually overcomes fear and aversion to procrastinate. You are roundly capable, like doing things in a progressive, constructive way; can exert yourself remarkably in crises; rarely lose strength of purpose, no matter the hazard. Look out for overzealousness. Overweigh your executive ability; remain ever-forewarned. Birthdate of Pierre Marcier, Belg. Cardinal; F. M. A. Voltaire, Fr. dramatist.

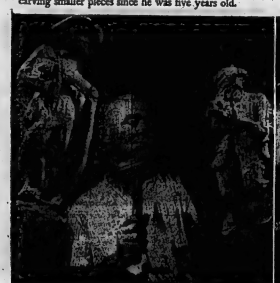
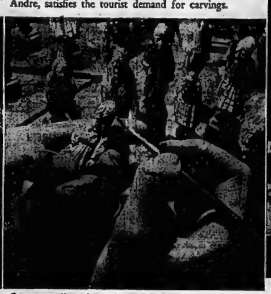
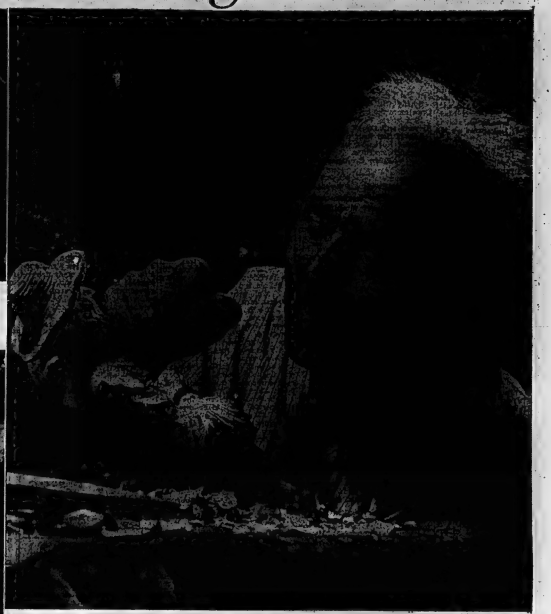
St. Jean Port Joli



Ancient Art of Woodcarving Flourishes



Carving is everyone's business in the village of St. Jean Port Joli on the banks of the St. Lawrence. Here, Andre Bourgault instructs his son, Guy, in the intricate detailing of a habitant farming group. Guy, now 13, has been carving smaller pieces since he was five years old.



Over forty hours of work will go into this Statuette of Virgin and Child being carved by Jean Bourgault. Jean and Medard Bourgault specialize in religious figures with an occasional frieze or bas-relief while third brother, Andre, satisfies the tourist demand for carvings.

Habitant figurines which represent a fast-disappearing phase of French-Canadian life are Andre Bourgault's speciality. Widely renowned for the excellence of his craft, Andre uses only the simplest of tools—knife, hammer and chisel. Above, at work on a large beggar figure.

Correct, well-aged woods are vital to quality of carvings and native Canadian basswood, walnut, maple, cedar and birch are most widely used. Here, one of Andre Bourgault's helpers paints small Gaspean figures with bright color. Larger pieces are often left in natural wood.

Reviving an ancient art has been the life work of Andre Bourgault, responsible for a community carving enterprise in tiny St. Jean Port Joli, P.Q. He has trained more than a score of apprentices; now employs 18 helpers who turn out more than 3000 varied articles each season in addition to his own larger carvings. While individual skills vary greatly from those who do rough shaping to the most meticulous craftsmen, almost everyone contributes in some way. Even the blacksmith takes part, hammering out the 100 different types of chisels needed.

ACQUIT OFFICIAL

MONTREAL (CP) — Judge Rodolphe Cantrand Friday acquitted Gerard Miron, 53, president of the Oka Sand and Gravel Company, of a charge of falsifying a document to the prejudice of the Seafarers' International Union. The charge was laid by the secretary-treasurer of the union after Miron sent a letter to the federal department of labor bearing 20 signatures of union members allegedly declaring they did not wish to belong to the union.

Tourists Throng Tempting Torbay All Year Round

By ROBERT RICE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORQUAY, England (CP) — If the Dutchman who stepped on Devon's red soil in Torbay in 1688 considered himself a tourist, he didn't say so. But as William of Orange, he became king of England.

Nor did the Frenchman who pleaded in 1815 from an offshore sailing boat for permission to set foot on English soil. They let him stand briefly on a craggy red wart in Torbay called Thatcher's Rock, and then took him to St. Helena where he died, still feared as the mighty Napoleon.

For that matter, many years later, 30,000 Canadians did not think they were tourists either. But as RCAF men training in Canada from the Second World War, they carried with them fond memories of the final soaring depth Torquay.

Yet they are all part of Torbay's history, and as such are favorite tales in the flamboyant tourist patter.

For tourism is Torbay's big business. Next to fishing harbor of Brixham, where William III arrived, the resort towns of Paignton and Torquay, the quiet coves and rugged red cliffs and sandy or pebbled beaches are Torbay's tourist industry is booming.

Overlooked it all is Torquay, self-styled queen of the English Riviera. Like Rome, it is built on seven hills, or tors, and boasts of 31 miles of coastline, seven beaches and 4,000 hotels and guest houses.

In the summer, when it basks gently in un-English sunshine, the city's 50,000 population doubles. This last summer, an unusually fine one, it reaped its biggest crop of tourists in living memory.

Torquay is proudest of its weather, and it has every right to. Its climate makes possible, in the last 30 years, Torquay has had an average of 1,791 hours of sunshine each year, compared with the city of London's 1,261 hours.

The city hardly knows what snow is. Some hardy folks swim all year round in the blue waters of Torbay, but others take their dip in warm indoor pools. There are covered tennis courts for winter use and fascinating cliffside walks that yield wonderful views of the coast at any time of the year.

Nearby are the broad Babbacombe downs, with their superb scenery, and also a cliff railway, descending down the wooded cliff to oddicombe beach. Less than 15 minutes' circuit from Torquay itself is the village of Cockington where the homes still bear hatched roofs and the streets are narrow, leafy lanes of rural beauty.

On Torquay's seafront is Torre abbey, once a monastery and now the local shrine of interesting pictures and historic mementoes. The abbey's ground merges into the central sea front and contains a "flowering and palm house" where tropical plants thrive.

Wellington On The Lake

NOVEMBER

Summer seems far away,
Dull days are here.
Lowering are skies of grey
Leaves brown and sere;
Sad is the wind's deep moan,
Chilling the rain.
Nature grieves not alone
With heart of pain.

Silent the hum of bee,
Bird voices dumb,
Frost blight o'er moor and lea—
November's come;
Wraiths of the summer leaves
Flit in the air,
Trees their bare branches fling
In deep despair.

But the bright days will come
Spring will appear,
Once more the bees' glad hum,
Bird voices cheer;
Flowers will awake at last,
Leaves find their wings,
List! the November blast
Of Maytime sings.
—Helen B. Anderson.

WELLINGTON — Wednesday, the murmur of the lake and its darkening waters proclaimed the coming storm. The wind that roared all night is still blowing, but in spite of that, we have the pleasant memory of some calm Indian summer days with delightful country drives.

It is wonderful what a large part is played in memory as we grow older! While enjoying dinner at a local hotel we were entertained by a Rotary party in an adjoining room, the members joining in singing old familiar songs such as "Old Folks at Home," and "Jingle Bells". Usually I do not like music while dining out, but the songs, particularly "Jingle Bells" carried me back to college days in Ottawa, that song one of the favorites of the Glee Club. As I listened to the songs so well sung I was back with classmates in the Canadian capital. We older people have an enjoyment unknown to the young — the enjoyment of happy memories.

Miss Beverley Tait, student at Teachers' College, Toronto, spent the weekend and Remembrance Day with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Tait, Wellington.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Carley motored to Castleton on Sunday and visited friends.

Miss S. E. Blakely and Mrs. G. C. Blakely were tea hour guests of Mrs. Anderson and Miss M. Blakely on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Douglas and family of Ottawa were weekend guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Vandewater, Wellington, and Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Vandewater, Ballenville.

A pleasant party was entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Morton, November 15th, in celebration of Mr. Morton's birthday. Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Fred Morton and Mr. and Mrs. George Dorland, Wellington, and Mr. and Mrs. M. Huycke and Mrs. Lela Weeks, Consecon.

A surprise party was held at the home of Mrs. D. Rutter in honor of Mrs. Walter Nind, a recent bride. The guest of honor received many pretty gifts.

Miss S. B. Blakely, Mrs. W. H. Anderson and Miss Marjorie Blakely with Miss Helen Arthur and Mrs. Leona Whyte, spent Tuesday in Picton.

The Evening Auxiliary of the United Church is holding a tea and sale at the town hall Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Morton and Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Morton were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kinnear, Melville, on Wednesday evening.

UNITED CHURCH W.M.S.

The November meeting of the United Church W.M.S. was held in the church school room with the president, Mrs. G. Stoneburg in charge and Mrs. Maybee pianist. Following the devotional opening, Mrs. R. Cronk called the roll, Mrs. R. Dorland reported for temperance, Mrs. J. L. Ross for stewardship, and Mrs. Hicks for literature. Mrs. Lewis read letters of appreciation and Mrs. Yourt accepted fees for the Missionary monthly. Mrs. Hamel was absent. Mrs. G. Taylor gave the financial report. Mrs. Dean gave a report of the sectional rally at Cherry Valley.

Mrs. Cronk conducted the worship service call to fellowship"; Miss C. Marvin gave a piano solo, and Mrs. McMaster gave two chapters of the Study Book. A social hour with lunch closed the meeting.

Union Leader Says Conciliation System Sound

OSHAWA (CP) — Eamon Park, legislative director of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL), said Thursday night Ontario's conciliation board system is sound in principle.

He told a Religion-Labor Foundation conference here the present system differs from recent statements by George Burt, Canadian director of the United Auto Workers Union (CIO-CCL).

WARNS OF DANGER

Mr. Burt, whose union recently declined to present arguments to several conciliation boards, has urged that the three-man board be abolished in favor of government mediators.

Mr. Park said "abolishing conciliation boards" does not provide the answer. "There are many dangers inherent in the proposition that a government civil servant should recommend the basis of settlement between management and labor."

One danger, he said, was the prospect of political interference in labor disputes.

Chinese Crew Sails Home Every Two Years

MONTREAL (CP)—The 2,806-ton steamship Hoover flies the flag of Nationalist Formosa, and her crew would like nothing better than to be sailing back there. But trips to Formosa are few and far between.

Owned and operated by the China Union Lines Ltd., with headquarters in Keelung in northern Formosa, the Union Power arrived here recently with a cargo of steel rails from Bordeaux.

"We do not run on any regular liner basis," said Capt. Wang Chen Hwa "We're strictly on a "tramp" schedule. It is not uncommon for us to be away from home for two years. It hasn't been too bad lately because we were home last June."

Life aboard the Union Power is a bit of the old country though. The food is the same as their ancestors ate, and chopsticks are the order of the day in the wardroom at mealtime.

FORCED FROM SHANGHAI

Capt. Wang makes his home in Keelung and has a wife and three children there. "Most of us came from Shanghai, but when the Communists took over we were forced to evacuate."

Wang has yet to encounter any incidents while steaming in home waters. When approaching Formosa he sends ahead coded signals and usually receives a naval and aerial escort.

"With the Americans around we don't anticipate any trouble from the Communists," he added. When asked when next they would get home, Capt. Wang said: "Often we don't know our next port of call until a few days before we sail. It would be impossible to say."

STUDY ATOMIC PLANES

LONDON (AP) — The Hawker-Siddeley aircraft group announced Friday it will build a research station to study the application of nuclear power to planes. But it emphasized in a statement practical use of such power in aircraft "is a long way ahead."

Fifty-seven Graduates in Exercises held by Schools of Practical Nursing

Need for More Nurses
Great National Problem

The health of Canada is being endangered by an acute shortage of nurses, and the problem is growing larger, especially in hospitals, nursing homes and institutions. Immediate improvement must be made in these fields.

It has been determined that the best way to relieve such a shortage is to make comprehensive training available to practical nurses by the Schools of Practical Nursing. The two schools are doing outstanding work by relieving registered nurses for more technical, skilled and specialized duties. A constantly increasing demand for practical nurses is growing.

Mothers and wives can help relieve shortages for nurses in their own city. They become practical nurses, after a short course of training. With a practical nurse's certificate in their purses, the married women could serve in their own city hospitals and be a tremendous asset for civilian defence.

Successful Toronto Schools of Practical Nursing have graduated over 1,000 nurses who have graduated from Schools of Practical Nursing and found immediate employment in their new profession and are now working well and happy lives. There is a constantly increasing demand for graduates in practical nursing skills, both in institutions and private practice.

Realizing that many women and girls are not able to meet the financial obligations that such a course in practical nursing makes necessary, the Schools of Practical Nursing have devised a budget plan whereby the students can meet small weekly payments while training.

Financing Plans For Trans-Canada Line Announced

Ontario to Pay One-Third With Ceiling of $35,000,000

Thief Hammers Unlocked Safe Despite Sign

CALGARY (CP)—Some persons just have no faith in signs.

On the door of a small safe in an implement sales company office is a bold sign which says: "This safe is not locked."

But a would-be thief, over the weekend took a hammer and pitted his knowledge and skill against the open safe. Eventually he knocked the handle off, but gave up and left the building. None of the money in the open safe was touched.

OTTAWA (CP)—Government financing plans have been set for a $118,000,000 link previously blocking the project for a 3,200-mile natural gas pipeline from Alberta to eastern Canada.

The federal and Ontario governments will finance the 675-mile northern Ontario stretch jointly, it was announced here Monday night. The Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd. will buy it as soon as company finances permit.

Trade Minister Howe's announcement confirmed long-standing reports that the pipeline company would be formed to build the difficult section of line which has mugged Trans-Canada private financing and already delayed a start on the $330,000,000 east-west pipe by a year.

COMPLETION IN 1957

Under arrangements among the two governments and Trans-Canada, completion of the whole line between the Alberta gas fields and Toronto and Montreal now is scheduled for 1957.

The link is to go next year as far as Winnipeg and thence to the United States border for export of gas to the U.S. Midwest. At the same time, a Toronto-Montreal line is to be constructed to feed Montreal temporarily with U.S. gas from Winnipeg.

Mr. Howe's announcement, following a Monday evening meeting, said the Ontario government will ask its legislature to approve participation in the northern Ontario link to the extent of one-third the cost with a ceiling of $35,000,000.

SET UP COMPANY

Parliament will be asked to subscribe the remainder and to set up a Crown company.

"With this northern Ontario section arranged for," Mr. Howe said, "the underwriters are confident that Trans-Canada Pipe Lines can finance the construction of the remaining sections of the all-Canada line."

Mr. Howe signed the contract with Trans-Canada Monday for the federal government. Company president N. E. Tanner and treasurer A. Jackson Dick signed for the other signatories.

It contains complex financial terms for lease and purchase of the northern line by Trans-Canada. The lease is for 20 years with options of 25 years, but Trans-Canada has the option to buy at any time and is committed to buying as soon as finances permit.

FINANCIAL CONDITION

Construction of the line by the government is conditional on its financial condition being such that by May 1 that it has arranged for financing and supply and sales contracts to carry through the entire construction program, which will amount to $232,000,000 in addition to the government-financed northern section.

The lease arrangements allow the crown corporation to recover at least its full expenditure during the term of the lease. The crown also would get a profit if gas sales increased and—Trans-Canada did not exercise its purchase option.

Purchase price would be the total capital cost to the government plus depreciation credits arising from rental payments, but the amount would be less than the original capital cost—an incentive to the company to purchase in the early years.

Liberal Leader Favors Insurance For Catastrophes

TORONTO (CP)—What is known as catastrophe insurance should be considered the responsibility of the provincial government, Ontario Liberal leader Farquhar Oliver said Monday night.

In an Ontario broadcast on provincial affairs, Mr. Oliver said that if a comprehensive plan is not feasible at this time, a health insurance plan on a piecemeal basis should be launched.

"Every one of us has instances in our own communities where a man loses his home, or loses his life savings because of extensive illness and hospitalization costs," he said.

"There can be no justification in these enlightened days for a lack of legislation that would protect our people from this type of calamity."

Churchill Home After Lengthy French Vacation

LONDON (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill, bright-eyed and beaming after a two-month vacation in the south of France, returned by day to his old home in Downing street to get back to work as prime Minister Eden.

Cheering and applauding crowds waiting to welcome the doughty old statesman burst through the police cordon as his car drove by and since drove slowly up to the prime minister's official residence.

There were shouts of "Good Old Winnie" and, more formally, "Welcome home, sir," as Churchill clambered slowly from his car and waggled his gold-topped cane in greeting.

It was believed that Churchill and Eden planned to talk over foreign affairs, particularly the troubled Middle East scene.

ADVICE SOUGHT

There have been growing demands in the national press for the old statesman to speak with his world-wide authority from the House of Commons. He has not made such a pronouncement since his retirement from the premiership last April.

If he decides to make a speech, it has been reported he will choose his 81st birthday to deliver it—Nov. 30.

AIR STEWARDESS SHOT TO DEATH, SLAYER KILLS SELF

Girl Performing Duties On Plane When Slain

SEATTLE (AP)—A pretty United Airlines stewardess, greeting passengers coming aboard a Los Angeles-bound flight, was shot to death by her former boy friend at the crowded Seattle-Tacoma airport Monday night.

The rejected suitor, Robert Clendenin, 28, then fired bullets into his own neck and head, killing himself.

Sally Shedd, a 25-year-old blue-eyed brunette, was struck twice in the chest and fell. Clendenin knocked her sprawling into a seat on top of an air force lieutenant.

Clendenin, a trainee with a New York brokerage firm, had entered the plane and taken a seat before he turned with rage on his former sweetheart.

WITCHES GUN

Mrs. Herman Roesch of Portland, Ore., who occupied the seat next to Clendenin and watched him take a gun from his briefcase, said:

"I thought it was a cap pistol Even after it went off I thought it was a cap pistol. It just kept on going off. Bang, Bang, Bang."

Lieut. Roesch said a Miss Shedd several years ago in New York, was one of the last of some 40 stewardesses to be instructed to feed Montreal temporarily with U.S. gas from Winnipeg.

Mr. Howe's announcement, following a Monday evening meeting, said the Ontario government will ask its legislature to approve participation in the northern Ontario link to the extent of one-third the cost with a ceiling of $35,000,000.

SET UP COMPANY

Parliament will be asked to subscribe the remainder and to set up a Crown company.

"With this northern Ontario section arranged for," Mr. Howe said, "the underwriters are confident that Trans-Canada Pipe Lines can finance the construction of the remaining sections of the all-Canada line."

Mr. Howe signed the contract with Trans-Canada Monday for the federal government. Company president N. E. Tanner and treasurer A. Jackson Dick signed for the other signatories.

It contains complex financial terms for lease and purchase of the northern line by Trans-Canada. The lease is for 20 years with options of 25 years, but Trans-Canada has the option to buy at any time and is committed to buying as soon as finances permit.

FINANCIAL CONDITION

Construction of the line by the government is conditional on its financial condition being such that by May 1 that it has arranged for financing and supply and sales contracts to carry through the entire construction program, which will amount to $232,000,000 in addition to the government-financed northern section.

The lease arrangements allow the crown corporation to recover at least its full expenditure during the term of the lease. The crown also would get a profit if gas sales increased and—Trans-Canada did not exercise its purchase option.

Purchase price would be the total capital cost to the government plus depreciation credits arising from rental payments, but the amount would be less than the original capital cost—an incentive to the company to purchase in the early years.

Canadian Lumber Washed Off Barge Creates Buffalo Salvage Problem

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—A ripsnorting argument has been brewing on the city's waterfront.

Cars, trucks, trailers, bicycles and, of course, the people driving them, cooperated in a buffalo jam Monday by the hundreds. With them were the police.

Lumber—clean, new and valuable lumber from Blind River, Ont.—was floating along the shore Lake Erie shore. Almost 1,000,000 board feet of the stuff, it was believed, have washed up. The Union ship canal was clogged with the white pine planks, and it took tugs several hours to clear it away.

The wood washed overboard from a barge in a Lake Erie windstorm Sunday night. Capt. Carl C. Larson estimated that he lost more than two-thirds of his cargo. Peter Reginello, president of a salvage company, was assigned the task of gathering in what lumber could be recovered—and during the day police had to be called to keep order between amateur salvagers and Reginello's crew.

Larson said they figured it was illegal for the people to take the lumber, but there seemed a question sure why. Officers were instructed to take license numbers of all those driving away with lumber.

A marine insurance agent said he couldn't say for sure whether the wood was salvage or not.

Customs officials wanted to know who was going to pay the duty.

Police were also disturbed because they had to detail a special nine-man squad to handle traffic in and out of the harbor area, in fact, just about everyone was attracted to the people picking up the lumber.

Nehru Sharply Rebukes Red For Role in Bombay Rioting

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—India's Communist party leader, Shripad Amrit Dange, today drew a sharp reprimand from Prime Minister Nehru and jeers from government supporters when he promised, in the Upper House, to see that no further disturbances like Monday's Bombay riots would occur in the future.

The Communist leader was demanding a debate on the riots, which began in Bombay on Sunday as a protest against proposals to divide the state into three parts.

Nehru defied the Communist leader by saying "the honorable member has been good enough to assure us that he will see to it that those who followed his advice will behave themselves in future."

The Bombay death toll is 10 with 250 others injured in the riots Monday in which police opened fire several times to quell the rushing crowds. The city was quiet today.

Communists and other left-wing groups oppose the planned division of the state. They want Bombay city to become the capital of the proposed Marathi-speaking state of Maharashtra.

But, the government has decided to divide Bombay state into two states, one Marathi-speaking and the other Gujerati-speaking, and to keep Bombay city as a third and separate administration.

The government will make a statement Wednesday on the situation.

Unemployment Is Increasing But Is Below Level of 1954

OTTAWA (CP) — Unemployment increase of 6,403 from a month earlier but still 66,561 below the total of 259,270 a year earlier.

The 6,403 rise in October was mainly the result of increases in the unfilled applications of 3,600 in the Prairies, 1,600 in Quebec, 1,400 in the Atlantic region and 700 in Ontario.

The labor force survey of the bureau of statistics said the number of persons with jobs totalled 3,997,000 in October, a decrease of 18,000 from Sept. 17 but 175,000 more than a year earlier. Of those with jobs, 5,014,000 — 89.3 per cent — worked a full week of 35 hours or more.

In Ontario, construction declined slightly and there were more part-time workers in the clothing industry. Closing of a bird - cliff workers continued in the motor vehicle industry.

States Ontario Must Soon Find More Revenue

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario sooner or later will have to find additional revenue, provincial Treasurer Dana Porter said Monday night in an address to a dinner of the Ontario district of the Investment Dealers' Association of Canada.

In the last 12 years, Mr. Porter said, the province had managed to meet increased expenditures by keeping tax rates relatively well in line without resorting to new forms of taxation.

Now, however, a point of diminishing return had been reached where it could be foreseen that the essential financial necessities of municipalities, school boards and many other government services were growing to a point where more revenue must be found.

Unless the province could have greater power to tax—it now has almost a monopoly of the federal government, it might have to resort to something else.

Russians Execute Georgia Officials Who Backed Beria

LONDON (CP)—The Russian radio said today that five officials in the Soviet republic of Georgia have been executed for high treason. They were ex-ministers and a laboratory of Lavrenti Beria, former Russian leader who was executed in 1953.

Monitors here said a sixth official might have been included in the list of the executed, but they were unable to say for sure because the broadcast was garbled.

Georgia is the birthplace of Joseph Stalin, and also of Beria.

Tiflis radio said the death sentence had been carried out on:

Rhadam Tsintsadze, minister of curity and one-time chief of the reconstruction department of the mine istry at internal affairs.

OTHERS JAILED

Rukava, a former commissar of internal affairs.

Tsertell, a former deputy commissioner of internal security.

Stavitsky, a former prosecutor.

Khazani, a former prosecutor.

Two other former prosecutors, Paramanov and Nadaraia, were given jail sentences.

The broadcast said the executed men were convicted last September on charges of high treason, "terrorism, banditry and taking part in counter-revolutionary activities.

Widow Answers Police Queries About Shooting

MINEOLA, N.Y. (AP) — Mrs. Virginia Gerosa, 29, looked pale and tearful, went through a three-hour police quiz Monday night after she was released from a hospital cell since Oct. 30, when she shot her prominent husband to death.

The 29-year-old widow, who broke into tears several times during the questioning, stated again that the shooting was an accident.

Following the interrogation, authorities said that it is not known that it still appears an accident in them. However, the Nassau county district attorney's office, police and detective chief Stuyvesant Pinkney said they make no official comment "in view of the fact that all evidence will be presented to the grand jury."

Mrs. Woodward's lawyer, Murray H. Gerler, has asked the grand jury hear her story, a request which by law is to be granted. The lawyer said Mrs. Woodward wants to testify and will voice confidence that a jail cell possible to use her testimony before the grand jury.

The widow, dressed completely in black, emerged late in the day from Doctors Hospital in New York City, where she began psychiatric treatment for grief and hysteria. Flanked by her physician and Gerler, she moved slowly and with bowed head through a curious crowd.

Big U.S. Plane Limps to Safety On Two Engines

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — A U.S. Strategic Air Force B-50 managed to a safe landing at Gander airport Monday afternoon after a two-hour battle to keep aloft, first on three engines, then on two.

The five-jet bomber, a reliable four-engined aircraft, flying a routine flight from Greenham Common, England, was about 750 miles off the Newfoundland coast. The pilot's skipper, Capt. Howard Evans, had to cut the engine opposite the one that was sputtering.

In a frightening half-hour, the plane dropped from 10,000 feet to 5,000 feet, then held steady Capt. Evans battled with the sluggish plane for five hours more, until radio operators, at Gander began talking him in while still 20 miles away.

Rescue aircraft from the U. S. naval base at Argentia, Nfld., hovered nearby in case the 11-man crew had to bail out over the storm-tossed ocean or the Newfoundland wilds.

BRITISH TROOPS BATTLE STUDENTS IN CHURCHYARD

New Peak Is Reached In Cypriot Protests

NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters) — British troops battled the churchyard of a Greek cathedral here today and hurled a cloud of tear gas to break up a mob of screaming, stone - throwing Cypriot students demonstrating for a union with Greece.

Other troops sealed off the area around Phaneromeni Cathedral as the troops, armed with riot shields and clubs, fired tear gas as attacks to break up the mob. The students rallied around the church after other students rang its bells.

In another section of the city some 200 workers marched through the streets shouting "Britain get out" and "Down with Fascism."

It was the seventh time in nine days that troops used tear gas to disperse rioters. The demonstrations here have reached a new peak in the demands of the Greek Cypriots for Greek union. Britain has a discreet base in the strategic Mediterranean island because of defence commitments.

In several other towns students went on strike in protest against the sentencing of two Greek schools by Governor Sir John Harding for their student demonstrations last week.

Today's riots came only a few hours after a street battle between British troops and terrorists in the Turkish district of Famagusta, 40 miles south of Famagusta. It was the second straight night that the terrorists had battled pitched battles with British soldiers.

A British army sergeant was wounded fatally Monday by terrorists in a bomb ambush on a road southeast of here. He was the third British soldier killed by terrorists since the anti-British violence began last March.

New Delhi Paper Suggests Queen Pay India Visit

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—A New Delhi newspaper suggests that Queen Elizabeth should be invited here.

The pro-government Hindustan Times said today that Indian vice president or Communist China's premier were also invited, they would receive a big welcome here as that just accorded to Russian Premier Nikolai Bulganin.

Soviet Premier Bulganin and Communist Party Boss Nikita Khrushchev are on a 14-day state visit to India on Prime Minister Nehru's invitation.

"If our people could gather to welcome the leaders of the land of Mr. Nehru's bidding they can do so again for the Queen on the American president or the head of the Chinese government," the paper says.

Commenting on the Soviet leadership's visit to Britain, the Parliament Monday on Western policies, the newspaper says: "If the Russians can be friendly, it is as much Soviet responsibility as it is of our people to explore new ways and means of reviving it."

Quake Registered

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Instruments at California Institute of Technology Monday night registered a distant earthquake described as strong enough to cause quite a bit of damage" if it occurred in a settled area.

It was the third and heaviest quake to be registered Monday. Rated at 6.5 on the Richter scale, a measurement that has recorded its heaviest tremor at 8.8, it was considered centered 1,500 miles distant in an undetermined direction.

Strap No Help in Teaching Scots Reading, Writing and 'Rithmetic

LONDON (Reuters) — Reading, writing and rithmetic taught with the aid of a leather strap accurately does bear results in Scottish schools, a team of psychologists said today.

But not for long. By the age of 11, the young Scots begin to rebel against their stern teachers and lose their early advantages.

The psychologists from London and Glasgow Universities, writing in an educational journal, compared the work of children in two similar English and Scottish towns.

They found that eight-year-old Scottish students were greatly advanced in the formal subjects, and that discipline and corporal punishment brought these early results. In English schools, where corporal punishment was restricted to only severe disciplinary offences, young children were not so advanced.

But by 11, Scottish children showed little or no superiority, and by 14 were well behind their English counterparts.

Khrushchev Too Heavy For His Host's Bed

NEW DELHI (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev, Russian Communist party secretary, may doubt an Indian good luck sign a pretty Indian girl dabbed on his forehead Monday.

Half an hour later, in a boy scout camp, Prime Minister Nehru stretched out on a string s camp — bed and tried to take Khrushchev to try it as well.

The bulky Russian, who appears to outweigh 160-pound Nehru by at least 40 pounds, did so—and it collapsed under him.

Premier Outlines New Highway To Serve Haliburton

LINDSAY (CP)—Premier Frost Monday told, Victoria county council that a new road or route may be finished enabling travel from Port Erie to the highlands of Haliburton during the density-populated areas.

He outlined a proposed route from Highway 401 at Newcastle north along Highway 35 to Lindsay and north to the vacation areas. The completion of No. 401 to Newcastle, he said, will enable a traveller to go from Lindsay to Port Erie on a modern access highways.

Next year the trans-Canada highway portion from Highway 7, west of Lindsay, to Town, would probably be completed, linking with the southerly route of Highway 35 and 401. Lindsay would be by-passed by roads to the northwest, to Haliburton, and east to Bobcaygeon.

TEMPERATURES

RABAT, Morocco (Reuters)—Thousands of French troops and police poured into Casablanca today as 150,000 Moroccans swarmed through the strike - bound city's streets to attend the funeral of three political prisoners killed in a jail riot last weekend.

Conflicting reports came from the bloody city. Some reports said three to 20 prisoners were killed in the weekend riots.

Other reports said eight Moroccans, accused of being police informers, were lynched today outside the prison as 50,000 demonstrators massed there. Other unconfirmed reports said police fired to break up the demonstration and several Moroccans were killed.

As the throng jammed the cemetery for the funeral of the riot victims, truckloads of French infantry watched the crowds from a discreet distance. A spotter plane circled overhead.

In Rabat the French residency said no one was killed or injured in Casablanca today.

The new outbreak of urban violence came as French troops poured into Morocco by airplane to meet a threatened new rebellion of the wild Riff mountain tribesmen.

Growing tension prevailed throughout Moslem Morocco as the hammed Ben Youssef, who returned to the throne when French imposed exile last week, consulted his advisers preparatory to choosing a new premier. Ben Youssef will negotiate with Frator over a government formula for the bloody strife-ridden North African protectorate.

TENSE ATMOSPHERE

In Casablanca, all Moroccan shops closed down in normal protest against the death of the three political prisoners in the prison riot. Seething crowds of Moroccans stood at street corners, watched by strongly armed police.

The prisoners were killed, and 15 injured, when Casablanca prison guards opened fire to break up the weekend riot, reported to have started when prisoners threw themselves in front of trucks taking other prisoners for trial.

Tanks, armor and alleyways which echoed 36 hours ago to joyful shouts hailing the return of Sultan Ben Youssef, were being patrolled today by French troops in battle order.

This followed a day of violent demonstrations aimed mainly, according to French officials, against Moroccans who backed Mouley El Arafa, who abdicated last month in favor of Ben Youssef. Arafa was deported from Youssef when the latter was deposed by France in 1953.

DEER IS KILLED, COULD NOT KEEP IT

Five miles south of Haultain, Donald Ross, R.R. 2 Bloomfield, saw a 10-point buck deer leap across Highway No. 28 in front of his car. He was unable to stop in time and killed the animal instantly. The impact caused $300 damage to his 1955 car and to make matters worse he couldn't even keep the deer. It was handed over to conservation officer Stan Windsor, who presented the meat to a Peterborough institution. Ironically, Ross was returning from a luckless deer hunt.

Mr. Bush stated the competition was exceptionally keen as the board had the largest entry in hackneys since the fair was incepted.

Police Blotter

City and local provincial police headquarters spent a relatively quiet night watch last night with mostly routine matters being reported to both desks.

Police early this morning were called to the Dundas St. West yard of H. J. McFarland Construction Company Ltd. to investigate damage to equipment parked there. Apparently someone started a diesel float in the yard and drove it head-on into the back of a parked dump truck. Damage to the float was about $25 and to the dump truck $35.

Russell VanAistine, Napanee, reported a suitcase containing furniture-refinishing materials stolen from the trunk of his car parked at 54 Coleman Street, Belleville. It is believed the theft occurred around 5:30 p.m.

Provincial police reported a quiet night watch.

Expansion of Corbin Lock Co. Will Be Assisted by City

Projected plans for a major expansion of the Belleville plant of the Corbin Lock Company of Canada Ltd., were outlined at council Monday night by His Worship Mayor Jack Both.

Mayor Both, as chairman of the industrial commission, gave details of the proposed expansion, while speaking in favor of the recommendation from the commission concerning the sale and leasing of certain city properties to the company to make expansion possible.

Extension of the present plant southward across Colborne Street to Water Street, is expected to add between 20,000 and 30,000 square feet of floor space. Total increase in the labor force over a period of years may reach 250 bringing the number employed locally to approximately 450.

No date for construction of an addition were given.

Alderman Argue, at present, is engaged in closing down its recently purchased subsidiary, Peterborough Lock Company, and is negotiating for the consolidation of the two plants.

RECOMMENDATION APPROVED

The recommendation approved by council calls for the closing of Colborne Street between Coleman and King streets and the sale of the property to Corbin's for $1. Also included was a recommendation declaring land south of Peter's Park between the river and Coleman street, and between the CPR right-of-way and Water street, to Corbin's for 50 years at $1 per year for use as a parking lot.

The company agreed to pay for improvements to the property and to turn it back to the city anytime within the 50-year period should it be required for municipal purposes, and the property is returned within 50 years the city agrees to reimburse Corbin's for improvements on a pro rata basis to a maximum of $5,000.

The company also agreed to make the parking area available to the general public after working hours.

NO RESPONSIBILITY

The company will not assume responsibility for accidents on the lot when it is being used by the public.

"Corbin Lock has interests in Peterborough," said Mayor Both Peterborough intends to induce Corbin's to keep part of its plant in Peterborough. With the proposed change the plant would move from Peterborough to Belleville. Peterborough's loss to Belleville's gain."

Alderman William Argue, a member of the industrial commission, said that commission members had visited the industry and looked over the areas covered by the recommendation.

"In the agreement it says we can get the land back if we need it for industrial purposes," he said in supporting the recommendation.

"I am glad to support this recommendation for expansion of local industry," said Alderman Ben Safe.

The recommendation passed unanimously.

Industrial commission members who carried on negotiations with Corbin's were Mayor Both, and Aldermen Arthur Keegan, Claude Tice, Jane Forrester and William Argue.

Preservation of Human Values Emphasized by Rotary Speaker

Necessity of preservation of human values by twentieth-century man was emphasized to Rotarians here yesterday by Rev. Gerald Heath, principal of Queen's University Theological College.

With the advancement of social thinking and science in this century, there was a trend of removing the personal aspect from living and development of the secular outlook, he warned.

"I would say that we have been living through a revolutionary period in the history of our world," said Mr. Andrews.

"Sometimes people do not realize that fact and we do not look out beyond the end of our noses long."

The twentieth century is the century of the common man, a time when the rights of man have been recognized to such an extent "that we are talking rather glibly of the welfare state. Such nebulous, commonplace today, were beyond the pale fifty years ago," he said.

"While that is true in social matters it has resulted in the world of science and medicine, to be added.

"The amazing thing is that these discoveries have brought us to a place of judgment in our civilization," he said in a critical place.

"It now is possible for man to destroy his civilization.

"Once upon a time, when we talked like that we talked of what we might do with this world. Now it is what man might do with his world.

"However, these things could mean untold blessings if man develops the right character," he said.

Man must also widen his appreciation of the world as a field for "today the world world is in a ferment and there is no place today that has not been affected by Western ideas."

"The things Western man wants for himself, other peoples of the world outside the Western orbit want too.

WORLD IN FERMENT

"What is going on is that the whole world is in a ferment, searching for ways to express itself and unless ways are found then you have no room for Western civilization.

"For it is quite clear to me that the star of Western influence is on the wane . . . and it behooves us to set our house in order to see if we are to continue to impress other areas of the world."

Much of the development in social thinking also has produced a mentality across a lot of people that the world owes them a living and this problem is also a development of the materialistic mind, he warned.

Respecting scientific and technological advances "someone has said that in these circumstances society," Mr. Andrews said.

All that trend has the effect of taking out of the hands of people the real spirit that really makes life worth living, he told the meeting.

The fellowship of churches, service clubs and fraternal organizations "can be a great force in the preservation of the real personal human values that we need if life is to be worth living at all," he said.

Rev. Arthur Lidday was introduced by Rev. A.E. MacKenzie of Albert College and thanked by Bill Morrison.

Halifax Youth Remanded Week For Sentence

Orpen Toomer, 21-year-old Halifax youth appearing yesterday as a "Mr. Jones from Mountain View" and describing himself as a potential car purchaser at a city dealership, failed to get away with sentence on a charge of car theft in magistrate's court.

Yesterday, pleaded guilty, was apprehended by Brighton OPP then.

He made off with the car from Elliott Motors after passing himself off as a car interested purchaser and requesting a demonstration, police say. He took the car out for a trial run but did not return.

The car was later found abandoned on the road to Evergreen cemetery, over a mile from Trenton.

Magistrate T.Y. Wills remanded him for a week for sentencing.

Quiet and Brief Meeting Is Staged by City Council

The quietest and briefest city council meeting of the year was held last night when it was over in an hour and ten minutes last night.

Top item of the evening was the announcement of an expansion of the Belleville plant of the Corbin Lock Company of Canada Ltd. Some details of the proposed expansion were outlined by Mayor Jack Both in presenting an industrial commission recommendation that Colborne Street between Coleman and King streets be closed and sold to Corbin's for $1 and that the company be granted a lease to a parking area between the river and Coleman street, and the CPR right-of-way and Water street for $1 per year for 50 years.

Other business included acceptance of Alderman Jane Forrester's resignation as city councillor effective mayoralty December 5th; council approval of a recommendation that a special committee to suggest names for possible use on the position of city manager; Alderman Enos David's brief on behalf of an off-street parking project; granting of a franchise to the distribution of natural gas in the city by Consumers' Natural Gas Company; passage or election by-laws and approval of a by-law to sell certain city lots.

ONE-MAN DELEGATION

George DeVuyst, only delegation to appear before council, wanted to know "what is wrong with the voters' lists?"

"There are people on the list who have been dead for two years," he said. "What are you going to do to get a true list of Belleville cemetery so they can vote?" he asked council.

Mr. DeVuyst also questioned the billing of merchants for overhanging street signs. He said that the by-law requiring payment had been rescinded. He said that the by-law was on the books and would it be enforced.

Later in the evening, Alderman Gerald Hyde stated that 133 of 138 merchants charged with overhanging street signs had paid their bill. He added that to the best of his knowledge the by-law governing the charge had not been rescinded.

Mrs. Forrester's resignation was accepted by council without comment.

Ex-alderman Bryson C. Reid, seven-in last Thursday to succeed the seat vacated by Mrs. Forrester, did not sit in council last evening.

A recommendation to give permission to Gordon N. Brown, of Stirling, to establish a car cleaning business at 330 Coleman St., was referred back to the planning committee.

Permission was granted to the Youth for Christ Movement to place a banner across Bridge St. between Front and Pinnacle Sts. until November 28th.

Alderman William Argue presented a recommendation urging formation of a committee composed of the mayor, the manager of the Public Utilities Commission, Mr. O. H. Scott, the chairman of the council's executive committee, Alderman Gerald Hyde, and the chairman of the works department, Alderman Ben Safe, to suggest names for the appointment of a city manager.

"I am one of many men in Belleville who can fill the job," he said. "But they don't want me and I don't want to jeopardize their business by applying for the job.

"It is the salary we are willing to pay there are men who would accept but will not apply."

COUNCIL APPROACH CANDIDATES

He suggested that a committee such as he proposed could approach prospective candidates and sound out their willingness to seek the job.

"We have a lot to gain and nothing to lose," said Alderman Argue. "We have to have a city manager problem this year."

The recommendation carried.

Council also approved a recommendation by Alderman Enos David, chairman of the traffic committee, for the appointment of a school patrol at the corner of Victoria Ave. and MacDonald Ave., to protect children attending Sir Winston Churchill school.

Alderman Effie McCabe reported that two tenders for construction of a dog pound had been received, one for $6,500 and one for $8,700 and that neither was being considered. She said there was no call for new tenders.

The council approved third readings of by-laws to give effect to Burton Franklin Armstrong and Shirley L. Armstrong and Douglas Airhart.

Wesleyan Methodist Church Re-dedicated for Service

Pots of various colored 'mums and ferns added their beauty to the bright newness of the enlarged and completely renovated auditorium of the Everett Street Wesleyan Methodist church, which was filled to its more than its capacity on Sunday afternoon for the service of re-dedication.

Seated with the Rev. James S. A. Spearman, pastor of the church, were Rev. H. Hately of Ottawa, Ont., conference president, Rev. L. K. Daniel of Victoria Avenue Baptist church, Rev. Carrie Hazzard and Rev. Lois Richardson of Bloomfield, Mr. Arthur Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Wilson of Brockville, Ont.

Speaking on behalf of the Belleville Ministerial Association, Rev. L. K. Daniel spoke of the esteem in which the pastor and people of the church were held by the members of the Association making mention of the fact that Mr. Spearman was the Ministerial President this year. Mr. Daniel congratulated the congregation on their vision and labors in bringing to completion such a splendid edifice.

The pastor welcomed other visiting clergy and members of other congregations from both city churches and outside points.

The Rev. Dr. Hately brought words of greetings from the Conference and conducted the dedicatory address. Speaking of the growth and development of the Wesleyan Methodist church in Belleville Mr. Kielty said that there had been a sixty-seven per cent growth in membership during the past quadrennium. "This," he continued "is a real example of what can be done under God." "But no church must become satisfied with its accomplishments, it must continue to go forward." "The purpose of the church is to win men and women to Jesus Christ."

HANDS OVER KEYS

Mr. Clarence McBrien, of Belleville Builders Agencies Ltd., handed over the keys of the building to Mr. Wilfred Jewell and in doing so spoke of the pleasure it was to work with such a fine group of people. Mr. Jewell handed the keys to the pastor. Speaking for the officials of the church to the Conference President Mr. Jewell said. "On behalf of the trustees of this church and of the congregation here assembled, for the glory of God, I hereby present to you this building, to be dedicated to the service and the worship of God," to which the president replied by stating "I accept." This was followed by the dedication litany which was led by the pastor with the response being given by the congregation.

Rev. Carrie Hazzard gave the prayer of dedication. Mr. B. E. Elliott, treasurer, gave a statement of finance.

The choir sang several times throughout the service and numbers were given by Mr. and Mrs. E. Wilson. Vocal solos were rendered by Mr. Carl Green. Miss Helen Spearman presided at the console of the organ. Mrs. Floyd Cummings was pianist.

A special feature of the morning service was the dedication of three children, Gary Vernon and Rickye Cammeron, daughter and son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Green and Joyce Ann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Trotter. This was a very touching service with a message being given by Rev. Carrie Hazzard.

At the evening service the pastor read a list of the memorials which had been given and gave the names of those who had donated funds. These memorials, the minister stated, were gratefully accepted. Rev. Lois Richardson delivered a very challenging address on "Rules for the Game of Life."

Among the many flowers which graced the church for the day were those which were loaned by A. D. Hollen. Others were given by members of the congregation.

An evangelistic mission continues this week with Revs. Carrie Hazzard and Lois Richardson as guest speakers.

They were blessed with seven sons and one daughter. Mrs. Arthur Ellis died in Belleville a couple of years ago. Mr. Ellis has two brothers living, one in New York, where he visited last Christmas, and one in Goodmayes, Essex, England, where he will make his home until April 1957 or 13 next, on which date he will return to Canada on the S.S. Ascania.

On Thursday evening, last a few of his many Belleville friends entertained him at the Hotel Quinte and presented him with a powerful pair of binoculars.

Building of New Dog Pound May Be Delayed

With tenders for the construction of the proposed new dog pound considerably higher than was anticipated, building of the new structure will in all probability not be proceeded with at the present time, it was learned today.

Cost estimates for the new building were in the neighborhood of $4,000, while tenders received were approximately double that amount. It is expected new tenders will be called.

In view of this it has been decided to House the present dog pound up temporarily. Tar paper will be applied to keep out the cold and fuel will be provided to keep the impounded animals warm. Volunteers are being asked to assist in making the present building more weather tight.

Four cats are in the pound at the present time, according to the city pound-keeper, Chas. Thorn. These are a brown male cross Persianel, a black terrier, a female Shepherd and a part collie and Spitz "giveaway" dog.

Off-Street Parking Proposal Outlined by Traffic Chairman

An outline of the off-street parking proposal which will be presented voters as a money by-law on December 5th, was given by council Monday night by Alderman Enos David, chairman of the traffic committee.

The globescite seeks approval of an expenditure of $115,000 for reclamation of land along the east bank of the Moira from the footbridge north to the Hotel Belevedere laneway and for paving and metering of the present parking area and the reclaimed land.

Parking for an additional 100 cars would be provided by the scheme. Total metered accommodation of the area would be available for approximately 225 cars.

Alderman David gave as reasons for supporting the by-law:

1. Creation of new land.
2. Flood control.
3. Beautification.
4. Creation of a source of revenue.

Creation of new land by construction of a retaining wall along the river and backfilling of the area behind the wall is the key to entire program.

Alderman David said increased parking accommodation would guarantee continuance of the downtown area and keep up property values in a high tax area.

"It would make possibility of flood by narrowing and deepening the river and keeping it away from freezing to the bottom," said Alderman David.

"The project would help beautify the river bank and improve the appearance of the city."

"Land reclaimed from the river is the key to a long range plan of parking, city improvement and beautification," he said.

PLAN SELF-LIQUIDATING

Alderman David also said the plan would be self-liquidating with revenues expected to approximate $15,000 per year.

"Self liquidation will create a new revenue source where there is none now," he said.

In a subsequent question period Alderman David said that properties at the rear of Front Street stores facing the footbridge lane are privately owned and that merchants in the area were working on their own scheme.

Alderman David also stated that a second phase of the project might be the widening of the footbridge approach off Coleman Street by the give access by a bridge to the parking area.

Alderman Arthur Keegan asked if approval of the scheme had been sought from the Moira Valley Authority with a view to securing a government grant to assist its financing.

He said the Moira Valley plan included the area under discussion as phase two of its three-phase program for intra-city development. The first phase is construction of a dam at College St., and the third phase has to do with narrowing of the river near the CPR bridge with provision of parking space for some 600 cars.

Alderman Keegan also wanted to know if sufficient access to the area was available to prevent jamming of the additional cars.

Alderman David said that there was good access via laneways near the Hotel Belvedere and Pollock's Shoe Store.

"The city has collected between $135,000 and $175,000 in fines and parking fees in the last 10 years," said Alderman David, "and has not created one square foot of new parking space."

Alderman Clarke Tice asked Alderman Keegan if he had heard that the government had refused to pay its share of the proposed College St. dam and if the da was going to be built.

"Ontario is ready to pay third share," said Alderm Keegan. "A committee went Ottawa and was told that th project was too small. So, wi four other conservation authorities, we submitted a progra costing $30,000,000 and were t that the project was too big. I looks as if the Front governmen is going to be asked to pay tw thirds."

AN OLD DREAM STILL LIVES

It is an ill wind, 'tis said, that blows nobody good. Now there is talk in Europe about the failure of the Big Four conference at Geneva giving a new impetus to the drive for a federal union in western Europe.

This is an old dream, but still a bright one. Older readers will remember the pre-war days when Briand, the great French statesman, was advocating a United States of Europe, patterned after the United States of America. Perhaps, some day, that dream will come true.

If it does, that will not automatically solve all of Europe's problems, nor heal all of the old wounds, eliminate all the sources of misunderstanding and mistrust arising from past wars and present differences in language and culture. But it will be a start along that path which the United States of America has trod, from feeble beginning and weak ties through civil war to unity and strength.

Meanwhile the first steps towards such a union are being taken in the realm of economics. Already six powers are co-operating in the European steel and coal community. There are proposals for pooling resources in the fields of transport, nuclear energy and industrial power.

Whether such a linking of economic interests is the best and safest way to political unity may be questioned by some. Economic interests can be a powerful tie—but they can also divide as well as unite. No nation is going to be eager to destroy the factories and foundries which it regards as its own—but on the other hand governmental decrees which take away part of domestic significance could assume international importance under the type of co-operative enterprise between nations which is being proposed.

Yet, because each attempt to achieve union in one field is almost certain to stimulate interest in unity in other fields, the economic co-operation of Europe must brighten the hopes of those who believe that, some day, Western Europe will be one powerful, wealthy nation.

THEY SCARED US FOR A MOMENT

Oh, goody, goody! The hydrogen bomb, which has had us bouncing in our brogans, is not a fusion bomb after all! The New York Times authoritatively says that statement. This is just another proof of the power of the free press. Here we have been shaking and shivering for months, with that nasty old Atomic Energy Commission letting on that the ultimate weapon had been devised, and it was nothing of the sort, at all, at all. No fusion but just a little more fission, just an atom bomb made out of cheesy old uranium, the 238 stuff that they find up around Bancroft, not the 235 brand or whatever it is that the fussy physicists insisted on manufacturing, in pre-H bomb days before they let the army, navy or air force rush off to the Yucca Flats or Bikini to raise a little hell!

So all this H-bomb fuss has been over fission and not over fusion! All the scientists were doing was splitting up atoms and using the power released to make a bomb, instead of putting atoms together and using the power left over! This is the difference this makes!—Almost everybody has got used to the idea of being split up by a mere atom bomb; it was the thought of being fused by a hydrogen bomb that gave them the stark terror in their hearts.

Now we can all stop worrying about radiation and all that sort of thing, secure in the knowledge that the worst has not happened. From the standpoint of the scientists, we presume, the best is yet to come. After they get through playing around with their big fissionable H-bomb, which has supplanted their small fissionable atom bomb in their affections, they may get back to their Bunsen burners and their logarithms and figure out how to stage a really bang-up party, a really confusing piece of pure fusion. One cold black magic, a thermonuclear explosion, is yet to come.

ARABIAN NIGHTS' SOLUTION

His colleagues on the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission do not think much of Thomas S. Murray's proposal that the U.S. stage a series of H-bomb demonstrations at Bikini and invite the leaders of the nations of the world, so they know what is in store for them if they do not behave.

There is a sort of fairy-tale atmosphere about Mr. Murray's suggestion, reminiscent of those days when strategems were frequently employed by monarchs desirous of impressing rivals. This kind of thing, with swordsmen substituted for the H-bomb, would go well in an Arabian Nights setting—and come to think of it perhaps that famous tale can provide us with the answer as to the right way to apply Mr. Murray's ideas. What needs to be done with some of the leaders of the world, one suspects, is a little bit more drastic than merely showing them the power of the H-bomb. Here the Sultan, whose distrust of womenkind led to the spinning of the stories, may have had the right idea.

It will be recalled that, after the Sultan's wife had betrayed him, he took a succession of brides, wedding them one day and beheading them the next, so that they had no opportunity to break their marriage vows. This was, unquestionably, a little tough on the wives, but the method was effective. Perhaps we could apply it to the world's statesmen—let them sit a little longer in Hell, but scurrying them off, after a month or so of inction, to participate in a personal demonstration of the power of the hydrogen bomb.

HOPE FOR THE FUTURE

"Nothing to pay for natural gas furnace until April '56," says an advertisement in a Toronto daily paper.

Well, that's a help!

Usually these "no money down" advertisements merely give the purchasers a brief breathing space before he starts facing reality.

Delaying the first payment on a November purchase until spring is certainly an improvement.

Let's hope it is just the beginning of a trend.

That we are waiting for is the universal adoption of a really easy credit policy: "Nothing to pay until six months after death."

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

November 22, 1935

Mr. Norel Loney has returned home after spending a few days in Toronto.

Miss Margaret Bunting, Miss Sheiah Burrows, Miss Marjorie Chambers, Miss Barbara Parker, William Harvey and Wesley Semple of the Collegiate Elevator staff, will attend the tenth annual convention this weekend at the High School in Oshawa, Ontario, which will be held at the University of Toronto under he auspices of Sigma Phi, the fraternity of Women Journalists.

"Fluffy", a large and beautiful Persian cat belonging to Mr. Floyd Martin has returned home after an unexplained absence of seven months and has taken up the usual routine of her former places of abode without so much as a Meeoooowwww to explain her absence and lengthy absence without leave. Bedraggled, worn and tired and greatly reduced in weight, "Fluffy" arrived at the door of Mr. Martin's home on Monday morning early last evening and gave the usual signal asking for admittance and scrutinizing on the friars work of the door. Plentiful rations of milk and liver are being set before "Fluffy" and it is hoped that everything will regain the flesh lost and become much worn fur coat. "Fluffy" has spent the past seven months in the woods judging by the look of her", said Mr. Martin this morning — but "Fluffy" ignores the whole thing and says nothing.

30 YEARS AGO

Mr. John Ross of Dawson City, the Yukon, is visiting his brother-in-law, Mr. James Ross, in this city. This is the first time the brothers have met in thirty-seven years.

There is every possibility of a new up-to-date hospital being established in Bancroft as the result of an enthusiastic meeting held in that village last evening. Dr. A. T. Embury, M.P. for Hastings East, was present at the meeting. If the hospital is established it will be under the supervision of the Red Cross.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Clark, Toronto, are spending a few days in Toronto.

Mrs. Martin Hough and Miss Lena Sills of Foxboro, and Mrs. Sid. Bird of Camilton, have returned home after spending a week at Kitchener and Toronto.

At a meeting of the Belleville Cheese Board 845 boxes of white cheese and 50 boxes of colored cheese were boarded. The quality realized was exceptionally high. Four hundred and nine boxes sold at 17 7/8 cents and the balance at 17 5/16 cents.

At the Marmora Cheese Board 693 boxes of cheese were boarded and buyers Cook of this city and Bird of Stirling bought the lot at 16 9/16 cents. It was recommended by the board that C. P. Linn, local dairy inspector, be appointed for another year.

Huffy's island has now the finest school house in the rural section of Prince Edward County. It was opened recently with patriotic and fitting cross meeting at which the sum of $35, was realized for patriotic purposes.

50 YEARS AGO

We wonder if any one ever saw such a town as this is for having the streets dug up. Hardly a day passes in the year without some principal street being excavated. It would not be so bad if the roadways were restored in good order, but such is not the case. Something should be done about this.

Jack Robkin, who is working on the water main has made a good job so far and we are glad to ing that it is soon finished; it has been a long and costly job.

J. W. Fearce, M.P.P., Marmora, J. Earl Halliwell, Stirling, E. Cuss Porter, M.P. and A. H. Walker both of this city were present at a supper given recently by the members of Loyal Orange Lodge No. 157 in their lodge room at Wellman's Corners, and afterwards made addresses at a patriotic meeting which was held in the nearby church. The chair was occupied by T. C. McConnell.

Each Season Has Own Aroma

(Windsor Star-

Each season of the year brings its own variations in the weather; its own different scenes, etc., etc., brings its distinctive aromas.

These perhaps aren't noticed in cities to the extent they are in the countryside. The fumes of gasoline and industrial odors submerge those which are more pleasant. Even in cities, however, the pungent, low smell of mouldering leaves is apparent.

In the country, even if you were to close the eyes and be so attired as to be immune from the weather, it is possible to detect autumn in the air. It has a delicate flavor all its own, less distinct than that of newsmown hay in the summer, but quite evident.

It isn't attributable only to cause and effect. The mouldering of leaves and other vegetation is one factor. The newly plowed ground is another. Mingled with the crisp, fresh air of the season, these autumnal aromas are pleasant and pervading.

THE COMMONER

Want to walk life's humble way,
Want to hear what people say
An' to know 'em' through an' through.

Know the good an' bad they do,
Know their failures an' their joys,
Just like younger girls and boys
Livin' out their time o' play
In a friendly sort of way.

Growin' up an' growing old
Shouldn't make us strange and cold.

There's no reason I can see
Why the boy I used to be
Shouldn't understand my feeling
With his love of mirth and song.
Won't every heart beat them;
Why be ever-proud with men?
Want to walk along the street
Friend to everyone I meet.
Don't like growin' far away
From the friends I yesterday,
Or to feel that I'm too great
To be laughin' on my gate
Just to pass the time o' day
With the folks who come my way.

Let me know 'em one an' all,
Rich an' poor an' big an' small.
Let me keep a glad hello
For the humblest men I know
Let me share their thoughts an' hear
All their troubles year by year,
I'll learn from them the things
That don't reach, the ears of Kings.

Strange Tales Of Lost Ships

(Halifax Chronicle-Herald)

Whether the crew of the ship Joyita turns up in the Fiji Islands after days of drifting on the Pacific or is lost, as the crews of so many vessels have been lost mysteriously, their fate unknown there cannot be but, the re-telling of many stories of a like kind in Nova Scotia.

The first recalled of these naturally will be that of the Marie Celeste, built on the Cumberland shore, recreated under another name, rebuilt, sent to sea and then found abandoned, unharmed, unmarked in mid-ocean but not complement gone.

Even Islanders know that tale, but it is doubtful if they remember the story of the other same plate washed up in Australia, the only clue to the fate of a Canadian vessel and fishermen aboard of the Falklands in the Atlantic.

That is, the story of the bark encased in ice, half her sails set, which drifted out of the north to vanish in the fog off Newfoundland a little more than a century ago.

An overset hulk was towed into Halifax, a clean-cut hole marring the planking over the keel. Lighters said that they had come upon her in the open ocean, had heard strange knockings within the hull, had sawed through and released imprisoned fishermen.

They still lived, but what of the man who knocked in vain against the iron walls of the Great Eastern greatest ship of her time, as builders framed her in a British yard? Her engines, the largest ever found, dismissed it as of no meaning. Then, when later the Great Eastern went into the breakers' hands, a skeleton was found in the hulk her, having had rattled mysteriously, frighten the rabbinical scholars.

The sea has no end of mysteries here and there.

The Joyita has now been found drifting on the Fijian seas, her crew and passengers gone, but food gone, her log, too, as if deserting they had methodically set up a kingdom of his own, perhaps on one of those visited by the mission ship built by Nova Scotian shipwrights—one which voyaged there a century ago.

There is no telling. That is, unless plane search finds survivors and radar's sweep discloses their whereabouts.

Rules Whale Is Not Meat

(Edmonton Journal)

A Norwegian magistrate interpreting the law on meat inspection and meat products in open-air markets has ruled that it does not apply to fresh whale meat because "it is not meat in the ordinary sense." This will be news to the mightiest monsters of the deep, who have long regarded their wary, their wrath by his crafty use of the word ordinary.

While the whale does not appear on the average person's dinner table, he is certainly not lacking in largest, the blue, runs to 110 feet in length and more than 110 tons in weight. He is the warm-blooded mammal par excellence and consists of meat. Like the common cow, he is warm-blooded, whereas the whale is a warm-blooded mammal. Fish are cold-blooded. Whale is not, in other words, a cold-blooded fish. So he must be meat in the ordinary, as well as legal sense.

Indeed, the blue whale is the largest chunk of meat ever seen on earth, so far as zoologists know. He has even the greatest of the dinosaurs in length, and even a dead whale, floating on the messages to exist in a watery environment. He has a kind of respiratory breathing system, which enables him to drive below the surface for as long as an hour, and a thick, viscous maw which in the case of the blue can take in 70 tons of "whale feed" at a gulp.

A single magistrate, obviously, would make a very slight lunch for one of these fellows. Let us hope they don't get wind of the Norwegian court's insult when the offending magistrate is at sea.

Parlor Organ Once Prized

(Boston Herald)

Half a century ago, the parlor organ was a fitting partner for the tall, nickel-plated base burner. It was an exciting day when father announced that the second mother could at last get the new organ she long had wanted.

The imperial Grand was a magnificent affair, and the description in the order catalogue was unbridled:

"It is an instrument so handsome that it will grace the homes of the wealthy, and at the same time so low in price as to be within the reach of all.

"Made of quarter sawed oak, handsomely decorated, beautifully carved and ornamented. A handsome cabinet which can be used for brica-brac. Handsome mirror, which forms the door of the cabinet. This Imperial Grand grade A organ is 86 inches high 49 inches wide and 24 inches in depth. Shipping weight about 400 pounds. In tone it is most sequisite, resonant, susceptible to the most delicate variations. It is practically without wood mouse proof. Price $44.35."

The older persons can remember the names of the organ stops: Diapason, Dulciana, Aeoline, melodia, celeste, dulciana, cremona, treble coupler, bass coupler and sub-bass. Some had as many as 24.

And there are those who can remember the family singing evenings when mother played the organ and family and friends stood around the old familiar songs. Voices were not trained, but they were natural voices, they were clear, soprano, rich alto, full tenor and deep bass.

As the harmony filled the lamp lighted farm living room, the glow from the base burner mingled with the glow of leaping flames from the fireplace and those of the base burner. Humble and unpretentious recreation, but it was the kind that maintained an organ, many have harvested something of heart and soul that has been cherished over the years.

Should Choose Your Worries

(Cornwall Standard-Freeholder-

Do you worry? Probably. Even the most incompetent fortune-teller can usually ring the bell by intoning to a client that he is worried about something."

Or you can go to those chaps who are taking business away from the fortunetellers, the psychiatrists. Tell them you have worries and their diagnosis may be that you have a bad attack of worry.

It is apt to be more expensive to be told that, but at least they can do is give you a fancier term for your money.

Still, worrying doesn't prove you're not normal. It doesn't even prove you're normally sane. Nobody who didn't worry in certain situations would need the attention of a psychiatrist.

A recent learned paper read at the 113th annual meeting of the American Psychiatric Association was titled "Some Uses of Psychodynamics of Realistic Worry." And here's what the man said:

"Realistic worry in the face of real danger is the mark of a sane and a healthy mind." This doesn't necessarily mean, pray note, that the man who worry the healthiest mind is. It all depends on circumstances. A man has a right to worry about imaginary or remote dangers if he thinks that they can usually avoid worrying over things we can do nothing about. But where they are going to make a home, searing to extinction all life in the area around it. But the possibility is too remote to worry about; and besides, you cannot fight flying saucers.

The gimmick is that your worries must be "realistic" — at least true of yours? If not, don't worry but you should be wise to get professional help and rid yourself of unrealistic anxieties.

A PERFECT DAY

Will tomorrow be a happy day?
It is hard to predict the future.
Yet without the aid of a crystal ball we can generally foretell a happy day, and bring about the fulfillmen of prophecy by a simple formula—by living it while we try to bring happiness to 'others.
There is no surer way to bring happiness to ourselves.
It can be you want to try out the idea, here are a few easy suggestions:
Express sincere gratitude to someone who has done something for you recently—let him know that you hope to do something for him.
Go out of your way to praise someone for a job well done. Make your praise intelligent and specific—remember how much someone who knows what he is talking about is always worth more.
Make an effort to help someone who needs it, whether it be your neighbor carrying a heavy load or a motorist asking directions.
Plan for your family, or someone in it, a pleasant surprise—an outing, a little gift, a special treat or favor of some sort.
Take time out to ask God in prayer to help you help others, and watch for guidance in the ways that you can be instrumental.
And when you come to the close of each day, and if it is not the end of a perfect day,

Personal Health Talks

Unfair To Growing Children

This piece may cost me more, but I can afford to lose, but even so, it is my duty to write it, for by the will of God and the injunction of Esperanza I'm bound to teach 'em what I believe is the truth, even if it makes 'em so mad that — well, you know what happens to teacher or preacher who offends influential people.

A Canandaigua lady writes: "Our children drink a lot of" (sweetened, colored, flavored, carbonated beverages, some of which are just pop, some, identified by the lady, equivalent to weak tea or coffee in effect.) "Will you tell me if this is bad for them. If so, how does it affect children?"

I didn't single this out because it came from Canandaigua — in fact I just happened to notice the address when I finished copying the query. But it shocks me to realize that things are bad all over, even in Canandaigua.

With every drink of the stuff the child's chance of enjoying good nutrition, good health, vim, vigor and vitality is obviously lessened. Why? Because it means that there is anything injurious in color and flavor, whether natural or artificial, in sugar and carbon dioxide (carbonic acid gas), but you can't persuade me that even a little caffeine (heart, nerve, cardiovascular kidney stimulant in tea, coffee and other beverages) is good for growing children or that frequent indulgence in it will not make the child unduly irritable, peevish, "nervous," chronically tired and indisposed to play as actively as a healthy child should.

I am concerned about the excesses of growing children whose irresponsible or uninformed parents permit their indulgence in "pop" mainly because such indulgence sustains the victims of malnutrition from meal to meal or from hour to hour on the energy they get from the sugar in the beverage, leaving little or nothing for building material for growth and repair of wear and tear. The child who takes a sip of sugar every little while is comparable with the inebriate who takes a shot of alcohol at intervals — carried along for a while by a false feeling of satisfaction, so he doesn't have much appetite for real food and gradually develops a nutritional deficiency state which, in extreme cases, is labelled beri-beri.

Milk is the child's beverage. Milk and fruit juice. Whatever abnormal taste or craving for pop and similar stimulants color and flavor, permitted your children to acquire, it is your duty as a good parent to forbid any further indulgence of that kind and let them worry along with milk and fruit juice drinks, sweetened or not, from now on.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

An artist called on me this week with a big portfolio filled with examples of his work. He wanted to know how he could break into the cartooning game. He is a man of thirty who has mastered drawing to the highest degree of perfection and who has a serious job as a really gifted draughtsman. He has made a good living as a commercial artist.

But as he laid out his work before me, he wanted to know why he couldn't get into the much more profitable and exciting profession of cartooning for the press, magazines and magazines. There is a bigger demand for cartoons, he told me, than ever before.

He then produced a sheaf of cartoons he had clipped from the papers and magazines, and asked me to compare the drawing of them with his work.

"Some of these," he declared, "are terrible. A child could draw better than that. It looks to me as if these people had never even studied art. Yet you see they are all well known artists who appear regularly, get their stuff published week after week."

"They have got to their ideas," I suggested.

"I'm told," cut in the artist, "that they buy their ideas from other people. They can't draw, they haven't got the knack of their own. Yet they are successful!"

"Have you submitted your work?" I sympathized.

He bundled his beautiful drawings back in the portfolio and told me I hadn't been much help to him.

But how can you explain to an earnest, over-worked man that in the mysterious field of entertainment, there is no rhyme or reason to comprise the successful cartoonist. To some a thousand dollars a week draw, a thousand singers sing, ten thousand actors act: and two or three dozen of them catch the public fancy.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

FLIGHT

One of the very first wonders in Nature that came to me was the flight of birds. For hours, every day, I would lie down upon the ground in a field or on the sea shore and watch the flight of any birds that came within my view. I used to think it would be a joy to me to them and learn all about what they saw from that high altitude.

The flight of ducks, geese, hawks and others intrigued me. Born with that desire to see things regardless of distance and direction. Many will be found to discuss the subject and with great groups, and apparently their interest is in the birds. Not only interesting is the flight of birds when they migrate, knowing that where they are going to make their home at different seasons of the year, but also the birds in flocks, as the ducks, and in formations that we have copied in our war fighting planes.

Now, high in the air, we can look down from a plane and see what no one but birds formerly saw. But we are not so expert. Too many planes crash trying to make many a high mountain, and in fog, and so do the birds in dense atmosphere. At times thousands of birds have met their death by flying into the Empire State tower

Quick Elevation To Sainthood Seen for Pope

By FRANK BRUTTO

VATICAN CITY (AP) — More than for many other pontiff of modern times, a basis already has been established for the eventual canonization of Pope Pius XII.

Vatican sources believe that his elevation to sainthood following his death may be among the quickest in church history.

The most dramatic miracle attributed publicly to the 79-year-old head of the Roman Catholic Church came with the Vatican announcement this week that Jesus Christ appeared to him in a vision during his grave illness last December.

However, informed sources long have said that the Vatican secretary of state has a voluminous file of letters and messages from persons telling of "prodigious facts"—miracles—that have helped them as a result of the Pope's intercession.

KNOWN AFTER DEATH

No official word has ever been issued on this file, of which one source close to the pontiff once remarked: "These things will be made known after both he (the Pope) and I are dead." Such miracles normally are necessary for both beatification and canonization.

Many appearances of the Virgin Mary have been reported in the history of the church. But a member of the Vatican's Holy Congregation of Rites—the church body responsible for the processes of canonization and its preliminary beatification—said he could not recall a previous appearance of Christ to a pontiff since Jesus appeared before St. Peter after the resurrection.

Of the church's 260 popes, 78 so far have been made saints. These include Peter and the 24 who followed him to the papal throne, most of them martyred. But in the last 1,000 years only 12 popes have been beatified or canonized. The process, begun usually many years after the subject's death, often takes hundreds of years.

Japan's Premier Back in Office

TOKYO (Reuters) — Ichiro Hatoyama, Japanese premier since last December, today was formally voted back into power at the head of the strongest government formed in Japan since the war.

He had resigned earlier to clear the way for a new government of the Conservative party—the outcome of a merger last week between his own Democrats and the Liberals.

The merger, coupled with that of the right and left-wing Socialists last October, gives Japan the first two-party Parliament of her history. The Conservatives hold a solid majority in Parliament over the Socialist opposition.

Hatoyama has pledged himself to continue the generally pro-Western policies of other Japanese regimes since the war, and has stressed that he will continue to look to the United States for support.

Israel Claims Egypt, Jordan Violate Truce

JERUSALEM (Reuters) — An Israeli army spokesman reported today that Egyptians in the Kissufim area of the Gaza border strip fired on Israeli positions early this morning.

He also stated that in armed Jordanian band attacked an Israeli patrol in the Seleian area of the Jordan-Israel border Monday night.

An Egyptian plane Monday flew over the Beersheba area, east of the Gaza strip, he added.

Egyptian coastal batteries had opened fire earlier Monday on an Israeli fishing boat sailing the Mediterranean off the Gaza strip. She sailed out of range, and there were no casualties.

(Cairo radio, reporting the shelling, said the boat had violated Egyptian territorial waters. Egypt has protested to the mixed armistice commission.)

ACCEPTS PROPOSALS

The Israeli foreign ministry said there has been a worsening of the border situation since Sunday because of an "organized guerrilla campaign" conducted by Egypt.

Israel Monday agreed in principle to border peace proposals in the name of Dag Hammarskjold, United Nations secretary-general. Egypt is still considering the plan, but has indicated that she wants it amended.

1,000,000th Testament Presented

On Saturday, Mr. C. J. Grestrix of the local Belleville camp of Gideons, attended a rally of the Gideons International held in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church in Toronto.

This was the home church of the late Right Honorable Mackenzie King and those who have access its walls and whose mother was a devoted member and faithful worker. It also has the largest membership of the church in Canada.

Its assembly hall has all of the most modern facilities for such rallies and banquets. The guest speaker at the evening banquet was Mr. D. V. Gonder of Montreal, a prominent Gideon, and assistant vice-president of the Canadian National Railways.

On Monday, representatives of the city council, school board and members of the Cabinet of the Gideons International presented the 1,000,000th youth testament to a pupil of the Kitchener public school, an historic event in the work of the Gideons.

Plane Crashes Between Homes In Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP) — A loose seat belt may have contributed to the fatal crash of a light plane between two homes near the Vancouver airport, the aircraft's owners said today.

The plane, piloted by Nick Schilder, a native of The Netherlands, crashed Monday about three miles from the airport. No one was in either house at the time and damage to the dwellings was light.

The Cessna burned with the pilot inside.

J. L. Michaud, managing director of West Coast Air Services, owner of the plane, said a seat belt may have come loose with the pilot losing control when the plane hit a slip stream.

Jury Excluded While Counsel Argue Admissibility of Certain Evidence in Charge of Arson

Eld Douglas Johansen, 33-year-old Lake township farmer, burn his barn last April 18th to collect fire insurance with which to meet a payment on his farm and to get out of financial difficulties?

This is the question which a Hastings County jury is being asked to decide this week at the General Sessions of the Peace and Jury Sittings. The young Lake township farmer is charged with arson and is being tried before Hastings county Judge J. C. Anderson.

Half a dozen witnesses were called Monday afternoon by Acting Crown Attorney Ralph E. Graham as the case went to trial following a true bill being returned by the grand jury yesterday morning. Johansen is being defended by Malcolm Robb, former Belleville lawyer now practising in Toronto.

At the conclusion of Tuesday afternoon's session with the jury out of the court room, counsel were arguing the admissibility of certain Crown evidence. The usual exclusion of witnesses had earlier been asked by defence counsel Robb.

First Crown witness called was William Hurst, county registrar of deeds, who told the court that part lots five and six in the first concession of Lake township were registered in the accused's name. Records showed that the 20-acre farm had been purchased by Mr. Johansen in June 1951 from Orval R. Althouse. Mr. Althouse held a mortgage for the unpaid balance of the purchase price.

$1675 MORTGAGE ON FARM

As the second witness Mr. Althouse testified he had sold the farm to Mr. Johansen and had accepted a mortgage of $1,675. Annual payments of $200 were to be made. There was a $200 payment due in June of this year.

Under cross examination the witness said the mortgage had several years to run and that the terms of sale held a clause with the provision that no timber was to be cut on the farm without his permission. In April of this year he had assigned the mortgage to a Mr. Fetherick, having received full value for the mortgage.

William Carter, fire insurance inspector for the Gore District Fire Insurance Company, identified an insurance policy showing that the farm buildings on the Johansen farm, together with household contents, had been insured for $3,000. The division of insurance had been $1,500 on the house, $1,000 on the barn and $500 on the household contents. This policy was in force in April 1955, the loss being payable to Mr. Althouse.

Cross examined by Mr. Robb the witness said the amount of insurance on the property had not been increased in the past 15 years.

Noting that the burned barn had been 38 by 56 feet and on a stone foundation with stables beneath Mr. Robb asked if insurance of $1,000 would cover it now. Mr. Carter replied, "yes, if the building was in any condition."

Ontario Provincial Police Corporal William Baluk of Cobourg, identified pictures taken following the fire. The pictures showed the remains of the foundation and farm machinery.

SAW GLOW IN SKY

Clayton Cole, resident of Cordova, said he had seen a glow in the sky north of his home on the evening of April 18th. He had jumped in his car and had driven in the direction of the fire to determine its location.

He said he met Mr. Johansen on the road four or five miles from the fire. Mr. Johansen had been driving his truck.

"I asked him where the fire was and he said he didn't know," the witness said. "I told him it was either his or my brother's place."

He said that Mr. Johansen turned around and went back to the fire. When they arrived the barn was almost burned down.

"What was the weather?" asked Crown counsel Ralph Graham.

"It was cloudy but there was no lightning," was the reply.

During cross examination the court was told that both the barn and machine shed on the Johansen farm had burned.

Final witness of the afternoon was Inspector Roy Simmons of the Ontario Fire Marshal's department. He said he had been directed to make an investigation into the fire at the Johansen farm.

In the company of a provincial police officer he had located Mr. Johansen at the farm of Fred Ellis and had identified himself as an inspector from the fire marshal's department. This was on April 22nd, four days after the fire.

Here the petit jury were taken from the court to allow the court to rule on the admissibility of certain evidence.

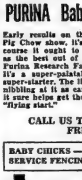
The hearing was scheduled to resume at 10.30 Tuesday morning.

Nine Appeals Against Offers Made by Hydro

MORRISBURG, Ont. (CP)—The St. Lawrence Board of Review Monday opened hearings of nine appeals against payments offered by the Ontario Hydro Electric Commission for property to be flooded by the St. Lawrence seaway.

Mrs. Irene Cross of Aultsville asked a higher settlement because 210 feet of her property was on the riverfront. Hydro offered $22,500 for her property which includes a house, a service station and a cottage. The price includes the 15 per cent paid for inconvenience and forceful taking.

Mrs. Cross' lawyer, R. H. Armstrong, sought $30,000.



In another case, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Castle, Dickenson's Landing, said they were prepared to accept Hydro's original offer of $18,000 for their property. Later they said, the offer was cut to $14,000. In their appeal they are seeking $22,000.

The board, under J. J. Wingfelder, will hear evidence during the week and decide on the nine cases later.

Weddings

O'CONNOR—LALONDE

White chrysanthemums, white stephanotis, carnations and ferns formed a lovely setting in the Church of Our Lady of Perpetual Help, Toronto, on Saturday, September 3rd, at 11 a.m., when the Rev. Patrick Lalonde, brother of the bride, united in marriage Margaret Lalonde, of Toronto, to Dennis James O'Connor of Belleville. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred O. Lalonde, of Toronto, and the bridegroom, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Aylard O'Connor of Belleville.

Mrs. W. Keegan, church organist, provided the traditional wedding music. Given in marriage by her father, Mr. Alfred O. Lalonde, the bride was charming in her bridal gown of white, embroidered marquisette over satin fashioned with fitted bodice with "V" shaped neckline outlined with seed pearls, and long molded sleeves ending in lily-points over the wrists. The graceful folds of the floor-length skirt ended in a chapel train. Her shoulder-length veil of tulle illusion was held by a crescent encrusted with seed pearls, and she carried a bouquet of white orchids.

Miss Gay McDermott of Oakville, as maid of honor, was attired in light blue crystalette in waltz-length, with fitted bodice having a Medici collar, and elbow-length sleeves. She wore a matching floral bandeau and carried a nosegay of blue tinted Shasta daisies, and white stephanotis.

Miss Valerie Dickie of Sudbury, Ontario, as bridesmaid, was attired similarly to the maid of honor, with matching floral bandeau, and carrying a nosegay of like flowers.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Northgate Hotel, Toronto, where the bride's mother, attired in navy blue lace with silver-toned accessories, and corsage of pink roses, received.

The bridegroom's mother, wearing brown crepe with turquoise accessories, and corsage of white gardenias, assisted.

For the wedding trip to Haliburton and New York, the bride donned a bronze colored anemone with black and tan accessories, and corsage of Talisman roses.

World Better Since Women Have Won Vote

OTTAWA (CP) — Despite what some men may think, the world is a better place because of the political and social advances women have made during the last 30 or 40 years.

That was the reply given Monday by Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt to a reporter's question at a press conference.

Before women were allowed to vote, she said, governments reflected entirely the interests of men. Since women were given the franchise, however, the policies of governments had changed.

They were not entirely in the interests of women now, but the influence of the fair sex at the polls had made governments more conscious of such things as welfare of children, social security and social questions generally. This had benefited everyone, not just women.

DANCE YOUR WAY TO BEAUTY

Floating about the room in waltz time is good exercise in itself.

Just another word "exercise" to most women and they shudder. They'll admit it's good for them, admit that it would no doubt improve their figures, but they don't want any part of it. Their reasons? Well, some find exercise periods tiring, others find them boring.

Yet gazercises need not be tired or-berfing. If you tire after your "daily dozen," chances are you're doing them too fast and too briefly or you try to do too many at one time.

Exercises should always be done slowly and rhythmically and you should start with only a few minutes a day. As you find them becoming easier and, simultaneously, begin to enjoy them, you can gradually increase the number of minutes until you work up to an half hour or even longer.

To help you enjoy them, have you tried doing your exercises to music? Waltz music is especially good for putting rhythm and grace into your movements, so put on a record of lilting tunes and let your favorite musical program become a beginning your early stint. Even if you have no set program of exercises, just waiting around the room—to, by yourself—time for the figure. You have to hold your body correctly, of course. Posture should be beautifully erect, but not stiff, and you should hold your arms outward and upward so that there's a definite lift in your mid-section. Waltz around that room to a tune or two and you'll find it such fun you probably won't want to stop.

To add to the pleasure of exercising to music, you gain still greater beauty rewards, take a deck of cards and throw them high in the air so that they will fall well scattered over the floor. Then, to the waltz music, one arm high into the air as you dance around then swoop down to pick up one card at a time. As the one arm goes down for the lifting process, the other one will go up in back of you and you should feel the pull in your midsection which is so necessary for waist-slimming. But remember to this s-l-o-w-l-y and do not bend the knee as you pick up the card. Do a few waltz steps between pick-ups and make a game of it. A little more difficult, but just as much fun, is to throw a handful of confetti into the air and pick up the pieces in the same way. In the beginning you may not be able to pick up all of the 52 cards or the whole handful of confetti without tiring a little, but you will in time. And you'll also, in time, have the trimmest waistline in the neighborhood.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

IF YOU CAN'T FORGET, DON'T MARRY THIS GIRL

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I go steady with a girl I have known and admired for the past two years. She was 16 when I first knew her.

While I was away on vacation, she met, and thought she fell strongly in love with, a boy who was planning to enter the service. She told me of her love for this boy; then, a few months later, she told me he had dropped her.

Shortly afterward we began dating again, and I realized my love had never died. But although she told me that she cared a lot for me, she also said she did not want me to get serious about her. She said I would only get hurt, and whenever I told her I loved her, she cried. I couldn't understand why, and she wouldn't tell me. She said it was her problem, and hers alone.

I kept on seeing her until I finally convinced her of my love for her, and we were very happy until the other night, when she told me that she could no longer keep it a secret from me that she had an affair with the other boy.

This hurt me more than anything in my life. I had offered her everything in my power, which unfortunately, consisted only of my love and myself, and after she told me about this affair I held no value on my love. It seemed useless to offer her my love when she had already given it to someone else in love by another. In comparison with that, it seems as though my love would be of little importance to her. She denies this, and says my love is greater for me than the other boy's ever did.

Can I forgive and forget? How can I erase this from my mind as well as hers? What will her attitude be after we are married? Will we go through life with a cloud of shame hanging over us, or can we forget it ever happened? I love this girl more than itself, and I know that if we could forget this, we could once more be happy.

Please give me your opinion on this problem. — R.S.

Dear R.S.,

Well, if you can't forgive and forget; if you were to marry and find yourself going through life with a cloud of shame hanging over you; then what does this great love of yours amount to anyway? Nothing, I would say. I wouldn't put any value on it either.

Naturally, it is understandable that you are concerned over what this girl told you. And I do not for one moment minimize the sadness of an incident of this kind. But aren't you mature enough, and big enough, to realize that some people make one kind of mistake, and others make other mistakes, and that no human being can say that one kind is forgivable and the other is not? Can't you realize, either, that everything you have said about the girl indicates that she is bitterly sorry for having made her mistake, and that if she tells you she cares far more for you than she ever did for the other man, she is very likely to be speaking the entire truth?

As I figure it, this girl is no more than 18 years old right now, and was considerably younger when this thing occurred. You don't say how old you are, but whatever your years may be, I think you need to grow up a little. Don't you really understand that a young girl and a boy might, on the impulse of an emotional moment, lose their self control and be carried away by their feelings? I am not making excuses for this sort of conduct nor condoning it. But I think that maturity can understand, even where it cannot excuse or condone.

Whether or not you love this girl

Casual Christmas Season Party

By Mary Moore

Mabel S. laid on the perfect after-the-football game party. Because she and her husband Graham seemed to do it all so effortlessly I felt that the hostess-minded girls in this audience would appreciate a description.

Christmas parties are in full swing. We all know we can serve turkey and that if we do it nicely enough it will be welcome. But you don't have to go to that all-out expense as Mabel's menu proves.

The highlights of Mabel's menu:

Cocktail Sausage Rolls
(See below)
Wafer-thin Slices Homecooked Ham (See below)
Thin Buttered Rye Bread
Celery Plies of large ripe Olives
Cheese and Cracker Tray Coffee

The fun part of this collation was making your own ham sandwiches from those piles of thin slices of perfectly cooked ham.

When Mabel bought the ham her butcher offered: "When you have it cooked and cold bring it back here and I'll run it through my slicing machine." Knowing a good thing when she heard it Mabel did just that.

HOMECOOKED TENDERIZED HAM

To serve eighteen invited guests Mabel bought a tenderized boneless ham weighing nearly 6 lbs., and costing nearly $5.00. She put it on to cook nearly covered with cold water, put on lid, and when it came to the boil reduced the heat to "simmer", occasionally turning it up to "low" when the movement subsided too much. She cooked it for 2 3-4 hours, and then let it stand in the stock to cool in a cool place overnight. In the morning she drained it well and took it back to the butcher where he put it through the slicing machine and produced 48 thin slices.

These were generously served on a platter and guests did their part when invited to make their own sandwiches. They did not have to be coaxed.

COCKTAIL SAUSAGE ROLLS
(Thirty-two)

Sixteen tiny cocktail sausages (canned are good but if not available simmer raw ones in hot water 15 minutes, then chill). With sharp knife cut in halves lengthwise and marinate (soak) in mixture of 1-3 cup bottled cocktail sauce and 2 tablespoons prepared mustard. Roll out thinly or tender pastry to 1-8 inch thickness. Cut out two exact rounds using 8-inch pie plate as guide. Carefully cut in halves, then in quarters, then eights and sixteenths, until you have 32 wedge-shaped pieces of pastry in all. Drain the soaked sausage pieces, place 1 piece crosswise at base of pastry strip and roll up from the widest end to the point, sealing point by touching with cold water. Do all rolls in this way. Brush with melted butter. Chill. When needed bake at 425 deg. Fahr. about 10 minutes. Serve hot. Very popular.

A large bowl of big ripe olives gives elegance to your table. Those lovely coffee curates on stand over handle do likewise. Be sure coffee is plentiful and cream is rich.

PROBLEM: WHERE TO PLACE THE SILVER TEA SET

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

What is the proper place in a home for a silver tea set? —M.S.

Today this can be quite a problem! And the answer to the problem depends on: (1) available space; (2) available service; and (3) on whether or not the hostess of the home wishes to have the set on display. When the house has a "real" dining room and there is a side-board in the dining room, and the possibility of keeping the tea set brightly polished, it is usually kept on the sideboard. Or, not to be displayed, it may be kept in a lower compartment of the sideboard or serving-table, or even on a tea-cart or other type of tea-table.

Today, when dining space is so often limited to a dining area or alcove, rather than a dining-room, the tea set most often cannot be on display but must be kept wherever is convenient, in a pantry or closet or cupboard or chest, perhaps one especially designed to hold serving pieces.

PLACE CARDS FOR LARGE REUNION DINNER

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

This is the first year my husband and I have had a "real" home—in his business, he has been transferred to various cities where we have had to live, but now that he's retired we have come here to live in his family homestead. So this year, with space enough, we have made plans for a large reunion on Thanksgiving Day for the member of our two families, some intimate friends. It will, of course, be an informal dinner. However, would it be proper for me to use place cards? I think they would be very convenient, for then I could make definite seating - arrangements beforehand, place the cards, and not have to remember the seating. — A.M.

Even if the dinner is to be informal, I enthusiastically approve of your using place cards . . . proper, practical, extremely convenient. To point up the informality of the place cards, I suggest you use Thanksgiving greeting - cards as place cards (for the guests to take with them as souvenirs of the day's festivities and happy reunion). All kinds cards may be alive (Thanksgiving cards have never been so attractive and artistic as this year), or each card lovingly chosen as particularly appropriate, in devotion and sentiment, to the one at whose place it is to be used. Or perhaps a "do - it - yourself" friend or member of the household will paint or sketch place cards with simple Thanksgiving motif, and another might letter - in the greeting. Very personal . . . a very festive! On these informal cards of course write the informal names (not "Mr." or "Mrs." or "Miss"); for example, "Aunt Margaret"; "Uncle Arthur"; "Grandmother" or "nanna" or "Grandmother Fuller" if more than one grandmother is to be present; "Cousin Sue" or "Sue," "Sallie," "Tommy," and so on for all the reunion guests.

POLIO PRECAUTION

WELLS, Me. (AP) — School officials today announced the closing of schools in Wells and Ogunquit until further notice, as a polio precaution. Four pupils have been taken to hospital with the disease in the last 11 days.

EVEN under normal walking conditions, your toddler probably takes lots of tumbles. So, when your floors have just been waxed, better make his shoes temporarily skid-proof. Two strips of adhesive tape in an X across the sole should save some spills.

Long, Gruelling Cold War Battle Now Shaping Up

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst

Amid efforts of both sides to keep the Geneva spirit breathing, a crucial cold war battle is shaping up.

It is a propaganda battle to be fought with political, economic and cultural weapons—a long, gruelling conflict for supremacy between two ways of life.

A reconstituted Communist International (Comintern) will wage the fight for the Soviet Union. The Comintern program is based on the premise of a military and diplomatic standoff between the two power blocs. The end of the Geneva conference is complete failure was the signal for the Red campaign to get up steam.

All this seems clear from recent statements of Soviet and satellite propaganda outlets. The campaign appears to have three major facets:

1. A drive to increase Communist influence in all so-called colonial and backward areas.

2. A stepped-up drive among the working classes in all countries.

3. A long-term campaign to unite that Communists must gather their strength.

WILL WOO SOCIALISTS

2. A drive for "unity of the left." The Communists in countries like France, Germany and Japan will attempt to woo the far-left elements of socialist parties into a united front to increase Communist power and influence in the parliaments.

Pravda, the Communist party newspaper in Moscow, underscored this program in its review of prospects of communism at the time of the recent celebration of the Russian revolution anniversary. The article was significant for further in statements elsewhere, particularly in France, whose Red party is a bellwether for Western Communists.

While it is "peace partisan" movement will be stepped up to demand revision of the "Our century is the century of the victorious march of communism."

Pravda told the Communists this meant continued "strengthening of the might of the Soviet Union and its defence capacities and training of Soviet people in a spirit of vigilance toward the machinations of the enemies of peace." The article directed Communists elsewhere to "quicken the pace of the national liberation movement in the colonies and the activization of the struggle of the working class for its rights in capitalist countries."

Pope Saw Vision Of Jesus Christ During Illness

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The Vatican has announced today that the Pope saw a vision of Jesus Christ during the most critical moments of his grave illness last winter.

The recovery of the desperately ill pontiff began soon after.

The announcement was made by Lucian Cardinal Cicognani, chief of the Vatican press office, upon authorization of the papal secretariat of state. The secretariat normally would make such statement only with the personal authorization of the Pope.

Cicognani told newspapermen that they could state that "responsible Vatican circles" confirm the report of an article published last week in Oggi (Today), the largest Italian weekly magazine.

Oggi said that on Dec. 2, 1954, when the ailing Pope's illness reached a stage of crisis, he began reciting the PRAYER "Anima Christi" (Soul of Christ), and

WAS FULLY AWAKE

When he came to the invocation "In hora mea suscita me" (In the hour of my death, call me), the Pope saw "the sweet person of Jesus Christ at his bedside," said the magazine.

The article said: "The Holy Father is perfectly sure he saw Jesus—it was no dream: In that moment he was fully awake and fully grounded.

"On the following day, when it seemed there were no hopes left, when the world's newspapers already had in their columns the forecasts of a forthcoming grave catastrophe, the ailing Pope started to feel better, and began in den manner that many people considered it a miracle."

The magazine said that often during his recovery the Pope repeated the prayer "Anima Christi."

Farm Forum

SIXTH SIDNEY — Four forums report recent meetings in Brookfield, Foxboro, Melrose and River Valley. If others meet please send in report on time; it should reach your publicity reporter by Friday at the latest.

All forums agreed that our local municipal government is doing an adequate job.

Reasons: The more personal contact tends to greater efficiency. Repair work can be done loeelly, but as soon as needed, hence less cost and less inconvenience.

Foxboro says: "If the local people are not capable of handling their own affairs how then will they be capable of electing suitable representatives to provincial and federal governments?"

Everyone owes something to his community. The ideal can be much more closely approached in local government. It would be wrong to strip local government of its effective functions by providing services. Who knows the township as well as the people living there?

River Valley says: "There is more dissatisfaction with school areas than with individual boards. The school area loses contact with school matters and the cost is exorbitant in excess to the proportion of benefits derived."

In the county, with larger governing body, less interest seems to be shown in county affairs by the electors, especially county roads.

One forum suggests that rather than do without our township should would pass up the county council.

Charles Clay Talks to H-S Assoc. on Reading Good Books

DESERONTO — The regular meeting of the Deseronto Home and School Association was held in the public school, Thursday evening. Routine business was conducted and pupils from grades 7 and 8, under the direction of Mrs. I. McCavish, music teacher, sang three songs.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. T. McCullough introduced the guest speaker, Mr. Charles Clay of Napanee.

Mr. Clay is a well known author and lecturer, by his weekly broadcasts of "Teen-Age Book Club."

Mr. Clay took his university course in Winnipeg, reporting for the Winnipeg Free Press, later becoming its literary editor, but, perhaps, Mr. Clay is best known for his book, "Long Live the Queen."

As this is Young Canada Book Week, Mr. Clay discussed the reading habits of Canadians and suggested creating interest in books, rather than censoring and discussing bad ones.

DRAMA IN LITERATURE

Mr. Clay told of drama in literature and how excitement, humor and adventure could be included in reading good books.

To exemplify his statement, Mr. Clay read an excerpt from "Pendod," which dramatized a beautiful reading, not forgetting poetry, "The Cremation of Sam McGee," and Irish story, "Barney Pease," provided what Mr. Clay classed as a cameo on the list.

Patience, persistent publication and a missionary spirit of reading and talking good books is the best way to overcome the menace of poor and malicious literature, Mr. Clay concluded.

Mr. D. Hannah, principal of the public school, thanked the speaker for his interesting and educational talk.

Mrs. Sexsmith, who is a member of the Deseronto Library Board, showed a fine selection of books for all ages, from pre-school, to high school, and encouraged members to take advantage of the fine selection of books available in the public library.

Mrs. C. Cole, president of the Home and School, thanked Mrs. Sexsmith for her contribution to "Young Canada Book Week." Refreshments were served by the social committee.

NATO TRAINING SCHOOLS

This map shows a network of training schools from Ontario to Alberta in Canada's NATO air training program, teaching young airmen from many lands to fly fighters and bombers. Students from France, Belgium, Turkey, Greece, Italy, Portugal, The Netherlands, Denmark, Norway and the United Kingdom participate in the scheme. The prairies are suited for training mainly because they are flat and sparsely populated. (CP from National Defence.)

Each NATO-Trained Pilot Represents $65,000 Invested

By RICHARD ANCO
Canadian Press Staff Writer

PORTAGE LA PRAIRIE, Man. (CP)—Young airmen from many lands are going through a strange and fascinating apprenticeship in Canada.

An English construction worker, a student from France, a farm hand from The Netherlands, an army officer from Norway—these are some of the men now learning to fly fighters and bombers in a network of training schools from Ontario to Alberta in Canada's NATO air training program.

After 13 months' training they all be ready to return home as qualified jet fighter pilots and navigators—each a $65,000 investment for Canada—to take their places in NATO's hemispheric defence buildup.

STARTED IN 1950

Canada's training is an outgrowth of the formation of the North Atlantic defence pact in 1948. It began assembly-line production in 1950 and since then has graduated some 3,500 aircrew. Now it is handing out wings to about 1,300 students a year.

Students from France, Belgium, Turkey, Greece, Italy, Portugal, The Netherlands, Denmark, Norway and the United Kingdom have participated in the scheme.

Before their training is ended some will have mastered a complex machine that costs $200,000 and flies up to 580 miles an hour—the T-33 Silver Star jet trainer. But the students are also forming part of a new country and the people they are meeting in and out of courses.

"These boys, in a weird and wonderful age, are going through weird and wonderful experiences," an RCAF official said, "and the end effect is that they come out one."

The Canadian Prairie is suited for training mainly because it is flat and sparsely-populated. Its variable weather is ideal for all-weather training. Militarily, too, its geographical position makes it less vulnerable to attack than European centre.

An advantage was the fact that Canada had the air fields, the used in the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan during the Second World War. When they were given some minor repairs this country was easily able to adapt itself to the job of international "trainer."

Centralia, London and Trenton in Ontario were brought into the plan. In the West, air fields at Gimli, Portage la Prairie and Macdonald in Manitoba, Saskatoon and Moose Jaw in Saskatchewan, and Penhold and Claresholm in Alberta, were put back into full-time use. The navigation training school is at Winnipeg.

But there were problems. Training which involved different nationalities presented the initial difficulty—language.

So orientate students to the country a pre-flight school was started at London, Ont., to teach English, air force history and Canadian customs. Graduation usually comes within three weeks but depends on individual capacity.

From Centralia, Claresholm, Moose Jaw and Centralia the student is given basic ground and flying instruction. Normally, as in the past, he would take his first flying in a Harvard. But this quick jump from ground training to flying in the complicated Harvard is now under revision by air training officials.

A new flying period is being added to the course. Students are getting early instruction on the light, single-engine Chipmunk—a training plane that compares somewhat with the war-time slow-pace flying in a Tiger Moth. The reason, an RCAF officer explained is to give students more instructor and flying confidence before they take off in the speedy Harvard.

FLYING TIME CUT

They now solo in a Chipmunk after about 10 hours flying time and in a Harvard in six to 10 hours. In the past, dual training in a Harvard alone took about 25 flying hours.

A normal course at these early training schools is spread over 36 weeks. From them the flier goes to advanced training schools at Gimli, Portage la Prairie and Saskatoon. At Saskatoon they fly twin-engine aircraft; at the other two they take up jets. Pilots usually solo in the jets after five hours' instruction.

After advanced training they go to—nearby Macdonald for a five-week introduction to aerial combat. They fire film-loaded guns from jets at target drogues towed by other planes. Air-to-ground gunnery is done with explosive live rockets. Some of these rocket targets are floated on Lake Winnipeg.

RAF students, who are in the NATO plan under a separate agreement between the United Kingdom and Canada, bypass the Macdonald course and are sent back home for gunnery practice.

RCAF graduates are split up, some going to school at Trenton, Ont., to become instructors, and the others to Macdonald for gunnery. From Macdonald the fliers are sent either to Cold Lake, Alta., to take up CF-100 jet operations for Canadian defence, or to Chatham, N.B., for Sabre jet training and later transportation to NATO bases overseas.

Report TTC Head Office Sold To Brewery Firm

TORONTO (CP)—The Star says O'Keefe's Brewing Company has purchases the old offices of the Toronto Transit Commission at the downtown intersection of Yonge and Front streets as a site for the proposed, Toronto civic centre.

M. J. Kelley, president of the firm, said his firm has purchased a site, but did not disclose its location or the price.

Mr. Kelley announced last January his firm would build a $12,000,000 civic auditorium as soon as a suitable site was found.

Ownership of the centre, to include an auditorium, display and meeting rooms, would be vested in a non-profit foundation and managed by a board of trustees, he said.

Plane Sets Record

TORONTO (CP)—A Trans-Canada Air Lines Viscount passenger plane Mon. flew from Winnipeg to Toronto in 2½ hours, setting a record time for the flight, the airline said today.

The flight normally takes 3½ hours, TCA said the turbo-propeller-driven plane, flown by Captain G. C. McCready, was helped by strong tail winds. There were 20 passengers on board.

AIR STEWARDESS

TOLD OF ROMANCE

Miriam K. Garland, the dead girl's roommate and the second stewardess aboard the plane when the shooting occurred, told police of Miss Shedd's tempestuous romance with Clendenin.

She told how they met in New York last September, of Miss Shedd's subsequent attempts to break off the romance, and the slain stewardess' fear of Clendenin.

Miss Garland said that last Monday the victim met Clendenin in Chicago and told him they definitely were through. The next day, Miss Garland continued, Clendenin showed Miss Shedd the same .38 calibre revolver with which he was to kill her six days later.

FOUND LETTERS

Officers found two unfinished love letters in Clendenin's briefcase, tucked in a book which had nestled against the revolver which claimed the pretty stewardess' life.

Addressed to "Dear Sally," they said, in part:

"You are probably right that I am not the right man for you. Please try to understand. I love you."

Ironically, Clendenin's unmailed plea for the love of the girl he killed was sandwiched between the pages of a book entitled:

"How to Sell Yourself to Others."

Channel Port Of Le Havre Again Thriving

LE HAVRE, France (Reuters)—This Channel port, which was almost completely destroyed during the war, now is becoming one of the most modern ports in Europe. But two threats mar the picture.

Both are economic. The first is lack of people to live in its ultra-modern blocks of apartments which are a model of town planning.

The second is a threat by British railways to give up their Southampton-Le Havre ferry which brings 83,000 passengers a year through the port.

Le Havre has become a busy trans-Atlantic port only 10 years after a committee of experts had expressed doubts about the possibility of rebuilding it.

The port, over 400 years old, was heavily bombed by Allied air forces during the war when it was a German submarine base. Later, the retreating Germans exploded one-ton land mines along every 20 yards of its docks.

Reconstruction of the port was largely due to the port director Pierre Callet, a small, alert man, who devoted himself to the renaissance of Le Havre.

Under his leadership, the port has tripled its pre-war freight traffic and doubled its passenger traffic. The passage through the port of its one millionth post-war transatlantic passenger was recorded this year.

The port, linked by pipeline to oil refineries in the interior, handled 10,215,312 tons of fuel oil last year.

The city itself was rebuilt from rubble by a team of architects headed by Auguste Perret. Blocks of apartment buildings 14 storeys high, set well apart to give maximum sunlight for lower buildings, line spacious boulevards.

But many apartments are unoccupied. Inhabitants who left after the war have started now lives in other towns and show no inclination to return.

OIL THE WHEELS OF PROGRESS

In a thousand ways, the money you have on deposit at the B of M is working for you and for Canada . . . creating new opportunities for Canadian enterprise and new jobs for Canadians in every calling.

Yes, in all fields of Canadian endeavour, your savings are helping finance projects large and small . . . supplying much of the money necessary for growth and expansion of our industry and commerce.

Let's take a look at the facts behind the figures in the B of M's annual report for 1955, and see how your money — in the form of loans and investments — oils the wheels of progress:

THE MONEY YOU DEPOSIT

At the end of the Bank's year, October 31, 1955, over two million Canadians had on deposit at the B of M the sum of $2,591,326,311 — the highest year-end total on record. Although much of this money belongs to institutions and business firms, more than half of these deposits represent the personal savings of Canadians in every walk of life . . . savings that are bringing benefits to you and to Canada.

THE MONEY WE LEND

The money you save at the B of M is helping to ensure our country's expansion and progress — in the form of loans to Canadian farmers, miners, fishermen, oil men, lumbermen and ranchers; to industrial and business enterprises; to Provincial and Municipal Governments; and to salaried people in all walks of life. As of October 31, B of M loans totalled $1,037,444,001—the highest in the Bank's history. In untold ways, these dollars are contributing dynamically to the maintenance and improvement of our standard of living.

THE MONEY WE INVEST

At the close of the year, the B of M had $975,361,319 invested in high-grade government bonds and other public securities which have a ready market. This money is helping to finance government projects for the betterment of the country and the welfare of Canadians at large. Other securities held by the Bank — which includes a diversified list of high-quality short-term industrial issues — bring total investments to $1,214,559,875.

The message these figures express is a confident and encouraging one. Actually, it is your message . . . for it is made possible by your savings.

Red Wings Show Signs Of Loop Climbing; Canadiens Roll Serenely Along

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

DUNLOPS TONIGHT

Boasting the hickest scoring aggregation in the senior "B" group, the Whitby Dunlops with seven victories and one loss under their belts, will be the guests of the TPT's at Memorial Arena tonight.

The Dunnies have piled up an enviable goal record, having hit the hemp 67 times as against 23 scored against them. Since they have won seven, lost one, and tied one, that's an average of seven goals per tussle, not bad in any man's loop. But it must be remembered they whomped our side 10-1 and clipped the Cornwall Colts 13-0, accounting for 23 of the counters in two outings.

That the Dunlops boast a powerful aggregation of high-flying, high-scoring front lines and tough hard-hitting defencemen, plus one of the better goalies in the league, goes without saying. Maestro Wren Blair is a good picker and as he says: "The rest of the group had the chance to get top-flight players the same as I. If they didn't cut 'em that's their fault."

But the Dunnies are not invincible. The Brockville Maroonmen proved that. They can be beaten and if the TPT's come up with the same brand of two-way hockey that featured their last outing against the Cornwall Colts, don't be surprised to see our side come out on top. In any event it should be one of the speediest frays seen in Walt Gerow's igloo this season. Game at 8.30.

REFEREE'S JOB!

So you want to be a National Hockey League referee? A referee's job in any category of hockey is as thankless as that of a landlord or a tax collector, but a big time arbitrer's job has its rare moments.

"Red" Storey, National League whistle-toter, in a piece in the current "Blueline" magazine, a right, neat hockey pictoria says it's a lonely trail but he loves it. The hours are good and so is the money—but that is not all.

There is none of this friendly camaraderie stuff between players and officials off the ice, says Red. "I have to travel the loneliest trail in sport. From October to May I'm a loner. I live out of a suitcase. I eat in restaurants that hockey players don't frequent and sit by myself as players and trainer Players you know as good guys walk by and nod. On the road my best friend is a good book."

Exciting moments? "I've been jabbed by hat pins that look like swords, by irate females who don't care if you bleed to death," says "Red." "I've had apples, tomatoes, hats, rubbers, peanuts, coins and programs thrown at me. In Chicago one night a fan actually threw a live baby octopus at me."

But, "Red" went on, "I love it. I wouldn't hesitate to recommend it to a boy who has the talent. You make friends and these friends can help you. Business opportunities blossom from the job. There is nothing degrading about being a N.H.L. referee.

And there's laughs, too. Red recalls the night in Montreal a fan heaved a five-pound bag of split peas at him. It missed and the contents splattered all over the ice surface. Turning, he saw the Butch Bouchard was going to join under a full head of steam. "Not one word from you," Red screamed. "He deserved the penalty."

"Quite so," said Butch, "but I just wanted to tell you. Red, that if you can get that guy who threw the peas mad enough to toss out some bacon, I'll make you the best French pea soup you ever tasted."

But, officiating in any sport is tough, admits Storey, who does a spot of whistle-tooting during the football season. He says there is no comparison between the two games. Hockey is much harder to handle. Players are rougher and give you back talk.

"I can't ever visualize Richard helping Labine up after body-checking him. But I see it in every football game," says Red. "In football if a player gives you a little back talk you mark off ten yards; you can't do that in hockey. You have to take it until he starts to use brotherly." (OHA referees please note.)

Storey thinks Ted Lindsay is the sharpest guy "with the needle" in the NHL. He recalls a night in Detroit when the linesman called an offside and Ted didn't like it, and called the linesman everything. "Break it up, Lindsay," I yelled, "you can't talk to those fellows like that. They aren't dogs, you know."

"Dogs," he screamed. "They aren't dogs. They need dogs."

Storey thinks Bouchard is one of the funniest players in the league, always coming up with snappy remarks. On night the Canadien skated over and pointed to his sweater, "Woman threw whisky on me," he said. Storey could not hear him. Bouchard repeated, "Woman throw whisky on me." Again Red cupped his ear.

"Well," grinned the big Habitant, thrusting his sweater under the official nose, "if you can't hear me, smell me."

Storey was quite a baseball and football player in his younger days. He recalled turning out with the Philadelphia Athletics with a youngster named Phil Marchildon. Phil did all right. Red went back to junior hockey. His biggest day in football came when he scored three touchdowns for the Argonauts to win the Grey Cup.

Lou Hayman was coaching the Argos when Storey reported to camp. Hayman was tough and Storey was scared of him. Shortly after a run-in with Hayman, a big fullback told Sjoerg there was a fellow in the showers who had been causing a little trouble amongst the players. "He's a smart Alec, if you know what I mean," grinned the back.

Storey nodded in agreement. "Take that bucket of cold water and throw it over the top of the shower. The fellas will really like you after that," said the back.

"Well, I did it," recalls Storey. "I tossed the bucket over and in seconds the dressing room was a bedlam. It was a little tough to explain to the guy. Especially since it was Hayman."

Gordie Howe Sparks Detroit In Belated Feather Flutter Habs Out in Front by Eight

MONTREAL (CP) — It's beginning to appear certain that as Howe goes, so go the Red Wings. Big Gordie was in a class by himself last week among the National Hockey League's leading point-getters with four goals and one assist.

Coincident with this five-point production by the Detroit right-winger, the Red Wings are threatening to climb over several clubs in the league standing.

It has been a matter of general surprise that the Red Wings have been in or just out of last place so far this season. Currently they are still in fifth place but they are only one point out of third and three points away from second. A week ago the same margins were two points and five.

Montreal Canadiens are still riding along serenely at the top of the standing with 28 points, eight more than the second-place New York Rangers and 10 more than Boston Bruins and Chicago Black Hawks.

CANADIENS ESCAPED

All clubs played three games last week and only Montreal and Detroit came out on top. The Habs had two wins and a tie and the Wings one win and two ties. Chicago Black Hawks and Toronto Maple Leafs each had a win, a loss and a tie.

—Howe's sudden scoring splurge boosted his league total to third place in the official NHL records released today and was accompanied by a similar production by his mates, Earl Reibel, who was far down in a fifth place tie, scored a goal and contributed three assists. Al Dewsbury was in a third-place tie. Ted Lindsay went from ninth to sixth on one goal and two assists and Alex Delvecchio, who has a goal and an assist, eased from seventh into a fifth place tie.

Montreal's Jean Beliveau is still setting the scoring pace with 24 points although he didn't win a mediocre week with one goal and one assist. Teammate Bert Olmstead collected two assists and is still runner-up, with 22 points.

Dave Creighton of Rangers slid down to fifth place, Howe moving into a tie for second. Gus Mortson of Montreal into fourth, a spot he had to share a week ago with Ron Murphy of Rangers.

Jacques Plante of Montreal is still the top goalie with a fine goals-against average of only 1.50. He has been scored on 30 times in 20 games.

Habs Best Club Of All Time Suggests Muzz

NEW YORK (CP)—One of Muzz Patrick's favorite subjects these days is Montreal Canadiens and each time he discusses the National Hockey League leaders he gets a bit more enthusiastic.

Several weeks ago New York Rangers general manager said the current edition of the Canadiens was the best team in hockey today.

Now he's suggesting the flying Frenchmen of this year could become the best club the NHL has ever seen.

There's no doubt of his sincerity, of course, but his remarks may also be associated with the fact that his own Rangers, holding down second place, because he made his comment after the New Yorkers had held the Canadiens to a 1-1 tie here Sunday night.

The point is that if the Rangers can hold Montreal to a draw, even occasionally, then they're a pretty fair team themselves.

ONLY BY DETROIT

Patrick said that if today's Canadiens aren't the greatest team in hockey history, then only Detroit Red Wings could have designs on that match them.

"If any it's a toss up between the two clubs. Certainly this is the greatest club Montreal has ever had. I saw the old Canadiens with Howie Morenz and Aurel Joliat play many times.

"There's no comparing that team with this one. This Montreal outfit is many, many times better. It could develop into the best in NHL history. The chances are they'll get stronger with age. You've got to have some real breaks to beat them. They should be favored in the morning line every time, even on the road.

Patrick said the Montreal power play—Maurice Richard, Jean Beliveau and Bert Olmstead up front and Doug Harvey on the points—is the mightiest such combination ever.

Bootleg Tickets Appear in Blocks In Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Herald says blocks of "bootleg" Grey Cup tickets are appearing here and quotes Canadian Rugby Union secretary Harry McBrien as saying the CRU is powerless to stop the tickets being circulated.

The Herald says the tickets are coming into possession of ex-servicemen who are using them in "give-away" promotions.

The newspaper says it was told by an unidentified clothier that he had been offered a block of tickets from an eastern Big Four club at a cost of $5 a ticket more than the legitimate $7.50 price. He turned down the offer.

"The wrong people are obviously getting tickets," said McBrien. The CRU, he said, has been told of "unethical sales" of tickets but facts have never been supplied. "If we could find facts, such as names, we'd attack the problem. But we just haven't got a clue."

DEFENDS METHOD

He defended the CRU's method of distribution of tickets to the annual football classic and said ticket-scalping and other means of "getting the public" was regarded as something of a "necessary evil" at Grey Cup time.

"People have always had faced the same problem for years with result that fans who supported football throughout the season sometimes were out of luck for Grey Cup games.

The CRU allocates tickets to each senior football league in Canada. The tickets are then distributed among member clubs.

Manila Fighter Beats Mexican

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP)—Getting off the floor in the second round, Star Carlos Manila lightweight, came back to outpoint Mexico's Jorge Macias Monday night in a 10-round bout at Civic Auditorium. Gony weighed 138, Macias 141.

Macias was substituting for Ralph Dupas of New Orleans, third-ranked lightweight contender. Dupas withdrew from the fight Monday, claiming he had a sore back.

Macias dropped Gony with a sharp right hand for a five count early in the second round. But Gony came back to take command the rest of the match.

"The coach says if Cyril hadn't blocked that kick we'd have lost the game by a worse score than 73 to 91"

Laufman Sets Sizzling Pace In Senior Race

TORONTO (CP)—Ken Laufman of Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen is setting a sizzling pace in the scoring race of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A League, statistics released today showed.

The centreman, who in the last six games has scored eight goals and set up another 11, now is in first place in 12 goals and 15 assists for 27 points.

Four points behind, tied with 23 each are Billy Flick and Mickey Roth of Stratford Indians. Flick has 10 goals and 13 assists while Roth has counted six times and assisted on 17 others.

Laufman's goal production is tops for the league and Roth is the leading playmaker.

Bruce Dale of Windsor Bulldogs heads the goaltending race with a 3.22 average. He has allowed 29 goals to get by him in nine games.

In Ontario Junior A League, Frank Mahovlich of Toronto St. Michael's Majors holds a three-point edge over the other scorers in the league.

Mahovlich has seven goals and 15 assists for 22 points in 11 games. Teammate Pat Hanigan is three points behind, tied with Bob Forhan of Guelph Biltmores for second place. Hanigan has fired 14 goals and assisted on five more. Forhan's 19 point haul is made up of nine goals and 10 assists.

The goalkeepers' records look confused. There are seven teams in the league but 14 goaltenders have taken part in games so far this season.

Doug Sauer of St. Michael's, who has played three games, the last two being shutout wins, has been in the nets twice. His average is .667 go-is-against.

Peahead Ponders Playoffs Wacky Says Walker Should Be Alike in East, West

By W. R. WHEATLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—There ought to be a law or something, in the opinion of coach Douglas (Peahead) Walker, about this playoff business just before the Grey Cup game.

Here he has just pulled his Montreal Alouettes through to the eastern Canada football championship—toughest game of the season in that narrow squeak over Toronto Argonauts Saturday while Edmonton Eskimos have been resting since last Wednesday.

"There should be simultaneous playoff days in the East and West," said Walker, half commuting with himself while pondering the seriousness or otherwise of injuries in five of his players.

"Those three days can make a big difference in getting a team ready. It certainly makes a difference in giving players a chance to recover from injuries. Edmonton has had those extra days. We haven't."

SHOULD BE FIXED

Walker said he thought playoff dates in both the Western League and the Big Four should be fixed to coincide so that the champions of each section go into the Grey Cup game on an equal amount of rest.

Along the same lines, he said he thought the Big Four should return to the system of home-and-home playoffs which was made this year. Instead of the first and second-place teams playing home and home games in declaring the champion, the teams finishing second and third in a total-point death game and the winner met the first-place club in another sudden-death affair. The first-place team, meanwhile, has to wait two weeks from the end of the regular schedule until the all-important final.

Walker would make no prediction about the outcome of the Grey Cup game in Vancouver next Saturday when the Als meet the Eskimos. However he did indicate whether the injuries that befell his players in Saturday's game might have any bearing on the lineup against Edmonton. It may take until Saturday to decide that point.

Two of the injured players—Jacques Belec and Johnny Blaichner—are full backs, although Blaicher also works at flying wing. Belec suffered a sprained shoulder and Blaicher a groin injury.

Halfback J. C. Caroline is limping about on a sprained ankle and end Hal Patterson, who also plays defensive half, came out of Sunday's battle with a badly bruised side. Tackle Jim Staten injured his elbow.

The team holds its first drill today in practice setting out by plane for Vancouver. Scheduled takeoff for the chartered flight is 7 a.m. EST, Wednesday from Dorval airport. Only one stop is scheduled—at Winnipeg.

The Alouette 45 - piece band, ready to take a big part in the colorful Grey Cup parade and pre-game show at Empire Stadium, is scheduled to take off in another chartered flight at 1 a.m., EST, Thursday.

Mayor Jean Drapeau of Montreal is expected to fly to the coast with the band. The western exodus of Montreal fans is getting under way, by train and plane. At the Alouette office yesterday it was said that the 1,200 fans have taken up the "category A" option.

They are season ticket-holders who have declared positively they are going, have paid deposits on their tickets and will pick them up in Vancouver. Fans in "Category B," who get second choice on Grey Cup game seats, are season ticket-holders who want tickets for friends and relatives.

National League Could Weaken Argos Club

TORONTO (CP)—The Globe and Mail says Maple Leaf Football League resentment toward the Toronto Big Four club may be generating a "break up the monopoly" campaign.

"Whether by intent or otherwise, NFL teams have instigated a movement which could, if successful, weaken Argos in 1956," the newspaper says.

It says six Toronto players have been courted by NFL clubs:

Dick Shatto, by Los Angeles Rams and New York Giants;

Al Pfeifer, by New York Giants and Green Bay Packers;

Bucky Curtis, by Cleveland Browns;

Tom Dublinski, by Detroit Lions;

Bill Albright and Billy Shipp, by New York Giants.

"Because of the considerate treatment given the players by Argo team director Harry Sonshine," The Globe and Mail says, "none of the players is expected to shed his Double Blue work clothes.

"That doesn't mean the American professional teams won't pursue their selective thoughtfully until training time arrives in another eight months."

Three Tons of Eskimo Meat Behind Western Bid for Cup

By JIM PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

EDMONTON (CP) — Montreal Alouettes may see a lot of new faces when they hit the Edmonton Eskimo line in the Grey Cup football final at Vancouver's Empire Stadium Saturday. But there won't be much change in the backfield personnel.

The defending - champion Eskimos have 10 new men among the 31 linemen they can draw from for the 1955 classic. Four newcomers have been added to the backfield.

Whether the additions and deletions have strengthened the club, coach Frank (Pop) Ivy refuses to say. Asked if he feels his club is stronger than last year when Edmonton whipped Montreal 36-25 in the Grey Cup game at Toronto, Ivy cautiously replied:

"You can't compare teams like that."

BEEM STRONGER

On the season's play, the Esks would seem stronger. They have lost only two of 16 games played so far this year while in 1954 they suffered six defeats in 21 games.

Ivy has three tons of football material—6,400 pounds of it along the line—from which to draw his Grey Cup team this year. The Eskimo line averages 210 pounds a man, the backfield averages 190.

Average age of the players is 24 years with Frankie Morris, 31-year-old guard, the oldest member, and freshman fullback Con Kelly the youngest at 20.

The club register has 34 players on it—21 linemen and 13 backfielders—but only 33 are preparing for the final. Guard Jim Quondamatteo, a stalwart with Esks for six years, is in hospital with a back ailment.

Ivy can dress 28 players in the Grey Cup game and among those to be dropped will be two of the 13 imports. The Grey Cup rules say only 12 imports can be used. Ivy has given no indication who will be out.

Nine players of last year are no longer with the club.

The backfielders missing are Bob Hayden; Glen McKinney, now with Winnipeg; import Ed Lippman, a former Canadian, and quarterback Bernie Faloney, who left Esks for a coaching job with Calgary, then went into R.C.M.P. military service.

To replace Faloney, Eskimos moved Jackie Parker, a University of Michigan graduate, from halfback slot to quarter. Esks dressed only one quarter last year but that was against Bob Gaitty from the University of Western Ontario.

Among newcomers to the club are three players from Kitchener-Waterloo Athletics. They are guards Jack Lamb and Mike Volcan and tackle Roy Stevenson.

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Pittsburgh, shunted from football bowls for 19 years, will show its revitalized power in the 1956 Sugar Bowl Jan. 2.

Fred Digby, general manager of the Sugar Bowl committee, announced Pitt's selection today. He said the Panthers' opponent will be either Georgia Tech, Auburn, Vanderbilt or Mississippi.

ALOUETTE'S WIN

An indication of the early-game superiority of Toronto Argonauts is shown when Sam Etcheverry of Montreal is tackled by the Argos front line when he tries to make a ground gain. Later in the game Alouettes came back to gain the lead and won the game 36-36 for the Eastern Canada football title. The player in the foreground is J. C. Caroline of Alouettes. (CP Photo).

Business Men Pay 'Civic' Tab

Toronto Fans Get Western Hospitality Eat Winnipeg Roast Beef, Apple Pie

WINNIPEG (CP)—More than 200 Toronto football fans ate a "business men's lunch" Monday. And the visitors, guests at what was billed as a civic luncheon, applauded Mayor George Sharpe as he said: "Western hospitality begins here in Winnipeg."

The $500 bill for the roast beef and apple pie lunch was paid by a group of Winnipeg businessmen who presented city council last Friday with six $100 bills to cover expenses. Aldermen bickered for two weeks over paying for the luncheon. They reluctantly agreed to pay the bill, then accepted the businessmen's offer.

Despite all the publicity the lunch was a success. Fred Gardiner, chairman of Toronto's metropolitan council, was flustered. Asked what the Torontonians thought over the luncheon squabble he put his finger to his lips, smiled, and said nothing.

SHIVERING ANGELS

The Torontonians burst upon Winnipeg in the morning with a colorful parade, including a band of shivering angels and flag street money-baggers, who headed downtown in a special train.

The visitors then marched to the Winnipeg grain exchange and interrupted trading for 10 minutes as they milled about the pit, led by the pipe band. Traders applauded as cheer leaders turned head-over-heels on the trading floor. The grain men joined in a square dance and shouted their approval as Miss Canada, 22-year-old Dalyce Smith of Whitehorse, Yukon Territory, and Miss Hamilton Tiger-Cat, Joan Lounsbury, 19, of St. Catharines, were ushered into the pit.

The Torontonians were the vanguard of eastern football fans to pass through Winnipeg. Monday 16 drum majorettes and "Miss Majestic," 16-year-old Nancy Reland, arrived with a group of Montreal supporters.

About 30 Winnipeg citizens cheered the majorettes at the railway station as they went through precision-marching paces. The advance party will leave for Medicine Hat and Calgary today.

Normie Kwong Voted Canadian Player of Year

VANCOUVER (CP) — Normie Kwong, dynamic halfback with the defending Grey Cup champion Edmonton Eskimos, today was voted the native Canadian football player of the year.

Sportswriters and sportscasters of senior football league cities from Montreal to Vancouver, voting on the annual Canadian Schenley awards, put the finger on the 25-year-old China Clipper as the best hometown player of 1955.

Tex Coulter, 31-year-old tackle with Montreal Alouettes was voted lineman of the year. And teammate Pat Abbruzzi, steam-rolling halfback from Rhode Island State playing his first season in Canadian football, was selected as the backfielder of 1955.

The Schenley trophy—outstanding-player award introduced in 1953—will go to one of these three players. Winner will be announced Friday afternoon.

Kwong, the only Chinese in Canadian senior football, succeeds Winnipeg Blue Bombers' Gerry James as the outstanding Canadian. The Calgary-born backfielder was the leading ground gainer in Canada this season with a net gain of 1,250 yards.

He also established a Western Interprovincial Football Union record of 152 yards for one gainon the final league game of the season.

TO HEAR APPEAL

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Supreme Court has set Dec. 13 to hear the appeal of convicted wife slayer Dr. Samuel Sheppard, court clerk Elliot Welch said Thursday night.

Valdes, Baker Winner May Meet Marciano

NEW YORK (AP)—Boxing promoter James D. Norris said Monday he hoped heavyweight contenders Nino Valdes and Bob Baker would put on a sensational fight in Cleveland Dec. 7.

"If they do," said the president of the International Boxing Club "then I would have a good talking point with Al Weill for a title defence by Rocky Marciano before June."

Weill manages Marciano, the heavyweight champion.

Norris, who arrived Monday from Florida, said he would like to match Marciano against the Baker-Valdes winner for Miami, Feb. 22.

Asked by reporters if his "feud" with Weill was "on the square," Norris said "Yes. He seems to be sore about something but I'm sure we can get together."

Stamps May Get Private Owners

CALGARY (CP) — A committee appointed by the Calgary Stampeders Football Club to look into the possibility of private ownership of the team met Monday with Jack Singer, a Calgary businessman and with Tom Brook, representing a group interested in buying the club, in the afternoon.

"It will be a while before anything develops," said committee chairman C. E. Chesher Monday night. "We definite now that five parties are interested in taking over the club and we will meet with them all.

"After we conclude the meetings we will report our findings to the shareholders and they will act on the matter."

'Sooners' Have Firm Grip On Top Spot

NEW YORK (AP)—With only one week of the season remaining, Oklahoma's mighty Sooners have a firm grip on first place among U.S. college football powerhouses today and a good chance of repeating their 1950 national championship.

Coach Bud Wilkinson's red-shirted stalwarts, who boast the longest major - college winning streak, 28 in a row, were so far ahead in the next-to-last Associated Press poll of the season that most of the interest centred on the battle for second place between Michigan State and Maryland.

Oklahoma was No. 1 on the ballot of 114 of the 209 sportswriters and broadcasters giving it a total of 1,859 points. It was a good way ahead of Michigan State, unbeaten Big Ten champion which received 1,689 points and Maryland by a bare six points, 1,689 to 1,683. Oklahoma received an overwhelming basis of 10 for first, nine for second, and so on.

Eddie Schamerhorn, Belleville fighter, who main bouts the boxing card here Saturday night, meets Les Blair in what should be a thriller. Eight outstanding fights feature the hospital benefit card.

REJECT OFFER

OTTAWA (CP) — Ottawa Rough Riders Monday night rejected Chan Caldwell's counter - proposal for settlement of his two-year contract as head coach of the Big Four football club.

Caldwell was fired with 13 months to go on his contract which calls for $10,000 a year.

Last Friday the club offered Caldwell a $6,000-a-year public relations job in settlement of the contract. Caldwell countered with a proposal calling for $4,000 cash now and $6,000 in payment for any work the new coach might want Caldwell to do.

Samuel Berger, Rough Riders' legal counsel, said the club decided to reject Caldwell's proposal and stand by its original offer.

British Soccer Second Round

LONDON (Reuters)—Some long and costly journeys by clubs who could ill-afford them were eliminated when, for the first time in nine years, the draw for the second round of the Football Association Cup competition was made Monday on a geographical basis.

In recent seasons only the first round has been on a geographical basis. After that, the clubs were all put in the hat together.

The 20 winners of the second round games, to be played Dec. 10, will join the eventual clubs left from the first and second divisions, and the main struggle to get to Wembley will then begin.

The big stuff in the south is between Brighton, unbeaten at home this season, and Norwich, both making efforts at promotion. They meet at Brighton in a league match a week before.

WIN OR LOSE

EDMONTON (CP)—Win or lose in the Grey Cup football final Saturday, Edmonton Eskimos will be feted at a home-coming parade and civic banquet here next Monday.

Mayor William Hawrelak announced Monday that a committee is drawing up arrangements for the celebrations. About 4,000 Edmonton district residents are expected to make the journey to Vancouver and the planning committee has about $6,500 to spend on celebrations.

Exhibition Game Called Off

KITCHENER (CP)—The exhibition game scheduled for Saturday between the Orhuns and Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen at Peterborough has been cancelled, it was learned Monday.

Dutchmen, who won the Ontario Rugby Football Union senior championship last Saturday, and Orhuns, Canadian intermediate titlists, were to play the game to decide whether Orhuns could compete in the senior ORFU next season.

The game was called off by Orhuns because of the uncertainty of weather conditions. Orhuns told the Dutchmen they are seriously interested in moving up to senior ranks next fall and a joint-meeting to see what can be arranged will be held in Toronto in the near future.

Another meeting will be held in London some time in the next two weeks to consider the possibility of that city entering the senior ORFU.

Hamilton Fans Back Alouettes

HAMILTON (CP)—A' delegation of 40 Hamilton football fans will be wearing red-and-white "Alouette" colours when they move into Vancouver's Empire Stadium for the Grey Cup game Saturday.

The lucky 40, who will be picked from among thousands of entries and flown west at the expense of the Hamilton Downtown Association, will join other eastern fans in backing the Alouettes in their bid to wrest the historic cup away from the western champion Edmonton Eskimos.

They will also be pulling for their own Miss Tiger-Cat, 18-year-old Joan Lounsbury, in the Miss Grey Cup contest.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

This man refused to learn the best bridge rules. He did doing everything wrong he made an improbable contract. His wife was furious. "If you had played right," she fumed, "you couldn't have made it."

Maybe this was the deal:

♦A 10 8 4
♣J 6 5 4 2

WEST
♠8 6 3
♥8 ♦ 5 4

SOUTH
♠A K 9 7 5 4
♥A Q 9
♦5 3
♣K J

He was south as declarer at the wrong contract of seven spades redoubled. If west led a trump or heart or ace of clubs, he pull three trumps and get three clubs with a finesse, shifting a diamond.

Ruff of a fourth club sets up that suit. By entry to dummy with diamond ace, south dumps two hearts on the two long clubs. The rest of south's cards are all good with heart ace and trumps.

But west actually led a diamond because his east partner had bid that suit. So, dummy hopped up with diamond ace and led a heart that was successfully finessed with south's queen of hearts.

Heart ace was cashed. Heart nine was ruffed by dummy's lone trump. A club entered south to get the king and three trumps were cashed. The club finesse of dummy's jack let south dump a diamond on the club ace.

Chances are finding six outstanding trumps split three-three are two to one against. Chances of a finesse being successful are 50-50. And he got all three of those breaks here.

Percentage rule says that five outstanding clubs should break three-two more than twice as many times as four-one. So, his right play was to establish clubs for discarding losers of a heart finesse.

If he had done the right thing he would have had his partner in a club slam that must lose a trick. If he had played it right by rule he would have lost his spade grand slam.

Now this guy goes around telling people that the rules are all wrong. He is branching out as an expert in his own right. Which is how I get so much competition that does not count.

Toppazzini Tops American League

NEW YORK (AP) — Veteran Zellio Toppazzini of the league-leading Providence Reds, who has been in professional hockey for 11 years, remains the American Hockey League's leading scorer but his two linemates have dropped to third and fourth spot.

The 25-year-old Toppazzini, a former New York Ranger and Boston Bruin, leads the league with 33 points on 16 goals and 17 assists. He also is the league's leading penalty.

Instead of linemates Paul Larivee and Gaston Gendron, Toppy has him as in previous weeks, Ken Wharram of Buffalo Bisons, a newcomer among the leaders, is second with 30 points. Wharram has the most assists with 18.

Larivee and Henry are third and fourth with 29 and 27 points respectively.

Fred Glover of Cleveland Barons is still on top of the penalty list with 64 minutes.

Cleveland's Roy McMeekin lowered his goaltending average and leads the league with a 3.06 mark on 49 goals permitted in 16 games.

Lapointe Says Larks Are Tops

EDMONTON (CP) — Postmaster General Hugues Lapointe says Montreal Alouettes are the best football team in Canada.

Mr. Lapointe told a Canadian Legion dinner Monday night that he is in a position to make that statement because he lives close to those who "really" know.

McKim Ross, president of the legion's Montgomery branch, said the Larks would be outclassed by Edmonton Eskimos in the Grey Cup game at Vancouver Saturday.

Mr. Lapointe commented that he had viewed all he could with Calgary fans.

AT THE McCARTHY — Arthur Kennedy and Betta St. John are starred in Universal-International's "Technicolor romantic-adventure picture, "The Naked Dawn", tense action drama of a bandit, his almost captive, his loves and lives of a young Mexican farmer and his wife. Walls of Ivy Drilling Hard VICTORIA (CP) — Edmonton Eskimos kicked off on a twice-daily practice routine here Monday that coach Frank (Pop) Ivy hopes will bring them to a peak for Saturday's Grey Cup football final at Vancouver.

Signal drills were scheduled each morning and a full scrimmage in the afternoon. All the afternoon drills will be closed to the public.

The squad will ease off training Friday. That's the day the team leaves for Vancouver's Empire Stadium and a rematch with Montreal Alouettes in the Canadian grid classic. Eska won last year at Toronto, 26-25.

At their Empress Hotel headquarters, the players will also study movies of Saturday's Big Four final between Montreal and Toronto Argonauts.

MAY BE THIS WEEK

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Authoritative Argentine circles predict this will be the week the newspaper La Prensa regains its freedom after four years of Peronista control. A key member of the cabinet of provisional president Pedro Aramburu said without qualification that the big daily, once muted for its independence, will be returned to its owners, the Paz family, "very soon."

Sadler's Wells Ballet, Scottish Guards Give Hurok a Boost

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The biggest gambler in show business is not a Las Vegas plunger but a man who boasts that he has been called "a one-man United Nations."

He's impresario Sol Hurok. For more than 30 years he has been scouring the world for attractions he feels will entertain and elevate North Americans. Sometimes his choices have failed. More often they have succeeded.

At present he is shepherding one of his most successful gambles through the United States. He is here with the Sadler's Wells Ballet Company, which has drawn millions of dollars from ballet fans in the U.S. and Canada during tours by Hurok.

The talent finder was glowing over one of his recent triumphs, the Scottish Guards.

"I was working on this deal for several years," he reported. "Finally I arranged with the British army to bring the band over. I had hoped they would provide planes, but it didn't work out that way. So it would cost $300,000 to bring them here.

"I carried the contract around in my pocket for two months, afraid to show it to my staff. They would have thought I was crazy, spending so much on an attraction they had never been proven."

He hooked the bagpipers, dancers and marchers into Madison Square Garden for one night. It was a $40,000 sell-out. The Garden's Ned Irish offered to move a boxing date so the Scottish could return in December. Three more Garden dates have been set, and Hurok said they'll all sell out.

"The attraction is now doing virtual capacity business on tour," he reported. "I expect to gross over a million dollars."

DIPPING INTO TV

Other current and upcoming Hurok gambles: The Comedie Francaise, the Spanish ballet, the Kabuki dancers of Japan, the Santa Cecilia choir, 200-year-old organization on its first journey away from Rome; and London's Old Vic, which will tour the United States starting next fall.

Hurok now is dipping into TV. He'll present the full-length "Sleeping Beauty" by the Sadler's Wells on NBC Dec. 12 and a collection of his concert stars on "Music for Millions" Jan. 30.

"I think TV has helped the concert business," he observed. "It has helped raise tastes and create a demand for better things. On the other hand, it keeps people home unless there is an attraction that is strong enough to draw them to theatres. Then some of the mediocre concert attractions have suffered."

'Captain Kangaroo' Breaking Little Hearts Every Morning

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)A girl friend of mine has a favorite television program which she enjoys watching while lying on her side clinking from a bottle. Her utility explains why she watches the fellow in charge of this program finally has moved me to get in touch with the guy and try to learn what he's got that I haven't.

When this heartbreaker comes on the TV screen he cleverly uses another name and disguises himself with drooping moustaches. He has taken the name "Captain Kangaroo."

All right, captain, it's time we exposed you. Your true name is Bob Keeshan and you have a wife and three children at home in West Islip, N. Y., and what are you doing breaking hearts at 8 a. m. every Monday through Friday over CBS-TV?

Here's the way this guy operates: My girl friend, an early riser, insists on stretching out in front of the TV set and gazing at the captain with eloquently liquid eyes as he points out this thing and that. Her eyes fasten on an object and, as if Captain Kangaroo knew her unvoiced question, he says: "What? The name of that funny little animal? Why it's a honey-bear—from South America."

CAN'T BE COPIED

My girl friend smiles her sultry smile and sips from her bottle and I know she's emotionally pleased. I've tried the same thing with a panda, but I get nowhere. I lack the magic name and the moustachios—and some other indefinable quality.

The fact my girl friend is just two years and three months old and the fact her drink is milk has nothing to do with the situation. I'm jealous.

On the other hand, my girl friend's mother is down about Captain Kangaroo. (What a homebreaker this character is.) It used to be that her youngest daughter was always under foot at that crucial morning hour when she was trying to shove pa off to the office and get the older kids off to school.

My girl friend's mother says that Captain Kangaroo is a wonderful influence on kids aged two to eight. Apparently there are a lot of mothers who agree with her —to say nothing of the kids.

Letters are pouring into Captain Kangaroo from parents who see him as a benign, intelligent, orderly force in the chaos of early morning. He has things like a hat tree on whose branches grow dozens of different kinds of hats—a policeman's, a fireman's, a bandleader's, a soldier's. He pulls all sorts of things from his pockets—some fruit, a teapot, a whistle, a piece of string.

In person Captain Kangaroo explains that he rises at 4:30 a. m. every morning to drive 40 miles into town to keep his date with my girl friend. He's a pleasant, relaxed fellow without any fancy theories as what kids are or should be. Instead of theories he has three children, aged from nine months to four years.

"I just try to hold one child—say child—in mind," he says. "I want to entertain and maybe instruct him or her a little. I merely try to be a friend who comes in the door."

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday appears and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Wed., Nov 23, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Don't reach out for more than is reasonable. Take sufficient time for reviewing where it would help. Make decisions only after careful analysis.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Remember your true friends. Do not leave them out of plans which include new acquaintances except where reasonable. Spend wisely.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — It isn't how much you can get done; it is how well you handle it in proper order and as ably as you can.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Manufacturing, handling new accounts, dealing with new acquaintances, and research are up for careful analysis now. Be diplomatic with all. It's really a good day.

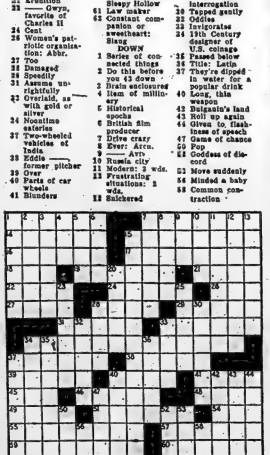
July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — This is no time for slowing down, except where health demands it. Intelligent reading, music, the company of children are spare time choices.

August 24 to September 22 — (Virgo) — Give special consideration to your family and loyal friends now. Also note that Mercury's position suggests less tension and anxiety.

September 24 to October 23 — (Libra) — Count ten before you make that hasty answer, think again before you decide to act. Perhaps a different approach to everyday matters would also be wise.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — Give yourself a "break" by being systematic and planning out necessities that could clutter your day, hamper efforts. Don't put off things you can do well.

November 23 to December 21 — (Sagittarius) — Look into the "little" things. Are there some that really need more attention than they get? Aim to be the peacemaker in family, community affairs.



December 22 to January 21 — (Capricorn) — Be as careful in matters you dislike as you are about things you do like. Only in this way can you do a good job.

January 22 to February 20 — (Aquarius) — Things out of the ordinary, artistic matters, handicraft, new and original ideas and methods can advance now. Need your initiative.

February 21 to March 20 — (Pisces) — Be careful in investing, buying, exchanging, and do not make needless changes unless definite improvements are assured. Act with reason, logic.

You born today are of the entertaining, self reliant Sign Sagittarius, but you have some traits from the waning Scorpio. Both Signs show great energy and sensitivity. Be careful about the associates you meet along your way. You can shine especially in sports, promotion, businessmanship, banking, photography, the ministry, handling animals. Develop moderation, patience. Birthdate of: Franklin Pierce, 14th U.S. President.

Mr. George McLean and Mr. Winfield Harder were hunting around Lake St. Peter.

Johnstown held Sunday School and church last Sunday afternoon with Rev. G. A. Pattenden in charge of church, with the text taking on "Faith of Paul." "Faith is the only way receiving truths about God. Paul had a revelation on his way to Damascus. Paul wanted to think Jesus was an imposter, but he was changed on the way to Damascus and led by a new spirit. Evil deeds are the fruit of an evil life. As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he. We have to use our mind, pray for guidance in our thinking, and our Bible to help us on our way."

Mrs. William Rouse, Mrs. Frank Cryderman, Mrs. Ken Stickle spent a couple of days with Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Bush and father, Mr. Arthur Bush.

Mrs. Clayton Curtis, and Mrs. E. Clapp attended the W.A. executive meeting held at Bridge St. Church, Belleville, on Tuesday afternoon.

GOATS KEEP GRASS ROOF TRIMMED AND NEAT

Owners of the Mont Gabriel club, some 40 miles from Montreal, were wondering how to make its grass and weed roof streamlined until a local farmer suggested that they try a couple of goats to keep the grass nicely trimmed. They started out with a mama and daddy goat and before long there was an addition to the family. Next year they'll have a little more help — because mama's expecting again. (Central Press Canadian).

Rent Collector For Company Fined $25

TORONTO (CP) — Albert Theriault, 23, a rent collector for the Inglewood Construction Company, was fined $25 Monday on a charge of obstructing justice by threatening a witness.

The witness, Norman Butterfield, said Theriault threatened him after he gave evidence in the "slum empire" case more than two weeks ago. The case involves Stephen Peron and Charles Ingwer who face bawdy house charges in connection with their 39 slum-area houses.

Theriault, also a witness in the case, said he had no great love for the Inglewood Construction Company and denied threatening Butterfield. In passing sentence magistrate J. L. Prentice said he was taking into consideration the fact that Theriault had spent two weeks in custody.

Troops Assure Freedom to Work In Argentina

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—The provisional government of Maj.-Gen. Pedro Aramburu moved swiftly today to meet a second threat by Peronista labor leaders since it was set up 10 days ago. Troops moved out of their barracks to guarantee "freedom to work," the government said.

At dawn a navy fighter plane began flying low over Buenos Aires. The government has used these planes repeatedly during tense moments to scan the city for possible demonstrations, the gathering of mobs or other potential trouble.

The government warned both labor and management to keep the peace or be punished for "grave offense against the liberating revolution" that toppled Juan D. Peron from 10 years of dictatorship.

Unofficial reports said the old Peronista labor leadership, which appeared to have been discredited overnight last week when the government faced down an unsuccessful general strike, had furtively ordered another general walkout "in principle."

MAY EXTRADITE PERON

Meanwhile federal judge Luis Boiet, who has been investigating charges against the ousted dictator, ruled that his court has no power to arraign Peron on such a count. But he recommended the ex-dictator's extradition from Panama where he is said to be living.

Panama is the Panama capital, a spokesman for Peron said he had no comment on the demand for his extradition. A spokesman for Panama's foreign office said Monday night no official request for the extradition had been received.

Troops Guard Govt. Centres, Filho Voted Out

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—The Brazilian chamber of deputies voted early today to bar Joao Cafe Filho from returning to the presidency.

The deputies' resolution passed 179 to 94, was sent immediately to the Senate for action there.

The resolution said the "disability 'of the former president to fill the office—voted by Congress—should continue until Congress takes contrary action. It added that Congress had a constitutional duty to preserve the national regime, and that it was threatened.

The deputies acted after Cafe sent Congress a message Monday saying he was ready to take over the office from provisional president Nereu Ramos, who acted after a bloodless army coup last week.

HOUSE ARREST

Cafe was under virtual house arrest this morning in the apartment in Rio's fashionable Copacabana district. Army troops surrounded the building and were reported alerted to use force to enter or leave it. Armed troops and several tanks also were on guard at the presidential palace, where Ramos was believed to be.

No violence was reported.

Congress had declared Cafe unable to serve as president after he suffered a heart attack and took a leave of absence Nov. 8. He was released from the hospital Monday after a team of eight doctors examined him and presumably found he had recovered.

Cafe had turned the presidency over to Carlos Coimbra da Luz, president of the Chamber of Deputies, when he left office on his illness. Gen. Henrique Teixeira Lott, engineered a bloodless coup outing Luz and replacing him by Ramos, then president of the Senate.

Teixeira Lott charged that Luz and some army officers were planning to prevent the inauguration Jan. 31 of president-elect Juscelino Kubitschek, winner of the October election and candidate of the pro-Vargas parties organized by the late dictator Getulio Vargas. Leaders of the present government believe Cafe also was in a coup to keep Kubitschek out of office.

Charge Reporter Aided Attempt At Extortion

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Michael Ryan, Evening Telegram reporter who interviewed a woman accused of attempting to bribe another woman to commit morals offences, Monday was charged with assisting an extortion attempt. He was remanded for eight days on $2,500 bail.

The complaint was laid by Jerry Stephens, manager of the Old Mill Restaurant, a Dartmouth Plaine, 35, had worked as a waitress pending trial on the charges several weeks ago.

Miss Plaine was freed on $250 bond following a preliminary hearing Nov. 10. The paper assigned Ryan O'Neill to keep tabs on her and his information formed the basis of several stories about the woman carried by the paper.

Mr. O'Neill was charged with aiding and abetting Miss Plaine, "who without reasonable justification or excuse attempted to obtain" $250 thereby committing extortion." Miss Plaine is in hospital receiving treatment for a nervous disorder.

Little Benny's Notebook

I was hunting all around ma's room, and I found a old sock, it was sakes alwhy all the frantic serchin'?

I'm looking for something, I said and she said. Well whatever you're looking for I'm sure it hasn't belong in here.

It's my little stump of a pencil that writes blue with one end and green with the other, and it belongs in one of the pockets of some of my clothes I'm sure of that, I said.

A light of known all that fuss was over some trifle, ma said, and why don't you make sure right there about it? A lot of pencils write blue and red at different ends, but I don't know no one I ever saw write blue and green.

I still say it's a trifle and you cant name one thing that you seriously intend to do with it, ma said, and I said, I intend to keep it, that's the principal thing. And I bet it's no more of a trifle than lots of things you get excited about, I said.

Don't be silly, suich as what, for instance? ma sid, and I said, Well, maybe you get excited about a button too?

Certainly not, no button is worth a 2nd thought, I mean a serious 2nd thought, ma sid, and I said, How about that button right there on your reeding lamp next to your bed?

What, if you did anything to that button you'll be sorry seriously from me, ma said, and she quick went to see, and I said, I didn't touch your old button, I just did the same you got excited over a trifle like a button, so that makes us even.

Not being quite the end of the subject.

THIEVES DID JOB

ALTENBEKEN, Germany (ep)—A police bomb disposal squad, arriving here to defuse a 1,300-pound wartime bomb, found thieves had done the job for them. Only 200 pounds of powder and the fuse were left in the area where the bomb was discovered a few days ago. A blacksmith here later said some men had sold him the casing as scrap.

Parents Freed On Charge Of Neglecting Child

TORONTO (CP) — David and Margaret Cleverdon were acquitted Monday on a charge of failing to provide the necessities of life for their child, Patricia.

The eight-year-old girl died Nov. 1, 1954, of primary peritonitis, an abdominal ailment. The crown charged that the girl was not adequately fed, clothed or nourished by her parents.

During the four - day trial a teacher testified the girl fell asleep in class and Mr. Cleverdon told her: "If Peter falls asleep, strap her." A doctor testified that the girl was suffering from shock, was emaciated to a pathological degree and her left arm was broken.

Judge Harry Donley said "there isn't any doubt there was some neglect of the child in the latter days of her life, but I don't believe it amounted to criminal negligence."

"I'm dismissing the case on the grounds of the old Scottish verdict, 'not proven'."

Kremlin Chiefs Launch Swing Around India

By EUGENE LEVIN

NEW DELHI (AP)—The Soviet Union's two highest leaders launched today into a 10-day 5,000-mile swing around India. Their Indian hosts promised the Kremlin chiefs a new democracy in action.

The first stop for Soviet Premier Bulganin and the Communist party head, Nikita S. Khrushchev, was the vast Bhakra-Nangal powerproject in the Himalayan foothills 150 miles north of the capital. The $227,000,000 program is being built with Indian money, but is employing some 60 American technical advisers.

As the Russians left New Delhi, most diplomatic observers felt their four-day visit to the capital had been definitely a success. There was some criticism, however, of the bitter attacks Bulganin and Khrushchev launched at the West in their speeches to the Indian Parliament Monday.

TENSEST SPOT

The Russians' itinerary calls for them Wednesday to fly to the tensest spot in India — Bombay, where 12 persons were killed and 250 injured Monday in riots led by Communists and extreme leftist Socialists. Authorities in the big port, India's second largest city, imposed a city-wide ban on the assembly of more than four persons, and by Monday night had arrested 1,000 demonstrators.

It was not immediately clear what effect the assembly ban would have on official plans to welcome Bulganin and Khrushchev. The authorities may hope to restore order after two successive days of violence in time to permit mass demonstrations to greet the visitors.

The leftist riots, in which more than 200,000 persons participated, protested the central government's decision to make the city of Bombay a separate state and divide the rest of Bombay state into two new states. The Communists and Socialist extremists are backing the Marathi-speaking 45 per cent of Bombay city's 3,000,000 residents, who are demanding that the city join the proposed Marathi state.

Prime Minister Nehru Monday night personally urged Bulganin and Khrushchev off on the tour of what he calls "the new India." After a musical program for the visitors, Nehru accompanied them to the railroad station and waited until the train's post-midnight departure.

CITES PREJUDICE

MONTREAL (CP)—John Bassett Jr., publisher of the Toronto Telegram, said Monday night there still is much intolerance and prejudice in Canada. He told the Canadian Council of Christians and Jews that it would be blindness not to admit there are still points of friction and disagreement between the two great races that make up the main body of Canada.

Dionne Family Member Confirms Marie Anaemic

MONTREAL (CP)—A member of the Dionne family, acting as official family spokesman, Monday night confirmed that Marie Dionne, fruitest of the famed quintuplets since birth, was ill in hospital in suburban Ville St. Laurent suffering from anaemia.

The spokesman, who asked not to be identified, said "doctors have ordered a month of complete rest" for the 21-year-old girl and that "the situation is not serious."

The spokesman, who made the statement following a telephone conference with other members of the family, said doctors had told Marie that her life in the cloistered convent which she left Wednesday "was too hard for her frail health."

Marie entered the Notre Dame de l'Esperance Hospital in Ville St. Laurent after leaving a cloistered convent in Quebec City for the second time in 16 months.

The family through the spokesman, appealed to the public not to bother Marie.

The statement added that the family had tried to keep the girl's whereabouts secret because they feared curious persons would bother her and two other quints —Yvonne and Cecile—Who are studying nursing at the hospital.

"She has chosen to go where she can be near her sisters and we sincerely hope, in view of the fact we are giving the public a statement, our wishes she be let alone will be respected," the spokesman said.

It was also learned from the spokesman that Marie's father and mother will leave their Callander, Ont., home for Montreal during the weekend.

Marie entered the cloister of La Congregation des Servantes du Tres Saint Sacrement convent in November, 1953, but left eight months later because of ill health. She was at home when her sister, Emilie, died at Ste. Agathe, Que., in August, 1954, and later re-entered the convent.

Another member of the quints, Annette, is studying music at Nicolet, Que.

It is believed that Marie would not return to the Quebec convent.

Pickersgill Denies Indians' Plight Bad

EDMONTON (CP) — Citizenship Minister Pickersgill says conditions among northern Indians are continuing to improve.

In an interview published Monday in the Edmonton Journal, Mr. Pickersgill said reports he has received from officials refute statements contained in a series of articles by Jack Deakin, Journal staff writer, that conditions among northern Alberta Indians are pitiful. The articles appeared in September.

"To the best of our knowledge, Mr. Deakin was not on the reserves and did not see any official on the reserves," Mr. Pickersgill said.

Duplessis Issues Price Ultimatum To Paper Firms

Demands Special Price For Quebec's Newspapers

By RICHARD DAIGNAULT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC (CP)—For the first time in their existence Quebec's newsprint manufacturers, producing more than half the nation's total output, face provincial price controls unless they yield to Premier Duplessis' demand for special prices to Quebec newspapers.

Mr. Duplessis made it plain that a vital new plank has been reached in the provincial newsprint issue started Oct. 18 when St. Lawrence Corporation raised its newsprint price $5 a ton to $131 delivered in New York. Soon three other Quebec companies followed suit but with price increases ranging down to $3 a ton.

Tuesday, speaking in the legislative assembly during the throne speech debate, the Quebec Premier his government's position quite clear.

Unless, he said, Quebec newsprint manufacturers give special price consideration to Quebec publishers he would "regretfully" introduce a bill to impose price controls during the current session of the legislature.

PUBLIC CO-OWNERS

Mr. Duplessis said he is not interested in the price the companies set for their clients in the United States. That was not his business.

But the forests of the province were publicly-owned and newspaper print, to be made from them, the public, were to be considered as co-owners of the forests and entitled to favorable rates.

Mr. Duplessis said newsprint manufacturers have no right to treat Quebec newspapers in the same way as outside newspapers.

"The manufacturers must realize it is not reasonable for our own people to pay the penalty arising from their status as co-owners of the province's forests."

READY TO ACT

"I hope that this new appeal will be heard by the companies because I would regret having to introduce legislation that would be undesirable, but perhaps necessary.

"I won't say any more for now but if the necessity arises we shall take the required means to meet the situation."

French Troops Guard Border Of Spanish Morocco

Ready to Meet Threat Of Tribal Rebellions

CASABLANCA, Morocco (Reuters)—French troops today moved into position along the border of Spanish Morocco to meet threatened new tribal rebellions, while tension hung thick over French Morocco's northern cities.

The atmosphere was still explosive in Casablanca following mass demonstrations Tuesday at the funeral of four Moroccan political prisoners killed in a riot in the town's civil prison last weekend. Today's official reshuffle announcement Tuesday night that 750 out of the 900 political prisoners held in Morocco are to be freed under a clemency measure is expected to end the crisis.

French troops were rushed Tuesday to deal with a new outbreak of tribal revolts in the Rif mountains bordering Spanish Morocco, where tribesmen assembled in answer to war fires on the hilltops.

While the Sultan Mohammed remained tense, Sultan Mohammed Ben Youssef conducted his council tations with leadegs of the two main nationalist parties—the Istiqlal party of Independence — on the possible path to Morocco's first representative government.

Dog Saves Boy Then Boy's Plea, Saves Dog's Life

HAMILTON (CP) — A boy and his dog proved their friendship Tuesday by each saving the other's life.

Fourteen-year-old Reid Lester pleaded with neighbors not to shoot his dog, Rusty, after it had been struck by a car during a fall on the Lester house.

Rusty revived and aroused the Lester family with his barking, enabling them to escape before flames swept the house.

Reid knelt beside Rusty and prayed for his recovery and then ran to neighbors to wait. They agreed and the dog was taken to a veterinarian.

He discovered Rusty had only minor injuries.

52 Marooned 5 Days on Tower Taken Off by Daring Seamanship

BOSTON (AP) — Thirty-seven visitors, marooned by Atlantic storms on a man-made island for five days, were headed for the mainland today after daring seamanship helped in their transfer to a tugboat.

With the 37 who were marooned since last Thursday on the "Texas Tower" radar station 100 miles off Cape Cod were 15 workers going on leaves or whose jobs are completed on the tower.

The nervy seamanship was on the part of Capt. Patrick Carlough, an Aleutian Indian who skippers the Boston tug Pat.

He held the 175-foot tug almost under a corner of the great platform of the tower for an hour and a half in the face of 25-foot waves, the wrong tide and strong winds.

"I had to take the tide on the wrong side, the port bow," he said. "The right tides to approach the triangular tower came after dark."

The skipper said the wrong side of the tower for his operation seemed calmer "and I figured the

GM Ready to Boost Oshawa Total Wages by $325 an Hour

TORONTO (CP) — Negotiators of a strike of 17,000 workers in three General Motors of Canada plants discussed today a company offer to increase its payroll by $325 an hour to adjust inequable wages in its big Oshawa factory, it was reported today.

A company spokesman said management and union officials, meeting today in subcommittee, almost certainly would take over the offer reported Tuesday. The money, to be deposited in an inequity fund, would mean increases from five to 16 cents an hour for about one-half the 10,000 Oshawa workers.

The strike by members of the United Automobile Workers Union (CIO-CCL) began Sept. 19.

The company's new offer would affect only Oshawa workers. Before the strike began GM offered $145 an hour to straighten out wage inequities, mainly among skilled workers, in its St. Catharines, Ont., plant.

Two Negro U. of T. Students Launch Discrimination Charge

TORONTO (CP)—A piece of apple pie led today to the launching of a charge of discrimination against in a Dresden, Ont., restaurant. Dresden is 20 miles north of Chatham.

Two University of Toronto Negro students filed complaints alleging they were refused service in the restaurant because of their color. Their charges were submitted to the provincial labor department which will decide whether the attorney-general should seek prosecution under the province's Fair Accommodation Practices Act.

Percy Bruce and Jake Afreyee, both 26, said they were unable to buy milk shakes and apple pie at the restaurant because they were in a waitress, cook and the proprietor for service.

Five minutes later, they said, a white student from Toronto, Robert Van Alstyne, ordered and got it.

Earlier this year Morley McKay and Mrs. Anne Emerson, Dresden restaurateurs, were fined $100 each for race discrimination. They appealed and judge Henry Grouch of Chatham overturned the conviction on the grounds of insufficient evidence.

J. F. Nuttall, labor department official who administers the act, said today's complaints also will be rected against Mr. McKay. The decided upon next week.

Mr. Nuttand said a report be begun immediately. The investigator Daley would decide whether prosecution should follow.

The complaints was prepared in collaboration with the Toronto Joint labor committee for human rights sponsored by the Toronto District Labor Council, the Canadian Jewish and the Toronto and Lakeshore Labor Council (CCL).

Neither of the students has been involved in previous race discrimination cases in Dresden.

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Alfred John Rawluk, 27, lost both legs as result of a traffic accident Tuesday night.

A former resident of Winnipeg, Rawluk had been in the city just seven months. Driver of the other car, Glen H. Hall, 17, of Sarah Marie, Ont. was charged today with careless driving and summoned to Monday on $500 bail. Hall is a member of Peterborough's Junior B hockey team.

Rawluk apparently started to fall out of his car after the initial impact with Hall's car. When his car came to rest, his leg was severed and the left was severed below the knee. The left leg later was amputated above the knee and the right leg amputated below the knee. His condition today was described as fair.

CANADIAN C.C. URGES REVIEW OF TRADE POLICY

Chamber of Commerce Asks Cabinet to Act

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Chamber of Commerce today urged the government to re-examine Canada's foreign trade policy, including measures that might be taken to correct large unfavorable balances of trade.

The chamber, in a brief presented to the cabinet, referred particularly to the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade. GATT, it said, could become a vital instrument in expansion of world trade.

The tendency by some member nations to withdraw and renegotiate certain concessions granted by the 36-country agreement should be permanently eliminated.

A re-examination of Canada's trade policies should include consideration of the many restrictive customs regulations and measures of safeguarding Canada's trade relations "to the maximum extent possible."

DIMIGRATION PROGRAM

The chamber brief, presented by a delegation headed by Raymond Dupuis of Montreal, the chamber's national vice - president, urged wider understanding of the importance of multilateral trading arrangements and greater convertibility of currencies to facilitate international payment and the flow of trade between countries of the world.

The chamber also expressed concern over "the very serious reduction" in immigration to Canada this year and said a more permanent immigration policy be reviewed by the government in Calley.

It urged:

1. Aggressive government action to attract more United States immigrants, particularly from the United Kingdom and France.

2. A more active publicity program to ensure a true picture of Canada and Canadian opportunities is presented to all countries with likely immigrants.

3. Extension of the present assisted passage program for assisted immigrants.

4. Efforts to attract more United States immigrants.

5. Family allowances be made available for children of all new Canadians as soon as they are established in the country.

TAXES TOO HIGH

The chamber points included:

1. There should be no relaxation in Canada's high corporation and concrete results are achieved in world peace efforts.

2. The present high corporation income taxes "are still too high for a developing country."

3. Ottawa should take immediate steps to review agricultural credit and debt structure.

4. The Municipal Grants Act should be amended to provide full payments in lieu of taxation on federal property to municipalities.

5. The civil department should undertake a long-range publicity program to create interest in shipping through Canadian ports "in which a great potential exists volume with a consequent greater choice of sailings."

6. Canada should be given complete freedom of choice in their marketing arrangements.

Viscount Astor Says Fifth Column Exists In Britain

Foreign Office Shaken, Bears Brunt of Attack

LONDON (Reuters) — A blunt charge in the House of Lords that a fifth column is operating in Britain today has brought the foreign office back in hot water on the alleged security lapse in the Burgess-Maclean spy case.

The charge was made Tuesday night in a heated debate by Viscount Astor, who called for tougher peacetime security steps to block subversion.

British newspapers splashed Astor's statement on their front pages as politicians prepared to bring new pressure on the government over the Burgess-Maclean episode.

Astor told the Houfs of Lords that "we have got to realize that for the first time since the reign of Queen Elizabeth I we have a fifth column in this country—a fifth column that has penetrated the highest ranks of the civil service, apparently the scientists and even the church."

"We are neither at peace, nor at war, but in a cold war, and we have got to realize that it is right to take by the normal standards of peace," the viscount said, the called for a tightening of security measures, even to the extent of screening security persons from leaving the country.

FOREIGN SECRETARY

Astor, a Conservative party, cried foreign office policy in the case of Guy Burgess and Donald Maclean, British diplomats who fled the country in 1951 and were subsequently identified in Moscow as Russian spies.

He said there had publicly engaged in drunken brawls with former friends because they had given up their left-wing convictions and he expressed astonishment that Maclean should have been assigned as head of the foreign office's American department after. Astor claimed, he had drunkenly brawled up an American embassy girl employee's apartment in Cairo.

Lord Reading government spokesman in the House of Lords answered heatedly that many persons now are being spreading "reminiscences of what they knew about Burges and McLean" when they should have come forward earlier with the information. He said the foreign office did not know about the Cairo incident when Maclean disappeared.

Astor's statement, one of the sharpest yet on the Burgess-Maclean affair, is received by stunned opponents of government bushpolicy on the other side.

Foreign office handling of the case is due for investigation by a special committee of the House of Commons members are restive over the fact that—as stated by Eden—the committee's findings will be published and public and politicians will never hear all that is unearthed.

Toronto Traffic Badly Snarled

TORONTO (CP) — Motor traffic today was snarled into tie - ups during the morning rush hour when Yonge street was closed temporarily at Hogg's Hollow, northern entrance to the city.

The section of street over the hollow was ordered closed at 6:30 a.m. for two weeks to allow construction work to proceed.

Police rerouted vehicular traffic but two hours later had to reopen the section for a short period to relieve congestion.

The section was closed to enable workmen to remove a Bailey bridge that a new span over the hollow has been completed.

Belleville Man Driver of Bus Hit by Transport

CORNWALL (CP) — Three persons were suffered minor injuries today and more than $8,000 damage was caused when a transport and a passenger bus were involved in a year-end collision on No. 2 highway, 22 miles east of Cornwall.

Injured were Mr. and Mrs. Percy Kendall of Toronto and Mrs. K. Weir of Bainsville, Ont., all passengers in a Colonial Coach Lines bus. They suffered abrasions and cuts.

The transport, owned by Niagara Food Products of Stoney Creek, was driven by William C. Bentley of Grimsby, Ont., carrying 19 passengers and en route to Toronto, was driven by Lac M. Ahman of Belleville.

Police said the bus had stopped to pick up a passenger when the westbound transport collided with the rear of the bus. Both vehicles were wrecked. Damage to the bus was set at between $7,000 and $8,000.

Foreign Office Shaken, Bears Brunt of Attack

LONDON (Reuters) — A blunt charge in the House of Lords that a fifth column is operating in Britain today has brought the foreign office back in hot water on the alleged security lapse in the Burgess-Maclean spy case.

The charge was made Tuesday night in a heated debate by Viscount Astor, who called for tougher peacetime security steps to block subversion.

British newspapers splashed Astor's statement on their front pages as politicians prepared to bring new pressure on the government over the Burgess-Maclean episode.

Astor told the Houfs of Lords that "we have got to realize that for the first time since the reign of Queen Elizabeth I we have a fifth column in this country—a fifth column that has penetrated the highest ranks of the civil service, apparently the scientists and even the church."

"We are neither at peace, nor at war, but in a cold war, and we have got to realize that it is right to take by the normal standards of peace," the viscount said, the called for a tightening of security measures, even to the extent of screening security persons from leaving the country.

FOREIGN SECRETARY

Astor, a Conservative party, cried foreign office policy in the case of Guy Burgess and Donald Maclean, British diplomats who fled the country in 1951 and were subsequently identified in Moscow as Russian spies.

He said there had publicly engaged in drunken brawls with former friends because they had given up their left-wing convictions and he expressed astonishment that Maclean should have been assigned as head of the foreign office's American department after. Astor claimed, he had drunkenly brawled up an American embassy girl employee's apartment in Cairo.

Lord Reading government spokesman in the House of Lords answered heatedly that many persons now are being spreading "reminiscences of what they knew about Burges and McLean" when they should have come forward earlier with the information. He said the foreign office did not know about the Cairo incident when Maclean disappeared.

Astor's statement, one of the sharpest yet on the Burgess-Maclean affair, is received by stunned opponents of government bushpolicy on the other side.

Foreign office handling of the case is due for investigation by a special committee of the House of Commons members are restive over the fact that—as stated by Eden—the committee's findings will be published and public and politicians will never hear all that is unearthed.

Five Gunmen Rob Four Policemen, Tavern Customer Then Opens Fire

CHICAGO (AP) — Five gunmen invaded a south side restaurant and tavern early today, shot one policeman, wounded another and then disarmed them and two other detectives before fleeing with $400.

A customer and a dozen shots at the fleeing gunmen, forcing them to abandon their car because of a flat tire. Ten bullet holes were found in the rear of the car. Later police seized one man who was carrying one of the detective's guns and a police badge.

The four policemen were in plain clothes and two were off duty when the holdup men entered the bar. When detective Clyde Winn, 49, heard the gunmen shout "stickup," he drew his gun and was shot in the right thumb.

One of the robbers shouted to his companions, "They're policemen, shoot them!" as he fired on Winn. Stephen Heskin, also an off-duty detective, was slugged as he attempted to draw his gun.

The gunmen then forced Winn, Heskin, and the other detectives, Heskins' brother, John, 43, also off duty, and Thomas Burns, 38, along with two customers to lie on the floor while they took the money from two cash drawers. They then took the detectives' guns and the badges from the Heskin brothers.

Well, if that sounds reasonable and enticing to boot, just make like Howard Booth, resident and owner of Booth Radio and Television.

Mr. Booth and his wife yesterday left Belleville on such a trip. How he qualified for it was by being the dealer selling the most Northern Electric heavy appliances in this district.

Chinese Art Being Displayed By Jeweller

It is pretty hard to improve on the attractiveness of a genuine $20 gold piece.

There is a certain aura of sophistication about a $20 gold piece that has undeniable charm. Making a gold piece less attractive would seem about as foolish as gilding the lily.

It can be done, however.

Just how it can be done is on display in the window of O'Connor's Jewel Box, Front St.

This particular U.S. $20 gold piece has been encircled with an exquisitely hand wrought 22-carat gold filigree. At the top of the coin two Chinese peacocks support a four-leaf clover with their beaks to which is attached a gold bail on a swivel. The filigree trails from the extended plumage of the peacocks all the way round the rim of the coin which is about the same size as a Canadian silver dollar. Detailed work has been done on both sides of the filigree.

The coin, owned by Bill Wong of the Bayshore Cafe, is a gift of Mr. Wong's mother in her grandmother's native land. It arrived in Belleville a few days ago after having been shipped from Hong Kong.

The entire piece, which can be worn as a medallion, has been valued at $100. Including the burnishing of the coin itself.

Guaranteed Annual Wage Sought By Labor Outlined to Foremen

"The guaranteed annual wage is really supplementary unemployment benefits," Eamon Park, legislative director for Canada of the United Steelworkers of America, told 75 members of the Quinte District Foremen's Club at a meeting Tuesday in the YMCA.

The guaranteed annual wage is a proposition adopted by labor unions in recent years for dulling the impact of unemployment on the economy of our country and our communities. The plan is devised to give management the stimulus to plan production so there are minimum layoffs each year," said Mr. Park.

Checking fluctuations in employment between high and low periods during the year is one objective of the plan.

"Some fluctuations cannot be avoided," said Mr. Park. "Winter weather is inevitable. The GAW program is to reduce the consequences of fluctuation in employment. Some industry is prone to vent layoffs and to give consistency of employment to workers."

Mr. Park explained that the idea, originally tried in some industries, first initiated in the United States, subsequently had been incorporated by agreement in collective bargaining schemes.

He described the recent agreement between the Steelworkers of America and the Continental Can Company of Canada whereby the guaranteed annual wage plan, "by stages over a year," is the first annual plan in Canada to provide wage security on a 52-week basis.

Under the plan the company started out with $5 per week set aside five cents per hour per employee in the plan. Contributions will continue to build until Dec., 1957. No payments will be made from the fund until Dec., 1956.

PAYMENTS LIMITED

Payments will be limited to two-thirds with three years or more of service.

Payments will supplement the Unemployment Insurance payment to a maximum level of $30 per week after the waiting period. The period of payment will be 52 weeks in the agreement with the Continental Can. If funds run out before the 52 weeks the weekly payments cease. Workers must qualify for Unemployment Insurance to qualify for GAW payments.

"The guaranteed annual wage plan is not a panacea to create employment," said Mr. Park. "This is insurance against loss of pay because of layoffs.

"It is not financial for corporations to set aside reserves for machinery and dividends. The union sees this (GAW trust) fund as a reserve set aside for employment. It is a reserve set aside for the investors of money."

Mr. Park stated that the problems of reliable GAW payments to Unemployment Insurance have not been solved. Unemployment Insurance payments continue for a maximum of 36 weeks, while the Continental Can agreement provides 52 weeks. Unemployment Insurance payments are aimed to workers not receiving wages.

There has been no test case about payments of supplementary benefits along with unemployment insurance but we expect no difficulty in effecting necessary changes in Federal legislation," he said.

"No one in the labor movement suggests the guaranteed annual wage is any alternative to industry and government planning to avoid the full flood of unemployment. It is a limited program to meet a limited problem."

WANT TO WORK REGULARLY

Mr. Park said that he fully expected one effect of the spread of GAW plans would be to raise the amount of unemployment insurance payments.

"Most men naively paid out of the Unemployment Insurance fund the best it taken from the employer's fund. Employers will pressure government to increase the level of unemployment insurance payments."

Mr. Park described as "an inevitable consequence," of GAW plans a move by industry to plan for "regularization" of employment all year round.

"That is what labor wants," he said. "Labor wants to work regularly."

Mr. Park predicted that "the conclusion of the General Motors' strike will result in a number of GAW plans in Canada like those in United States."

"The guaranteed annual wage is a matter of prime concern in the primary steel industry in the United States and Canada and will definitely be a factor in collective bargaining in Canada in the coming year," he said.

"Development of the GAW program will be on the basis of doing what we can do from year to year. I do not think that spread of the plan is likely to lead to labor-management strife."

Mr. Park was introduced by Mr. Fred Fenwick and thanked by Mr. Carman Westlake.

A question period followed Mr. Park's address.

Club president Mr. Paul Cleary presided.

False Alarms Serious Offences Says Fire Chief

The Belleville Fire Department does not appreciate false alarms at all.

At that hour this morning the fire department answered a false alarm on Humewood Drive, which was sent in by someone supposedly reporting a grass fire.

Icy condition of the streets this morning added to the hazard of darkness.

"False alarms are serious offences," said Chief Gerald Vance this morning. "They are even more serious when the streets are in such dangerous condition. Prosecutions will follow any repeaters," he warned.

The only other run by the fire department was to the home of Robert Mallet

"Exotic Ceylon" is the title of Robert Mallett's technicolor film which will be shown in the BCI auditorium Thursday, Nov. 24th.

The picture, third in this year's Kiwanis World Travel and Adventure series, is a Burton Holmes travelogue.

Ceylon, known as "The Jewel of the Orient", is an enchanting land of elephants, rubber, teak and tea, rare woods and fine gems. Beauty and exotic wild round every turn in the road.

Ceylon is a storybook land with exciting and strange scenes, fire-walkers, temple dancers and far-eastern strangeness. Glorious color and graphic photography complement Mr. Mallet's excellent narration.

Rabbi M. Lewin Special Speaker At Kiwanis Club

Faith in God must be reinforced by deeds, Rabbi Morris Lewin reminded Belleville Kiwanis Club yesterday, and to this end he had high praise for the spirit of the service club.

"I know within the teaching of my faith as within the Protestant and Catholic faiths there is the teaching that God is love in the highest, in the purest and that He can only be found by service to Him and to His children," Rabbi Lewin told the club.

The world today has extreme power at its command and more than ever before needs the spiritual power such as that contained in the message of Kiwanis, "because if we have power, brute power, separated from the love of God and love of His children we will destroy ourselves," he said.

Kiwanis, he said, "had taken the folk songs of the races and made them into "a hymn of glory, a hymn of service to God and all His children."

"God bless you and the Kiwanis for what you are doing and are trying to do for God and His children," he asserted.

Rabbi Lewin was introduced by Kiwanian Syd Rose and thanked by Bern Collins.

Douglas Johansen Found Not Guilty Of Arson Charge

In a verdict directed by His Honor County Judge J. C. Anderson, a Hastings County petit jury this morning found Douglas Johansen, Stirling township farmer, not guilty of arson in connection with the burning of his barn last April 18th.

The jury was out only ten minutes before bringing in the verdict of acquittal.

The case against Mr. Johansen commenced Monday as the first criminal case during the current general sessions of the peace. After a half-dozen witnesses had been called the jury was excluded while the admissibility of a statement given by the accused to investigating officers was decided by the court.

The case within-is-trial lasted all day Tuesday with Judge Anderson intimating late in the afternoon that he was prepared to make a ruling Wednesday morning.

STATEMENT INADMISSIBLE

This morning Judge Anderson ruled the statement inadmissible. Acting Crown Attorney Ralph L. Graham announced he would call no further witnesses.

Defence counsel Malcolm Robb then made an offer no evidence and asked Judge Anderson to direct the jury to return a verdict of acquittal on the grounds of no evidence.

With the jury back in its seats Judge Anderson told the members there was nothing in the evidence before them to show that the accused had set fire to his barn.

"Therefore, I charge you as a matter of law that you must return a verdict of not guilty," he directed.

Following the not guilty verdict by the jury, Judge Anderson formally discharged Mr. Johansen.

"You realize now," Judge Anderson told the acquitted man, "that the law provides certain protection to the accused and as result the finding of the jury must have been one of not guilty."

"However, you know in your own conscience whether you set the fire. Whether you did or did not, this has been a warning to you and to all others. You are now discharged."

Evidence earlier in the trial had shown Mr. Johansen had purchased his farm on Lake township in 1951 and that there was still a mortgage outstanding of $1,375. A payment of $200 had been due shortly after the day the barn burned.

STATEMENT ISSUE

Two witnesses were called by the Crown during the trial within-trial to determine the admissibility of the statement given by the accused to investigating officer Roy Simmons of the Ontario Fire Marshal's department. These were Inspector Simmons and OPP Constable Bruce Lunn of Peterborough.

Inspector Simmons told of going to the ruins of the burned barn with Douglas Johansen and P. C. Lunn and related how his investigation showed that the foundation of the barn had been bowed, indicating the barn was in poor condition prior to the fire.

He said the accused had told him that the barn had not been wired for electricity that there was no heating in the barn. Mr. Johansen had told him that he did not smoke.

The witness said he could find no natural cause for the fire and said he suggested to the accused that the blaze must have been of incendiary origin.

Later during the same afternoon the accused had given a statement to the inspector.

DEFENCE WITNESSES

Two witnesses were called by Defence Counsel Robb. These were Mr. and Mrs. Murray Ellis at whose farm Mr. Johansen had been staying at the time of the fire at his barn. Both Mr. and Mrs. Ellis testified that on April 22nd, four days after the fire, Mr. Johansen had left their farm with inspector Simmons about 1.30 and had not returned until a quarter to six that evening.

This morning Judge Anderson, in ruling on the admissibility of the statement given by Mr. Johansen, said that the evidence had not satisfied him that the statement had been given unfreely voluntarily and therefore it must be rejected. He spoke for 20 minutes giving reasons for his ruling the statement inadmissible.

Jas. Orval Ross Is Facing Trial For Bank Robbery

The trial of James Orval Ross, 31, of Toronto, charged with robbery on the Toronto-Dominion Bank at Marmora last June 29, got underway late this morning at the current General Session of the Peace for Hastings County before Judge J. C. Anderson and petit jury.

Monday the grand jury had returned a true bill against the accused man. He appeared in the prisoner's box wearing handcuffs as the trial opened.

The Crown's case is being presented by Acting Crown Attorney Ralph Graham, while the accused is represented by Kenneth G. M. Ross, Belleville solicitor.

The Marmora bank was robber last June 29th by two men who gained entrance prior to banking hours by representing themselves as plumbers. They tied up the bank staff and escaped with $5,400.

First witness called as the trial got underway this morning was OPP Cpl. Reg Rackham, police photographer and fingerprint identification officer.

IDENTIFIES PHOTOGRAPHS

Cpl. Rackham identified photographs taken of the bank's interior following the robbery. He said that he had found no fingerprints of the accused in the bank nor on the door which was allegedly used by the bank robbers. One clear print on a piece of cellophane found in the car was not that of the accused, the officer said.

Bank accountant Arthur Moss was then called to the stand.

He told of leaving the second floor apartment a few doors from the bank on the morning of the robbery and of seeing two men seated on the steps of the bank as he approached the building.

Also waiting at the bank's door was Miss Mina McKinnon, bank stenographer.

The witness said the two men got to their feet as he approached the bank's front door.

HAD THEY WEAR PLUMBERS

"One of the men asked me if we were having trouble with our plumbing at the bank. I replied that there and the man said they had been sent from Stirling to make repairs."

The witness told the court that men from Hatton's Hardware at Stirling had been at the bank for two days previous.

As the four entered the bank Mr. Moss said the larger of the two men had produced a silver-barrelled revolver and said "this is a holdup. Don't try anything foolish and no harm will be done."

Later the smaller of the two men produced a black object which the witness said appeared to be a revolver.

WERE TIED UP

Mr. Moss and Miss McKinnon were then tied up on the floor. Their hands were tied with tape and the feet were bound with rope.

The robbers had then asked who had the combination to the safe and were told by Mr. Moss that Miss McKinnon had one combination while Mr. Cook had the other. Both were needed to open the safe.

Mr. Moss said Miss McKinnon was then untied and allowed to turn off her combination. She was then retied.

The larger man then asked how many were employed at the bank and when they would arrive," the witness testified.

He then said the robbers had pulled down the blinds on the bank's windows. This action, he said, was a pre-arranged signal by which bank employees in the building were going to indicate to police that all was well in the bank.

Mr. Cook then had entered the bank, using the bank's front door, and was promptly told by the robbers to sit on the floor and not try anything foolish. Mr. Moss said he had advised Mr. Cook to cooperate with the robbers and told him to turn his combination as the robbers requested.

The witness described the arrival of other employees at the bank until all had arrived except the manager, Mr. Carl McKay.

Here the proceedings were adjourned until after lunch.

NOW IS THE TIME

Now is the time for all good people to come to the aid of the city.

That sentence is more than a copy book maxim. It is a call to duty.

This clarion call is being sounded throughout most municipalities in Ontario at this time of year. It is, unfortunately, a call that too often goes unheeded.

Ontario municipalities are growing. Civic problems are becoming more numerous and more arduous and time consuming.

Belleville's problems of balancing residential and industrial-commercial assessment, financing an expanding educational plant, providing municipal services for expanding residential areas, developing the recreational aspects of parks and playgrounds, solving the traffic tangle, joint planning of suburban development with adjoining townships for mutual benefit in the future—all require solution.

These, and many more, are the problems confronting Belleville's progressive citizenry. They must be solved. They will not go away with wishful thinking nor will they solve themselves. They must be approached intelligently, analyzed thoroughly and attacked constructively with resolution and vigor.

It is every citizen's duty to contribute to the solution of municipal problems to the best of his or her ability, because it is true that the bulk of the work must be shouldered by elected representatives it is imperative that the citizenry as a whole support the candidates for public office.

The first requisite of good government is good candidates. Persons of ability must not stand aside from the obligation of public service on frivolous or personal reasons. They should be prepared to stand for office so that the electors will have a choice among the best candidates available in the selection of their representatives.

Citizens interested in good civic government who cannot stand for office themselves should be prepared to support good candidates to the full extent of their time and ability. Even when candidates who aspire to public office is the least one should be prepared to do to protect the nobility of the franchise and sacred trust of democratic government. Good candidates can be persuaded before the full potential of a secret ballot can be realized.

Nomination day in Belleville is Friday, November 25th. Election day is Monday, December 5th. The job of constituting good government in Belleville receives its first major test on Nomination Day.

With a large number of good candidates to choose from the electors hardly can go wrong in selecting a mayor, aldermen, public and separate school trustees and a public utilities commissioner.

Belleville has many municipal problems. The people who can solve them are in Belleville. It is vital for the city and for the citizens that these people be nominated for public office on Friday and that the nominees, in turn, stand for office prepared to work for the best interests of all citizens if they are elected.

RICHER — AND HAPPIER

We are richer, but are we happier?
A contemporary asks that question. It is a familiar one.

Many of us will answer in the negative. Wealth does not unlock the gate to happiness. The increase in our standard of living the past decade or two may not have made us more contented.

What we forget is that, twenty years or so ago, we were the happier. We were then poorer than than we are today—but we were not hungry.

Ask those who were on relief in the thirties whether they think today's richer Canada is a happier Canada. There will be no unanimity in the answer.

Ask the man whose children were cold and hungry twenty years ago whether these children are now happier as they raise their own families than he was as he hunted in vain for a job.

Not all our increased wealth has been wasted on frills which cannot make us happy. Much of it has been spent wisely, to make Canadians better-fed, better-clothed and healthier than they were in those bleak depression years. Food, clothes and good health may not assure happiness, but they help. Those who think they do not have never been hungry, cold and ill.

EGGSACTLY!

Those who say there is nothing new under the sun obviously have not visited the Royal Winter Fair.

There is one which apparently has definitely says blue eggs. O. P. Johnston, 80-year-old Toronto furniture dealer, finally produced this bird last year, after six years of breeding. By crossing the processing some of his chickens laid eggs of varying hues, red, khaki, olive, green, grey, chocolate and light green.

Here is a man born before his time. If the technicolor eggs had been laid this year, think of the market Mr. Johnston would have had selling picnic eggs matching the colors of the picnickers' 1955 cars!

JUST FOLKS

AMERICANS

I've been 'round the land a bit,
I've travelled the rails afar,
And this I've learned as the bends I've turned:
Men are men wherever they are.

There's the self-same warmth to the western grip
As there is to the eastern shake,
And the welcome true which they give to you
Resembles the home-folks'
make.

I've found them loving the Stars and Stripes
Wherever I've had to roam,
And standing fast to her splendid past
The way we do at home.

Or whether by mountain or whether by sea,
The tropic or temperate zone,
The kids I'd meet on the far off street
Were very much like our own.

I've heard men telling the things they thought
And talking life's problems
o'er,
And I've ready to swear that they spoke out there
Like men I had heard before.

On the map we are bordered apart by states;
On the flag every state's a star!
But from coast to coast, when it counts the most,
American, all we are!

Trained Apes May Do Work

By Ed Reed

(Nor et Blanc, Paris)

Will apes and monkeys eventually replace workers in fields and factories? That question is posed by a famous British scientist, Sir George Thompson, in a recent book.

Starting with the idea that it has been possible to domesticate any animal, Sir George wonders why nobody seems to have had the idea of utilizing the anthropoids which seem to have been devised by nature to be our most service to man — the simians.

"Just think," the Nobel prize winning scientist says, "what a delicuses automatics, "how complicated must be a machine capable of picking oranges without damaging the orange trees! But a monkey can accomplish this very perfectly and after only a relatively short period of training."

Sir George adds that the cost of such a monkey, purchase price, food, training, etc.) is much less than that of a mechanical device, and he proposes that the climbing animal should be employed everywhere possible.

It is difficult to appraise how well founded the ideas of Sir George may be. Nevertheless, it must note that they run the risk of stirring up violent labor unionists.

An English horticulturist, for example, tried the experiment, exposed by Sir George. He added his pet monkey to the number of farm workers hired to pick fruit. At the end of the day his hands were vastly amused at having such a helper, but when they noticed that the animal was doing the work as well as they and much faster, they threatened to strike in protest against this "scab," who literally "worked for peanuts."

Should Probe All Shootings

(Ottawa Journal)

This happened in Ontario. A matter of fact police report that a member of a hunting party "shot to death from a wound opened by a .30-30 slug in his thigh". He had been struck down by a rifle bullet fired at a deer by "another member of the party".

The police made some enquiries, the story says, and decided that the fatality accidental. And the man who fired the fatal shot was saved from any possible embarrassing publicity by concealment of his name in the phrase "another member of the party".

Meanwhile the poor chap who had bled to death was carried out of the bush to be received by his family and buried. One wonders whether they were philosophical and resigned as the police, as the other members of the party.

The Journal has said before and says again that we show in this country a callous and brutal disregard for human life in this casual and off-hand attitude towards hunting accidents.

Our "big-game" hunters are in no condition, even when they seek as trophies than from pasturing cows, but are sometimes ventures into the bush takes his life in his hands for all that.

Almost An Impediment of Speech

"This is to report on the results I had from following the advice in your pamphlet on Stage Fright and Examination Jitters.

As for the examination jitters, that's only a mild type of misery. This responds to the same treatment.

The correspondent says "the results were excellent, also it has helped to maintain assurance or confidence. Now I can speak with most an impediment of speech."

I discovered a quick cure for stage fright when I was a boy on Chapel Street in Canadaigua. It was the last day of school and I was scheduled to address the parents and friends gathered at the schoolhouse, on the subject: "I'm Just a Little Boy." Thinking it over I realized how silly it would be to tell the audience what I was going to everybody, and so, without explaining anything, I put on instead another act—Little Boy Suddenly Afflicted with Severe Toothache. It worked perfectly. With my fingers in my mouth holding the tooth I never uttered on a word—all I had to do was bawl and bawl, till my dad dragged me off to the bathroom and out of the school.

Some of you may not believe it possible, but I have all the sympathy in the world for any one who suffers Stage-fright, and why I'm so glad to get reports such as the correspondent sent me telling of the benefit derived from the use of the prophylactic I devised for the poor souls who can't escape the ordeal by getting a sudden toothache.

Examination jitters, Never had it myself—not because I was so smart indeed I failed to pass alegbra, physical geography, European history and a few other unimportant or useless subjects. Maybe the algebra, physical geography and European teachers were not such competent teachers as my Latin, Physics and Chemistry teachers were.

Possibly the numerous actors, musicians and speakers have found breathing exercises helpful is the practice of natural breathing for a minute or two just before going

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Those who are deaf and dumb don't have to learn a new language if they regardless of their affliction. Early in life, they lose any sense of shyness with regard to the public's rude interest in their conversation and sign language. In the subway or train last week, two couples were unable to get seats all together, and were separated by five others, and across the aisle from each other. But by gesturing themselves, each couple in view of the other, they managed to have a pleasant party for the journey of over two hours, despite the noise of the train which made conversation even between seat companions difficult.

To the great interest of the other passengers, an interest that slowly developed into thoughtlessness and even a little envy, they later carried on an uninterrupted discussion across the aisle. Even their laughter was soundless, and there was of gaiety and laughter throughout the conversation. I bitterly regret-ed my inability to read the hand language of the deaf, and I was nearer our distinction. I wrote a little note, explaining that I was a newspaper man and a very inquisitive one, and I would dearly love to learn the subject of their conversation had been, because it appeared to be so animated.

I handed the note to the older man of the two couples and he passed it on to the others, and to the others to read. They all laughed and gestured very kindly towards me.

Turning the paper over, the man wrote on it:

"We memorized Dickens' Christmas Carol, and last night rehearsing it".

In this crowded, noisy railroad car, with no audience at all, unless you count us uncomprehending strangers, they actually acted them, they played the Christmas Carol with all the expressions, they played it beautifully.

Britain's School Ties

(By Paul Jennings in "London Calling")

One of the things that strike a foreigner reading for the first time in most leisurely way the English newspapers, the London Times and the rest, is the prominence given to the sporting and social activities of boys and old boys. This is not a disrespectful pursuit describing old people generally: It refers to the pupils of public schools, which are really private schools.

These are the days of the welfare state in England, of equal opportunities, of pronounced antiwretchedness the vogue of the public school education seem as high as ever. Parents seem quite willing to forego the benefits of a concrete schools with their latest scientific equipment and pay fees are entitled as taxpayers to use for their children's education, they make enormous sacrifices to pay, out of their own pockets, to send their children, especially the boys — away to a public school.

Away — that is the important word. For the best part of the year a public school boy is away from home, absorbing the traditions of a special foundation, which are quite unique and unwise completely independent. Some of the public schools are medieval foundations, the whole atmosphere of a public school — the ivy covered buildings, the wide green playing fields, the distant sound of cricket bats in summer and the echoing shouts from the football field in winter, and the rest of it — seem to exercise a

By GEORGE MATTHEWS ADAMS

LEAVE YOURSELF BEHIND

Montaigne, the French essayist who lived the life he wrote about, might be quiet, alone, and free to write, left a book of human knowledge that few, if any, have matched. He said: "Others form the man; I recount him and portray a unique one, ill-shaped and, if I have cast him into the common fashion, it is not for my own fault. But my humor is to leave behind me a true and lifelike picture, such as my relatives may recognize after I have lost the use of it."

Happy should we be to meet and have for a few moments come to us free of those things that should be left behind! Montaigne tells of someone who said to Socrates that a certain man had not in any way been improved by his travels. "I quite believe it," he replied. "He took himself along."

It is a joy to talk with one who seems to have brought a dozen or more others with him, leaving left behind! They are the sort from whom we learn, and in whose company we delight. What does anyone gain by talking with people who are rich, and personal conditions? They want to discover us, and we them. The whole thing is a search for newness, more interesting and important than anything in yesterday's newspaper!

We love to talk with one who has left all his baggage and possessions behind. We meet a noted author, and expect to hear him some sort of a god, only to discover that he is quite like anyone else, maybe less so- I am reminded of that statement Emerson made to one of his essays. He said: What you are speaks so loud that I cannot hear what you have to say."

That is only part of any of us that would be well to have been left behind should be the good influence on others, the kindly word, the helpful deed, and the acts of hope, comfort, and good will. Something invested in the well being and happiness of others.

Post Offices By New Plan

(Financial Post, Toronto)

In the old days one of the jolliest plums a federal political candidate could dangle before the electors was the appointment to a post office. Armouries, wharves and customs houses were also offered, but the post office was best because every town could use one and it decorated the main square. It didn't have to be located on navigable water or near the border or be the headquarters of the local regiment. As a result, rightly or wrongly, the building of post offices and pollicking became intimately associated in the public mind.

In the United States there is a new plain to divorce erection of useful and necessary public buildings from politics. Instead of having the Government build the post office, private builders are to do it. Then sell it to the Government on a lease-purchase arrangement. The price is contained to keep it low, the rental taxes, insurance and so on until the lease period, usually 25 years, has expired. Then only does the Government come into full possession.

A big local advantage is that the building stays on the municipal tax rolls for most of its life.

Something like that in Canada might save the taxpayers money and the Government many a headache. It's a business proposition, business firms are finding the most satisfactory,

Drive-In Jail Planned

(Christian Science Monitor)

The "drive-in" trend has gone a long way toward making it possible for Americans to live without getting out of their cars. There are drive-in restaurants, drive-in theaters, drive-in banks, curbside mailboxes, and drive-in laundries, either for clothes or for the car itself.

Now a community in South Carolina has carried municipal service to the motorist. The city of Camden is building what may be the first drive-in jail. Prisoners will not have to struggle up the police station steps with a resisting drunk; patrol cars will drive down a ramp and deposit prisoners at the cell door — one more out of consideration for the policeman's dignity than for the offender.

The idea of drive-in service is still capable of added possibilities for everyone does not own cars perhaps there would be supermarkets that would pick up the cars and send soups and ready-mixes from his bucket seat instead of pushing carts.

Mother probably thinks school has become pretty much of a drive-in service considering the rainy days she deposits the small fry at the school door. But we know a young chap who will not be convinced the ultimate has arrived until he can drive into one end of the college campus in his convertible and out the other with an education.

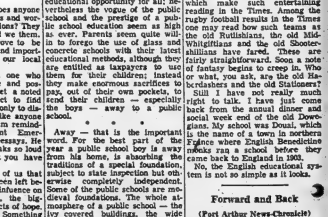
RADAR AND RELIGION

One of the marvels of modern science is the invention of radar. Any officer of a ship who has properly guided his vessel through darkness or fog with the aid of radar can tell you what a wonderful thing it is. Beacons like approaching ships, floating packages or unseen islands appear like magic on the radar scope long before they can be seen with the naked eye. The operation of radar is of symbolic interest to all Christians. For the radar set, in order to obtain its guiding information, must send out signals as well as receive them. It is the returning echoes of its outgoing signals which produce the meaningful traces of light on the radar screen. A set that sends out nothing receives nothing.

The good Christian operates like a radar set. It is not enough for him to remain spiritually inert, indifferent to the signals which God may speak to him or not. The good Christian transmits his signals. to God. He prays. He makes worship, study and meditation. Only in this way does he make himself ready to receive the signals returning from God.



How is your own spiritual radar set? If your reception is poor, you perhaps need to put more power into your outgoing signals.

Hardly an Many

(Niagara Falls Review)

More than 18,000,000 vehicles cross and recross bridges and ferries between Canada and the United States in the course of a year, and we wonder if as many as 3,600 pass in and out from behind the Iron Curtain.

CAMPBELLFORD

H-S Association Discusses Need of Larger Schools

CAMPBELLFORD. — The November meeting of the Campbellford Home and School Association was held in the Kindergarten room of the public school with Rev. O. Barrow presiding.

Miss Carol MacArthur reported on books and cups purchased for the oratorical contest. A letter from the school board requesting suitable candidates who would stand for election on the board and urging parents to take more interest in the candidates who were chosen, was read by the secretary.

ORATORICAL WINNERS

Winners of the Public School Oratorical Contest favored the audience with their winning speeches. They were: 1st Joanne McDonald, 2nd Sandra Ness; 3rd, Lenore Gay.

Mrs. Macmillan reported on the questionnaire recently sent home to give the parents an opportunity to express their opinions on a new school. A discussion followed the reports.

Regarding this matter, Mrs. Helen Cowell, member of the Public School Board, gave a revealing account of the problems found by the Board and the Council.

For several years, the board has noticed that enrolment of the two schools has been increasing, and each year another room has been added until all available space has become occupied. Last year the only available place for another room was in the basement, and while both warm and well lighted, it is still temporary accommodation. When the Board realized the problem this will present in future years, they had a survey taken by the Home and School for the next five years anticipated enrolment, and found that there will be an increase of at least 145 pupils.

To accommodate this enrolment it would take at least three or four new class rooms, and the Board decided that the only answer to this would be to construct a building program. They then consulted the department who agreed that this would be the only thing they could do. They went carefully into the matter to determine if this increase could be due to a sudden influx into Campbellford and Seymour No. 8, but found this was not so. The Board then appointed a building committee, with Mr. Hector Macmillan as its chairman.

HIGH BUILDING RULES

The Department sets down rigid rules for building, as they pay 41 per cent of all costs of building and furnishing a school. The cost of the lot is the only expense it does not share. It also states that there must be a half acre of land for every room built, and they must approve the site. While it seemed that four rooms would take care of the needs for the next five years, it was advised that the cost of six rooms was not too much more, thus assuring future accommodation for some time to come. This plan was approved by the Department, and they gave approval for an amount of $120,000 for building and furnishing a 8-roomed school. The lot is to be bought outside this figure, but this does not necessarily mean that the mentioned amount must be spent. No lot has been purchased as yet.

The board acquainted the Municipal Council with these facts and asked it to apply to the Municipal Board of Ontario for the right to raise debentures to cover this.

The problem then is, that there must be at least three acres of land, and preferably more, in case it is ever necessary in the future to add to the school. By starting early, the board hoped to build without too much haste, which can be costly.

Another thing to be considered is that, if the smallest industry opened in Campbellford, or if any of the present industries should expand and bring in more people, the public school would be entirely unable to cope with the situation. It is reliably reported that one of the present industries has hopes of expanding within the next two years, and it was pointed out by the Appraisal Co., that the growth of Ontario is moving eastward, and it is hardly likely that Campbellford or Seymour No. 8 will miss out in that growth.

Mrs. Macmillan, in the absence of Chief George Rose, reported on the "Teen Town" recreation being set up for the teen-agers.

After the meeting closed refreshments were served by Mrs. T. Brown and Mrs. Murray.

An executive meeting will be held in the Christ Church rectory, Tuesday, November 22, at 8.15.

Wiring Charges At Plowing Match Are Disputed

ESSEX, Ont. (CP) — Directors of the Essex county international plowmen's committee have refused to pay a bill presented by the Essex Electrical Contractors' Association, pending investigation of a "raw deal" in wiring charges at this year's international plowing match at Blythewood.

The action followed a series of complaints from exhibitors who claimed association contractors exploited their monopoly and the emergency demand for their services.

The Essex plowmen's committee voted Monday night to withhold payment of its own bill of $1,036 until it is adjusted.

Committee members also recommended to the Ontario Plowmen's Association that the Ontario department of labor investigate the Essex contractors' association as well as the inspection service of the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission.

KEPT RECORDS

Jack Walker, general chairman of the Essex plowmen's committee, said one concession owner reported electricians had billed him for twice as many hours of labor as they put in. The concessionaire said he kept a record of the workers' time.

"In some cases," Mr. Walker said, "companies who brought their own electricians were told the wiring had to be done by E. S. C. A. men. In addition, concessionaires were told that wiring materials used at the plowing match had no salvage value because they wouldn't pass inspection if used again."

Joint Meeting Held By Two Societies

A joint meeting of the CWL and the Holy Name Societies was held in Holy Rosary Hall with 45 members present.

Father Mallett opened the general meeting with the league prayer and Holy Name promise, after which he spoke briefly to the two organizations on the importance of attending communion in a body and working together unitedly for the good of the parish.

The group then dispersed and the CWL and Holy Name each held its own business meeting.

CWL treasurers and secretaries reports were read and approved.

No social welfare was needed. Christmas baskets will be sent to the needy.

Visitors to the hospital for December 24 are as follows: Mrs. H. Brown, Mrs. A. Eves, Mrs. J. McHugh, Mrs. R. McGuigan, Mrs. E. Schrieder, Mrs. M. Walsh and Mrs. J. Bradden.

Help to clean the church for the 40 hours was needed and several volunteered.

Thanks were tendered to the convenors of the roast beef supper and rummage sale.

Final plans for the Christmas festival were made all receiving a job to do.

A motion was made the meeting adjourned. The remainder of the evening was spent playing cards and dancing.

Refreshments were served by the ladies and a social time spent.

Alpha Lambda B.S.P. Plans Future Events

Mavis Ray presided at a meeting of Alpha Lambda Chapter Beta Sigma Phi on Monday evening at the home of Mrs. G. L. Smith.

Mrs. L. T. Sheppard introduced the cultural program, which dealt with the subject of "Nature" and was presented by Mrs. G. L. Smith with a series of color slides on Canada, Bermuda and Florida.

Mrs. L. D. Read reported that the Sorority doll and layette will remain in the Singer Sewing Machine window until Friday, December 2 at which time the draw will be made there.

Final details for the dinner on November 28, were discussed at which Dr. Edith K. Peterkin, pediatrician, has graciously consented to speak.

SMOTHERED BY TREE

WEST FALMOUTH, Me. (AP)—A lumberjack was suffocated by a tree here Tuesday. The body of Theodore Thomas, 37, was found under a fallen tree that had pinned his face in his dirt. The tree, an 18-inch pine which had been partly uprooted in a storm, apparently fell on Thomas as he was trying to free his power saw.

Grand International Auxiliary Sponsors Attractive Bazaar

Russet and gulf were the keynotes of the attractive autumn bazaar and tea sponsored yesterday afternoon by the Grand International Auxiliary to the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers in the IOOF Hall, Front Street. An ideal autumn day with blue skies and sunshine brought many patrons and friends into the cheering atmosphere with its gaily decorated booths teeming with dainty and attractive merchandise of many varieties.

Those receiving were the president, Mrs. Pearl Buck, and Mrs. Pearl Kerr, Grand Officer of Inspection; while taking the tickets at the door were Mrs. Sarah Morgan, Mrs. Ethel Fisher and Mrs. Marion Wensley.

As usual the booths were nicely arranged around about the four sides of the large assembly room, and in the spacious quadrangle thus formed, seats were pleasingly spaced to give the utmost comfort for those who wished to visit, or to look over their purchases last anyone be forgotten.

FINE GIFT ARTICLES

At the novelty and gift booth there was a fine assortment of articles, any one of which would make a nice Christmas remembrance. There were crocheted, heart-shaped, chair sets in white and pastel borders; a lovely, variegated pink centrepiece; lace-edged handkerchiefs; frilly doyleys; a white satin handkerchief bag; a pink, stuffed Peter Rabbit who looked from his smug expression and lackadaisical air as if he had already been satisfied with the good things of life, as he leaned for support against some prettily embroidered pillow slips, which would go to the holder of the lucky ticket, Mrs. S. Morgan, city; a pot of African violets; panty dishcloths with an appropriate embroidered bag in the shape of a little child's dress; bridge table cloths; fancy pot holders; dish towels; a clown carriage ornament; teacher ornament; a wee Dan doll in pink knitted outfit; and a footstool in green made from fruit juice tins—most serviceable and pretty, and many other dainty articles, all under the convenorship of Mrs. Gladys Cathers and co-convenor, Mrs. Ethel Muir, assisted by Mrs. L. Quirt and Mrs. B. McCormick.

ASSORTED CANDY

The candy table was filled with little bags of cellophane containing an assortment of maple creams, divinity fudge, chocolate fudge, peanut brittle and sponge taffy, as well a juicy gumdrops, and butterscotch buttons. There were dainty plates of these arranged here and there, and boxes. Convening these were Mrs. V. Bignoles and Mrs. A. Graham, assisted by Mrs. Pawn Fisher, Mrs. Grace McIntyre and Mrs. May Boyd.

Another table had seven baskets filled with groceries including canned goods, sugar, jellies, and many packages which would find a welcome on many a pantry shelf. These were supervised by Mrs. Blanche Fisher and would also become the property of the persons holding the lucky tickets, who chanced to be Mrs. W. Graham, Mrs. F. Gardiner, Mrs. E. Jerome, Mrs. C. Fisher, Mrs. G. Gulliver and Mrs. T. Crozier.

The tempting pies, — apple, pumpkin, mince, and others, as well as the lovely and delicious looking cakes, some in pink trim, and others drenched with shredded cocoanut; tiny cookies; individual mince pies; date loaves, short breads, jam-jams, and fragrant homemade bread vanished as if by magic, as did the jars of pickles, jams and jellies. Those convening this booth were Mrs. Elizabeth Hall, A. Van Allan with the helpers Mrs. A. Jordan, Mrs. M. Levitt, Mrs. M. Parsons, and Mrs. M. Cooper. The winner of the pink cake was Mrs. Len Wood of Brighton.

LOVELY WOOL BLANKET

A lovely, two-tone wool blanket, satin bound, in green and beige was presided over by Mrs. Edie Spring, and Mrs. Ann Hammett. This too, would go to the holder of the lucky ticket, which was Mrs. Sarah Morgan, City.

Convening the fine and plentiful assortment of aprons were, Mrs. Anne Avery and , Mrs. Evelyn Kilfedder, assisted by Mrs. Ann McGee and Mrs. Signa Orne. There were aprons made from all manner of colorful prints, some in rainbow stripes of rose, mauve, green and yellow; a child's apron in green with heart-shaped bib bound in red; factory cotton with green binding; and embroidered in cross-stitch showing a puny cat busily ironing; half aprons, big coveralls; aprons with frill of self, and some bound in contrasting colors. A garden of aprons. The prize apron was won by Mrs. A. Clarke.

The tea room was situated upstairs, where the pastel-grey blue background of the walls was offset by the pretty tea table with its white damask cloth, its centre of gold and russet chrysanthemums, mingled with British Columbia huckleberry sprays, and its tri-branched silver candelabra with the three-gold-colored tapers. The tiny serviettes, and the dainty plates of sandwiches, and biscuits each centred by one golden 'mum with the gleaming silver service made a pretty picture. The little guest tables, also had their centre-piece of one golden 'mum and a spray of glossy huckleberry leaves on a white cloth. The centrepiece was won by Mrs. J. Wensley.

GOOD WILL HOSTESS

The good will hostess was Mrs. Elizabeth Taylor, while receiving tickets at the tea room entrance were Mrs. L. Henley and Mrs. Gladys Bain.

Those who presided at the silver services were: Mrs. D. Brown, president of the Lady Firemen, and Mrs. Pearl Johnston, president of the Athletic Society; Mrs. June Muirhead and Mrs. Vera Reynolds, president of the Lady Trashmen; Mrs. Pearl Kerr, GOI, and Mrs. Bessie Clarke, Mrs. Ann Hammett and Mrs. Gladys Grey.

Those who served included: Mesdames R. Gulliver, H. Goodman, M. Payne, M. Petty, M. Cunningham, K. Batchelor, while replenishing the tea table were Mrs. H. Drury, Mrs. R. Kerr, Mrs. May Hammett and Mrs. Mary Colman replenished the oft emptied teapots. Mrs. Jeanie Graves and Mrs. S. Ogden looked after the sandwich trays. In the kitchen making tea were Mrs. Mary Marwell and Mrs. Grace Jones.

A successful and nicely arranged bazaar, and attractive tea bringing appreciative commendation to the general convenors Mrs. Bessie Clarke, and Mrs. Gladys Grey and to the convenors of the dainty tea room, Mrs. Donald Clarke and Mrs. Mabel Welch for a job well done.

ADVICE To the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

ARE YOU BIG ENOUGH TO TRY AGAIN?

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I've been married for four years and went with my husband for two years before we were married. I thought I loved him, but he's hurt me so badly that now I actually hate him.

One good thing I got out of my marriage was a baby, and all my love has gone to him.

I have found out that my husband has been going over to see my girl friend and trying to start something with her. It's been going on for a long time, but my girl friend thought he would stop bothering her so didn't say anything. But when he got more persistent she got scared, came and told me about it. I spoke to him, and he admitted it. He told me he did wrong and he knew it, but he didn't know why.

I've been so sick over this I can't think straight. I know I don't love him any more and I'll never trust him again, but I do love my baby, and I don't want him to have any heartache over it. I don't want my husband, but I won't tell him to leave. He isn't doing anything about that, either. He just says he doesn't know why he did it.

Please tell me what to do. I'm only nineteen and have a long life ahead of me, but I feel I have no future with my husband. But what about my baby? I'm thinking of him. — D.K.

Dear D.K.:

As I see it, there are two big stumbling blocks in the way of trying to solve this problem of yours.

In the first place, it seems quite apparent that you are absolutely right when you say you don't have so upset that you "can't think straight." And in the second place, it is apparent, clear that at the moment, you have no desire whatever to straighten things out. You'd much prefer to break up with your husband and never see him again. Isn't that so, you're thinking of the baby.

Do you imagine for one moment, though, that it would be better for the baby to grow up in a home where his mother believes that she "actually hates" his father? Don't you think this would create an atmosphere that would be very bad indeed for the baby?

If you have no idea whatever of making peace with your husband, and starting over again with both of you making an honest effort to forget the past and work toward a happy future for your son, then you have no right to stay with him. But if, of the other hand, it is really true that your baby's happiness is your primary concern, then you will begin to try and "think straight" enough to be willing to see if you and your husband can't get together again in a relationship that would make your baby feel happy and secure.

Your husband was honest enough to admit that he did the wrong thing. He says he doesn't know why he did it, and it's very likely that he doesn't. All kinds of mistakes are made by people who couldn't give any sensible reason why they made them. Perhaps you are making that kind of mistake right now, when you refuse to forgive and forget.

And perhaps if you showed a different attitude, talked things over with your husband, in a spirit of forgiveness and desire to mend your broken relationship, and proposed to him that you join hands in a promise to each other to start all over again, putting all unhappiness behind, you would gradually build the kind of home together that your baby needs.

Are you big enough to do this?

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT PERFUME

No woman ever feels that she is really, completely and devastatingly feminine until she has put the finishing touch of perfume to her toilette. Her make-up may be perfect, her coiffure ravishing and her frock or gown the smartest this side of the Rue de la Paix but, until she's put those final dabs of perfume behind her ears, along her throat, at her wrists and on her handkerchief, she just doesn't feel "dressed." And that's as it should be, since femininity and fragrance are practically synonymous.

Since perfume is so important to a woman, it, therefore goes without saying, that she should know as much as possible about it and from some remarks we've heard it seems that all women don't.

There are some women, for instance, who "hoard" their loveliest perfumes, even after the bottles have been opened, and use them only on special occasions — using less expensive brands ordinarily. This is a mistake. Once the bottle has been opened the alcohol, which is used as the extract's carrying agent, begins to evaporate and the character of the bouquet is changed. So use your perfume every day since you have opened the bottle.

Other women believe that perfume should never be sprayed from an atomizer. This is a fallacy. Perfume can be sprayed on the neck, shoulders, and arms with delightful effect. Such a method of application actually surrounds a woman with an aura of fragrance which will last a long time. Furthermore, if perfume is sprayed on, the faint mist will not spot or injure fabrics if some droplets reach them. There are many fabrics, however, which would be injured if the perfume were to be applied directly to them.

There are many who believe that perfume should never be applied to furs. This is another fallacy. Many perfumes seem at their loveliest on fur—especially those with what is known as an "animal base".

We have also heard that older women should stick to light, floral scents and leave the more sophisticated types of extracts to their younger sisters. This is nonsense! If a woman finds a perfume that suits her, she can use it at any age at all. If any question of age is involved in the choice of perfume, it should be exactly the opposite to the aforementioned theory. Light, fresh floral scents are best for the teen-ager. Young girls shouldn't use exotic fragrances any more than they should dress in a sophisticated manner, for this detracts from their natural charm and youthful beauty.

Nutrition Important At Crippled Children's Hospital

By Mary Hoore

Four years ago next January the Alberta Red Cross Hospital for Crippled Children in Calgary took in its first young patients. Today it is full of happy kids—happy because a happy dedicated staff injects them with courage and love.

The highly personalized care bestowed on our little crippled Canadians is augmented by the latest discoveries in orthopedic surgery and therapy in the world. This largest orthopedic hospital in Canada was built by contributions from Alberta citizens with assistance from provincial and federal government grants.

The children who are patients are those with disabilities whose parents cannot afford prolonged hospital and medical care, and those who cannot be treated adequately in any other hospital.

I saw one five-weeks-old baby with a harelip who was to have surgical repair the following day, and immediately after saw a little fellow of three with a harelip repair, just as serious, but now becoming almost scarless. Little six-months-old babies were in Denis Browne splints—used for straightening club feet. One grinning three-year-old negress with tight curls is the darling of the staff. She had polio two years ago and is on the long slow road to recovery due to the tireless patience of the therapists. The famous Kenny method is used in the treatment of polio.

In the hydrotherapy department is a Hubbard "keyhole" stainless steel tank. As we watched a little four-year-old girl with arthrogryposis (stiff elbows, wrists, knees, ankles) was flailing her arms around in the warm water, "I'm swimming!" she declared, grinning, and we could see that her wrists were bending a little in that exercise. A boy with cerebral palsy was propelling himself merrily around in a wheel-chair in the play room. In the schoolroom the teacher introduced me as a visitor from Hamilton. A flat-on-his-back pupil ventured "That's Lake Ontario." Score for his geography teacher!

Crutches, casts, braces everywhere—but happiness and courage shone from all the little faces. Small wonder, for when we had tea in the staff dining-room afterwards there they were—shirts of the staff, gay and bubbling with good spirits, drinking tea and eating fresh fruit bread and then rushing off in a rustle of starched uniforms back to the precious charges.

Mrs. McDougal, the dietician, guided us around her stainless steel kitchen—her pride and joy —and one of the best-equipped and staffed in Canada, for anyone knows that the nutrition of young crippled children is of major importance to their total recovery. (Tomorrow Hospital Menus.)

WEDDING PRESENT SHOULD BE SENT TO BRIDE-TO-BE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My cousin is to be married soon, and I would like to know if it is the correct thing to address my wedding present to him. Since I have not met the girl he is marrying, I feel that I should not include her name in the present. However, Mother says that I should, as it is customary that all wedding gifts are addressed to the bride-to-be. Who is right? — Margaret

Your mother is right . . . you should send your wedding present to the bride-to-be, even though you have not met her.

Bringing Up Baby

Mum Collected by Mrs. Dan Taylor (Member of 3)

Just because winter is on the way is no reason to skip baby's daily airing. (Unless it's a rainy or unusually cold day!) Babies thrive on cool fresh air. In rosies the complexion, makes little appetites "rise & shine." A few helpful reminders:

- Check weather reports before venturing out.
- Clothing should be cosy, but comfortable. Tight bundling restricts circulation.
- A smitch of baby oil, rubbed lightly over baby's face is a good chap preventive.
- A square of sheet plastic is a good carriage accessory in case you're caught in a storm.

Winter or summer baby needs daily quota of proteins for growth, strength and the development of all body structures. Gerber protein-rich Strained Meats fill the bill. Only savory, selected cuts go into these special meats for babies. After careful trimming, they're pressure cooked with special care to preserve fine quality, delicious true-meat flavors. Most of the fat and fiber is removed, so even tiny babies can digest these as easily as milk.

P. S. There are 6 Strained Meats for little ones — 3 evenly mixed Junior Meats for tots with a few teeth.

2 tips on the same subject. How to snip baby's fingernails? Two mothers suggest these ways: (1) Run baby's fingernails through a bit of baby powder so you can see exactly where to snip. (2) Seat baby in your lap in front of a mirror. Self-reflected glory can do a lot to distract baby.

End of a meal treat that may well call for a repeat order. That's Gerber Strained Fruit Dessert—a winning combination of orange juice, pineapple juice and plump apricots—blended with a touch of tapioca for the most delightful texture ever. Gerber-Ogilvie Baby Foods, Ltd., Niagara Falls, Canada.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

ARE YOU BIG ENOUGH TO TRY AGAIN?

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I've been married for four years and went with my husband for two years before we were married. I thought I loved him, but he's hurt me so badly that now I actually hate him.

One good thing I got out of my marriage was a baby, and all my love has gone to him.

I have found out that my husband has been going over to see my girl friend and trying to start something with her. I've been going on for a long time, but my girl friend thought he would stop bothering her so didn't say anything. But when he got more persistent, she got scared, and came and told me about it. I spoke to him, and he admitted it. He told me he did wrong and he knew it, but he didn't know why.

I've been so sick over this I can't think straight. I know I don't love him any more and don't trust him again, but I do love my baby, and I don't want him to have any heartache over it. I don't want my husband, but I won't tell him. I'm doing my leaving. He isn't doing a say-thing about that, either. He just says he doesn't know why he did it.

Please tell me what to do. I'm only young, and have a long life ahead of me, but I feel I have no future with my husband. But what will happen to the baby? I'm thinking of him. — D.K.

Dear D.K.:

As I see it, there are two big stumbling blocks in the way of trying to solve this problem of yours.

In the first place, it seems quite apparent that you are absolutely right when you say you have been so upset that you "can't think straight." And in the second place, it is equally clear that at the moment, you have no desire whatever to straighten things out. You'd much prefer to break up with your husband and never see him again. But, you say, you're thinking of the baby.

Do you imagine for one moment, though, that it would be better for the baby to grow up in a home where his mother believes that she "actually hates" his father? Don't you think this would create an atmosphere that would be very bad indeed for the baby?

If you have no idea whatever of making peace with your husband, and starting over again with both of you making an honest effort to forget the past and work toward a happy future for your son, then you have no right to stay with him. But if, on the other hand, it is really true that your baby's happiness is your primary concern, then you will begin to try and "think straight" enough to be willing to see if you and your husband can't get together again in a relationship that would make your baby safe and secure.

Your husband was honest enough to admit that he did the wrong thing. He says he doesn't know why he did it, and it's very likely that he doesn't. All kinds of mistakes are made by people who couldn't give any sensible reason why they made them. Perhaps you are making that kind of mistake right now, when you refuse to forgive and forget.

And perhaps if you showed a different attitude, talked things over with your husband, in a spirit of forgiveness and desire to mend your broken relationship, and proposed to him that you join hands in a promise to each other to start all over again, putting all unhappiness behind you, you would gradually build the kind of home together that your baby needs.

Are you big enough to do this?

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

WHEN NAMES ARE IMPRINTED ON CHRISTMAS CARDS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When the names of a married couple are to be imprinted under the message on Christmas cards, should the husband's or the wife's name come first? That is, Anne and Arthur Robinson or Arthur and Anne Robinson? — Anne

The wife's name comes first when the names are imprinted Anne and Arthur Robinson . . . the sequence of names more courteous to Anne.

WEDDING PRESENT SHOULD BE SENT TO BRIDE-TO-BE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My cousin is to be married soon, and I would like to know if it is the correct thing to address my wedding present to him. Since I have not met the girl he is marrying, I feel that I should not include her name in the present. However, Mother says that I should, as it is customary that all wedding gifts are addressed to the bride-to-be. Who is right? — Margaret

Your mother is right . . . you should send your wedding present to the bride-to-be, even though you have not met her.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT PERFUME

No woman ever feels that she is really, completely and devastatingly feminine until she has put the finishing touch of perfume to her toilette. Her make-up may be perfect, her coiffure ravishing and her frock or gown the smartest this side of the Rue de la Paix but, until she's put those final dabs of perfume behind her ears, along her throat, at her wrists and in her handkerchief, she just doesn't feel "dressed." And that's as it should be, since femininity and fragrance are practically synonymous.

Since perfume is so important to a woman, it, therefore goes without saying, that she should know as much as possible about it and, from some remarks we've heard, it seems that all women don't.

There are some women, for instance, who "hoard" their loveliest perfumes, even after the bottles have been opened, and use them only on special occasions — using less expensive brands ordinarily. This is a mistake. Once the bottle has been opened the alcohol, which is used as the extract's carrying agent, begins to evaporate and the character of the bouquet is changed. So use your perfume every day once you have opened the bottle.

Other women believe that perfume should never be sprayed from an atomizer. This is a fallacy. Perfume can be sprayed on the neck, shoulders, and arms with delightful effect. Such a method of application actually surrounds a woman with an aura of fragrance which will last a long time. Furthermore, if perfume is sprayed on, the faint mist will not spot or injure fabrics if some droplets reach them. There are many fabrics, however, which would be injured if the perfume were to be applied directly to them.

There are many who believe that perfume should never be applied to furs. This is another fallacy. Many perfumes seem at their loveliest on fur—especially those with what is known as an 'animal' base.

We have also heard that older women should stick to light, floral scents and leave the more sophisticated types of extracts to their sense. If a woman finds a perfume she likes, she likes it, no matter what its age is involved in the choice of perfume, it should be exactly the opposite to the above-mentioned theory. Light, fresh floral scents are best for the teen-ager. Young girls shouldn't use exotic fragrances any more than they should dress in sophisticated clothes, for this detracts from their natural charm and youthful beauty.

Nutrition Important At Crippled Children's Hospital

By Mary Moore

Four years ago next January the Alberta Red Cross Hospital for Crippled Children in Calgary took in its first young patients. Today it is full of happy kids—happy because a happy dedicated staff injects them with courage and love.

The highly personalized care bestowed on our little crippled Canadians is augmented by the latest discoveries in orthopedic surgery and therapy in the world. This largest orthopedic hospital in Canada was built by contributions from Alberta citizens with assistance from provincial and federal government grants.

The children who are patients are those with disabilities whose parents cannot afford prolonged hospital and medical care, and those who cannot be treated adequately in any other hospital.

I saw one five-weeks-old baby with a harelip who was to have surgical repair the following day, and immediately after saw a little fellow of three with a harelip repair, just as serious, but now becoming almost scarless. Little six-month-old babies were in Denis Browne splints—used for straightening club feet. One grinning three-year-old negress with tight curls is the darling of the staff. She had polio two years ago and is on the long slow road to recovery due to the tireless patience of the therapists. The famous Kenny method is used in the treatment of polio.

In the hydrotherapy department is a Hubbard "keyhole" stainless steel tank. As we watched a little four-year-old girl with arthrogryposis (stiff elbows, wrists, knees, ankles) was flailing her arms around in the warm water. "I'm swimming" she declared, grinning, and we could see that her wrists were bending a little in this exercise. A boy with cerebral palsy was propelling himself merrily around in a wheel-chair in the play room. In the schoolroom the teacher introduced me as a visitor from Hamilton. A flat-on-his-back pupil ventured "That's on Lake Ontario." Score for his geography teacher!

Crutches, casts, braces everywhere—but happiness and courage shone from all the little faces. Small wonder, for when we had tea in the staff dining-room afterwards there they were—shifts of the staff, gay and bubbling with good spirits, drinking tea and eating fresh fruit bread and then rushing off in a rustle of starched uniforms back to their precious charges.

Mrs. McDougal, the dietician, guided us around her stainless steel kitchen—her pride and joy second one of the best-equipped and staffed in Canada, for anyone knows that the nutrition of young crippled children is of major importance to their total recovery. (Tomorrow Hospital Menus.)

AFTERNOON FRIZE

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

Peau de sole, that delightfully soft yet crisp fabric that hugs the body, is used for a shapely dress for late afternoon festivities. Done in brown, it is highlighted with pink silk faille tucked into the cuffed neckline, near the shoulders of the short, draped sleeves. The pink faille is also used for the high-placed belt which comes from the cuff to make a tailored bow with streamer ends in back for a frankly flirtatious note.

Youth for Christ Rally Held At Baptist Church

The Youth for Christ rally held in Victoria Avenue Baptist church Saturday night opened with words of welcome by Mr. Jim Blackwood, of Bowmanville, after which Mr. Ernie Belch led in a lively sing-song.

Those who participated in the rally were from Napanee, Pickering, Whitby, Toronto, Consecon, Oshawa, Marmora and other outlying points.

Mr. George Butcher of Stirling, led in prayer.

The first musical package which was rendered by Stan Mann and his eight-piece ensemble was "Let's Go Forward with God," and "There's Power in the Blood" A harmonica trio, played two lovely melodies, entitled "Precious Memories," and "This World is Not My Home."

SPEAKER

Mr. Blackwood introduced the speaker of the evening, Mr. Charles Main of Scotland, who chose as his text, John 3:15-16 and 1st John 4:8, 16 and 19. He gave three reasons why one should love the Son of God: "We love Him because of what He has done for us."—He saved us from the wrath to come. If we are not saved from wrath, we are not saved at all. We are saved from an eternal hell. There is no need for any person in the world to go to hell, because Jesus paid it all when He died on Calvary. We therefore can sing with the hymn writer, "O Thou Blest Rock of Ages, I'm Hiding in Thee".

"We love Him because He saved us by His own precious blood. If you are not saved by His blood, you are not saved at all. In Exodus 12:13 we read, 'And the blood shall be to you for a token upon the houses where ye are; and when I see the blood, I will pass over you.' "Thank God," Mr. Main said, "there is a fountain filled with blood drawn from Emmanuel's veins."

"We love Him because He saved us to an inheritance incorruptible, undefiled, reserved in heaven. He saved us for Himself," Mr. Main went on to say that, "some day soon we, who have been saved and have on garments which have been made spotless by the precious blood of the Lamb of God, are going to Heaven to meet Him in the skies. He is going to present us to the Father with exceeding great joy, without spot or wrinkle.

ICE CREAM IS A COMMON LANGUAGE

When 25 orphans from the village of Borny visited the RCAF air division near Metz, France, little Therese was too shy to enjoy the visit. But she responded to the personal treatment of Corporal Marcel Boucher when he convinced her of the delights of ice cream. The orphans toured the administration buildings and the school, making friends with many of the French-speaking personnel. (Central Press Canadian).

Says Canadian Living Standard Will Increase

TORONTO (CP) — Canadians will likely see a 50-per-cent increase in their standard of living before the end of this century, Ira G. Needles, president of B. F. Goodrich Canada Ltd., predicted Tues. in an address to the Advertising and Sales Club of Toronto.

Canadians, he added, will live longer, marry sooner, raise more children, give their children better educations, live in better houses, work less and play more. Young people wanted, needed and were determined to have a high standard of living. They wanted to own their own home, a car, washing and drying machines, refrigerators and other household needs now counted as necessities for modern living.

Mr. Needles' remarks were contained in a text released to the press in advance of delivery.

To accomplish her possibilities, Canada needed leaders of vision and courage, followers who would transform visions into hard-hitting realities, and, more than anything else, a well-informed public.

Industry could rightly be proud of the part it was playing and if the people of Canada were given the facts of the free enterprise system they would support it. This presented a challenge to business leaders, said Mr. Needles.

Crown Company Tolls Exorbitant Says Yellowknife

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

EDMONTON (CP)—Snow-bound Yellowknife, tucked in the northern arm of Great Slave lake, Tuesday charged a federal crown company with exacting "exorbitant profits" in transportation tolls.

The charge was levelled at the Northern Transportation Company, a subsidiary of the crown-owned Eldorado Mining and Refining Co. It carries about 90 per cent of the water freight going to the gold-mining town 800 miles north of Edmonton.

The Yellowknife municipality and its board of trade said in a submission to the Gordon economic commission that it is difficult to reconcile the "fantastic profits" of this company with frequent federal government statements saying the administration is really enthusiastic about northern development.

Yellowknife, biggest settlement in the Northwest Territories, said northern folks face heavy living costs. Freight charges had to be reduced. The federal government has the power to do so. One modest reduction had been made. Yellowknife hoped there will be more before the 1956 navigation season opens.

Yellowknife's brief was among a number from the northern regions submitted and discussed by the commission now in its second day at Edmonton hearings. It goes on to Calgary Thursday.

Detroit Auto Heir's Wife Punched in Nose

JANESVILLE, Wis. (AP)—Mrs. Horace Dodge, wife of the multi-millionaire Detroit auto heir, Monday filed a $300,000 civil damage suit against a Spanish musician, who, she said, punched her in the nose at a restaurant "because he thought I was part of the hired help."

The suit named Mario Escudero, 27, as defendant.

The incident from which the damage suit stems, occurred Friday night at the restaurant in nearby Beloit, where Escudero was a customer. Mrs. Dodge said she was there with a party of friends and had been singing "a little, just for fun," with a trio of house musicians. She said one of the visitors asked her to sing in Spanish for them. When she declined on the grounds that she didn't know any Spanish, Mrs. Dodge said, "Escudero hit me."

CLAIMS INSULT

Escudero, accompanist with a Spanish dance troupe, entered no plea but told newspapermen, through an interpreter, that Mrs. Dodge "insulted me in French." Escudero said she struck up a conversation with him in Fren and that he told her to leave hi alone. He said he started to lea the bar with his date, but th Mrs. Dodge held on to his co tail and followed him outside her stocking feet.

GOOSE BAY, Labrador (CP)—The German racehorse Ataturk was among passengers stranded by weather at this frigid air crossroads.

Ataturk—bedded down snugly in an RCAF hangar Thursday—was being flown from New York to Dusseldorf Sunday when his plane developed oil cooler trouble. The RCAF fired him up with a plywood stall. It was one of the few times that a horse's whinny was ever heard on this bleak plateau.

Suggest Tiger May Be Loose In New Mexico

GALLUP, N. M. (AP)—A tiger may be roaming the Navajo reservation in western New Mexico and eastern Arizona.

The Indians say they have seen large cat tracks which a professional government hunter says are not those of a mountain lion. One man says he has seen a large, striped animal jump across the highway.

The cause of the speculation goes back four years, when a circus wagon was wrecked about 50 miles north of here. A lion and a tiger escaped and were never recaptured.
